Mr. and Mrs. G. Rothermel Observe 20th Anniversary

A group of about forty relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Rothermel gathered unannounced, at their home last Sunday evening to remind them that it was the 20th anniversary of their marriage.

The evening was spent in games and visiting, and delicious refreshments which had been brought by the guests, were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Rothermel were presented with a number of lovely and useful gifts.

The guests remained until a late hour and departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Rothermel many more anniversaries.

Ham: I'll teach you to make love to my daughter, young man.
Ralph: I wish you would. I don't seem to be doing so well.

Lloyd: What is that book?
Donna: It's entitled "What Twenty Million Women Want."
Lloyd: Yeah? Let's see if they spelled my name right.

Brooks: I suppose you dance.
Milly: Oh yes, I love to.
Brooks: Great. That's better'n dancing.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

W. Earl Ballew, Pastor

The Sunday School meets at 10:00 o'clock. Let regular attendants come as always, irregular ones come more often, and non-attendants make a new start. The Preaching Service next Sunday is in the morning at 11:00 o'clock. We are now entering the Lenten period, and all hearts turn toward the church.

For Sale—A brooder house. Mrs. Maggie Kracht, Broadlands.

Provisions of New Farm Act Plain, Says I. A. A.

Stripped of details, the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 provides a modified soil conservation program, commodity loans when prices fall, and surplus crop storage on the farm when surpluses threaten to smash fair price levels, says the Illinois Agricultural Association Record.

Addressed to farmers, the article points out that there is no contract to sign in the new program.

You either comply, which means you operate your farm according to generally accepted principles of soil conservation and good farm practice, and receive the full benefits of the program, or you don't comply and receive lesser benefits. Compliance and compliance alone, is the basis for loans at full specified rates and for so called parity payments.

Loans to cooperating farmers that will become effective when the 1938 crop is produced, vary with the total annual production. For example, if the 1938 production of corn does not exceed the normal requirement for domestic use and export, and the price of corn on Nov. 15 is below 75 percent of parity, a loan of 75 percent of parity automatically would be in effect.

If the 1938 crop exceeds normal requirements by not more than 10 per cent, a loan of 70 per cent of the parity price would become effective. As the supply rises, the amount of the loan would be correspondingly reduced.

Surplus crop storage, the third general provision of the law, cannot be authorized except when supplies are far in excess of domestic use and export requirements.

Although the bill became effective 10 days after passage by the Senate, the corn loan provisions become effective at once.

No illness is taken less seriously nor neglected so often as the common cold. Strange, too, when one considers how many serious illnesses are often directly attributed to a cold. At the very first sign of a cold, proper care should be taken.

The wise thing to do of course, is to follow a few simple rules of health so that the body can build up the resistance necessary to ward off colds entirely. A few of them are:

1. Eat sensibly, include milk, fresh fruits, and vegetables in your diet.
2. Get sufficient rest.
3. Keep kidneys and bowels in good working order.
4. Drink at least six glasses of water a day.
5. Keep your feet dry—wear your rubbers.
6. Keep away from persons with a cold.

Alfred Poggendorf and Miss Jones Wed

Alfred Poggendorf of Broadlands, and Miss Helen Jones of Fairmount, were united in marriage at Hopkinsville, Ky., on Monday, Feb. 21, Rev. Stevenson officiating.

Following the ceremony the young couple took a trip through Tennessee and Georgia, returning home last Sunday night.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of Fairmount and has been employed as a secretary for the Illinois Emergency Relief Corporation in Danville, the past four years.

The groom is a son of Mrs. Anna Poggendorf and is engaged in farming. He will farm the land owned by his mother, who is moving to Danville next week.

Elmo Goad of Longview Dies in Chicago Hospital

Funeral services for Elmo Goad, who died Saturday at St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, were held last Tuesday afternoon at the Longview Christian Church, with L. M. Mullikin officiating. Music was furnished by the Todd Trio, with Mrs. Mary Moore at the piano.

Dicks Bros. of Broadlands returned the body to Longview and were in charge of the services.

Mr. Goad was born in Celina, Tenn., Dec. 26, 1900. He came to Longview in 1923, and worked nine years for Jas. Parks. Later he went to work for O. D. Struck and was employed on the Struck farm at the time of the injury which later caused his death. The accident happened about eighteen months ago and he had been in ill health since that time. He went to the Chicago hospital two months ago.

He was married to Ailene Martin of Villa Grove, Dec. 25, 1925. Surviving besides the widow are four children, Imogene, Yvonne, Charles and Ronald; also a sister, Mrs. Hardy Hill, Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Irene Wiese is Hostess to G. T. Club

The G. T. Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. Irene Wiese on Thursday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Edna Telling had charge of the business session in the absence of the president.

The game of "500" was enjoyed, Mrs. Minnie Anderson winning the prize for high score. Mrs. Marie Krenzien was a guest.

Refreshments served consisted of chicken sandwiches, pineapple salad, banana short cake and coffee.

Members present were Mesdames Minnie Anderson, Maude Fitzgerald, Helen Eckerty, Jennie Nohren, Delia Nohren, Lillie Bowman, Bertha Cook, Freda Maxwell, Leona Bergfield, Ida Messman, Olive Rayl, Zermah Witt, Gladys McClelland, Edna Telling, Rosa Smith and Irene Wiese.

The next club meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Maude Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Jennie Nohren is Hostess to U. B. Aid

The U. B. Ladies Aid met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jennie Nohren.

Mrs. Zermah Witt had charge of the meeting. Each member present responded with a House Cleaning Hint.

After adjournment refreshments were served consisting of hot rolls, meat loaf, St. Patrick's salad, doughnuts and coffee.

Members present were Mesdames Lillie Bowman, Freda Maxwell, Flora Bailey, Alice Struck, Ora Brown, Jessie Bergfield, Leona Bergfield, Olive Rayl, Nola Donley, Lavaughn Myers, Zermah Witt, Jennie Nohren.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Nota Gale Reasor.

Entertain Friends at Euchre Party

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Archer entertained several friends at a euchre party on Thursday evening of last week.

High score for ladies went to Mrs. James David; high for men to James David; low score for ladies to Mrs. Willis Myers; low for men to Bud Comer.

Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, pickles, fairy salad, mints, and coffee.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames James David, Bud Comer, Willis Myers, Harry Archer, Miss Helen Warner, and Enos Gallion.

Raymond Township Unit Farm Bureau Meets

The Raymond Township Unit of the Champaign County Farm Bureau held their monthly meeting on Thursday evening, Feb. 24 in the high school building at Longview. The meeting was called to order by Alfred Seider, unit director. The committee in charge was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Mohr, Elmer Mohr, H. G. Schumacher, Mer-ton Parks.

Topics for discussion were: Rural Electrification, by Thos. Gasser of Sidney.

Cold Storage Locker Refrigeration, by Henry Kilian, Jr., of Broadlands.

