The 37th anniversary of Broadlands Chapter O. E. S. was observed last Saturday night.

After the regular meeting was held a short program was enjoyed which consisted of musical numbers, a reading, contest and one-act play. Refreshments consisted of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and coffee.

Guests present were the officers of Hume Chapter; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Porter of Hope Chapter, Urbana; Harriett and Besse Hamm of Vesper Chapter, Champaign; Mrs. Harriet Jerrard of Villa Grove; Nelle McPherrin, Anna and Jane Taylor, and Wm. Heppe of Homer.

Miss Catherine McCormick Hurt In Accident Saturday

Miss Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick of near Longview, is a patient in the Mercy Hospital in Urbana, as the result of injuries received last Saturday evening, when the light coach she was driving crashed into a wagon on the hard road about two miles west of Broadlands. The team, driven by Everett Arnold, farm employee of Charles Bruhn, was traveling west and Miss McCormick was enroute to Broadlands.

The injured girl received a broken nose and several lacerations about the head. Arnold was cut about the face and arm, and one of the horses was killed. The horse was valued at $125. The wagon was badly wrecked and was hauled home on a hay rack.

Miss McCormick, who is teacher of the Jackson school, northwest of Sidell, was brought to the office of Dr. T. A. Dicks in Broadlands for first aid treatment, and later removed to the Mercy Hospital.

The wagon was without lights and it is said that Miss McCormick was driving with but one headlight.

Mrs. Harry Lamb Tells of Earthquake at Helena, Mont.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Potter of Homer received the following letter which will be of interest to our readers:

Helena, Montana, Oct. 22, '35.

My Dear Louie—I am sure you are all wondering if the "Lamb" family are still in the land of the living after what you have heard over the radio, and seen in your papers, but we are still here, although we were badly scared.

The first quake a week ago did not do much damage to our house, just cracked the top of our chimney in the attic where it enters the roof, and about five bricks off the top of the chimney. The siege of smaller tremors did not do any damage, but we had our coats ready by the door in case we had to get out in a hurry, and on Friday night the 18th, the big disastrous one came, doing the major damage to Helena. Our house shook and the chandeliers rocked madly, we thought the house was coming down on our heads. Dad and Ed, Hilda and I beat it out to the bunk house 200 feet away, and lit a lantern. In a few minutes here came Earl, Grace and three boys who live one-half mile north of us. Their fine brick home is damaged beyond repair, the basement and first floor is intact, but the second floor, attic and chimneys are all to be razed. They had been sleeping out in the milk house for three nights, had two beds, cook stove and other kitchen furniture, so were warm and comfortable. It is a large room with running water and electric lights, and three windows, and about 150 feet away from the residence. We women and children came out to Ella's the next day, 30 miles away from home, and we expect to stay here until things quiet down, and our chimney is rebuilt as the last big quake wrecked it completely. It seems the solid brick homes and other buildings were completely wrecked and the brick veneer and frame structures were not hit so hard. I will not go into further details, as you have read your papers.

Ed and George are still sleeping in their bunk house and Dad and Earl in the latter's milk house, where they do their cooking, the four of them batching together.

The big "Juba" syndicate have bought several farms above us from $250 up an acre, and other farmers in the vicinity are expecting to get a chance to sell out in a few years, at least we hope so. I am anxious to retire from farming and stock raising and let the younger one go ahead.

Please let the Broadlands relatives, and our old neighbors, the Fricks, Zenkes and Limps know we are all safe and well. We can still hear the tremors from out here at Ella's but they are faint and not so frequent, so we are hoping the worst is over.
With fond love,
Annie, Grace, Ella and Hilda.

Will Organize Independent Basketball Club Here

A meeting will be held next Tuesday night to organize an independent basketball team. The first game will be played at Pesotom, on Friday night, Nov. 8. Those mentioned for positions on the team are: Oliver McCormick, John Richard, Bruce David, Hobart Harris, Perry Baldwin and others.

Stock Show To Open on Nov. 30

Preparations are under way to receive a record breaking entry of live stock and farm crops at the 1935 International Live Stock Exposition which will be held for the 36th year at the Chicago Stock Yards. The Exposition will take place from Nov. 30th to December 7th.

