"Before Midnight" at Local Theater

A man is murdered in cold blood in the presence of one of the world's greatest detectives!

That is the interesting bit of irony that introduces the new Columbia film, "Before Midnight," at the local Theater, Friday and Saturday nights.

Assigned to protect a millionaire from impending death, about which he has been warned by an old family superstition, the alert detective sees his ward fall dead to the ground at the precise moment when the old superstition warned him he would die. How, through modern scientific methods and resourceful deduction, the investigator finally solves the crime constitutes the breath-taking action of the film.

Ralph Bellamy, June Collyer, Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Pierson and Betty Blythe portray the leading roles.

Mrs. Emma Block is Given Birthday Surprise

Fair To Help Relieve Depression, Says Ford

"This new World's Fair will do much towards relieving the business depression throughout the nation," declared Henry Ford to a group of newspaper men after he, and Edsel Ford and party had inspected the Ford exhibit which will open for the first time May 26.

"Ignorance really caused the depression," he continued by way of explanation, "education will make it disappear. Here at this fair, the public will get a wealth of education. And this strikes me forcefully: the scientific progress that has been made in the last hundred, or three hundred or thousand years for that matter, will seem insignificant thirty years from today."

E. G. Montgomery is Given Farewell Party

E. G. Montgomery, teacher of the grammar room of the Broadlands Public School, was given a farewell party by his pupils and the students of the high school, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schumacher, last Monday night.

The party was in the form of a surprise. Mr. Montgomery and the other teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Cook and Mrs. Lillie Bowman, had been invited to the Schumacher home for supper. When they arrived all the pupils were there to greet them. Mr. Montgomery was presented a gift as an appreciation from his pupils.

A potluck supper followed by ice cream and cake was served, after which outdoor games were enjoyed.

Mr. Montgomery is well liked by patrons and pupils who deeply regret that this term finishes his work here. He will teach at Pesotum next year.

Vagabonds of Speed Will Travel 10,000 Miles To Race in Europe and Indianapolis in Month

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Two vagabonds of speed will test their mettle against the best drivers in Europe and America within the short compass of a month—and travel a round trip distance of 10,000 miles to do it.

Peter De Paolo, popular winner of the 500-mile automobile race here in 1925 and Lou Moore, who finished third last year, plan to race in the 325-mile Grand Prix of Tripoli on May 6, rush their cars overland across Europe to catch a fast boat sailing from France in mid-May, and arrive back here in time for the great American classic at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

They left America April 6 and, in their mad dash for two tastes of speed, will travel more than 200 miles a day on the turn-about trip to return for the 500-mile competition on Decoration Day.

De Paolo, nephew of the grand old man of racing, Ralph De Palma, is in the way of making a comeback, not having raced in the big American event since 1930. Moore, who left a California high school for automobile racing, has been a comer close to the top for the last few years.

CHINCH BUG NEWS

Are you interested in securing barrier oils for chinch bug control? By pooling your orders with other farmers satisfactory materials may be obtained from 14c to 18c per gallon. All of these materials have been tested by the University of Illinois and found to be efficient in stopping bugs. I will hold a meeting at Long View Township High School on Monday, May 28th at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of giving instructions on how to build chinch bug barriers and to quote prices on tars and creosote for this work. All interested farmers are invited to attend and take part in this meeting.

Barriers will have to be constructed along corn fields where the corn is next to wheat or oats. Since it is unusually dry the bugs will probably start migrating extra early this year. Have your barriers built and the tar ready to apply. When the chinch bugs start crawling toward your corn you may get the barrier ready in a couple of hours.

If we have a large group of interested parties it will be possible to pool orders and secure barrier materials at 13c or 14c per gallon.

Crime's Consequences

Regardless of the particular activities in which we engage, it is natural that we should endeavor to look ahead, with a view to estimating the returns which may be expected.

Unfortunately, many do not look ahead at all, or if they do they fail to heed the warnings plentifully supplied by the experiences of others. This is especially true of those who decide to embark upon a life of crime.

Laying aside all moral considerations, and estimating the rewards of a criminal solely in terms of money, health and comfort, it seems strange that any should try to beat such a desperate game. Yet thousands try it and fail. They fail whether they are ever adequately punished by law or not. The daily fear of detection and punishment is often worse than punishment itself. For this reason many criminals give themselves up when they can no longer stand the strain.