Committees were appointed in each school district in Raymond township to sign members for rural electrification as follows:

South Raymond—John Warnes John Seltzer, E. T. Wiseman.

Gorman—James Gorman, Robert Mower, Ernest Leerkamp.

Pleasant Hill—Henry K. Mohr Estor Block, A. T. Wilson.

Fairview—Lyman Mohr, Russell Smith, Hubert Wagner.

Long View—Wesley Churchill, Harry Nohren, James Carlton.

White Hall—Alfred Zenke, Karl Partenheimer, Ham Hedrick.

Liberty—Edw. Nohren, John Rothermel, Jr., Raymond Struck. Lawnsdale—Fred J. Mohr, Vedder Bros.

Entertainment was furnished by Todd Bros., who sang a song written by Wm. E. Green, and this number certainly received a good hand from the audience.

Alfred Seider, the new unit director, was honored with a bit of poetry written by Wm. E. Green and read by Henry Kilian, Jr.

Following adjournment wives of the committeemen served sandwiches and coffee.

OUR FARM BUREAU

Farm Bureau meets on Thursday night.

We gather here with great delight;

Our leader is a fine young man
He will do the job, we know he can.

Our programs are constructed so,

Everyone will want to go,
And hear and see just what we do

And be a member staunch and true.

If you have talent just let us know,

We need your help in this here show;

If you can dance or speak or sing,

Or play a harp or anything,
Or bring a band, a fife or drum

We don't care what just so you come.

Help build this Bureau so strong and well

That all non-members soon can tell

We stand for good with all our might,

And only ask for what is right.

We make for friends—not enmity.

We don't want graft, but parity.

That is our goal, and one straight aim,

But we all must play, to win the game.

Mark Walker, 27, Dies in Danville

Stricken suddenly, Mark Walker, 27, a participant in this year's Golden Gloves tournament and well known athlete, died at 2 p. m., Monday, Feb. 28, at his home, 808 Texas Ave., Danville.

Mr. Walker had been ill only a few days. Food poisoning is believed to have been a contributing factor in his death. He was a member of the Model Star Laundry independent basketball team and had played last week with the team in its final game.

He was employed by the Model Star Laundry as a truck driver. He had been a deputy sheriff under Sheriff George and until six months ago had been employed at the courthouse as janitor. He was born March 10, 1910, at Eddyville, Ill.

In January, 1936 he was married to Miss Gladys Neal of Broadlands, and to this union one child, Mark, Jr., was born. In addition to his widow and son he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Hughes, and a sister, Gertrude Hughes.

Funeral services were held at 9 a. m., Wednesday at St. Patrick's Church, Danville, the Rev. John Gordon officiating, assisted by the Rev. Francis A. Cleary. Burial was in Fairfield cemetery south of Broadlands.

Lutheran Aid Meets With Mrs. Windler

The Ladies Aid society of the Immanuel Lutheran Church met Thursday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Alvin Windler.

Rev. Wm. Klautsch led the devotions and conducted the business session.

Following the business meeting the afternoon was spent in quilting.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames Wm. Klautsch, Anna Poggendorf, Wm. Nonman, Tena Seider, Lena Seider, Hannah Luth, Carrie Wienke, Josephine Schweineke, Lucy Schweineke, Lena Wienke, Herman Struck, Otto Struck, John Rothermel, Sr., Flora Mohr, Hans Biesterfeld, Freddie Wienke, Bertha Kracht, Martin Sy, Elsie Cress, Marie Bundy, Esther Rothermel, Minnie Miller, Ida Windler.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hans Biesterfeld.

The Roy Bergfields Entertain at Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bergfield entertained a number of friends at Bridge on Monday night. Five tables were in play and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Albert Telling, Mrs. Lillie Bowman, Oscar Witt and John Nohren. Mrs. Kenneth Dicks and Ray McClelland retained the traveling prizes.

Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, pickles, olives, cake with food for the Gods, and coffee.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Albert Telling, Ben Rayl, John Nohren, Edward Nohren, Kenneth Dicks, Oscar Witt, Ray McClelland, George Cook, Roy Bergfield, Mrs. Lillie Bowman and Abe Montgomery.

Everybody but Attendants on Job

Unmindful of their duties, two young bridal attendants march majestically beneath arched sabers in the van of a happily newly-married couple who await congratulations during a fashionable wedding ceremony in London. The newlyweds are Diana Brassey and Capt. Humphrey William Lloyd and their ceremony took place at St. Margaret's chapel at Westminster.

FASHION FLASH

Already leaving footprints in Miami sands is the gaily hued, washable rubber footwear, designed by Foster Starner, which pretty Betty Jean Vasvary is admiring, and which stylists at a fashion preview in Miami predicted will be seen this summer on beaches throughout the nation.

Nice Work If You Can Get It

A back view of a Paris beauty contest, with one Frenchman wielding a rule in one of the easiest jobs on record. He's tallying the points of four girls competing for the title of "Prettiest Parisian of 1938" and faces alone aren't enough to convince him that a girl is beautiful.

Tars Training for Battle

Gas-masked pupils shown during a six-inch gun drill aboard H. M. S. Calcutta at Chatham as part of the training of Britain's newly recruited naval personnel. Shortage of shore training establishments because of the size of the rearmament, has made it necessary to use ships at sea for training British tars instead of the customary land stations. With the construction of new battleships, cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers, the personnel of the British navy has been considerably increased, putting a strain on the facilities for training the new recruits.

TEA TESTER

Among the many tea testers assembled by Uncle Sam in New York recently was Robert Lewis. Mr. Lewis sampled many brands of tea which will determine the standards for 20,000,000,000 cups of the beverage to be consumed by Americans in 1938. One of them, at least, didn't make a hit with Mr. Lewis. It's the one he is shown holding—and disliking.

Flee Homes in Flood Areas of Middle West

Floods in middle western states caused hundreds of persons to desert their homes when rivers overflowed their banks, as ice formations melted following spring-like rains. Above, flood victims near Detroit are being removed from their homes after the River Rouge rose to flood stage.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

Time Better Than Reform for Business

NEW YORK.—In 1929, at the age of seventy-one, Frederick H. Prince, the Boston banker, was still playing polo. He has great faith in the durability of men, institutions and governments, as long as they behave themselves. He left for Europe to forget about business for a while and intimates that it would be a good thing if the government would be similarly neglectful. "Washington should stop trying to reform business and leave the situation to time," he says.

Time has treated him nicely and he may well give it a testimonial. At seventy-nine, he is the grand seigneur of American business. Only four years ago, he engaged in a hard-hitting slugfest over the control of Armour & Co.

He got what he was after—the chairmanship of the board. He has many such trophies, having controlled 46 railroads, and, in general, one of the biggest cuts in the American dream of any man of his day.

His (mainly liquid) fortune is estimated at around $250,000,000. But, for many years, he says, he has made it a point to be about $20,000,000 in debt. That is revealing in connection with his ideas about money and success. He emphasizes the dynamics of money. It isn't money unless it is working. Stagnant money just dries up and blows away. Hence you draw cards even if you do have to drag a few chips for markers.