The show will be staged in the mammoth new amphitheatre, constructed last year, on the same site as the buildings that had housed the largest stock show on the continent since 1900 and which were destroyed by fire in 1934.

The secretary manager B. H. Heide predicts that the Exposition will break its own past records for both attendance and exhibits this year. He bases his opinion upon the notable success of the recent State fairs, many of which established all time records for both number of exhibits and visitors.

Though a final check on entries in the live stock departments has not yet been made, the management feels confident that the tally will be well above 12,000 animals.

Held in connection with the live stock exposition is the International Grain and Hay Show, largest competitive crops contest in the world. Growers of nearly every state in the Union and province of Canada will be represented in this competition by samples of the past season's harvest.

Railroads entering Chicago have indicated that special excursion rates at attractive low round trip fares will be offered from points along their lines to Chicago during the first week of December for this event.

How is Business?

How does business compare with a year ago? It depends on where you live—but for the majority of people, it is better.

In all but six states of the union September business activity was greater than it was a year before, according to the U. S. News. In three of those states, New York, Virginia and Louisiana—it was worse. In the other three—Nevada, North Carolina and Texas it was unchanged.

Throughout the country reports show that improvement is continuing at an accelerating rate in almost every industry.

Thoughtless Cruelty

A news dispatch tells of a New York girl, 14 years old and six feet tall, who ran away from school and home to get away from the ridicule of her fellow pupils. Thoughtlessly her associates have made her the victim of a heartless tragedy.

It was hard enough to bear the self-consciousness and embarrassment which the child's abnormal size made inescapable, but those who made her burden greater by their derision were unspeakably cruel.

Many instances like this occur where some physical defect or peculiarity of sensitive persons is used as a pretext to torture them with unkind remarks, which cut to the quick. We read sometime ago of a young girl who finally committed suicide because she had been driven to desperation by ridicule of her family name, which had a suggestive meaning to evil minded persons.

Teachers and Cupid

Discrimination against women school teachers who marry has become widespread and the American Federation of Teachers is marshalling its forces in their behalf.

They ask the pertinent question: "Why should teachers be barred from their profession when they marry, while stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks and other women wage-earners are not subject to discharge for this reason, so long as they acceptably perform their duties?"

Among the champions of the married teachers is Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, daughter of the late Chief Justice Taft, she herself holding the important position of dean of Bryn Mawr College.

To a fair-minded person it would appear that the only test which should be applied to anyone in a public or private position is that of fitness for the duties to be performed and the willingness to perform them faithfully.

To See New Stars

Millions of new stars will be brought within the range of man's vision through a new telescope four times as powerful as any now in existence, to be built for the California Institute of Technology with funds furnished by the International Education Board. It will be located on a high California mountain to be selected later.

The present world's largest telescope is the 100-inch reflector on Mount Wilson, Calif. The new telescope will have a 200-inch reflector of fused quartz, which will present a more nearly perfect surface than glass.

When it is considered that the present largest telescopes are able to explore the universe to a distance of 100 million light years, the depths to which the new monster reflector may penetrate may be figured, but can not be grasped by the human mind.

The most startling objects to be revealed will doubtless be connected with nearby heavenly bodies such as our moon and the planets of our own solar system. The question of whether life exists on Mars or Venus may possibly be answered.

The scientific world, and laymen as well, will eagerly await the new knowledge which is bound to be obtained through its revelations.

The Empty Bottle

When the cornerstone of the Robertson county court house at Springfield, Tennessee, was opened some time ago, due to a remodelling of the structure, many articles deposited in it a half century ago were brought to light.

One of the items known to have been placed therein was a bottle of whiskey, and onlookers at the opening of the cornerstone may have had hopes of sampling the famous product. But if so, they were doomed to disappointment. The bottle was found, but it was empty, the contents having presumably disappeared by evaporation.

Many other interesting relics were found in the stone including newspapers, minutes of official proceedings, lists of fraternal society members, a history of the old Ku Klux Klan, a bank statement and other documents. There was also a coin which is now 191 years old, one $100 bill and two $20 bills. The bills were of no more value than the empty bottle however, as they were Confederate currency.

