OFFICIAL U. S. TREASURY WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR JULY

The above map of Illinois shows the War Bond quotas, by counties, for the month of July, 1942. Total War Bond quota for the state is $84,925,000. With the National quota total placed at a billion dollars, the nation goes into high gear in its support of the War financing and to give our fighting forces adequate implements of war which will bring ultimate Victory.

American Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen are on every front. They are giving 100 percent for their country. What are we doing here on the home front? Are we lending at least ten percent of income to help them? It's very little. But to fight this war successfully our country needs a billion dollars in War Bonds every month from us—the People. Let's Go, America.

Lightning Hits Home At Villa Grove Friday

Villa Grove, June 26—An air raid in the form of lightning, practically demolished the interior of the C. R. Sprinkle home here early Friday morning, but neither Mr. Sprinkle nor his wife were seriously injured.

They were awakened when lightning, apparently following a radio aerial into the building, split two cones in the roof and raced through one upstairs room, completely destroying its contents, then played havoc with other rooms in the home.

A fire resulted, but was extinguished before much damage resulted, but rain pouring in through gaps left by the split cones, resulted in considerable destruction throughout the house.

Mr. Sprinkle was under medical care for three nail wounds in his foot received when he stepped on a board torn loose from the wall which was lying with nails up. The lightning had ruined the lighting system and left the house in complete darkness.

Throughout the house, doors were knocked ajar, plaster was loosened from the walls and ceiling, and chairs and other furniture were upset.

"Now I know what the beleaguered people in the warring countries feel like," Mr. Sprinkle said after it was over.

American Big Game

Big game animals in the United States, once thought in danger of extinction, are now rapidly increasing in numbers, according to the Department of Interior, which recently completed a survey in which the most accurate count possible was made.

The inventory showed about six million big-game animals, indicating a gain of nearly a million since the nation-wide survey of 1937 was made. With the exception of buffaloes, no animals in captivity were counted.

Deer are the most numerous of the big-game animals, numbering more than five-sixths of the total. Others include 228,000 elk, 93,500 black bears, 18,300 moose, besides smaller numbers of wild sheep, mountain goats, grizzly bears and buffaloes.

Least numerous of big-game animals are the woodland caribou, only 16 of which were reported, 12 in Minnesota and 4 in the state of Washington. There were 845 European wild boars accounted for, 425 of them being in Tennessee.

At one time the buffalo, or bison, seemed in danger of extinction, but through the intervention of the government in recent years these animals have been protected and allowed to multiply, so that there are at present about 4,500.

Similar conservation measures have been taken with respect to other native big-game animals and wild life generally, with gratifying results.

New Wound Treatment

Amazing results from the treatment of wounded men with sulfa drugs at Pearl Harbor were reported to Surgeon General Magee of the Army by Dr. Perrin Long of Johns Hopkins, who visited hospitals in Hawaii a short time after the Japanese attack. Some notes on this report were published in the Science News Letter, from which the accompanying facts are taken.

When the attack occurred, the Army medical men were ready, due to the far-sighted and efficient preparations made under the direction of Colonel Edgar L. King, surgeon-in-charge, who made detailed plans for meeting possible disaster in the spring of 1941, when most people thought Hawaii safe, and his extensive precautions foolish.

He sensed the danger as relations with Japan became more tense, and on December 4, four days before the attack, he withdrew 58,000 surgical dressings from the warehouses, had blood plasma banks prepared and everything ready for any emergency. When the first bomb fell on December 8, the Medical Corps immediately went into action.

All Army ambulances promptly began evacuating the wounded, and from Honolulu came milk and laundry trucks which had been prepared beforehand for ambulance service.

When the wounded men arrived at the hospitals, their wounds were debrided, that is, every bit of dead or dying flesh that could furnish food for germs was cut away, and sulfanilamide was dusted into the wounds. Then each man was given sulfathiazole by mouth as a further aid in stopping infection.

When Dr. Long visited the hospitals some 10 days later he saw men who by all past standards should have died were recovering. There was absence of pus, and swift, clean healing of wounds. Sulfa drugs, plus good organization that gave the wounded prompt attention performed this wonder.