He's a little too heavy for polo, with a massive gray head, deep sunken, pondering eyes, and heavy, gray moustache; a bit grim, perhaps, but not formidable. When, early in October, 1929, a small black cloud appeared on the horizon, he viewed it with a telescopic eye, saw it for what it was, and got out of the market.

The cyclone never touched him. Until a few years ago, he was still riding to the hounds at Pau, in southern France, master of the hunt. He has marble palaces here and there, one of them the former mansion of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Newport. Remarking that he has been in business 55 years, he says this little squall will blow over in two or three months.

Unwelcome, Perhaps, But Insulted—Never!

THE reason isn't quite clear, but, these days, the colleges compete for tuba players as well as athletes. Dr. Walter Albert Jessup deplors this and other phases of the scramble for students in the annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, of which he is president. The fight seems to be entirely in the field of extra-curricular activities. No mere scholar gets competing bids from rival faculties. Since he became head of the Carnegie foundation, in 1933, Dr. Jessup has been a consistent deflationist, so far as education is concerned. He wants fewer and better students in the colleges. He assails the colleges which would "teach anybody anything." He is against educational trimmings, excrescences and gadgets, as the little Scotch ironmaster doubtless would be if he were looking over the current scene. Other leading educators join him in this, but the big mill has to have plenty of raw material, to keep on grinding, or else become just a crossroad plant.

So they go after even the tuba players. At any rate, each can blow its own horn. Dr. Jessup was president of the University of Iowa from 1916 to 1933. A native of Richmond, Ind., he was educated at Earlham college and Columbia and gathered several honorary degrees in later years. He was superintendent of schools in Indiana and dean of the college of education of Indiana university. He has won high distinction in the educational field and is the author of a book on arithmetic.

One gathers that he would not recommend Benny Goodman for a college faculty and that quite probably the next Carnegie report may find adversely on the shag, the eeper and the susy-q. He is for low kicking and high thinking, as against the prevailing reversal of this formula.

Giants Short Lived

The circus giant, the man with abnormally long legs or other abnormalities of frame, is a short-lived human. Tall men fall into two classes, those who attain their extraordinary growth because of inherited tendencies and those who become freaks because of some upset in the glandular functions. The man who "comes by his height naturally" usually lives a normal life span, but the freak seldom attains middle age. An insurance company, given to research in such matters, found that a number of men ranging from 7 feet 6 inches tall to 8 feet 7 inches had an average life of thirty-four years. The oldest died at forty-five, the youngest at twenty-seven.

For Your Spring Wardrobe

DRESSES that not only satisfy your present craving for something new and spring-like, but also look ahead to a later season, too. Make them yourself at home, for very much less than you usually spend on clothes. You'll find it very easy to do, with the sew chart that accompanies each pattern.

Corsetette Waistline.

If you have a slim figure, this is the afternoon dress for you! The fullness over the bust, the sleeves cut in one with the shoulders, and the lifted waistline, are just as flattering as they can be! It's the kind of dress you can wear to bridges, luncheons, meetings, and for every afternoon occasion, with the assurance that it is not only smart but becoming.

Slenderizing House Frock.

Especially designed for full figures, this house frock follows straight, tailored lines, and fits beautifully. You can get into it in nothing flat, and it doesn't take long to make either, thanks to the complete and detailed sew chart that comes with your pattern. Make it up in a pretty, small-figured printed percale, and trim it with rows of old-fashioned rick-rack.

A Frilly Home Cotton.

This is perfectly charming, made up in dotted Swiss, voile or dimity, in some flower-like color like delicate blue or pink or sunshiny, clear yellow, with sheer white collar and cuffs. It's ideal for slim figures. Nice to wear around the house now, and perfect to wear anywhere, later on, during summer afternoons.

The Patterns.

1442 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20, 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material.

1389 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35 or 39-inch material, 3 1/4 yards of braid.

1453 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 5/8 yard contrasting, 2 3/4 yards edging.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

NERVOUS?

Do you feel so nervous you want to scream? Are you cross and irritable? Do you scold those dearest to you? If your nerves are on edge, try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. It often helps Nature calm quivering nerves. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure. Make a note NOW to get a bottle of world-famous Pinkham's Compound today WITHOUT FAIL from your druggist—more than a million women have written in letters reporting benefit. Why not try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

Don't experiment with Children's Colds

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub. It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no dosing—no risk of spoiling appetite, or disturbing a delicate digestion. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child. You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated).

Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

No Long Waiting for Relief to begin...

Almost before you finish rubbing, the youngster begins to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after the little one relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads advertisements, too!

TIPS to Gardeners

Grow Better Flowers
 GROW better flowers by planting them in the kind of soil in which they can perform best. Though your soil may be good and rich, certain flowers will not do as well in it as in poorer ground. In rich soil plant zinnia, petunia, portulaca, snapdragon, stock, heliotrope, marigold and salvia.
 Nasturtium, love-lies-bleeding, Joseph's coat, celosia, alysium, California poppy, calendula, love-in-a-mist and hollyhock are suggested by the Ferry Seed Institute for growth in poor soil.
 Heavy soil containing clay is good for sweet peas, pansies, stocks, carnations, scabiosa, snapdragons and most of the popular perennials.
 The following prefer a soil of light texture:
 Petunia, Portulaca, celosia, hollyhock, love-in-a-mist, annual phlox, calliopsis, nicotiana and all the climbers.
 In garden plots that are partially shaded grow calendula, balsam, mignonette, pansy and vinca.

2 WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.
 If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today — is 3¢ to 5¢ — relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on — with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief — then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL

By Carter Field
 FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Small movie exhibitors are hoping for action now that the bill of Sen. Matthew M. Neely of West Virginia to stop block booking and blind selling has been favorably reported by a senate committee. Although the house hasn't done anything on it yet, definite action seems probable unless it gets lost in the shuffle. The independent exhibitors have been telling congress that they are under constant criticism, are losing money and losing their show houses.

Testifying before a senate committee in favor of the Neely bill, the little theater men lay all their troubles on "the big eight." They mean the eight big motion picture producers. The big eight owns about all the big chain theaters. Each year the producers make a few good pictures and a lot of pictures which are not so good. They reserve the good films for their "affiliated" theaters and force the rest on the little independent men, according to the latter's complaint.

This is how they do it, the little exhibitors say. The producers draw up a year's contract in which the little exhibitor agrees to take a certain group or "block" of pictures. In the block are listed two or three first-class films, to be made by good directors and competent players. The rest are merely labeled class A, B, C. The contracting exhibitor never sees them. In order to get any good films at all he must take a lot of stuff he doesn't want. Even a variety of news and other shorts, loaded with free advertising for women's wear and summer and winter resorts, goes with the lot. This method of doing business is called "compulsory block booking and blind selling."

