You'll Find This Only in Mexico After Oct. 31

Warmth and gayety now fill the streets of the Mexican Village, one of fifteen foreign villages at the World's Fair in Chicago, but it, too, will fall to earth under the relentless blows of the wrecker when the most successful and popular of all American expositions closes forever Oct. 31. Gigantic special events, dwarfing by comparison those which have been scheduled at the Fair, are planned for the closing weeks, when a great inrush of "last-lookers" will break attendance records. Waste In Advertising

This is an age of advertising. Business could not get along without it. Yet many merchants waste a large share of the money they think they are spending for advertising and wonder why they do not get better results.

Women do most of the buying for the home. Now, did you ever see a woman go looking over the billboards, or reading the movie screen advertisements in order to make up her mind what or where to buy? Does she get her shopping information from a theater program or a telephone directory? Not on your life.

Outside of the store itself, the best and almost the only way to attract a prospective consumer's attention to what you have to sell is through the newspaper that goes into the home. The store that advertises adequately and persistently in its local news paper has no need to waste money on other inferior mediums.

A Bishop's Story

Illustrating how the treatment of strangers in a foreign land may influence their lives, Bishop Bartlett of the Episcopal church tells of two young Chinese students who came to America, and what happened to them.

One, a Chinese girl who had been converted to Christianity in her native land, came to the United States to continue her studies. Unfortunately, she entered a school in which prejudice was shown because of her race. She renounced Christianity and returned to China.

The other, a Chinese boy, was befriended by an American family in Charleston, became a Christian, returned to China and married a Christian Chinese girl. Four of their children were educated in the United States, and their family became one of the most influential in China.

"The Christian influences that have gone out from this family are incalculable, and go back to friendliness shown toward a Chinese boy in America," says Bishop Bartlett.

Stupid Relief Work

In the current Scottish Rite bulletin attention is called to what appears to be rank stupidity on the part of certain federal relief agencies, of which the following example is given:

Federal relief in Kentucky shipped 172 carloads of new potatoes into that state from Virginia the middle of July, to be distributed among 111,000 families on the relief rolls. This involved much waste, because new potatoes do not keep, and each day after they are taken from the ground rotting increases. Besides, during late July and August, Kentucky must ship potatoes into other states, or leave them in the ground to rot.

It appears, therefore, that the relief agency could have saved time, prevented waste of potatoes, saved freight charges, and at the same time could have given additional work to Kentucky farmers by taking care of the crop in that state.

As the bulletin suggests, it would be hard to determine just how such mismanagement in state and federal relief is costing the taxpayers, but it doubtless amounts to a great deal.

But so long as the taxpayers pay for such blunders, why should incompetents on the public payroll worry?

Langley Centenary

One hundred years ago on August 22, the eminent scientist and pioneer in the field of aerial navigation, Samuel Pierpont Langley was born at Roxbury, Mass. That he was the first to build a practical heavier-than-air machine capable of flight is generally recognized.

Langley was a most gifted and versatile man, a civil engineer, architect, mathematician, astronomer, physicist and inventor. From 1887 until his death in 1906 he was secretary of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

After extensive experiments he announced the attainment of mechanical flight. His work was encouraged by a small appropriation by Congress, but when his first airplane capable of carrying a man was wrecked in launching, government support was withdrawn. There seems to be no doubt that with a little further financial assistance Langley would have been entirely successful.

His investigations into lifting force and air resistance proved most valuable to inventors who followed the trail he had blazed. His airplane models made many successful flights, but without a human passenger, using steam engines for motive power. One of them flew across the Potomac river in 1896.

Having so nearly reached the goal, which was denied him because of lack of funds, Prof. Langley was destined to see all he had accomplished relegated to the background by the successful flights of the Wright brothers in 1903. He died a disappointed man, but there is a disposition on the part of his countrymen to accord full credit for his outstanding contribution to the science and art of air navigation.

A Double Fake

Among the many freaks and fakes exhibited by the great showman, P. T. Barnum, who declared that people like to be humbugged, and cashed in on the idea, was the Cardiff Giant, represented to be a petrified man ten and a half feet tall.

The giant was a fraud, being a rude statue of a man, carved out of gypsum in Iowa, and buried by a practical joker, in the bed of a creek near Cardiff, a hamlet near Syracuse, N. Y. The joker had the statue discovered, and spread the news of the find far and wide. That was in October, 1869.

Later it was exhibited around the country as a petrified man, and a good many scientific men were inclined to believe it to be genuine until a Yale professor made an examination and exposed the fake.

While the giant was in popular favor and drawing large crowds, Barnum tried to buy it to add to his collection of circus side-show attractions. When the owner named a price thought too high, Barnum proceeded to have a giant of his own made. This imitation of a fake—a sort of double fake—was successfully exhibited as the Cardiff Giant, in America and abroad, for several years.

The original "giant" is getting some fresh publicity now, owing to the fact that the Chamber of Commerce of Syracuse is trying to have it brought back to that city from Iowa, where it has been resting-in obscurity for several decades. So great was the sensation created by the giant hoax that the statue has come to have a certain historic value.

Sidelights

A certain African tribe discourages long-winded speeches by requiring all orators to stand on one foot while sounding off. A fine idea, but a better one would be to compel them to stand on their heads.

Belief that the drouth is a visitation of Providence to punish the country for plowing under crops, destroying little pigs, and reducing acreage, has spread among farmers to an extent that Secretary Wallace is said to be worried about it. Many rural ministers are reported to be busy disseminating the superstition.