Infection, which in World War I killed 80 per cent of the men with abdominal wounds alone, hardly occurred in Hawaii. Compound fracture of bones and injury of the flesh, for instance, showed that less than 4 per cent of such injuries became infected. Not a single loss of arm or leg was necessary because of infection, and the only amputations reported were those made by shell splinters or other missiles.

When the first contingent of wounded men arrived in San Francisco, Colonel Emerson of the Army hospital there reported to the surgeon general emphasizing the high morale and cheerfulness of the wounded men concluding: "They are in the best condition of any war casualties I have ever observed."

The results achieved in treating the wounded victims of Pearl Harbor testify to the efficacy of the sulfa drugs, as well as to the skill and devotion of the Army Medical Corps.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

DEMAND FOR UNHAMPERED WAR EFFORT

A forty-eight-hour week in war industries, the cessation of strikes, and the forced adjustment of labor disputes when voluntary agreement fails, were called for in a recent address by Earl C. Adams, president of the Illinois Bankers' Association.

Production of the tools of war must not stop for a single minute, said Mr. Adams, and added:

"Why shouldn't you tell your Congressmen and your Senators that in this time of trial a normal work week should be placed at forty-eight hours, with overtime to start with the forty-ninth hour, recognizing the fact that the forty-hour week was originally adopted with the idea of spreading the work when employment was slack?"

Mr. Adams continued: "Why shouldn't you say that the status quo as to union shop, or closed shop or open shop, shall be maintained during this emergency so that disturbing and disruptive influences may not hinder the production we must have? Why shouldn't you say that the financial affairs of unions, both during and after this emergency, shall be subject to examination by constituted authority in the interest of the public welfare?"

Faith in the American system of private enterprise makes its adherents confident that industry is doing its full part, in a magnificent way, to achieve victory. However, Mr. Adams points out conditions that make the task unduly hard, and many will agree that such handicaps must be removed in order that success may come more quickly and at less cost.

High Standards

America's standard of living has reached a height unknown anywhere else, due to the unhampered operation of the American system of free private enterprise which encourages cooperation between labor, capital and management, and permits intelligent industrial planning.

The Great Essential

I have lived long enough to know what I did not at one time believe—that no society can be upheld in happiness and honor without the sentiment of religion.—Laplace.