For several years the independent exhibitors have been fighting the "BB and BS." They've had several bills before congress, and have lodged numerous complaints with the Department of Justice. But something always prevents action.

Subverts Morals

The neighborhood exhibitors contend that a huge motion picture monopoly subverts the morals of the nation by making racket pictures and sex pictures, when they could just as well make quality film. High-class pictures, they contend, have proved entertaining to the intelligentsia and the rank and file alike.

The "big eight" has two answers to the charges. More or less privately its claim is that the profit it makes from the not so good pictures is necessary to support the high-grade pictures. There would be none of the good if it weren't for the bad, in other words. And publicly, every time the little men go to Washington and start making things hot, the big men announce a new set of reforms, and suggest some more conferences.

Meanwhile in North Dakota the independent exhibitors' group got a law passed prohibiting the showing of pictures by theaters which belong to the producer that made the pictures. Paramount, which is strong in that region, is suing the governor and the attorney general, but the little fellows are swarming like hornets to help the state win.

Last Naval Resort

Suicide squadrons of high-speed torpedo boats, to be steered by human pilots head-on against enemy ships, are boasted by Germany and Italy. England probably has them too. Buried in Admiral Leahy's testimony before the United States congress in favor of a mightier navy is mention of a $15,000,000 item for experimentation with small destroyers. The admiral declined to discuss the matter. Naval observers would like to know if this country too will call for a volunteer death squadron.

In time of peace, definitely no. It would be against the glory and tradition of the United States navy. The suicide boats, say navy men, are the unshamed last resort of an inferior sea power. The mere admission of the existence of such devices is the admission of the fear of defeat. Sending men to certain death, for any cause whatever, is a barbarity wholly repugnant to the navy.

And navy men maintain that the torpedo boats are impractical. The United States fleet will fight its battles far out at sea, perhaps 2,000 miles. The sleds could not be used in usually choppy open water. In Europe, where sea fighting will be at close quarters, it's a different story.

But in the heat of war involving us, no one can say what might be done. If an enemy fleet should succeed in reaching our shores, it would be imperative to attack it with the most destructive weapons obtainable. A few dozen or a few score men sacrificed in torpedoes, made more deadly with human minds and eyes, would seem to be a low price to pay for victory in the face of national disaster.

Human Sacrifice

Would men volunteer for a work of such hopeless finality? Opinion is they would particularly if stirred by dire emergency, and if assured with positive proof that their own destruction would mean certain destruction to the enemy. Whether torpedoes can sink battleships without fail is not known. Explosives and armor have both been improved since the World war. Torpedoes discharged from submarines were pretty sure fire when they made a fair hit. Of course all manner of defenses will be developed against the boats and all could not succeed in their purpose.

The navy is much more likely to consider designing torpedo boats for the Philippine government than for itself in the near future. The Philippines might be attacked from close in. The Panama Canal zone also could make good use of torpedo defense. But canal commanders fear sabotage or aerial bombings much more than attack from the sea. Sabotage could be accomplished by blowing up a merchant ship from inside as it passed through the locks.

Voluntary death as pilot of flying bombs in the shape of airplanes also has been talked of. Torpedo airplanes would be superior to boats in that they could travel several thousand miles to reach the enemy. Some strategists say airplanes could not come close to battle fleets in the face of anti-aircraft gunfire. Anti-aircraft guns have been improved tremendously, with scientific sights. But sights are no good on a dark night or a murky day. The suicide planes, unseen, could find the warships all right. Unless the gunners got their range with the new sound detectors. It's a complicated problem. Only the next war can tell the answer.

Sees Senate Battle

The next major battle in the senate will be President Roosevelt's government reorganization proposal. And first to be affected by reorganization will be air transport. Whether the bill is passed or not, aviation is already being used by James Roosevelt as a guinea pig on which to make preliminary tests of his ideas. James is the President's specialist on reorganization.

Some weeks ago the President, embarrassed by the two-year-old wrangle of government agencies for authority over air transport, called Sen. Patrick A. McCarran of Nevada to the White House and asked him to write a bill creating an independent commission to control aviation and end the row.

McCarran and his aides had no sooner written the bill than they found that the matter had been turned over to James. The Post Office department and the Department of Commerce, which now control air transport, and which have a strangle hold on it, immediately set upon James and got many of their old foibles written into the bill. Not only that, but James proceeded to write into the bill unlimited authority for the President over the proposed air commission. He also would place the commission in the Department of Commerce building.

Chances are this aviation bill will get nowhere in congress. Probably the government reorganization plan will be only partly accepted. But meanwhile, the air transport people must go on through more months of their dilemma. Business men who complain about too much government regulation don't fully understand what air transport has to contend with.

Because nearly all the lines carry air mail, the Post Office department establishes their routes and draws up their schedules. It has power to cancel the contracts, as it did in 1934.

Fixes Air Mail Rates

The interstate commerce commission fixes rates for carrying air mail, and in doing so it examines every detail of every operator's business each year. It even analyzes his purchases, his wage rates, equipment repairs, to see if he spent more than necessary. Nothing the company does escapes scrutiny. And to top it all, the commission publishes its findings in detail for all the world to read, although it's mighty dry reading.

The bureau of air commerce controls airway beacons, intermediate landing fields and radio beams, and it makes the safety rules.

Then there is the federal communications commission, which tells the air lines what radio wavelengths to use. This is so complicated that the air transport companies maintain an organization in Washington called Aeronautical Radio, Inc., to keep track of the kilocycles.

Still another is the Department of Agriculture, which climbs aboard all United States overseas and foreign airplanes and looks in the passengers' luggage for Japanese beetles or what have they. Agriculture's weather bureau is the only agency that gives service without regulating strings attached.

Much as aviation's friends in congress would like to give it a new deal from the government, it is doubtful if they will go for it under the reorganization plan.

Lesson for March 6

SERVING WITH WHAT WE HAVE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:1-13.
 GOLDEN TEXT—Such as I have give I thee.—Acts 3:6.
 PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Went Home to Nazareth.
 JUNIOR TOPIC—On a Journey for Jesus.
 INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.
 YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.

One of the difficulties we mortals face in dealing with spiritual things is that we interpret things in the realm of the spirit according to the principles and measurements of the physical world. We are quick to say "We cannot" on the basis of logical human reasoning, when an appreciation of the power of God operative on our behalf would enable us to say "We can," and having left God out of our thinking we find that indeed we cannot.

The lesson before us presents two pictures from our Lord's second visit to his home country, Nazareth. On His first visit they had tried to thrust Him over the precipice, and He in all the glory and poise of the Son of God had walked through their midst and gone His way. Now He comes again with His disciples. We then see how His home folk virtually made the power of the omnipotent God impotent because of their unbelief. On the other hand we see the weakness of men made mighty because of obedience to the command of God.