When the Wasco Indian chief Duc-Sa-Hi built and operated a ferry across the Deschutes river in Oregon back in the '60s for the convenience of early settlers, he little thought that his humble though useful service would have lasting commemoration. But such came a few days ago, when a new $50,000 bridge at the ferry site was dedicated in his honor.

CHEVROLET The best way to prove that Chevrolet's Knee-Action actually makes motoring twice as pleasant as before is to drive the new Chevrolet over all kinds of roads. You will find that the continuous jars you used to get even on smooth pavements are ended. The steering wheel is free of vibration. Back seat passengers are comfortable and relaxed. You can maintain higher speeds over rough roads that used to slow you down. You will find, in fact, that probably for the first time in your experience, every foot of every mile is equally enjoyable.

This fine feature is combined in the new Chevrolet with beautiful, luxurious Fisher Bodies, safe, weatherproof, cable-controlled brakes, the flashing performance of an 80-horsepower engine, and the great economy of six-cylinder, valve-in-head construction. This combination is exclusive with Chevrolet. Perhaps that explains why so many people are buying and recommending this extremely low-priced car.

WORLD FAIR ENDS OCT. 31, THIS YEAR

Many Unusual Gala Events Planned for Last Two Months.

Chicago (Special).—With the announcement that Chicago's new World's Fair, A Century of Progress Exposition, closes its gates forever on October 31st, and the advent of cool September weather, attendance figures at the exposition are steadily soaring to make new records for all American fairs. More than 9,000,000 persons have paid admissions this year, which brings the total for the two years showing to date in excess of 31,000,000. The management of the Fair has accomplished the purpose desired by President Roosevelt when he requested that the fair operate a second year so that those who could not come last year would be given an opportunity to see it in 1934. This over and with two months of operation left, all activity is being directed to the staging of spectacular special events and shows which will close the exposition in a blaze of glory.

With all indications pointing to the probability that the attendance in September and October will outstrip the combined totals of the first three months of the Fair, exhibitors, concessionaries and the exposition itself are extending every effort to amuse and entertain the huge throngs that daily fill the magic streets of the fair, to an extent even greater than before. Fair to Close Oct. 31.

In making the announcement that the Fair will have accomplished its aim by closing date, and therefore would not reopen, President Rufus C. Dawes said:

"A Century of Progress in its present form will not be in existence next year. If the Fair or any part of it is to be maintained it would have to be by outside sources. The Fair is under contract to the Chicago park board to demolish all buildings the board names, and the board also has the right to name any buildings which it wishes to retain and maintain.

"If you want to see Chicago's great Century of Progress Exposition you must come this summer or fall. It will not be here next year. Come and we shall do our best to make your visit pleasant, interesting and profitable."

With the closing, wreckers will come in and the enchanted city whose streets transported visitors into the mysterious realms of scientific research, art, music, industry, light, color, entertainment, education and commerce will come down. Officials, however, carefully pointed out that demolition will not begin until after the closing on October 31st. All exhibits and concessions will remain intact until that time.

Big Times for Two Months.

The fantastic buildings will be leveled. The Street of Villages with its fifteen perfect reproductions of as many foreign lands will be no more. The largest and most beautiful fountain will no longer throw its scintillating spray skyward. The gay cafes will not echo the laughter of happy people. The famed Avenue of Flags will be stripped and the greatest and most beautiful of all major expositions will be history.

It has been currently rumored that the Fair would remain as a permanent Chicago attraction; that each year henceforth it would reopen on the lake front. Now that people have realized that this is their last opportunity to see it, attendance totals have increased by leaps and bounds. The great free attractions are constantly choked with people. The twin symphony orchestras, the huge lagoon theater with its water carnivals and circus, the cage of fury, the roads of the world and the multitude of other free shows are playing to capacity crowds.

The final two months of the Fair will see the greatest collection of talent, spectacles and amusements ever seen anywhere. All existing entertainment will be expanded and new attractions added to the daily programs. Events appealing to every class of person have been scheduled at a cost of thousands of dollars. Railroads and bus lines have agreed to maintain the same low travel rates while Chicago hotels and tourist camps will accommodate travelers to Chicago in comfort and ease at the fixed low prices now prevailing.

Two Big Games
At The University

Ohio State and Army, the two big games on the University of Illinois home football schedule, are already arousing the interest of the fans, Manager C. E. Bowen says.

Ohio State, which has closed the season with the Illini since 1919, play the homecoming engagement October 13, for the first time. The Buckeyes and Illini, whose tight struggles are traditional, will renew a colorful rivalry. In the last game of the season at Columbus last year, Ohio State scratched out a 7-6 victory after a thrilling battle when the Illini missed their try for goal after touchdown.

Army's appearance is set for Nov. 3, which will be Dad's Day. The only previous visit of the Cadets was in 1929 when Illinois defeated them in an exciting tussle before a crowd of 69,000 which filled every inch of space in the stadium.

The remaining home game will be the opener against Bradley, Sept. 29, when boy scouts and school children of the state will be guests.

The Illini will make five trips, engaging Washington U. at St. Louis; Michigan, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Chicago on their fields.

The schedule is as follows:
Sept. 29—Bradley at Illinois.
Oct. 6—Washington U. at St. Louis.

Oct. 13—Ohio State at Illinois.
Oct. 20—No game.
Oct. 27—Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Nov. 3—Army at Illinois.
Nov. 10—Northwestern at Evanston.

Nov. 17—Wisconsin at Madison.

Nov. 24—Chicago at Chicago.