A criminal recently captured, charged with a long list of daring crimes, speaks on the subject with authority. He says:

"I am 30 years old. I began my career of crime 10 years ago. Eight of those 10 years I have spent in jails and penitentiaries. I have been shot 13 times with pistols, once with a rifle and three times with a shotgun. My left shoulder is shot away. My left arm is paralyzed from the elbow to the shoulder. One lung gone. My body is scarred from head to foot with bullet wounds. And I say: You can't win."

Thoughtless Cruelty

A news dispatch tells of Teresa Corona, 14 years old and six feet tall, who ran away from school and home to get away from the ridicule of her fellow pupils. Thoughtlessly her associates made her the victim of a heartless tragedy.

It was hard enough to bear the self-consciousness and embarrassment which the child's abnormal size made inescapable, but those who made her burden greater by their derision were unspeakably cruel.

Thousands of instances like this occur, where some physical defect or peculiarity of sensitive persons is used as a pretext to torture them with unkind remarks which cut to the quick. We read some time ago of a young girl who finally committed suicide because she had been driven to desperation by ridicule of her family name, which had a suggestive meaning to evil-minded persons.

Children will seize upon such opportunities to harass their associates, sometimes in a spirit of fun, but often with vicious intent. While most parents would disapprove of such conduct, many do not take the trouble to explain to their children how cruel it is, or appeal to their better natures to induce them to refrain from it.

Unnecessary infliction of mental suffering is as bad or worse than the infliction of physical pain, and children should be earnestly admonished to avoid both forms of cruelty.

A California official is charged with graft in connection with purchases of soft soap for his city. Most politicians make their own.

FRA Pointing to Missouri Family as an Example

Cecil Allen of Jasper County, Missouri, with a wife and ten small children, found the road to rehabilitation on a farm which the local relief administration rented for them at $2 a month, and now the Federal relief administration is pointing to them as an example that it hopes will be multiplied some hundred thousand times in other States.

The family was being evicted from their home in Joplin, a year ago, when the relief office found them. To cut off their last source of healthful food, the family cow had gone dry for lack of fodder.

Two dollars a month from the relief administration persuaded the owner of a 40-acre tract to let Allen work the land, but there was no house.

Three tents were put up by relief workers, one of them with board walls and floor. With a team loaned by his brother, Allen worked the tillable portions of the land in garden truck and corn. After feeding 50 chickens which the relief administration provided, he had more than enough corn for his cow, and managed for a second one on credit. A second brother loaned him two pigs which fattened on the remainder of the corn. Mrs. Allen canned 500 quarts of garden produce.

The three tents were replaced by a three-room house the relief administration bought in the fall for $20. Allen moved it to his land and rebuilt it with $75 worth of relief-bought material. It is now a good home, and is flanked by his newly built cellar, well, and large cow-shed made of logs.

Last winter, as in pre-depression days, Allen was able to take care of his wife and ten children without direct relief, obtaining a small amount of cash weekly by work on a CWA project. His oldest girl was placed in high school in a nearby town. She and the other nine are rosy-cheeked and healthy for the first time in years.

The case is one of a number reported to Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, Director of Women's Work in the FERA, by Mrs. Charley Tidd Cold, Director of Women's Work for the Missouri Relief Administration.

"There are hundreds of thousands of farm families who need a lift more or less like the Allen family received," Mrs. Woodward said. "Each case may need different treatment. Our instructions are to get the job done, whatever it takes, within the limits of our financial resources."

Harry Hartz Makes Business of Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The best business man in automobile racing—Harry Hartz—will be back to take his cut at the $100,000 in aggregate prize money at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

Hartz, who rode the bricks himself for many years, is expected to have one or more cars in the annual 500-mile race here.

Never first, but often second, Hartz drove himself in for $40,000 in cash from the Speedway alone not counting the thousands made in prizes and accessory money.

Hartz retired from active competition shortly after the 1927 race following a leg injury received at another track. However, he owned the car which Billy Arnold drove to victory in 1930 and the winning Fred Frame car in 1932. His two cars failed to finish last year.

MEYER SEEKS THIRD SPEED CROWN

TOMMY MILTON, WON IN 1921 AND 1923

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — A quiet young chap with the demeanor of a student and the nerve of a human fly, will attempt to drive himself into a self-made niche in racing fame here May 30th—he wants to be the first three-time winner of the annual 500-mile race.

