Ayers To Vote on Rock Roads

A special election has been called by Harold O. Anderson, Town Clerk, to vote upon the proposition of issuing bonds for the purpose of rocking the roads of Ayers township. This is a WPA project and additional funds will be used by the federal government to construct the roads.

The election will be held Tuesday, Oct. 15, from 6 a. m. to 5
p. m., and the amount of the bonds asked for is $22,000. Read specimen ballot elsewhere in this issue.

Local sponsors of the project feel that since taxpayers are indirectly paying for the improvement, citizens of Ayers township may as well derive the benefit of an outlet for every farmer. Were it not for federal aid, such a proposal at this time would be impossible. And since the government money must be spent, it is felt that Broadlands should share in the plan.

Deaths From Tuberculosis Could Be Prevented

Most of the deaths from tuberculosis in Illinois could have been prevented if patients had consulted their physicians upon the first onset of symptoms. This statement was made in a bulletin
issued here today by the Illinois Tuberculosis Association.

"The frequency of an insidious onset in tuberculosis is to be emphasized. In most cases of early pulmonary tuberculosis,
the patient is entirely unaware of symptoms or looks lightly on vague disturbances, such as loss of weight and fatigue," the bulletin points out.

"He is not likely to seek medical attention until he has more troublesome or more alarming signs, such as blood-streaked sputum or extreme illness, and then the disease usually has reached the more advanced stages. Unfortunately, this means that the longer the patient waits, the more difficult it is to cure his disease. Some wait too long and the case terminates fatally."

Beware The Racketeers

Persons who are eligible by age to receive the Illinois old-age pension which will start Jan. 1 are warned to pay no fees to strangers who promise to put them on the pension rolls.

Racketeers have been reported in various parts of the state, engaged in swindling the aged by soliciting them for pension fees.
Near Hutsonville an aged man paid two strangers $7.80 on their promise to secure a pension.

Any person making such representations should be reported to police officials, as it is not necessary for those eligible to pensions to join any society for that purpose, and no federal or state employees are engaged in soliciting fees.—Brocton Review.

Broadlands Beats Decatur, 3 to 1

Local baseball fans witnessed another great battle here last Sunday, when Broadlands defeated Staleys of Decatur by a score of 3 to 1. Morrow of Newman pitched and Vitteroll of Terre Haute caught for the locals.
They made the best battery that has appeared on the local field in many a day and only allowed the visitors 3 hits, while Broadlands got 5 hits.

Since Staleys won the first game here and the locals the second, it was planned to have them come again this Sunday for the third battle to decide the two best out of three. However, Staleys have a game scheduled elsewhere for this Sunday and consequently will not come to Broadlands.

New Archives Building

In the new Archives Building in Washington, built at a cost of 12 million dollars, the United States has a repository for its historic and other valuable documents and records which is unequalled in the world.

In ventilated steel drawers and vaults the record of the nation's history and progress will be preserved for future generations. Not only written documents, but sound motion picture films of important events also, will be kept for centuries to come. It is proposed to enclose many priceless records and documents in cellophane, so they may be read without being touched by human hands.

Most interesting to people of the future will be the motion pictures, whereby they may see and hear what has gone on in the world in the past. Think what it would mean to us if we could see films showing the great events of history and hear the voices of the dominant figures that participated in them.

Soldiers and War

One of the stock arguments of those professional pacifists who would cripple our national defense is that military officers desire war, presumably for the opportunities war offers for promotion and glory.

This idea has been refuted many times by the highest ranking officers of our Army and Navy, who point out that it is statesmen, not soldiers, who plunge their countries into war. The soldier does feel, however, that if he is to be called upon to fight for his country, he should be equipped to perform his duty effectively; also, that the armed forces of the nation should be adequate for the tasks with which they may be confronted.

In the United States the military has always been subordinate to the civil power. No general or admiral has anything to say about whether the nation should go to war or not. Their duty is to carry out the will of their civil superiors, whether they agree with the policies of the government or not.

As General Douglas McArthur, chief of staff of the United States Army, wrote in a recent magazine article:

"No one desires peace as much as the soldier, for he must pay the greatest penalty in war. Our Army is maintained solely for the preservation of peace; or for the restoration of peace after it has been lost by statesmen or by others."

Noses To Order

Results of years of research and experiment in plastic surgery were described by Dr. Oscar V. Batson of Philadelphia recently in an address before a group of specialists in the art of making new faces.

He related his success in furnishing artificial noses and ears without the employment of skin grafting operations which many patients are unable or unwilling to undergo. He simply makes the new members out of a composition of flesh colored gelatin and glycerine and attaches them to the patient's face with the aid of spirit gum.