Let Everybody Know You're Investing 10 Percent of Your Income in War Bonds

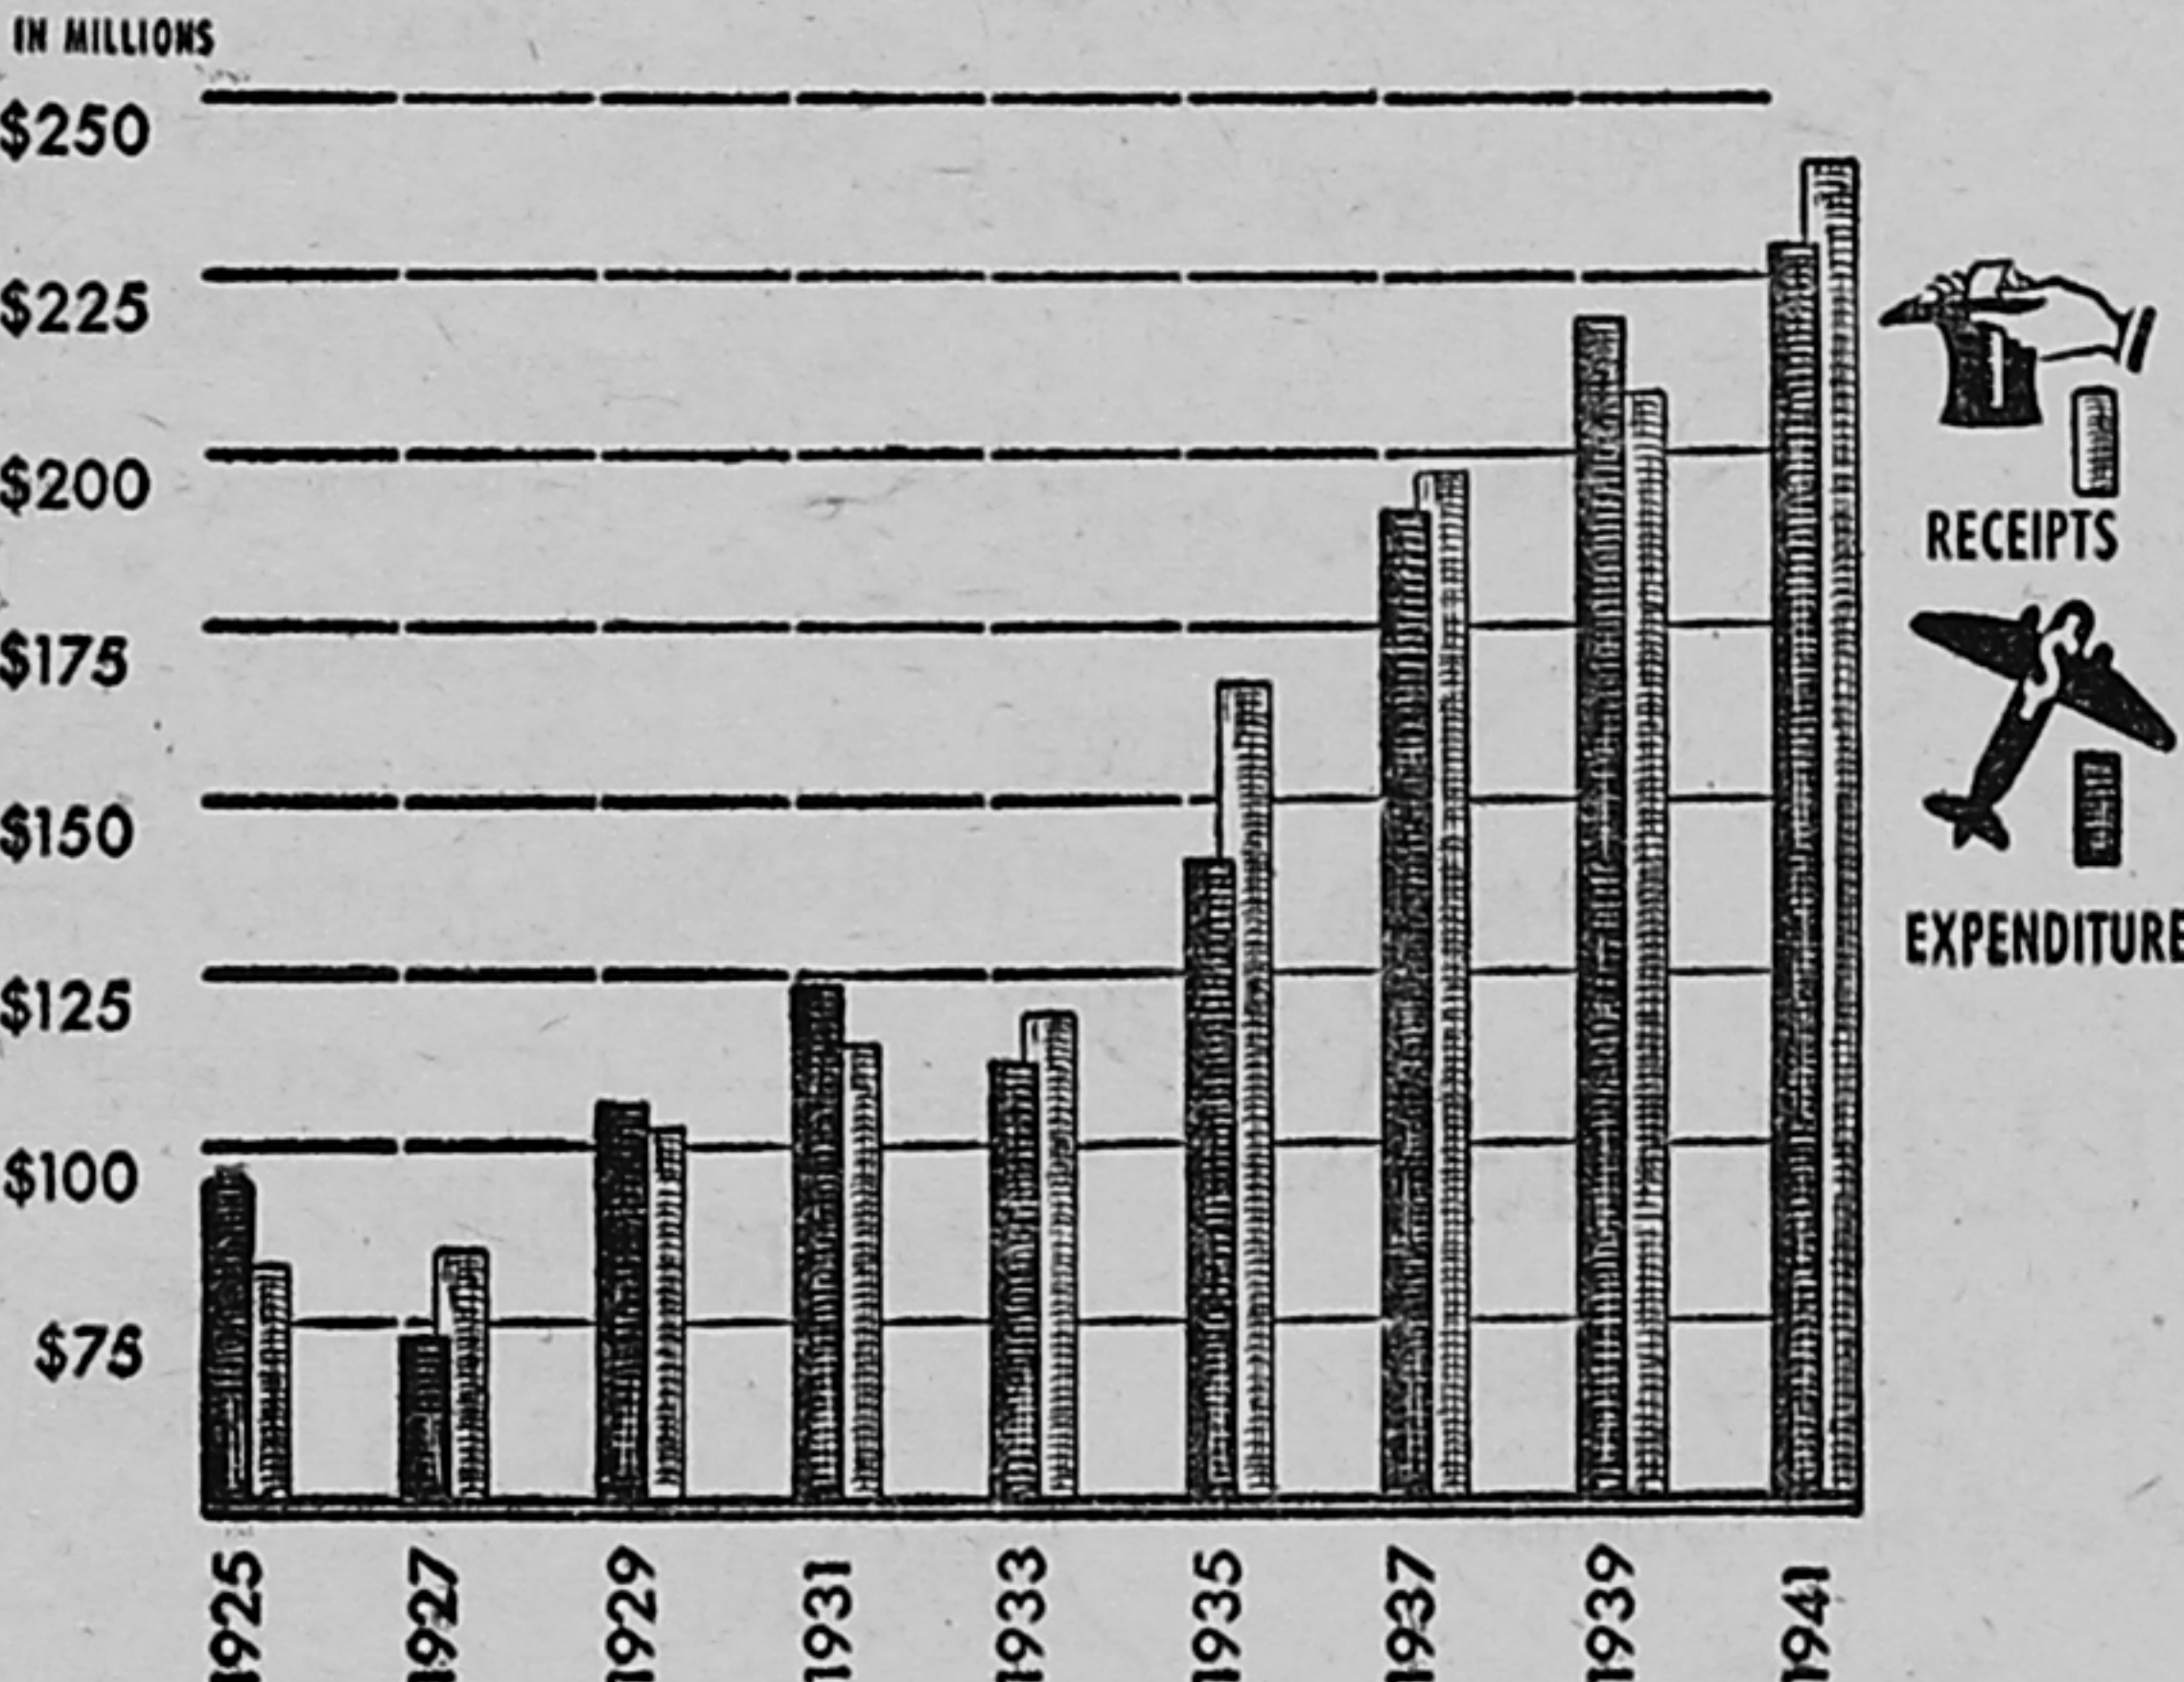

The attractive red, white and blue window sticker, pictured above, is the new yardstick of patriotism in the War Bond drive throughout the nation. With the slogan, "Everybody every pay day, ten percent," sweeping the country, patriotic Americans on the home front are rallying to their Government's appeal for funds with which to help finance the war. The home which displays the "ten percent" sticker is doing its share toward Victory for America and the United Nations. The stickers are being distributed through local War Savings Chairmen.

Closed Shop and Union Bosses

"A closed shop is a decided advantage to the union boss. It means no man can work unless he joins the union and pays his dues. The checkoff is another advantage. It requires the employer to deduct union dues from wages and pay them over to the union. The benefits to the workers themselves are not so apparent." —Farm Journal.

Illinois State Capitol News