The Sucker List

Methodical dealers and salesmen keep a list of prospective customers upon whom they bring to bear from time to time their most persuasive selling arguments. The plan has been proved of value, as better results are obtained through intensive soliciting of a selected list of prospects than through random efforts.

But it is not only those engaged in legitimate business who thus seek to simplify their salesmanship by concentrating upon those most likely to buy. Promoters of wildcat ventures also select their prospective victims with extreme care, although many of their lists run to large figures.

President Auchincloss of the National Better Business Bureau declared that one New York promoter has a list of 600,000 names of persons who are known to be easy victims for swindling schemers. Such a compilation of names is known as a "sucker list." Advertising literature holding out the most glowing opportunities for profitable investments is sent regularly to those who have been found gullible enough to bite at such bait. A good sucker list is a veritable gold mine for the unscrupulous promoter.

If one receives frequent letters or circulars offering amazing inducements to purchase oil, mining or other stocks he may be sure that he is listed among the "easy marks," whose credulity yields millions of dollars to swindlers every year.

Watch Your Machine

Every prudent person who owns and operates a piece of machinery is careful to see that it is kept in good condition. This is generally done through frequent inspections to detect unusual wear and tear, so as to have the necessary repairs made before the machine actually breaks down.

The most important piece of machinery of all, however, is often sadly neglected. We refer to the human body, the machine upon which all joy of living depends.

It is well that people are more and more getting the habit of having periodical physical examinations, even though they be apparently in good health. By these examinations incipient disease may often be detected long before the person examined would have felt any discomfort from it. This is particularly true of diseases which attack the internal organs such as the heart, lungs, liver and kidneys.

Every person, especially those getting along toward middle age, should have a thorough physical examination at least once a year, whether they feel any symptoms of disease or not. If no disease be found, it is a great satisfaction to know that one is sound physically, while a warning of disease in its first stages enables one to obtain treatment which may check its progress and materially prolong his life.

Most large life insurance companies now afford their policyholders free medical examinations once a year and this privilege should be taken advantage of by all means. If no insurance policy be carried, the fee for such an examination is small and may save much suffering and expense in the future. Watch your human machine.

Last Of The 600

Although the famous charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava, immortalized by Tennyson, occurred more than 80 years ago on October 25, 1854, the last survivor of that "gallant six hundred" died not long ago.

He was Edwin Hughes, a sergeant major, who until his death received assistance from a special fund raised for veterans of that heroic charge, which was an incident of the Crimean War, in which Turkey, with aid from England, France and Sardinia, defeated Russia.

The Light Brigade, composed of 673 British cavalrymen, charged the Russian field artillery over a distance of a mile and a half losing 247 men and 497 horses in 20 minutes. They cut down many of the Russian gunners, but were forced to retreat in disorder. Their dashing exploit raised the morale of the allies, however, and diminished that of the Russians.

A few days later at the battle of Inkerman on November 5, 8,000 British held 50,000 Russians at bay in a hand to hand conflict until the French arrived and routed the enemy. Then, after a year's siege during which the allies suffered untold hardships, the great fort of Sevastopol was evacuated by the Russians and the war was ended. It was during this siege that Florence Nightingale organized the first nursing system in military hospitals.

Thus, while the charge of the Light Brigade was unsuccessful, it was a moral victory which probably turned the tide of war against the forces of the Czar. It was a stirring memory that Edwin Hughes carried with him during his long life.

Still the Greatest Mother

A YOUNG PIONEER

When several hundred families were sent to Alaska from the Middle West to settle the Matanuska Valley, the Red Cross sent a nurse, Madeleine de Foras, to remain with them for a year to help protect their health. Among the first friends she made were the little pioneer, Arthur Hack, 4 years old, and "Prince," the pup who went with his young master to Alaska.

RED CROSS REPORTS
BUSY YEAR AIDING DISASTER VICTIMS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes,
Floods, Epidemics, Make
Record of Year

The American Red Cross assisted sufferers in more disasters throughout the United States during the year ending June 30, 1935, than through any similar period in the peace-time history of the organization, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman, revealed recently in commenting on the annual report which has just been released.

