Christianity begins with the acceptance of certain fundamental principles, like those of the Apostle's Creed.

It becomes a vital reality in the consummation of a personal relationship with God in and through Christ.

The essential fruit it bears is a changed life, a love that keeps God's commandments. Creed and conduct must go together.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for August

Washington, D. C., August 5.—While maintaining a tentative annual level of twelve billion dollars as its goal, the Treasury Department today fixed the August quota for the sale of War Bonds at $815,000,000 as shown by the accompanying map by states.

In lowering the quota from a billion dollars in July to $815,000,000 in August, the Treasury has given recognition to certain factors which may be expected to result in variations in sales over the 12-month period, such as the seasonal character of farm income.

These factors have been taken into account in determining each state's share for the national quota for August and will be given consideration in fixing quotas for subsequent months.

In addition to the state quotas as set out in the map there is a federal payroll allotment quota of $9,750,000 and territorial quotas as follows: Alaska, $7,750,000; Canal Zone, $213,000; Hawaii, $4,800,000; Puerto Rico, $440,000 and the Virgin Islands, $17,000.

War Machine To Use 90,000,000 Tons Steel

Reports from scrap dealers indicate that nearly 200,000 tons of farm and home scrap will be salvaged in Illinois in the six weeks' drive which ends September 1. The quota set by WPB was 100,000 tons.

Forty-five thousand tons were collected in the first two weeks, Robert Tiekens and George M. Eisenberg, co-chairmen of the salvage committee Illinois State Council of Defense, reported to Gov. Green today.

This is 45 per cent of WPB's quota, which Tiekens and Eisenberg raised to 125,000 tons because of the urgent need for scrap now. The flow is increasing daily, Tiekens said.

America's war machine will use nearly 90,000,000 tons of steel this year, which means that at least 45,000,000 tons of scrap must be salvaged.

The scrap rubber salvage picture is bad, Tiekens said. Since the end of the recent national drive, the flow has dwindled alarmingly. Our normal rubber supply has been lost to the Japs, he warned and salvage must replace it.

Travel By Air

A good many people seem to have gained the impression that the government has taken over the commercial airlines—and that you can't travel by air unless you are armed with a Federally issued priority certificate.

Fortunately, for the welfare of the country, there is no truth in that. The fact is that the airlines are still under private ownership and private operation. They have turned over a considerable number of their transports to the military services—but they are still operating 165 airplanes in scheduled service.

If you wish to travel by air you can still do so, precisely as you can send your letters and your express by air. It is obvious that not every plane can be filled to the limit with blueprints, war cargo or big-shot officials. The planes are run on strict schedules, and anyone is perfectly free to make a reservation. There may, of course, be instances when all the seats are taken. But that has happened in the past, and the situation is not greatly different now. While some lesser routes have been abandoned for the duration, the transports are still flying their principal routes and will continue to fly.

The fact that transport service is still available to civilians is a tribute to the airlines' efficiency. In a recent 7-day period, for example, it was anticipated that 70 planes would have to perform work for the army exclusively. In actuality, only 29 planes were so engaged—because those 29 planes were operated with so little delay and waste that they did the entire scheduled job.

Naturally, the war needs come first with the airlines, as with all other business. But the rumors that the airlines are now a government operation and can no longer serve civilians, are completely unfounded. America's fine system of private commercial air transport is not hamstrung and is serving the nation as never before.

Is Your Home Safe?

Is your home relatively safe from fire? Or is it alive with hazards?

Think twice before answering those questions. For most homes contain definite and critical fire dangers which their owners never think about. A survey made in Milwaukee testifies to that. A large number of home-owners were asked if their homes were safe and the great bulk of them said, yes. Then the homes were inspected by experts, and in the great majority, serious, obvious and easily-eliminated hazards were unearthed.

Basements, attics, and closets are prolific with fire hazards. Old clothing, furniture, piles of discarded newspapers and magazines and similar rubbish are responsible for fire damage running into millions of dollars each year. Go through every storage place, clean it out and call the junkman or your favorite charity.

Garages and workshops constitute still another great potential danger. A neat, clean garage is always safer than a dirty littered garage. Look around yours today.

Many a serious fire has been started from shorts caused by frayed lamp cords—or by electric equipment which has been damaged and improperly repaired by amateurs.

If all Americans would go through their homes from roof to cellar looking for fire hazards, we'd substantially reduce this country's disgraceful fire loss.

Doctors Under Strain

Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Board, recently pointed out that unreasonable demands on physicians' time must be avoided.

