Bank Building at Fisher Sold

William O'Connell, receiver for the Fisher State Bank, has sold the bank building to Rudolph Muhlman of Fisher and the sale has been approved by the court. He paid $1,100 cash for the building and its contents which include one or two old safes, the cage and some safety deposit boxes.

The bank's affairs are nearing the end, and it is hoped to make it a closed affair before many months. So far, depositors have received about 60 percent of their deposits.

Approval of the sale of the Broadlands Bank building will come before the court Nov. 18.

The receiver had a chance to sell it and the garage building across the street for $1,250 at private sale, but the sale failed to receive court approval, as it was believed too low. Then the property was put up at public sale and the highest bid was $1,045, but afterwards $100 more was offered, and there the matter stands.

The Broadlands Bank is still paying the receiver some returns and it is understood that the final report is not being contemplated for sometime.

Bedroom Furniture Sale

A few weeks ago when the Kuehne Mfg. Co., of Mattoon, decided to close out their entire stock of high grade bedroom furniture at once, they looked for a retail furniture store who could handle the entire stock of 5,128 pieces, and thought first of the Reliable Furniture Co., of Champaign.

A. J. Koehnemann, general manager of the Reliable made a cash offer which Kuehne's gladly accepted. The price agreed upon was so low that the Reliable now offers this entire purchase at about 50c on the dollar. Complete suites, vanities, beds, chests, benches, etc., are all included. Forty-five Cent Corn Loan Program Clarified

Corn loans of 45 cents per bushel will be made on corn that when shelled will grade No. 3 or better, according to information received by the Champaign County Farm Bureau from the Illinois Agricultural Association. When the original announcement was received, many corn growers pointed out that in many localities very little corn would test No. 3 or better according to moisture content at present. But most of this corn when properly dried and shelled, it is felt, will grade No. 3 or better. Loans will be granted on merchantable corn which at the present contains too much moisture to grade No. 3, according to clarifying statements made to IAA officials by Washington authorities.

Another Pioneer Gone

Lewis Ault, formerly a citizen of this community, passed away at Butler, Ind., the first part of last week. He came to Eastern Illinois in the early 70's, and settled on a farm near Broadlands. Just shortly after the C. & E. I. Ry. was completed in 1887, he purchased 80 acres of land which is where the present town of Broadlands now stands. He built the first brick store building in Broadlands, and was in business there for several years.

After buying and selling several farms in and around Newman township, he purchased a farm near Butler, Ind., where he remained until his death. Mr. Ault is a brother-in-law of Chas. O. Rice in this city.—Newman Independent.

'Daring Young Man' Offers Furious Fun

James Dunn goes to jail today, but the Fox Film actor will not be alone in his incarceration, however, as Mae Clark, Warren Hymer, Sidney Toler, Jack La Rue, Raymond Hatton and other well-known screen players will accompany him; at least for part of his sentence.

Since Dunn and the others are prisoners only for the sake of art, their fans need not worry over their imprisonment. It is all for a hilarious sequence in "The Daring Young Man," the romantic comedy of newspaper life which will be shown at the Broadlands Theater on Friday and Saturday night of this week. Dunn's jail-going is done on the order of his editor, who wants to get an "inside story" on what is really going on within prison walls.

Armistice Day

Seventeen years ago, on Nov. 11, 1918, the world rejoiced wildly over the signing of the Armistice which brought the greatest war in history to a close. Peace was officially proclaimed by the adoption of the Treaty of Versailles on June 28 of the following year.

For several weeks prior to the Armistice, events had been moving rapidly toward the inevitable defeat of Germany, whose hard pressed armies were on the verge of collapse. Only surrender could avert the invasion of German territory with all its disastrous consequences.

Bulgaria had surrendered at Salonika on September 29; Turkey surrendered at Mudros on October 31; Austria-Hungary surrendered at the headquarters of General Diaz, the Italian commander, on November 3, leaving Germany with the alternative of surrendering or attempting to continue the hopeless struggle alone.

Germany had appealed to President Wilson for peace terms as early as October 6, and the time between that date and the Armistice was devoted by diplomats to work out terms to be demanded.

The Armistice ended the actual fighting, but many of the problems arising from the World War are yet far from settlement. Even during recent weeks it has at times appeared that another European war was imminent, and in view of the invasion of Ethiopia by Italy, the situation at the moment is extremely tense.

It is encouraging to note, however, that the United States seems determined to keep out of another conflict, and this determination is in keeping with the desires of an overwhelming majority of the American people.

This month the annual roll call of the Red Cross will take place, and the public will be again reminded of the untiring zeal and effectiveness of this indispensable organization in the service of stricken humanity.

In contemplating the devotion of this now world-wide agency of mercy, it is not amiss to give a thought to that kindly soul who was its founder, Henri Dunant, a Franco-Swiss business man, born in Geneva in 1828.

Witnessing the sufferings of the wounded after the battle of Solferino, Italy, in 1859, he organized a volunteer nursing service for their relief. For three years thereafter he lectured and wrote of the horrors he had witnessed, traveling about Europe making his plea for an organization to meet such emergencies. Officials of influence were interested and an international conference was called at Geneva in 1863, with 36 delegates representing 14 nations and six charitable organizations present. Thus the Red Cross was born.