By his method a plaster cast of the face is made and sent to him, accompanied by photographs, and from these he constructs a permanent mold into which the composition is poured and allowed to harden. Then the artificial member is stuck in place by means of the gum. If the new member is damaged in any way later, it is removed and another one is poured to take its place.

Dr. Batson declared that two of his patients, a man and a woman, had worn the artificial noses he made for them with entire satisfaction for several years although they had to be renewed occasionally.

The Last Horse

By HAL G. VERMES

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

HARRY the Pinhead spills his swell idea while we are at a little racetrack just this side of the Rio Grande where we are finding the greenbacks very scarce indeed. What Harry suggests is that we run a lottery just like the big one for the hospital fund on the Irish Sweeps.

"But," says Harry, "we will fix this pool so's everybody knows it is strictly on the level. Instead of a lottery on the hide what comes in first, this one will give a prize on the nag what comes in last!"

"That is positively perfect!" agrees Beezer Bertie. "We will sell 50,000 tickets at two bucks apiece which amounts to one hundred grand. Fifty per cent for prizes, 25 per cent for charity, and we will collect twenty-five grand ourselves for our trouble."

"That is it," says Harry. "We will put up a prize of 10,000 bucks for the horse what comes in last and divide up the forty grand left into a lot of smaller prizes for the winning ticket holders."

It looks so good that even Mudder McMork, who always objects to other people's ideas, cannot find nothing to say. And it adds up okay to me.

We select a maiden event a month off which nobody has a idea what hide will win. We print up the tickets and long before the heat we have sold them all. Everybody buys because all Americans, and especially these steer wranglers in the West, like to take a chance.

On racing day the little oval is mobbed by the gang what has bought tickets on our Last Horse Sweeps; and they are all much excited because nobody knows what hide will come in last. The two-year-olds what never won a race are lined up at the barrier; the bell bangs and they are off to a beautiful start.

The field goes pounding by us, takes the clubhouse turn, and runs for the back stretch. But then they do something which is very strange indeed. The pack is still running but not so fast. When they reach the last turn the ponies act like they are out of breath. Coming down the home stretch they slow down to a walk and fifty yards from the wire all the horses stop and lay down!

Seeing we started the pool, the boys and me are sitting in the judge's stand and when this peculiar thing happens we are practically speechless. But then Harry figures it out.

"The purse for the hide what wins this race," he says thoughtful like, "is only 1,000 bucks while we are giving ten times that as a prize for the pony what comes in last. Therefore, none of the horse owners want their hide to come in first."

The crowd is laughing themselves sick at first but after an hour goes by and we still cannot get the horses to move, it looks like we'll have a riot.

Then Harry gets another idea and calls up the owner of one of the ponies in the race. "We will contribute 10,000 bucks out of our share of this pool," he offers, "if you will have your horse finish the race. So you will get as much as the prize and besides an extra grand which is the purse money."

To this the owner agrees. He then instructs his jockey and so the boy gets on the horse and walks him across the finish line. But the race is not yet over for the crowd does not care what horse comes in first; they are only interested in the lottery tickets they bought which gives prizes on the hide what ambles home last. So we are yet nowhere at all because the other nine ponies are still laying in the middle of the track and not caring how about nothing.

"Well," says one of the judges, "we will call the race off and you can return the money to the ticket holders."

But we do not want to do that because although we already have give away ten grand we still have fifteen grand profit left to us for all our work. And now Harry has a third idea. But first he asks the judges to announce that they will give the other horses just five minutes to ride home or lose the race by default.

Then we go down and Harry speaks to the jockeys in the middle of the stretch. "If none of you booters are going to ride across that finish line," he explains, "then we will consider that the hide what was first in this race is also last. He will therefore win both prizes as the front end of him come in first and the back end of him come in last. So now you smart boys can stay here all night and laugh that off!"

After Harry reads this ultimatum, the jockeys go into a very serious conference and by the time we are back in the judges' stand, they are mounting their hides again.

"Ah!" I exclaim. "At last they have made up their minds to finish this lunatic race so we will know who is the last horse to come in."

But it did not turn out like we think. After the jockeys get on their nags, they slowly amble down toward the wire. But they are not forgetting that the last horse to come in will win ten grand. So just before they reach home they line up, the jockeys hold each others' arms, and the whole nine hides ride across the finish line together!

And that is why instead of making ourselves twenty-five grand profit in this Last Horse Lottery, we instead lose nearly one hundred grand and my writing arm is very tired from signing I. O. U's, because the judges decide that as all the nine bangtalls come in last, they are each and every one entitled to the grand prize of $10,000!