"The 128 domestic disasters in which the Red Cross extended aid during the fiscal year exceeded by 56 per cent the average over the past few years," Admiral Grayson said. "Not only was the period heavy in the number of disasters, but the geographical distribution was wide, with 37 States and 353 counties affected.

"Through these disasters and times of community distress, the Red Cross assisted 110,000 persons," the Admiral disclosed.

Spectacular service was rendered in many disasters because of the uniqueness of the problems and the far-flung points affected. The work of the National organization covered in the report carries stories of the Morro Castle burning; the trench-mouth epidemic in the beautiful San Luis Valley of Colorado; the great fight over a wide front in the mid-west dust bowl against respiratory diseases; floods, hurricanes, and tornadoes in many sections of the United States.

In addition to the disasters taking place within the continental limits of this country, Admiral Grayson pointed out that work had been made necessary by disasters in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines, where 26 disasters were recorded in that archipelago. The American Society also assisted the Red Cross of two foreign countries in caring for victims of floods and earthquakes.

The variation of types of disasters called for expert council on matters relating to health and nutrition as well as epidemic prevention. Last year's work proved the value of the structure and administration of the Red Cross disaster relief, the Admiral said, the very frequency of occurrence and the variety of types constituting a severe test of the organization chartered by Congress to handle this type of National relief.

Expenditures of the Red Cross for relief of persons stricken by disasters within the continental United States amounted to $464,413. In addition, $75,000 was sent to the Philippines to assist them in three major relief operations necessitated by typhoons, $5,000 went to victims of the Indian earthquake, and $5,000 to Poland for victims of severe floods. A number of smaller foreign emergencies called for sums totaling $2,500.

The months of February, March, April, May and June were heaviest for tornado disasters. Floods occurred throughout the year. Serious fires calling for Red Cross assistance took place during July and December. A devastating explosion took place in Tennessee during April. Most of the hurricanes struck States along the east coast during the fall and early winter.

"All of this assistance to persons in distress," Admiral Grayson pointed out, "was only possible through generous contributions made by citizens in all sections of the country."

Most of this support of the disaster relief service comes from the annual Roll Call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

1936 Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets are Replete with New Features

New Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 show marked advances in appearance and in engineering. Perfected hydraulic brakes, high-compression engines with full-length water jackets, and balanced carburetion are among the mechanical improvements. The solid steel Turret Top Fisher body is now used on the Standard as well as the Master De Luxe models. Either Knee-Action or conventional springing may be had in the Master models. The illustrations show: Top left, the Master De Luxe sport sedan, with built-in trunk; top right, the re-styled, deeply moulded radiator grille, used on all models; lower left, the simple arrangement of Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all models; and, lower right, a Standard sedan.

LEGALS

Notice To Contractors

Public notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received up until 10:00 A. M., on Saturday, November 23, 1935, and will then be opened at the Town Hall in Broadlands, Illinois, for obtaining crushed stone and placing the same on the roads in Ayers Township, Champaign County, Illinois, all as shown on a certain township map and as shown by the specifications for the said work proposed to be done, all of which are now on file in the office of the Commissioner of Highways of the said Ayers Township.

The estimated quantities of the work to be done are as follows:

1. Furnishing 31,250 cubic yards of crushed stone.
2. Placing the same on approximately 25 miles of unimproved roads as shown on the said township map.

The work described above shall be performed in accordance with the requirements of the plans and specifications adopted by Ayers Township. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check, made payable to the order of the treasurer of Ayers Township, for a sum not less than ten (10) per cent of the aggregate amount of the bid, as security that the successful contractor will enter into binding contract for said work, if his proposal is accepted.

Copies of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the Commissioner of Highways of Ayers Township, Broadlands, Illinois. The Commissioner of Highways reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive technicalities.

Dated at Broadlands, Illinois, October 31, 1935.

LITTLE LIGHTS ON LIVING

THE ANGEL OF MICHELANGELO

RETURNING home one sundown from his work on the Vatican in Rome, Michelangelo saw a discarded piece of marble lying on the roadside. He called two workmen to help him lift and carry it to his home. He overheard them say to each other as they left, pocketing the coins he gave them: "That old stone isn't worth a lira, what can he want with it?"