Henri Dunant lived to the age of 82, by which time he had seen the great organization of which he was the father spread to every civilized nation. Perhaps no man who ever lived contributed more to the cause of humanity than he, and millions yet unborn will be beneficiaries of the noble movement of which his great, sympathetic heart was the inspiration.

Indian Summer

November is usually marked by a brief period of warmer weather after the first cold snap of winter has passed, this period being popularly known as Indian summer. How the name arose is obscure, except that it is of American origin.

In England and France this warmer season is known as St. Martin's summer, and is supposed to begin on St. Martin's day, November 11, around which many traditions have grown. If the day be bright and sunny there will be a cold winter, and the same will happen if the trees still retain their foliage; but if frost occurs before that day the winter will be mild—so runs the ancient saying.

St. Martin is the patron saint of France, of beggars and of reformed drunkards. He was a real personage, who flourished in the fourth century and became Bishop of Tours, rising from pagan parents. Many miracles, including raising the dead are attributed to him. One legend tells that after he divided his cloak with a beggar on a wintry November day, summer came back again because of his kind deed—hence the term St. Martin's summer, which has persisted for more than 1,500 years.

St. Martin's or Indian summer is briefly described as "that mellow time in November, which follows the first, or even the second cold snap or period; the return of summer for a season, characterized by a hazy atmosphere and a mellow air and coloring."

You Don't Have To Know Anything

It doesn't take brains to push the throttle of your car to the floorboard.

It doesn't take cleverness to weave in and out of the traffic at sixty miles an hour to the consternation of the slower moving highway-users.

It doesn't take any intellectual capacity to hang onto the steering wheel, give her the gun and see if you can make the speedometer touch ninety-odd.

In other words, you don't have to know anything to drive fast.

Drivers who regard streets and highways as the Indianapolis bowl, might be divided into two classes: First, those who are weary of living and don't mind if they take innocent parties along with them into eternity. Second, those who are so stupid as to not realize that several thousand pounds of metal moving at a terrific speed is as lethal a weapon as a machine-gun—both for the occupant and for anyone else who happens to be in the locality.

Speed—and speed alone—is responsible for the great majority of automobile accidents. All other causes pale into insignificance beside it. As even the most mentally deficient driver should be able to realize, an accident occurring at sixty miles per hour is almost invariably more serious than one occurring at 20.

The roads of America are strewn with corpses because a relatively small number of drivers are doing their best to emulate Malcolm Campbell.

A YOUNG PIONEER

When several hundred families were sent to Alaska from the Middle West to settle the Matanuska Valley, the Red Cross sent a nurse, Madeleine de Foras, to remain with them for a year to help protect their health. Among the first friends she made were the little pioneer, Arthur Hack, 4 years old, and "Prince," the pup who went with his young master to Alaska.

In Florence, Italy, a judge sentenced a man to three months and ten days in jail for kissing his fiancée in a public park, and the girl three months for accepting his caresses.

"When do we eat?" was the only conversation she ever heard from her husband during 10 years of married life, Mrs. Antone Zeman told a Chicago divorce court.

R. C. CAMPAIGNS TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Program Inaugurated in Local Chapters to Cut Down Farm and Home Accidents

The American Red Cross has launched a nation-wide campaign to eliminate hazards in the home and on the farm that now take an annual toll of nearly 35,000 lives, according to a recent statement by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"Every Red Cross chapter is being asked to play a part in this campaign," Mr. Fieser said. "Hazards in the various communities will be pointed out. The children in our schools throughout the country will be given a list of the home hazards and asked to enroll parents or relatives in the fight against them."

Nearly five million men, women, and children were temporarily disabled in the homes of America last year by accidents, officials of the National Safety Council have revealed. Most of the accidents in which persons were killed and injured could have been prevented, according to this safety agency, this fact alone largely motivating the Red Cross drive for accident elimination.

Active cooperation of social, civic, educational, veterans', and other groups has been secured. Red Cross inspection forms or home check lists will be distributed to homes where there are no children with the help of these organizations.

Due to inaccessibility and lack of compensation coverage, little or no pioneering has been done in the field of farm safety, the Red Cross states. However, more people were accidentally killed in agricultural pursuits last year than in any other occupation, making the need for safety education and farm home inspection apparent.

Other agencies now active in the accident-prevention field point to the fact that, because of its nearly 13,000 chapters and branches, the Red Cross has a unique opportunity to successfully promote a project of this nature.

Home accidents injure many more than do automobile accidents; they kill nearly as many, claiming an average of about 80 lives daily. In terms of dollars and cents, for the practical minded, home accidents cost more than $1,000 per minute.

Accidents of all types are Public Enemy No. 4. Only three diseases cause as many deaths each year, heart disease, cancer, and cerebral hemorrhage.

"The home is not the place of safety it is commonly supposed to be," said Mr. Fieser in commenting on the new Red Cross service to the community. "The Red Cross, as a part of its chartered obligation to prevent death and alleviate suffering, is conducting this humanitarian program to cut down the mounting toll of avoidable personal injury and death in the homes of the country."

The annual Red Cross roll call, running from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, is one of the means of backing such a campaign. All citizens of the United States are offered the opportunity to join and assist in the work of the organization.

Inmates of the county jail at Garnett, Kan., who refused to saw wood were given choice of working or going on a diet of bread and water. They decided to saw wood.