The necessity for this is apparent. Thousands of doctors have entered military service. By the end of this year, 20,000 additional physicians will be needed to serve our men in uniform. That need must be met, and it will be met. And one inevitable result will be a sharp decline in the number of doctors available to serve civilians.

This does not mean that anyone will have to go without necessary medical attention.

It does mean that all must help, so far as they can, to see that doctors are able to use their working time to the fullest advantage. To quote Mr. McNutt, on the doctors' part "it will mean long hours and hard work—sacrifices which will multiply the deep debt that every community owes to its physicians. There will be a real need to exercise every possible means for minimizing unnecessary medical services."

In other words, you are asked to forego for the duration the "luxury" of wasting your doctor's time and energies. That is a real and necessary contribution to the war effort, and to the protection of civilian health as well.

The Home Front

Labor day isn't far off. And this year it will mean more than ever it has meant in the past because all of us are working to win the war.

Labor day has a feminine significance this year. This doesn't mean that the good ladies of the auxiliary will make the sandwiches, either. It means that women are playing an ever greater role in the production upon which we depend for victory.

These are the facts: There are now nearly 13 million employed women in the U. S.; 600,000 more than last January. Working in war industry are 1,750,000 women. Total civilian employment by the end of 1943 is expected to reach 53 million persons, of which 18 million will be women.

Between four and five million women must be added to the roster of workers by the end of next year. This is going to bring a real change to almost every community on the Illinois Home Front. One out of every three or four housewives between the ages of 18 and 44 years will have to accept employment if we are to reach peak production.

The hot dog is out, as far as soldiers at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., are concerned. The traditional American delicacy is being blamed, partially, for the heat prostrations being suffered by the soldiers. The explanation is that the soldiers are getting the habit of eating between meals, specializing on hot dogs, and when meal-time arrives they have no appetite and therefore continue undernourished and easily affected by the heat. A ruling prohibiting eating between meals has been posted at the barracks.

Sidelights

The old fashioned "box supper" is giving way to the new "sock supper" out in Oklahoma. Now, the girls get a new pair of men's socks, put the lunch in one of the socks and conceal the other. During the evening the men buy the tightly filled socks and find the owner of the matching sock for his partner. Let's have a "sock supper."

Carole Lombard, the beloved actress who gave her life in the service of her government, is to be given a place in the skies along with other illustrious American heroes. A special squadron of navy air cadets, mostly from Indiana, the home state of the motion picture star, will be known as the "Lombardiers," in her honor.

In order that you may arrange your Thanksgiving holiday now, we wish to advise you that Turkey Day has been returned to its original place on the calendar—the last Thursday in November—according to information received from the White House. After a sojourn back and forth through the several Thursdays in November, Thanksgiving now comes to rest on Nov. 26 for 1942.

The war is making it necessary to find substitutes for nearly all our old imports, but three San Francisco stevedores, unloading a cargo of nuts from Ecudaro recently, did not know that. The men found the nuts very tasty and sampled them generously—and soon were rushed to an emergency hospital. The health department investigated and found that the nuts were a substitute for castor oil beans.

ONCE WEEDS; NOW CROPS

More than 15,000 different kinds of plants grow in a natural state in the United States. We use less than 300 of these plants. Farm chemistry will not be complete until every plant is re-examined in the light of modern science and made to serve its part in contributing to the comfort, happiness and security of our America of the future.

Many a good Illinois farmer has gone to his grave with a lame back from pulling sweet clover on the roadside along his farm. His sons now sow sweet clover as one of our best soil-building crops.

Many an Illinois boy has been denied a day's fishing because the milkweeds in the pasture had to be cut. We have never considered the milkweed as anything but a weed.

Now comes the announcement from National Farm Chemurgic Council that a plant is being constructed in Michigan which calls for the processing of about a million pounds of milkweed floss per year and that the farmers in the vicinity of this plant will be paid about $200,000 for their first year's crop of milkweed.

"The fiber, it is reported, can replace kapok, which has been imported from Java, Ceylon, the Dutch East Indies and lands now conquered or menaced by the spread of Jap invasion.

"In experimental tests it has been found that one pound of milkweed floss has enough buoyancy to sustain fifty pounds of weight and that a life jacket containing two or three pounds of floss will hold up a man in the water for some 100 hours.

"The first year or two nothing but wild milkweed will be available for this new factory, but it is hoped that plantings will be made and the weed cultivated."