I. The Paralysis of Unbelief (vv. 1-6).

The world, the flesh, and the devil have brought forth a dark list of wicked things, but perhaps the most destructive and distressing of all is the foundation sin of unbelief. When we think back to the underlying reason for any sin or weakness in man it will be found that there is a failure to believe God. Men do not believe what He says about sin and its penalty, nor do they believe Him when He offers them grace and strength for victory.

At Nazareth the unbelief which limited the Son of God revealed itself in two questions—

1. "Whence hath this man these things?" (v. 2).

They could not deny His mighty works so they turn their attack on His person. "Is not this the carpenter?" (v. 3). Essentially this was envy, "the difficulty of acknowledging the superiority over themselves of one of their own number" . . . (Morgan).

We are ashamed of the attitude of the men of Nazareth, but we follow in their footsteps. Heavy among the burdens a Christian worker must bear is the unbelief and ridicule of his own people. Because a man has sold us groceries, or painted our house or driven a taxi in our town we cannot see how he could ever be a preacher or a missionary. Well, he can, and it is such folk that God often calls.

2. "What is this wisdom?" (v. 2).

The wisdom of Jesus was the wisdom of God (John 7:16). But how could they know that? How can we know? In John 7:17 Jesus gave the answer: "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." We see then that the reason for their unbelief was really an unwillingness to do the will of God. The controlling motive of their life was wrong. Had they been moved by a desire to do God's will, and a purpose to live in accordance therewith (even though there might have been failure in that earnest effort), they would have known that Jesus had His wisdom from God.

II. The Power of Divine Commission (vv. 7-13).

Just as unbelief hinders even the Son of God, so faith in God and obedience to His command makes of weak and poorly equipped men the mighty servants of God. In fact, their very dependence on Him for all things sets them free to devote themselves fully to the ministry of preaching and healing.

Note that they went "two by two." We have forgotten that divine plan, and often send men into remote and dangerous pioneer work —alone. Man needs fellowship; he needs counsel and control.

Consider also how they were to learn to trust God for their daily sustenance (vv. 8,9). They suffered no lack (see Luke 22:35). These rules for the life of religious workers were modified later (Luke 22:36), but the principle remains the same—the man or woman who is not ready to depend on God for everything had better not set out to follow Him. It is a blessed and delightful life!

Resisting Interference

It is sometimes pretty hard to do something you feel is right against the interference of all the world and her little brother. Sometimes it's a good thing to say "right or wrong, that's my story, and I'm going to stick to it," no matter how many well-meaning friends may advise otherwise.—Ouisse Vapel.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A Colorful Luncheon Set

WE HAVE been hearing a good deal about American handcrafts lately. Of course, quilts have always been important among our needlework handcrafts. So many readers have written asking me for more of the old fashioned embroidery stitches that were used in making crazy patchwork that I have collected dozens and dozens of these quaint stitches from old quilts. Some of them are so attractive and colorful that it seemed a pity not to use them for modern decorative purposes.

This gay little double house effect built upon blanket stitches with chain stitches flaunting from all gables was the invention of someone's great-grandmother and I couldn't resist using it for a luncheon set of light blue linen. It originally adorned a light blue satin patch in a quilt and all the other colors indicated here in the sketch are the original colors.

All the strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery thread were used for the luncheon set. The mats were hemmed first and then the blanket stitches were taken through the hems to make a firm edge as shown at the lower right. All the other stitches used are clearly illustrated. Just the edge stitches without the little houses were used for the napkins. Many more authentic old patchwork stitches are illustrated in a new leaflet which is free upon request with the booklet of referred herewith.

Have you a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book SEWING? It contains forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slip-covers and dressing tables; curtains for every type of room; lampshades, rugs and other useful articles for the home. Copy will be sent postpaid, upon receipt of 25 cents (coins preferred). Address Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Washing Parsley.—Parsley washed with hot water keeps its flavor better and is easier to chop.

Sweet Omelet.—A tablespoon of sugar added to the regular omelet batter will produce a sweet omelet that is especially popular with youngsters.

Fluffy Meringue.—If you like fluffy meringue for your pies, add a teaspoon of baking powder to the well-beaten whites of two eggs before adding the sugar.

Tape Measure Tip.—Glue a length of tape measure across the front edge of your sewing machine. It'll save that searching for a tape when you want to measure the depth of hems, tucks, etc.

Glowing Lamps.—Here's a tip for country readers who use gas or lamps. Never wash the glass globes as it makes them crack. Sprinkle methylated spirit on a clean soft rag, rub it on the globes, leave for a few minutes, and then polish. They'll be like new.

The Life-Giving Sun

Of all ancient religious rites in which visible objects were venerated the worship of the sun was the most logical, as has been demonstrated by modern science. All life on earth depends upon the beneficent rays of the sun, without which both animals and plants would sicken and die.

In recent years the particular light waves which have a reviving and healing effect upon living organisms have been identified and means have been employed for their practical use. These are called ultra-violet rays and are invisible.

An important discovery was made a few years ago when it was found that ordinary window glass stops the health-giving rays. Then science developed a glass made of fused quartz, thru which these light waves pass freely. Now a type of artificial light which produces the rays has been perfected, whereby the same effects may be obtained whether the sun shines or not.

Ultra-violet rays, either natural or artificial, are used for the prevention and cure of rickets in children and also serve to make adults to a great extent immune from colds and pneumonia, as well as to correct weaknesses which make them susceptible to other diseases.

Thus the life-giving properties of the sun have been made to serve mankind in ways undreamed of by the early sun-worshippers.

Japanese Poor Shots

Although it does not seem likely that the United States will be forced into a war with Japan in the near future, the relative effectiveness of the war machines of the two nations is a subject which may cause much discussion.

One of the ablest American war correspondents recently called attention to a serious Japanese defect generally known to military observers, and that is poor marksmanship. This applies to their army, navy and air force alike. While the Mikado's armies have inflicted terrible losses on the Chinese, it is pointed out that this is no indication of how they would fare in combat with a first class power.

Some military experts estimate that one division of American or British troops, for example, would be equal to three divisions of Japanese. This estimate is no reflection upon the courage of the Orientals, but is based on their inability to shoot straight. It is said that only about one in 100 of the shells and air bombs directed against North Station at Shanghai scored a hit, although the six-story structure was more than 200 feet long and nearly 100 feet wide.

As the flower of the Japanese army is being used against China recruits which would have to be sent to the front later on would be even less effective than the present force.

Machine Cures Colds

What is described as a quick and effective treatment for common colds and sinus infections is provided by a short wave machine recently perfected, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Boston.

The machine creates an electro-magnetic field in which the patient is placed, but he does not come into actual contact with any current, so there is no unpleasant sensation. The rays created are concentrated on infected areas, and the peculiar heat thus generated destroys the infection.

Treatment was given to 600 patients at the dispensary of the Medical Center in Boston before physicians made a report of the results, and it is said that abscesses, carbuncles and certain types of joint diseases, as well as colds and sinusitis, responded to the action of the rays.