He is Louis Meyer, who came to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway as an unknown to win in 1928 and who repeated his victory last year to share the double victory honors with the great Tommy Milton who won in 1921 and 1923.

Milton has retired from the speed paths to the automotive industry but Meyer, who has just turned thirty, has not yet approached the peak of his racing fame.

With little racing experience, Meyer came to Indianapolis early in 1928 looking for a car to drive. He became weary of promises made by the manager of a car team who had lured him to the track and he became attracted to one of the two racing cars which had been completed by Phil Shafer, veteran driver. But Shafer wanted to sell and was not interested in a percentage driver. Meyer remembered a garage owner in Tippecanoe City, Ohio, who was enthusiastic about automobile racing. He called Alden Sampson long distance and so sold him on the idea that Sampson disposed of his small business in Ohio and bought the car. Shafer gave the new team the pick of the two cars. The one Meyer picked won. Shafer's car finished in sixth place.

Information For Cure of Tuberculosis at Home

How to be cured of tuberculosis at home is told in a pamphlet recently issued for patients by the Educational Committee of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association. The Committee is headed by Dr. Robinson Bosworth, medical director of the Municipal Sanatorium, Rockford.

The pamphlet was prepared at the request of physicians throughout the state who wanted suitable literature to leave with patients. Because of the shortage of hospital beds, many patients are forced to take treatment at home.

Pamphlets may be obtained by writing the Illinois Tuberculosis Association, Security Building, Springfield.

The importance of following the doctor's orders is stressed in the statement: Remember two things—First, you can get well; second, you can be told what to do, but no one can do it for you. After you have been in bed and quiet for several weeks usually the cough is better, the fever lower or gone. The weight increases and you look and feel much better. Do not make the mistake of getting out of bed. The improvement in the deceased lung follows more slowly than you realize. Staying in bed now is hard for you, but it will pay you well to do so.

Remember this great truth. The longer you stay quietly in bed in the beginning of your treatment the faster you will get well and the quicker you will be able to work again.

Patients are advised to eat three good meals every day with plenty of milk. Eat any food you know you can digest, but do not stuff yourself by overeating any or all foods.

The pamphlet warns against the use of medicines not prescribed by a physician. Usually medicines are not needed in the treatment of tuberculosis, unless the cough is troublesome or you need some simple laxative. Some form of cod liver oil is helpful, especially during the cold months of the year.

Methods patients can use to prevent infection of others in the home are also told.

Lost Radiator Cap
Cost Cummings Lead

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Wild Bill Cummings, debonair race driver, is tying a string on his radiator cap this year in the Decoration Day classic on May 30.

He lost one last year in the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and the lead and, possibly the race, went with it.

Bill, who delivered groceries in the Hoosier capital in his youth, qualified for the pole position in the 1933 competition with an average speed of more than 118 miles an hour. He got an early jump on the field and worked up a good lead by driving at an average of 115 miles an hour in the heavy race traffic. He was using a trick radiator cap, shaped like a half-pear and built for a speedy water refill. Somewhere, during his early course, the cap flew off and into the great anywhere. Bill couldn't stop to look for it and there was no duplicate in the pit.

Inability to close up the unusually shaped radiator opening cost Bill the lead after 80 miles of running and he was never able to regain it.

How To Avoid Typhoid Fever

With the tourist and typhoid fever seasons opening simultaneously in Illinois, Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state health director offers a few practical hints on how to avoid the disease. The risk of typhoid fever is greatest from June to October, the worst months being August and September, Dr. Jirka points out. Danger of infection is much higher in small communities and on farms than in cities with 10,000 or more people. Milk is more likely to spread typhoid fever than water. Carriers, who show no signs of illness, are responsible for more cases than are patients sick with the disease. Children between 10 and 20 years of age are much more liable to get typhoid fever than older or younger people. The chances of getting typhoid fever after thirty are remote, but the disease is apt to be serious in people older than that.

Vaccination is recommended for people who live in communities where typhoid fever has been prevalent and for travelers and tourists who frequent small communities. Vaccine is distributed free by the state department of public health. These simple precautions may save several weeks of illness and considerable expense.
