James W. Neal Dies Suddenly While Working

Funeral services for James W. Neal, a former resident of Broadlands, were held at the local M. E. Church, last Sunday afternoon, with Rev. W. Earl Ballew, pastor of the church officiating.

Mr. Neal died suddenly about 4:30 p. m., on Friday, Nov. 15, at the Melody Tavern in Champaign, where he was employed as a cook, heart trouble being the cause of his demise.

A quartet composed of O. P. Witt, Mrs. Lillie Bowman, Mrs. Mary Dicks and C. A. Smith, with Mrs. Bertha Cook presiding at the piano, sang "Face to Face," "No Night There," and "Sometime We'll Understand."

The pallbearers were Chris Seider, John Rothermel, Sr., Fred Messman, Henry Ward, A. S. Maxwell, Wm. Zenke.

Burial was in Fairfield cemetery, 4 1/2 miles southeast of Broadlands, with Dicks Bros., local undertakers in charge.

Those attending from a distance were: Edward Neal and Mrs. Maggie Nickens of Mattoon; Harry Neal of Gary, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lenox of Winchester, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott, Taylorville; Misses Susie, Emma and Amanda Ward, and Henry, Luther, William and Leonard Ward of near Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Green and daughter Vivian, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Art Marshky and friends from the Melody Tavern, Mrs. Frances Rowan, Mrs. Clara Smith, Mrs. Rebecca Ward and children, Mrs. Bessie Cranshaw, Robert Ernest and Ray Hines, of Champaign; Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Austin, Mrs. J. H. Rachels and daughter Bernice, Mrs. E. White, Frank Hughes and daughter Gertrude, Mark Walker, Danville; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Robertson and son Paul of Homer.

James Wesley Neal, son of the late Mrs. Mary Westmoreland, was born April 2, 1868, in Savannah, Tennessee, where he spent the early part of his life, coming to Springfield, Illinois, at the age of 13 years. Ten years later he came to Champaign where he was engaged as chef at various hotels.

In 1891 he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Smith of Broadlands, and four years later moved to Broadlands where he engaged in farming.

The deceased passed away quite suddenly at the age of 67 years, 6 months and 13 days due to a heart attack, which was a severe shock to relatives and friends.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Anna Neal of Broadlands; four children, Harry, of Gary, Ind.; Mildred, Walter and Gladys, all at home; an uncle, Edward Neal of Mattoon; a number of nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

Boy's Prank Puts Chum in a Cast for Months

Alton, Nov. 16.—A schoolboy's prank put 12-year-old Wendell Bode in a plaster cast today.

As he prepared to sit down in school after reciting, another boy pulled Wendell's chair from under him and he fell to the floor, fracturing a vertebra in his spine. He will remain in the cast, which covers his entire back, from three to nine months.

Methodist Aid Meets With Mrs. Nellie Astell

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church met at the home of Mrs. Nellie Astell on Thursday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Mary Dicks and Mrs. Pearl DeWitt were assistant hostesses.

After the devotional period Mrs. Daisy Gore conducted the business session. Plans were made for the annual bazaar and chicken pie supper to be held on Dec. 7 in the Astell building. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Members present were Mesdames Edna Telling, Nora Griffin, Anna Laverick, Ruth Thode, Maud Anderson, Eva Walker, Frances Smith, Helen Ward, Mary Fitzgerald, Rosa Smith, Daisy Gore, Leanna Miller, Pearl DeWitt, Mary Dicks, Nellie Astell, and Misses Mildred and Gladys Neal. Mrs. Hattie Dicks was a guest.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leanna Miller.

Chevrolet Christmas Sales Are Forecast

The Chevrolet Motor Company is looking forward to the highest volume of Christmas sales in its 25-year history, according to W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager.

The prediction is based, Mr. Holler said, mainly upon three points—the excellence of the new 1936 Chevrolets which were introduced Nov. 2; the timeliness of their introduction, just before the Christmas buying season; and the fact that the General Motors Acceptance Corporation's six per cent purchase plan reduces to a new low figure the outlay required to own and drive a new motor car.

Orders taken on announcement day exceeded anything in our history, said Mr. Holler. Plainly, the public agrees with us that the 1936 Chevrolets are the finest product we have ever introduced.