Machines of somewhat similar type have been used before, but their effectiveness was limited until the method of concentrating and focusing the rays was perfected by Dr. E. Schliephake of Germany. At present only four of the latest machines are in use in the United States, three of which are owned by private physicians.

The high standing of the scientists and physicians associated with the development and use of the machine indicates that a most valuable new apparatus for the treatment of disease has been given to the world.

Illinois Towns That Moved

Several instances of Illinois towns that moved from one site to another have been found by members of the Federal Writers' Project, W. P. A., in compiling a guide book for the state. Commercial advantages usually led to the changes, most of which occurred during the years of rapid industrial development. Unique, however, is the case of Shawneetown which is giving up its once strategic location because of the hazard of floods.

Founded early in the 18th century, Shawneetown was the rough-hewn portal to the Middle Border, financial center and land office for a vast territory, rendezvous of settlers, soldiers, explorers and rivermen. Its early economic advantage lay almost wholly in its strategic site on the banks of the Ohio, an advantage that more than offset the ravages of annual floods. After the unusually severe flood of 1884, a comprehensive levee system was constructed. Shawneetown, however, had not envisioned a flood of the magnitude of that of January, 1937, which filled the cup-like townsite, and rose six feet above the protecting walls. Inhabitants were evacuated by a river packet and several motorboats shortly before the flood began to pour into the streets.

The receding flood marked the end of the city's struggle to remain on the water front. With the aid of the State, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and the W. P. A., plans were made to move Shawneetown to the Hills about four miles west of the river. The removal, it is estimated, will take two years.

Years ago, about a mile east of the proposed route of the Chicago, Paducah and Memphis railroad, now the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, was a town called Lake Creek. Its citizens desired the railroad to pass through their community, but were persuaded that moving the town was easier than diverting the course of the railroad. For several months the dwellings and stores of the town were on rollers, moving from the old site to the new and doing business as usual. The community was renamed Johnston City, after the Johnston brothers, who built the railroad through the region.

The original site of Utica, also known as North Utica, where once stood the Indian village at which Marquette established the first Indian mission in Illinois, was on the north bank of the Illinois River about a mile south of the present village. The community, which depended on the river trade for its prosperity, hoped to secure the western terminus of the proposed Illinois-

Michigan canal. After the terminus was finally located at Peru and the canal built north of Utica, the village declined. In 1852 North Utica was established on the canal, and the old village abandoned.

Sidelights

A wedding trip to the Gettysburg Blue and Gray reunion next July is planned by Washington A. Boyet, 92, a Civil War veteran of Red Lodge, Mont. He recently married Dolly E. Trotter, who is 71.

While robbing a drug store in New Haven, Alex Mergitch wrestled with a cash register, which fell on him, knocking him out. He was still unconscious when the store owner arrived and turned him over to the police.

Vibrations of the car on a bumpy highway dislodged a metal pencil clip that had lodged in the throat of 12-year-old Elaine Bradberry of Dresden, Tenn. Physicians had been unable to remove the clip, and feared she would die of suffocation.

Seven-year-old Hershel McClure of Marshall, Tex., was missing and his mother asked the fire chief to toot the fire isren, saying the boy would show up when he heard it. The chief obliged, and Hershel rushed to the scene immediately.

Miss Virginia Pound, assistant cashier, was the only person in the Citizens Bank of Tallapoosa, Ga., when two bandits entered and made her turn over about $2,500 in cash. "They were very polite," she said, adding that one robber patted her on the back and told her not to be afraid.

Doubtful Value

Portions of the Illinois River have yielded 150 pounds of edible fish yearly per acre of water.

At nearly all camps you'll find friendly mosquitos who just drop in for a bite.

Mississippians still occasionally practice the old custom of ducking successful candidates for local offices in a horse trough in the public square.

"Flying Dutchman"

A YEAR or so ago a picture came out of Germany which the world accepted as genuine. It showed a man flying through the air just above and a little ahead of four others who were running after him. It might have been mistaken for a skier in action except for the fact that he was holding two bell-like objects and apparently blowing into them through a tube. The description on this photograph read: "For the first time in history a man has succeeded in flying under his own power. This picture shows Erich Kocher of Berlin performing that feat, followed by his excited friends. He blew into the bell-like arrangement, causing to revolve two rotors which also served as wings. On his feet was a ski landing gear, and attached to his hips was a 'tail skid.'"

So cleverly had the photograph been "doctored" that it passed for an authentic representation of an epoch-marking incident in aviation and was accepted as such—yes, even by American newspapers which printed the picture with the headline, "Man's First Flight Under His Own Power." It was not until some time later that the hoax was revealed. Considering the news that has been coming out of Germany about Hitler's treatment of some of its citizens, one wonders if the "flying Dutchman's" name has some significance. "Kocher" could easily be mistaken for "kosher," you know!

Secretary of State

Q. How was Lincoln's vote for the presidency divided in 1860?

A. He received no votes in 10 Southern States, light votes in the other five, and he carried every free State except New Jersey, whose electoral vote was divided between himself and Douglas.

Q. Who was elected Governor of Illinois in 1860?

A. Richard Yates.

Q. Where and when was Richard Yates born?

A. Warsaw, Gallatin County, Ky., Jan. 18, 1815.

Q. When was Fort Sumpter fired upon?

A. April 12, 1861.

Q. When did Lincoln issue his proclamation calling for 75,000 men?

A. April 15, 1861.

Q. What did the proclamation state?

A. It called for volunteers to subdue "combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, and to cause the laws to be duly executed."

Q. What was Gov. Yates' action following the issuance of the proclamation?

A. He convened a special session of the legislature for the purpose of enacting laws for a more perfect equipment of the militia, and of devising means to render efficient assistance to the Federal Government.

Q. What did the initial quota for Illinois require?

A. Six regiments of militia.

Q. What statement did Douglas make before a joint session of the Illinois legislature shortly after the outbreak of the Civil War?

A. "It is a duty we owe to ourselves, and our children, and our God, to protect this government and that flag from every assailant, be he who he may."

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

MEN because they are men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth.

And make up your mind men never will understand. There are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood into womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and go "smiling through." Over a million women have written in reporting benefit. Why not give this world-famous medicine a chance to help YOU?

- Who gave the name "Empire" to the state of New York?
- What is a Rhodes scholar?
- The portraits of what two women have been used on United States postage?
- On what date does the government fiscal year begin?
- What do the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse represent?
- What secretary takes precedence in the President's cabinet?
- What is a translucent substance? A transparent substance? An opaque substance?
- When has this country issued mourning stamps?