The State Geological Survey is engaged in a special search for and inventory of Illinois natural resources required for war. Petroleum reserves, dolomite deposits, and sources of fluorspar and feldspar are being studied and mapped. Over four-fifths of the nation's supply of fluorspar comes from Hardin and Pope counties and from nearby Kentucky mines.
 A rising trend of cash payments to dependent children and aged persons in Illinois is shown by the June report of the state division of public assistance. Payments for the benefit of dependent children during the month totalling $730,418 were made to 50,813 children. This is an average of $14.37 per child. Old age assistance payments were sent to 150,409 persons in June. Total amount so paid was $3,973,346.
 Unusually good pastures and larger herds are making it possible for Illinois farmers to increase milk production this season over the high record set in 1941. Last year Illinois cows yielded almost five and one-half billion pounds of milk. A five per cent increase this year has been suggested as a war production goal. Present conditions indicate this will be attained. Milk is recognized as an ideal food of high nutritive value. It is rich in calcium, carries a good supply of vitamins A and G, and energy-supplying sugar and fat.

It also supplies phosphorus and proteins.

Three hundred men released on parole from the penal and corrective institutions of Illinois have already enlisted in the armed forces of the United States. Hundreds more such men are expected to be in the service by the end of the year.

Parole officials believe these men will make brave and loyal soldiers. All of them must pass rigid examinations before being accepted by Uncle Sam, and men who have been convicted of treason, murder, arson, sex crimes, pandering, drug peddling or addiction, or twice proven guilty of any offense punishable by death or more than a year in prison are automatically rejected.

Those accepted are finding in the war a chance to prove themselves, to serve their country and so regain honorable places in society.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Moore of Urbana, and Mrs. Mattie Moore of Chicago, spent Sunday with Mrs. Lucy Sullivan.