NEXT to NECTAR
Comes PINEAPPLE Juice

EATING should be one of the greatest pleasures of life, and the average European enjoys his food for its own sake and shuns the things he doesn't like, but we Americans are afflicted with so much advice on the subject of diet that we have come to think it dangerous to enjoy our food. That's all wrong.

The purveyors of pineapple juice seem to have imprisoned some of the joy of living, the liquid sunshine and the lovely music of Hawaii in the pretty cans in which it is offered to the public. It tastes good, it satisfies thirst, and all sorts of health claims are made for it, none of which we will quote because we are more interested at the moment in pleasure than in anything else, and this is a drink that gives pure pleasure.

Start the Day Right

The pleasures which unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice give to the palate are not only varied but they can come at any meal. Here, for instance, are a couple of ways in which to start the day right with a breakfast drink that includes Hawaiian pineapple juice.

Breakfast Cocktail: Wash and hull one pint box strawberries, and cut in halves. Pile in eight glass dessert dishes, sprinkle with one-fourth cup sugar, and let stand in the refrigerator until the rest of the breakfast is ready. Then pour over a chilled syrup made the night before by boiling together for a few minutes the contents of one No. 2 can unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice, one-fourth cup water and one-fourth cup sugar. Serves eight.

Chilled Mixed Fruit Juices: Have the ingredients for this breakfast drink icy cold. It consists of combining the contents of one 12-ounce can pineapple juice, one 10-ounce can grapefruit juice, one-fourth cup orange juice, two tablespoons fresh lime juice and one tablespoon sugar. Serves six.

At Other Meals

A grand way to start a hot weather luncheon is with this

Orange and Pineapple Bouillon: Mix three tablespoons sugar and one tablespoon arrowroot, and add one cup water, stirring until smooth. Cook until clear and transparent, then cool. Add two cups orange juice, one-fourth cup lemon juice and the contents of a No. 2 can pineapple juice. Chill thoroughly and serve in glass cups or in tall, slender glasses. Serves eight.

Unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice is as refreshing a drink as you can get all by itself after tennis, golf, swimming, hiking or any other outdoor sport, but if you want to vary the taste a bit and still not lose that tropical tang, try this Cranberry Cordial: Make a syrup of one cup sugar and two cups water. Add two cups tea, one cup lemon juice, the contents of a No. 2 can cranberry jelly and of a No. 2 can unsweetened pineapple juice, and six cups cider. This recipe makes four quarts and will make a hit at any meal.

And don't forget that you can drink a dessert that will make you dream of nectar at any meal, if you will try this Hawaiian Chocolate Drink: Boil together the contents of a 13-ounce can chocolate syrup, two and a half cups water and four tablespoons sugar for three or four minutes. Add one cup thin cream or evaporated milk, and chill. Add the contents of a 12-ounce can pineapple juice, and pour over crushed ice. Makes six cups. May be shaken in a jar or cocktail shaker.*

Use of Wigs in France
In the latter half of the sixteenth century the fashion of wearing wigs became much in vogue in France, Italy and England. In 1560 no lady appeared in the French court without a blond wig. Louis XIII set the fashion, wearing a wig of long curls, being himself bald, and the courtiers naturally followed. During the reign of Louis IV the wigs assumed monumental proportions, and about 1660 even ecclesiastics began to wear them. Toward the end of the eighteenth century they began to be superseded by the queue with hair powder.

Hockey an Old Game

The game of ice hockey probably dates from the eighteenth century. In the mid-Victorian age the players, four or five a side, used curved hockey sticks and a bung. From stick and bung the game evolved to bandy, or hockey stick and ball, usually the lacrosse ball of solid rubber, mainly through the agency of the Bury Fen team, and the brothers, Tebbutt, rivals of the famous Virginia Water club founded in 1873 by T. Blackett. In 1891 the bandy association was formed and the game fairly established as a national pastime.

Lockout, Strike

A lockout is the shutting down, as of an industrial plant, and withdrawal of employment from a body of men who refuse to accede to the employer's conditions. The lockout is to be distinguished from the strike on the ground that in the lockout it is the employer who directly causes the stoppage of operations, while in the strike the initiative lies with the men.

Washington's First Water Supply

As in other cities, villages and towns, Washington's first water supply consisted of springs and wells and for many purposes, creeks and branches. The springs were ample for some time after the city was first settled, though pumps were installed at an early date, for the convenience of having water close to the home.

Hiccoughs Easy to Cure

According to physicians, 90 per cent of hiccough cases are easy to cure. The phrenic nerve, doctors say, is the key to relief in acute hiccoughs because it normally controls the movement of the diaphragm. Therefore, abnormalities of this nerve are a chief cause of hiccoughs in prolonged cases.