The stone lay untouched days in the artist's studio. One night when weary, his head resting on his hand, he sat dreaming until a wee late hour. A small angel, pure and white, came to him, bending with outstretched sympathetic hands, as if to relieve his fatigue. He reached out to touch her, she was gone, a fleeting visitor. He arose, went to his sculptor's table upon which the discarded stone lay, and worked the night through. As the dawn streaked the sky, with light that early morn, another angel came to earth, small, pure and white, bending with outstretched sympathetic hands as if to relieve the fatigue of the world. This visitor was not a fleeting one, for it had come to stay, chiseled by the master touch of Michelangelo from the discarded piece of roadside marble. It can be seen today in one of the great galleries of Europe.

There is a potential angel in every life. Even in those lives that have been discarded by human society, like the piece of marble Michelangelo found on the roadside. It takes the master touch to bring it forth. How often a life is reformed by the remembrance of a mother, or perhaps a father's word awakens the soul of a wandering boy.

The great lesson in this story is for parents—they are the sculptors of human life. It is for them to chisel the angel of character in their child in the tender growing up years and see that it grows as he grows—a strong, dominating force. I cannot help but feel if all our criminals had had the master touch in their lives in their childhood, where sin is not, their paths would be greatly divergent from where they now are.

Were I an unbeliever, thank God I am not, I believe the most serious obstacle to my unbelief would be the redeeming power of God in man's life. He never fails in his achievement of chiseling the angel out of a discarded life if we but permit him, no matter how long it has lain discarded by the roadside.

The boys in Vocational Agriculture made duplicate moisture tests on white field corn taken directly from the field. Both samples tested 34% moisture. Mature corn in 1927 gave this same test, but the 1927 corn tested 24.5% moisture at husking time. The moisture content of corn in 1926 at husking time was 20.5%. How much moisture corn can stand and still keep in the crib is difficult to say but future temperature will make some difference, also rate of cribbing, depth and width of cribbed corn, etc.

Sidelights

It is said that the hair-bobbing style was started by Irene Castle, once famous dancer, when she was forced to have her locks clipped after a spell of fever. And no fever was ever so contagious as the fashion she originated.

Danger lurks everywhere, it seems. Walter Gwyn of Memphis, who happened to have a job and was fearful of losing it, dislocated his shoulder when reaching under his pillow for his watch. He says he will buy an alarm clock.

There are about two million laws, Federal, state and local, on statute books in the United States, according to a recent estimate. Quite an increase from the time of Moses, when people got along with only 10, none of which is very enthusiastically observed at this writing.

An unusual penalty was imposed on Violet Rudolf of San Francisco when convicted of reckless driving for the second time. The judge ordered her taken to the city morgue and there forced to gaze on the mangled bodies of several persons who had been killed in automobile accidents.

Better Breakfasts

BREAKFAST should be a good lever for a good liver. The prospect of it ought to pry you out of bed with a minimum of resistance on these cold winter mornings. Which would you do—make a dash for your bath or turn over and have another forty winks—if you knew you had in prospect a breakfast like the following?

- Tomato Juice (Mm!)
- Hominy Cooked in Milk (Mmm!)
- Bacon and Fried Bananas (Mmmmm!)
- Toasted Rolls (Mmmmm!)
- Coffee (Mmmmmmm!)

Here's the recipe for the hominy cooked in milk. Drain two cups canned hominy and put through fine food chopper. Add one-fourth teaspoon salt and seven-eighths cup hot milk, and cook in double boiler for thirty minutes. Serve with cream and sugar. Serves four.

But you doubtless noticed that in this menu it was the coffee that got the most "mm's." That was because you can be sure nowadays of always getting the best of coffee in a perfect state for brewing, and there is no more delectable or delicious breakfast drink. The tomato juice is a fine eye opener, the hominy goes good, and the bacon and bananas even better. The toasted rolls add a tempting touch, but it is the coffee that crowns the morning feast.

It's so simple, too, nowadays, to get perfect coffee. All you have to do is to look at the can you buy it in carefully, and see that it is marked "vacuum packed." Those two little words assure you that it will come out of the can as fresh and flavorsome as it went in. And it has the advantage, too, of offering you a choice practically as wide as the market since so many of the good coffees are now vacuum packed. Just get the blend you like the best.*