Kerna Block's Automobile Goes Up In The Smoke

Kerna Block's Plymouth sedan was destroyed by fire last Sunday evening, the accident occurring near the Harry Jarman home in Longview. Kerna lighted a cigaret and tossed the match on the ground where a pool of gasoline had formed from a leak in the tank of his car, the flames having quickly leaped to the automobile. The Longview fire truck was soon rushed to the scene but was handicapped by a shortage of water. The loss is covered by insurance it is said.

Longview To Get New Gymnasium

Longview high school is to secure a new gymnasium, something which has been desired and which has been needed for several years.

Recently a $20,000 grant for the construction of such was approved by the Federal Government. The new gymnasium will be built at a cost of $50,000. The $30,000 balance which will be required for the building will be paid by the school district. No bonds will be issued as the district has a large balance in the treasury.

The high school was built in 1915 at a cost of $25,000. Increased enrollment has created a demand for space. The program is to build class rooms in the present gymnasium and to construct class rooms beneath the bleachers in the proposed gymnasium.

Although plans for the addition have not yet been drawn, the school board plans to hurry the preliminary work and the actual building will start as soon as the plans are approved by PWA.

55,000 Eligible For Old Age Pensions

Governor Horner expressed gratification as the House of Representatives approved, 134 to 6, administration-sponsored amendments making the Illinois Old Age Pension act conform with the federal act. Under the amendment, the federal government will match the State's $5,000,000 appropriation for the payment of pensions to needy aged persons. Approximately 55,000 residents of Illinois are eligible, it is estimated.

The action of the House alone justifies the special session of the 59th General Assembly, Governor Horner said. It is a great step forward in humanitarian legislation. It is to be regretted that there was any opposition to the bill at all, but the House vote reflects the public opinion in favor of the measure.

The Illinois Old Age Pension Act will be administered in a strictly non-partisan manner.

Mrs. Flora Bailey is Hostess to L. W. Class

A Human Periscope

Inner secrets of the human body may be revealed by a new instrument, a sort of periscope, developed by Dr. J. C. Ruddock of Los Angeles, and recently exhibited before the American College of Surgeons at its recent convention in San Francisco.

The instrument consists principally of a very slender metal tube with a tiny electric light on one end, and an eyepiece on the other. The tube is inserted in the abdominal cavity, or other part of the body which it is desired to explore. Only a small opening is required to admit the periscope, and air is pumped into the body with a small atomizer to hold open the place being examined.

The organs readily examined by this means include the stomach, kidneys, liver, gall bladder, peritoneum and others. One advantage claimed for the new instrument is that it may aid in determining whether a major operation should be performed.

It is believed that the new device may have a wide range of usefulness, and mark another notable advance in the field of modern surgery.

Highway Maintenance

We do not vouch for the correctness of his figures, but a recent writer declares that 100,000 miles of hard surfaced American highways must be reconstructed in the next two or three years, or they will be unfit for use. Some engineers estimate that within 15 years most of our present highways will have to be rebuilt.

Even allowing for some exaggeration of the situation, the prospect is rather discouraging. It appears that most of our highways will be ruined before they are paid for, as most road bond issues still have many years to run before maturity. There is no doubt that their rapid deterioration is due largely to the damage caused by unreasonably heavy trucks and busses. These destructive vehicles not only break up our roads and weaken our bridges, but are a nuisance and a menace to all other traffic.

No one would object to the use of the roads by trucks of reasonable size and weight, but the enormous ones which now infest the highways should be abolished. Legislation to this end is being adopted in some states, and while the truckmen are protesting they have no one but themselves to blame.

By trying to hog the roads and destroy them at the same time they have little cause for complaint if the taxpayers demand protection for the highways they have built at such a burdensome expense.

A Hundred Billion

Modern business figures have reached such large proportions that the human mind can not begin to grasp them. Who, for example, can form an intelligent idea of what 100 billion dollars really means? Yet, that is the amount of life insurance now in force in the United States.

The growth of life insurance in this country since the war has been one of the outstanding business phenomena of the period. When the government provided war risk insurance, some believed that the private companies might be injured, but it appears that the reverse has been the case.

In any event, the figures speak for themselves. The amount of insurance in force in 1915 was about 25 billion. By 1922 it had reached 50 billion. The 100 billion now in force represents an increase of 300 per cent in 20 years.

Even this staggering total represents only an average of about $800 for every person in the United States. Hundreds of thousands of families are still without insurance and the neglect of this important matter is the cause of much suffering on the part of widows and orphans who are left unprotected.