- Answers
- It is attributed to George Washington, who mentioned it in an address delivered in 1784 as being "at present the seat of empire."
  - A non-English student awarded a scholarship at Oxford university from a fund which was established by the will of Cecil Rhodes.
  - Those of Martha Washington and Pocahontas.
  - The government fiscal year begins July 1.
  - War, famine, pestilence, and death.
  - The secretary of state.
  - A translucent substance permits the passage of light rays through it, but objects cannot be distinctly seen through it. Objects can be seen distinctly through a transparent object. An opaque object does not reflect or give out rays of light.
  - A Lincoln stamp in 1866, McKinley stamp in 1922, Harding stamp in 1923 and Wilson stamp in 1925. Garfield received postal honors within a year after his death, but the color of the stamp was brown.

Frank Merriwell at Fardale

By GILBERT PATTEN The Original BURT L. STANDISH

CHAPTER VII—Continued

Dick Springall, captain of the team, was talking to the coach when Frank entered the little office. Kane introduced them. Springall shook hands and looked the freshman over.

Kane didn't beat about the bush. "You've played football, haven't you, Merriwell?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, some."

"Where?"

"With Bloomfield high."

"What position?"

"Backfield."

"Why haven't you come out for Fardale?"

"There's a reason why I can't, Mr. Kane."

"What reason?"

Frank could feel the heat getting into his cheeks. "I can't answer that question, sir."

like a poor excuse when you're forced to give it."

And that had left the Irish boy fog-bound.

Hodge had fumbled badly in thinking Merry couldn't fight just because he wasn't the scrappy kind with a swollen sense of his own importance and great eagerness to make others concede it. When the time came to do so Frank had shown his speed, and the shock to his enemy had been greater because of the delay. Good military tactics for a long campaign.

Another thing he had shown by quickly stepping in between Barney and Bascomb when the latter had turned pugnaciously to pick up the Irish boy's slam about thimblerriggers. He had shown that he would fight for a friend quicker than for himself. Even Bascomb had caught a glimmer of that truth.

Now, only for one thing, Mulloy would have been sure of Merriwell's disappointed enemies were out to smirch him with a lie forged by malice from nothing at all. But Barney had seen Frank lose color over the campus gossip which he had brought to his ears, and that wasn't his way of reacting to pure bunk. He would have laughed at it.

Still the faith of the Irish boy wasn't shaken. He told himself it wound through a grove beyond the hill. Jaws hard, hands sunk into his pockets, he swung along with his gaze on the brown road in front of him.

He scarcely noticed the barking of a dog until he heard a shrill familiar boyish voice calling to him. Then he saw them running toward him, Tad Jones and another dog.

"By golly, Frank! By golly," cried Tad as he came up, "I never expected to bump into you over here." He was all steamed up, excited and laughing. "Looker my new dog, Frank. Ain't he somethin' slick? Just look at him, Frank."

Merriwell knelt down right there and fondled the lively black Scottie that responded as if he had found a long-lost brother.

"Oh, gosh, he'll git you all over dirt, Frank," worried Tad.

"He's a grand dog. Just the right dog for you, Tad."

"That's the kind Miss Inza said he was, and she's always right, she is—'cept when she lets that sneak Hodge come sappin' round her," said Tad. "What she sees in him has got me stumped."

Frank got up, brushing off the dust left by the dog's paws. "Were you surprised when you got this dog, Tad?"

"My stars, yes! That's why I call him S'prise for his name. You see, Miss Inza never tole me a thing about it till she fetched him. 'Nd he was awful hungry 'nd she had me feed him first. 'Nd she talked to him 'nd tole him he b'longed to me, 'nd by golly he knew just what she said, for he just showed it that he was my dog from that minute. Don't you think she's swell, Frank?"

"Oh, sure," said Merry.

From behind him came the sound of galloping horses. Turning, he saw two riders come round a curve of the road, side by side. They were very near and he recognized them instantly. Bart Hodge and Inza Burrage!

Both wore riding togs, and, like Bart, Inza was mounted astride. She rode beautifully and looked—well, simply great. Her cheeks were flushed and she was laughing. A picture that would not be so easily kept out of Frank Merriwell's dreams.

It was a race, and they did not see Frank and Tad until they were sweeping by. Then Inza cried: "Hello, Tad! Oh, hello, Frank!" And on they went, with puffs of dust shooting up from the heels of their horses.

"By golly!" said Tad Jones, starting at Bart's back. "I never go out in the woods without a gun that I don't see somethin' I'd like to shoot."

That brought a wry smile to Frank's face. "Come on, old pal," he said, "let's walk it off, you and I and S'prise together."

The dog barked and cut circles around their feet, eager to go. This was his happy day.

A raw wind from off the ocean brought in the dun drift of clouds late in the afternoon. Over Frank's head the night mail roared northward under a low and heavy ceiling before he got back to the school.

And there he found a cloud of gloom also, with much low moaning and muffled sounds of pain; for the telephone had brought the incredible news that Mayfield had licked Fardale, 14 to 12.

The school was stunned.

Never since the dark ages before Fardale had employed a professional coach had little Mayfield High been able to get within shooting distance of the Musketeers in a football game. Never until this black Saturday, on the morning of which the odds that Fardale would win again had been the sky against what have you.

The first telephoned reports of the coach's heavy eyebrows rose slightly. "That's odd. You must know how it sounds, Merriwell."

"I do." Merry's embarrassment was growing. "But I can't help it, sir."

"Hu! Were you any good?"

"Well, now, Mr. Kane, you wouldn't expect me to brag about myself, would you?"

"I've seen you running in the gym and I've been told you can drop-kick a football pretty neatly. You're built right. You keep yourself in shape. We lost half our best men last year. We've got a big squad now, but it isn't so hot. You don't look like a slacker."

"I hope I'm not, sir."

"Well, whatever your reasons are for not joining the squad, there must be some way to get around them. I'd like to see you out on the field tomorrow afternoon."

Now Frank looked positively ill. "But I can't come," he replied as if denying himself something he would like to do more than anything else in the world. "If I could, I would. I hope you believe me, sir."

Kane was silent a few moments, gazing searchingly at the freshman, who appeared uneasy and distressed. "All right," he said presently. "We'll drop it for the time being, but I'm not at all satisfied."

Merriwell went away from there feeling low. Something in Springall's face had cut him deeper than the doubt and puzzlement of the coach. The captain of the team had classed him, and it wasn't anything to advertise in the newspapers.

"If—and When—He Makes Another Pass at Me, He'll Get the Works."

would all come out in the wash, but he wondered when washday would come round.

Football talk was in the air at Fardale, for the date of the first game lay close in the offing.

Coach Kane was said to be in a low state of mind about the team, but then "Old Kaney" had a habit of being pessimistic before he got the machine oiled up and running well. And, of course, the opening clash with Mayfield wasn't anything to lose sleep over, anyhow. That was in the bag, they said. It would be just good warming-up practice for State Second the following Saturday. That was when the home "Musketeers" would have to step into it to keep from being snowed under.

Frank didn't talk football, even with his classmates, and he avoided listening to it when he could. He appeared to have his mind fixed on other things, but Barney had a hunch that that was mere outward seeming. He certainly wasn't up to scratch as his own cheerful self. There were moments, in fact, when something like an unhappy shadow haunted his face.