A New Dinner Deal

NOT a New Deal dinner, but a new dinner deal is what we are talking about. Times are too uncertain nowadays for us to eat up all the money we earn, but that doesn't mean by a long shot that we should eat less well. All that it implies is a little more careful planning on the part of the housewife, and there are a number of ways in which she is doing it now.

If she has a mechanical refrigerator, for instance, she is all fixed to take advantage of the weekly "bargain specials" in butcher shops and grocery stores, and she can keep the food she has purchased at bargain prices safe and sweet in her refrigerator until it is eaten up. She can also buy large sized cans containing twice as much food, which cost usually only a few cents more than the small ones, and keep the unused part in her refrigerator. These devices may mean a saving of more than a dollar a week—fifty or sixty dollars a year!

Planning Is Fun

Another way she can economize on food is to plan more carefully the dishes she will serve, with price as a consideration as well as taste and appropriateness to the other dishes in the meal. It is real fun and a small triumph to be able to think up another dish just as tasty and appropriate as the one you first thought of but costing less. That these three factors can be successfully combined, once you get the knack of it, is proved by the following tempting menu devised by a graduate dietitian to serve to six people at a cost of only a dollar and a half.

- Melon and Grapefruit Cocktail 15¢
- Jellied Salmon Mold 46¢
- Mashed Potato Puff 16¢
- Radishes and Scallions 15¢
- Bread and Butter 12¢
- Blackberry Roll with Cream 34¢
- Iced Coffee 12¢

Of course these prices are only approximate, but as much of the dinner consists of canned foods and their prices are more stable than that of fresh foods, they can be taken as fairly representative.

Here Are the Recipes

Melon and Grapefruit Cocktail: Combine half the contents of a No. 2 can grapefruit (saving the other half in the refrigerator to serve at another meal), one cup watermelon cubes and one cup cantaloupe cubes. Arrange in cocktail glasses and chill.

Jellied Salmon Mold: Dissolve one package lemon gelatin in one and a half cups boiling water. Cool and add one-half cup orange juice and one-half cup canned grapefruit juice. When it starts to stiffen, add the flaked contents of one tall can salmon, one cup diced celery and one-fourth cup diced sweet pickles. Chill in a mold. Unmold and serve on six leaves of lettuce with six tablespoons of mayonnaise. This makes sufficient for six liberal servings.

Mashed Potato Puff: Beat one egg, and add with one cup grated cheese, salt, pepper and one-third cup diluted evaporated milk to two cups hot mashed potato. Add one tablespoon butter, beat with fork until fluffy and pile lightly into a buttered baking dish. Dot with one tablespoon butter, and place in a hot oven for thirty minutes, or until browned.*

INSIDE BRACES

THE story is told of a certain senator who voted for a measure unfavorable to the best interests of the people. Met by a friend the next day he was asked how it happened, as many people had placed all confidence in him. He replied in a poor effort at defense, "The outside pressure was so strong." His friend laying his hand on his shoulder looked the senator straight in the eye, and inquired, "Where were your inside braces?"

The whole world is insecure at the present time because of the lack of inside braces. During the last three years of financial uncertainty many contributing causes have been recounted as reasons for the world's unrest, but slowly, very slowly are a few of our country's leaders, men in public life, coming to one central cause of the world's greatest need. They have gone back to other earlier crises of our country, to the dominating thought and convictions of some of our earlier leaders who were passing through deep tribulations, and are finding out what inside braces carried them through. Their inside braces were character and religion.

Contrast this with selfish graft and greed in some high places today, and one will find real reason for our country's insecurity. Because the outside pressure was so strong for some, others have lost life savings and homes. America's God of the last decade has been gold, a different goal from the founders of our nation. Let us see what some of our early statesmen lived and believed. George Washington said, "It is impossible to govern the world without the Bible." Andrew Jackson, sensing the great truth later as President of our nation, once remarked "That book, sir," pointing to the Bible, "is the rock upon which our republic rests." It is said, when all of Abraham Lincoln's cabinet disagreed with him in the most critical time of our country, realizing he stood alone, he withdrew to pray for fear he might be wrong. Abraham Lincoln said of the Bible, "I believe that the Bible is the best gift which God has ever given to man. All the good from the Saviour of the world is communicated to us through this book."

Coming to our present day—Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry A. Wallace, has written a new book on "Statesmanship and Religion." Perhaps the need for the character and spiritual strength of our early statesmen is slowly being recognized. If character and religion again become the sovereign interests of America, she will not need to fear about her inside braces when the outside pressure becomes so strong.