An Annie Oakley Film

An unusual American woman will live again on the screen, when the picture "Annie Oakley" is produced shortly. For Annie Oakley, who in private life was Mrs. Frank Butler, was the greatest woman rifle shot the world has ever known. She died a few years ago at the age of 66.

One unusual episode of her life was the friendship between her and the famous Sioux chief, Sitting Bull, who named her "Little Sure Shot," and left her all his personal belongings at his death.

For many years she toured America and foreign countries with Buffalo Bill. She was praised and decorated by many rulers, including King George of England, who awarded her a medal, declaring her to be "the best rifle shot in the world."

It is told that once in the early '80's Annie Oakley with a bullet from her rifle flicked the ashes from the end of a cigarette held in the lips of the Crown Prince of Germany, as a supreme test of her nerve and skill—and the Prince's courage.

Although she suffered partial paralysis as a result of a railroad accident in 1901, she made many exceptional records after that misfortune. In 1922 she broke 100 clay targets straight with her rifle at 16 yards.

Many thousands who have been thrilled by the unerring aim of "Little Sure Shot" will be pleased to learn that her colorful life is to be depicted in a motion picture.

Last African Slave

In the little Alabama village of Plateau, near Mobile, there recently died, Cudjo Lewis, who has been described as "the most historic Negro in the United States," a title seemingly well bestowed.

For Cudjo Lewis was the last survivor of all the slaves brought from Africa to this country, coming to America on the Clothilde, last of the slave ships to bring a cargo to our shores, on her last trip in that unholy traffic in 1859.

With 109 others of the peaceful Tarkar tribe in Africa he was captured by the more savage Dahomeys, and sold to the slave trader, Captain Billy Smith of the Clothilde. These unfortunates, like thousands of others before them, suffered indescribable hardships during the 70-day voyage, with only a scanty allowance of bread and water for their subsistence.

They were finally landed on the Alabama coast and soon after sold to various masters, whom they served faithfully. After the Civil War they gathered to form a colony at Magazine Point, where they were employed in a shipyard.

One by one they passed away, leaving Cudjo Lewis as the only link between the African slave traders and the present, until his recent death at the supposed age of 96.

Origin Of Football

What is said to be the earliest written mention of football in America is contained in a book on Virginia published about 1609, only two years after the first permanent settlement at Jamestown. In that day boys played a crude game by kicking an inflated bladder over the field.

But the real origin of football goes back to ancient times in Greece and Rome, where a game called "harpaston," or "harpastum," was played. It is likely that the game was introduced into the British Isles by the Romans about the beginning of the Christian era. Varieties of the game have been found in many other parts of the world. Native Polynesians played with a ball made of bamboo fibers; Eskimos made a ball of moss with a skin cover.

Early football rules were more in keeping with the name of the game, as the ball was kicked only, and not carried. The carrying feature of the game was introduced by William Webb Ellis, a schoolboy of Rugby, Eng., in the closing minute of a tied game in the fall of 1823. His feat is commemorated by a tablet at

Rugby which bears this inscription:

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who with a fine disregard of the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game."

The first intercollegiate football game in America was played in 1869 between Princeton and Rutgers, with 25 men on each side, and was won by Rutgers, the score being 6 to 4.

About the best way for a wife to keep her husband truthful is not to ask too many questions.

Persistence wins, they say. So, maybe an automobile will some day knock a locomotive off the track.

We read of a comedian who fainted the first time he faced a microphone. Thereby setting a fine example.

Better Demand For Farm Products is Outlook

Good news for Illinois farmers is contained in the annual farm outlook report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

An increase in consumer buying power in 1936 due to improved industrial activity, together with some gain in foreign demand is forecast by government economists. Grain, dairy and livestock farmers as well as growers of fruits and vegetables are expected to benefit.

The Agricultural Association sees in the improved industrial situation the result of a more favorable exchange value between the prices of farm products and the prices of non-agricultural goods. Factory payrolls have advanced during the past two years in almost exact proportion to the gain in farm income.

1,337,518 Passenger Cars Are Registered

Passenger car registrations for the first ten months of this year exceeded the entire passenger car registration for the full year of 1934 by 52,084 vehicles, according to a report released today by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

The total number of passenger cars registered up to Oct. 31 was 1,337,518 as compared with 1,285,434 cars registered during the full twelve months of last year.

Truck registrations up to Oct. 31 were 189,496 as compared with 178,496 in 1934, which shows a gain of 11,000 trucks over all last year.

License plates next year will cost less. Through the efforts of Secretary Hughes, in bringing about a reduction in fees, car owners will save approximately $2,000,000.