He wasn't in the great crowd of cheering fellows that gave the team a send-off Saturday, when it left for Mayfield in the big school truck and several private autos. Nor was he conspicuous by his absence; for those fellows, even if any of them gave him a passing thought, had no reason to imagine he would ever do anything they would want to write home about.

Sitting alone in his room, he heard the sounds of the distant cheering, and the text book on which he had been trying to fix his attention was struck by the ague. He dropped the shivering thing and got up to walk the floor like an animal caged from its rightful freedom.

Mulloy came, a while after the cheering had stopped, and found him still walking up and down.

"Well," said Barney, "I hope it won't break your heart to hear that our dear roommate didn't make the trip with the team today. He was left in the lurch."

Frank felt like replying that somebody else had been left in the lurch, but he didn't. It was late in the afternoon when he made an excuse to get away alone.

The autumn woods were putting on a faint gay touch here and there, but there was no faint touch of the light and gay in Merriwell's heart as he followed an old dirt road that

Favorite Recipe of the Week

THE soup described below is delicious. It has a delectable flavor and the rich color of the pimientos gives just the desired red touch to the finished product.

PIMIENTO BISQUE

- 1 can cream of celery soup
- 1 cup milk
- 3 pimientos
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 slices of onion
- 1/2 tsp. paprika

If canned condensed soup is used, prepare according to directions on the label and then add 1 cup of milk. If canned ready-to-serve cream of celery soup is used, pour the contents into a pan and add the cup of milk. Rub the pimientos through a sieve and add to the soup. Add salt, onion and paprika and heat until the soup is hot. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Remove the onion before serving. Serves 6.

The food with red color in the main course might be a ring mold made with canned beets.

The red color for the dessert might be supplied by a raspberry gelatin made with a can of red raspberries.

MARJORIE H. BLACK.

What Is Proper Use of Furniture Polish?

In a recent investigation, it was proven that many, many homemakers use furniture polish incorrectly—pouring it on a dry cloth, for application to the furniture! This is a gross waste of the housewife's time, energy and her polish! And the latter is usually blamed. We refer, of course, to oil polish—for this type is best to clean, beautify and preserve the furniture. The best oil polish is not greasy, because it's made with a fine, light-oil base. The polish should be applied on a damp cloth—thoroughly moistened with water, then wrung out. Saturate this cloth with the polish—spread on—and rub lightly. The "wet" of the cloth smoothly distributes the polish—and the finish absorbs, receives it evenly! This correct procedure takes the "labor" out of polishing—and requires far less tiresome rubbing! A dry cloth is then used to easily work up the glow, which is even and uniform—the desired effect! This—and only this—is the proper way to use a good oil polish!

MORE WOMEN USE O-CEDAR POLISH THAN ANY OTHER KIND!

... because O-Cedar not only cleans as it polishes, but preserves your furniture—"feeds" the finish, prevents drying-out, cracking. Insist upon O-Cedar Polish, for furniture, woodwork and floors (with the famous O-Cedar Mop).

A little girl who was in the habit of saying "ain't" for "isn't" was reproved by her mother.

A short time afterward, on hearing her cousin use the same word, she ran to her mother and exclaimed: "Mother, Doris says 'It ain't,' but it isn't 'ain't.' It's 'isn't,' ain't it?"

By Hugh M. Rigney

Extension of Lemke Act—A two-year extension of the Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage Act, which expires March 3, has been passed by both Houses of Congress. This law permits a farmer to enter a type of bankruptcy which forbids mortgage foreclosures for three years, during which time the farmer pays his creditors a stipulated rental determined by the Court and conciliators.

Lost and Found Department—Mrs. Madge Blessing, who has charge of the International Lost and Found Department under the Secretary of State's office, finds her duties greatly increased because of the Spanish and Chinese wars. She handles an average of 60 requests daily. Her duties are to find missing Americans abroad, put destitute persons abroad in touch with their relatives in the United States, and aid sick Americans in foreign nations. It is an interesting, humane, and a very strenuous job.

Barber—I had my hair cut by a barber in the House Office recently who told me of working on special trains out of Washington. He had cut the hair of many notables including former President Hoover and President Roosevelt. He said that Hoover was much nicer than most people thought and that Roosevelt joked with him during the hair cuts.

Coal—Every morning I notice a large coal truck cruising the neighborhood selling coal neatly tied in bushel sacks. Included also on the coal truck are small bundles of kindling wood. The truck driver calls out his wares in the same manner as an ice man peddles ice.

License Plates—License plates of all states of the Union can be seen in the parking space between the two House Office buildings. Perhaps no other spot in the country could boast of such a collection of different colored plates as are found on the cars of Congressmen who have motored from their respective states.

May Limit Size of Trucks—A decision by the U. S. Supreme Court to the effect that states may regulate the weight and width of trucks, even when engaged in interstate commerce, may prove far-reaching. The case came from South Carolina, where truck weight limit had been placed at 20,000 pounds and width at 90 inches. It was pointed out that the big trucks crowd the highways, obscure the view and add to hazards of travel.

Patent Office Pays—One item in an appropriation bill deals with the patent office, the receipts from which were $4,565,501 for 1937, the highest in history. For the past four years the surplus from this office has averaged $153,000.

Washington's Birthday—The birth date of George Washington assumes greater significance in the Capitol vicinity. There is little history in connection with the colonial and revolutionary periods in the bordering states of Virginia and Maryland in which George Washington's hand did not figure. His march with Braddock in the French and Indian War is clearly marked along the Highway. His beautiful home and burial vault at Mount Vernon are the objects of many patriotic pilgrimages on February 22.

Lost—Senator George W. Morris, Nebraska, who has served in Congress for 35 years, was recently lost in the subterranean passageways of the Capitol building.

WHEN Eugene Field joined the staff of the Chicago Daily News in August, 1883, and began writing his column "Sharps and Flats," he learned that it was the custom of the News to give each employee a turkey as a Christmas present. Thereupon he wrote a note to Melville E. Stone, the publisher, saying he didn't like turkey but he could use a new suit of clothes.

The day before Christmas, when the other News workers were getting turkeys Field was handed a bundle. When he opened it, he discovered that it contained a convict's suit, resplendent in its black and white stripes. Field gravely thanked Stone for the present and the next day began wearing the suit.

In fact, he wore it every day, much to Stone's distress. For whenever the editor happened to have distinguished callers in his office, Field was sure to walk in, attired in his convict's suit, even to the cap, and pretend to be busy attending to the coal stove in the office. Naturally, it caused the visitor to wonder why a "convict" should be working around the News office and it required considerable explaining.

It wasn't long until Stone was heartily sick of the joke he had played on his columnist. He tried to get Field to give up the suit but the humorist insisted that nothing could make him part with "Mr. Stone's gift." Finally in desperation, the publisher arranged with one of the News employees to steal the suit from Field's rooms and that ended Stone's joke which had proved to be such a boomerang.