Perhaps this does not free the farm boy of Illinois from his job of cutting the milkweeds in the pasture, but it does mean that use has been found for another weed which will add to the income of the American farmer and make us less dependent upon foreign supplies, thus helping to win the war and at the same time preserve our American way of life.

A Breakfast for Two

Dr. Theodore Graebner in his treatise "The Business Man and The Church" uses the following remarkable illustration:

"A family of two living in the heart of Times Square district of New York City, far removed from the source of production of foods, took careful inventory of the cost of a simple breakfast, with this astonishing result:

Bananas (from South America)02

Butter and cream (from New England)03
Grand total20

"It is not very difficult to obtain FOOD in a country where two people can have breakfast consisting of all they want or need for a dime apiece! Observe that this simple breakfast was gathered by some strange form of magic (?) from China, South America, Utah, Kansas, and the New England States, and delivered on the breakfast table, ready for consumption, in the very heart of the most crowded city in America, at a cost well within the means of the most humble laborer."

While without doubt the rural communities of Illinois could have furnished the bread, eggs, butter and cream for the breakfast in question, the moral of Dr. Graebner's breakfast is striking. Nowhere in the world could two people in a congested city eat such a breakfast for any such price.

Surely our American system of free enterprise which can produce such a breakfast in the heart of New York has proven itself. No one questions that there are selfish individuals in business, industry, labor and agriculture. On the other hand, no one can question that our American system of free opportunity contains far more that is good than evil, and that the problem of government is to wipe out the bad and encourage the good.

Religion and Life

Those who make religion to consist in the contempt of this world and its enjoyments, are under a very fatal and dangerous mistake. As life is the gift of heaven, it is religion to enjoy it. He, therefore, who can be happy in himself, and who contributes all in his power toward the happiness of others, answers most effectually the ends of his creation, is an honor to his nature, and a pattern to mankind.—Addison.

Fifth Freedom

The right to work is the "fifth freedom." It is a democratic right which cannot safely be infringed in a nation which is fighting to preserve the principles of democracy." —Donaldson Brown, vice chairman of General Motors.

Another Use for Soy Beans

It has been discovered that proteins derived from soy beans will produce a dense blanket of foam which can be used to smother even the most stubborn oil fire.

Dairymen Object To Unionizing

From various parts of the United States come reports of an attempt to organize dairy farmers on union labor lines as a subsidiary of United Mine Workers. This effort has been mainly directed at the milk producers of Wisconsin, New York and Michigan. Some 300 full-time organizers are reported on the job in thirteen states.

This is not the first attempt of union labor to organize farmers as a tail to their kite. Farm-labor groups in the northwest have been tried and have failed. It is the primary interest of agriculture to produce and sell at an adequate price. It is the primary interest of union labor to work at good wages and buy their food as cheaply as good food can be obtained. To expect union labor to insist on paying higher prices for their food so that the farm producer can get a better price is like hunting the pot of gold at the end of a rainbow.

Majority Opposes. Extensive checks have been made of the attitude of dairy farmers toward organization by union labor. It appears that about 75 per cent are definitely opposed, while the balance of producers are either undecided or favorable. It would seem that with 75 per cent of farm producers against organization as a part of union labor, the project would be hopeless.

A good deal of water has gone over union labor dams in the last ten years. Union labor has never had over 25 per cent of the total persons gainfully employed in the United States and yet they have succeeded in winning the closed shop. Union labor is no longer compelled to compete for the independent laborer's membership. Perhaps the United Mine Workers figure that 25 per cent of farm producers would be sufficient to force the "closed shop" principle upon the balance of agriculture.

Serious Problem Presented. In any event the attempt of Mr. John L. Lewis to organize farmers on union labor lines presents a serious problem, for he has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Every state but one has voluntary farm cooperative laws. The laws of all of these states conform to the requirements of the Capper-Volstead Act. Over 15,000 voluntary farm cooperatives have been organized under these farm cooperative acts. Six hundred and thirty have been organized by Illinois farm producers. These farm cooperatives have power to do anything on behalf of the farm producer, except to run a bank. They are all 100 per cent farm-minded. Of course, mistakes have been made by farm cooperatives just the same as mistakes have been made by union labor. Both groups should study all of the facts carefully before spending time or money upon such a move.

Arthur H. Lauterbach, able manager of Pure Milk Association in the Chicago Milk shed, in an exclusive interview with Farm Journal stated: "If Lewis wins, the cooperative movement is dead." That seems to be the meat of the coconut, at least from the farmer's side of the fence.