The Right Girl

By MARGARETTA BRUCKER
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

"WHEN the time comes I'll pick the right girl," Don Farrell had said. "You'll see."

Don had come to Gatesville on a government engineering job. He was a tall loose limbed fellow with deep-set gray eyes, and an infectious smile.

He had made the quoted remark on his first day in Gatesville. Bob Haines had just told him he'd better watch out for his heart for he had the prettiest crop of girls south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Don had just grinned—picked up his hat and asked: "Which way to the best boarding house?"

"Mrs. Ann Nelson's over on Myrtle street," Bob had replied. Then he'd winked at the fellows standing about the soda bar in the drug store. "What you bet you'll start picking that girl before you're 24 hours older?"

"I'm pretty hard to suit," Don had called back over his shoulder.

"Wait 'til he meets the Nelson twins," Bob had said then. "Wonder which one he'll fall for?"

Don hadn't been in Gatesville two days when he had them both down to the drug store and it didn't take half an eye to see that he was falling fast . . . but which one? that was the puzzler.

Carrie Lou and Emmy Lou were their names and when their own mother couldn't tell them apart how was a long-legged Yankee going to come to any decision? He had the whole town wondering.

There's no romance can get under way with three principals. Somebody's got to drop out. One of the twins had to be disqualified. Evidently the strain began to tell for gossip had it that the girls were snapping at each other. Two weeks after Don's first appearance he turned up at the drug store one evening with one twin . . . but which one?

Bets began to run high around the soda bar.

From betting on Don the whole community started betting on the twins. They'd flirted before, with fellows from Georgia to the Mississippi basin and never had had a heart flutter. Now this gangling Yankee engineer had sunk them both.

Then one afternoon a man from the T. V. I. drifted into town and said something about Don's wife. Say . . . that burst the town wide open. It was about four o'clock in the afternoon when the twins came into the drug store. Both were in white—just their belts different, one blue and one red.

The preacher's wife was in the store buying catnip for that big Maltese that always sits in her front window. She marches right over to the girls. "There was a man in here a minute ago who said that young Mr. Ferrell has a wife," she says. The preacher's wife is all right but she feels it her duty to look after the morals of the young.

If Don hadn't followed right at her heels it wouldn't have been so dramatic. As it was it knocked all the home talent shows in Gatesville right into a cocked hat. Don burst through the screen. His eyes were almost black. He came right over to where the girls were sitting.

The preacher's wife backed off but the fellows around the soda bar stuck and stared and figured that all that money they'd bet on the twins was as good as gone.

One of the twins was beating a regular tattoo on the floor with her slipper and the other was fiddling with a soda straw and breaking it into little pieces. I guess they felt pretty queer.

"What have you heard?" Don demanded. He didn't sit down. He stood leaning across the table and his glance included both the twins. His long brown fingers gripped the edge of the table.

"That you were married," said one. She said it quiet-like, but there was a lot behind her tone. Some folks don't show their emotion by being noisy. The other twin did. She said: "Yes. . . . that you were married." Her voice was thin and sharp. "Is it true?" she demanded.

"Yes, it's true."

The one with the blue belt who had spoken first opened her lips, closed them and sank back into her chair. The soda straw was torn to chaff and lay scattered about the chocolate soda which she hadn't tasted. The twin in the red belt burst into a regular torrent of abuse. She told Don what she thought of him . . . what she thought of all Yankees . . . well . . . it was almost as if she'd stripped off her clothes and stood there naked. Most of the fellows slunk out of the store ashamed for her. Being the soda jerker I had to stick.

Finally the twin in the blue belt began to cry. Dan stepped right around the table and took her in his arms. He kissed her.

"You . . ." the twin in the red belt started screaming and clawing him with her soft little hands. Don didn't seem to mind. He was grinning and showing his white teeth and saying: "I always said that when the time came I'd pick the right girl . . . now I know I've made no mistake. Carrie Lou and I were married last Friday. . . ." I didn't hear the rest for his head was bent and he was saying it into Carrie Lou's soft dark hair.

I turned around and pretended to be busy polishing some soda glasses. I heard the screen door bang behind the twin in the red belt. After this she wouldn't need to dress different for everyone in town to know her. She'd always be the twin that Don Farrell didn't pick.

BEANS

A National Institution

WE always think of beans, especially baked beans, as a vegetable which reaches its apotheosis in New England and which would probably speak, if it had a voice, with a Yankee twang. As a matter of fact, it is a good, hearty, nourishing vegetable not only full of protein, starch and iron but with bean enough to answer your wants in several tongues. These include the Latin languages spoken in Mexico, Italy and Spain. There are not many better bean dishes, for instance, than these

Lima Beans
Italienne

Dice four slices of bacon, and fry them to extract fat. Add one chopped onion, one green pepper, cut in rings, and two cups diced celery, and sauté all gently until brown. Add the liquid from a No. 2 can lima beans, and simmer until celery and green pepper are tender. Then add two cups canned tomato pulp and the beans, and heat well. Pour in center of platter and surround with boiled spaghetti. (You will use about a quarter of a package.) Serve as a main dish with quince jelly. Serves eight.

Mexican
Baked Beans

Fry sixteen rashers of bacon, and remove to platter to keep hot. Pour off all but about six table-spoons of the fat. Add two diced onions, and sauté them till golden brown. Add the contents of two No. 2 cans baked beans and two teaspoons chili powder. Heat thoroughly. Add salt to taste, if desired. Serve the bacon on top. Serves eight.

Or, if you prefer to eat your beans in Italian fashion, with a little spaghetti, try these

Spanish
Lima Beans

Dice two long slices bacon, chop one small onion and fry together. Add one diced canned pimiento and the drained lima beans from a No. 2 can. Season to taste with salt and pepper and pour into a buttered baking dish. Add enough bean liquor to moisten (about half a cup), and place in a hot oven until brown on top. Serves six.*

It would be a reminiscence of eighteen years ago to suggest, "The Ag boys went Over the Top!" but the thought is much happier when you know that "Over the Top" here means the Section VIII Vocational Agriculture Corn and Poultry Show.

Here are our outstanding achievements in competition with all the Ag boys in Champaign and Vermilion Counties.

Kenneth Bickers produces second best potatoes in the show.

Lloyd Davis wins first place in all three exhibits of white corn; bushel, ten ears and single ears. Well, we call that good, but the single ear was grand champion (over other white classes and yellow corn, too.)

Ralph Schweineke won two eighth places and a seventh in the same class.

Louis Klienmeyer places sixth in best yellow single ear.

Ronald Wilson, a Freshman, selected ten ears of yellow corn for the amateur class. He placed tenth.

Irvin Nussmeyer placed fourth with ten ears in the amateur white corn class.

Walter Schumacher placed second in the same class.

Clifford Leerkamp's White Rocks brought home a sixth on a pullet.

Louis Klienmeyer placed sixth on a single ear of yellow corn.

Clyde Collins' Rhode Island Reds placed sixth in the pullet division.

Forrest Walker's White Rock pullet won eighth.

This was the first time these boys ever exhibited.

Train Hits Wagon

George Kirby had a narrow escape from serious injury recently when the wagon he was driving was struck by the Wabash local. He was hauling a load of corn and had started south over the crossing west of the depot when the local suddenly started forward and struck the wagon in the center, pushing it down the track. George alighted from the wagon in some manner and received only a cut on one leg. The wagon was damaged as well as a trailer hitched behind, and corn spilled along the tracks.—Sidney Times.

A Large Animal

Johnny had been to the circus during the vacation and he was doing his best to tell about it in school. An, teacher, he shouted, they had one great big animal they called a hip—hip—Hippopotamus, dear, prompted the teacher.

I can't just say the name, exclaimed Johnny, but it looks just like 10 billion million pounds of liver.

An old shoemaker complains that hides are not properly tanned any more. But perhaps his loss is little Willie's gain.

Mosquito-Malaria Control Program

A mosquito-malaria control program in southern Illinois has been launched with 260 men put to work and the prospect that fully 800 men will have jobs on the project within a few days, Dr. Frank J. Jirka, director of the State Department of Public Health, has reported to Governor Horner. This WPA project is under the direct supervision of the State Department of Public Health.

The end in view is to rid the southern part of the State of malaria which is widely prevalent in some 15 or 20 counties, Dr. Jirka said.

Swampy areas in the malaria infected territory will be drained and the banks of lakes, streams and other natural bodies of water will be cleared in order to dry up mosquito breeding places.

It is estimated that 40,000 people in the lower southern brace of counties are annually affected with malaria. To prevent the economic loss and illness involved the anopholes mosquito, a dominant species in that area, must be eradicated. This achievement is the purpose of the program which is expected to continue for at least a year, providing employment for hundreds of men who otherwise would have no work.
