Careless Habits Bring Hunting Season Dangers

Increased hours of work will probably be more than offset by the need for recreation which will bring thousands of hunters afield this fall, according to the safety department of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Each year hundreds of sportsmen are reported killed by gunshot wounds. The majority of these casualties occur because of unskilled or careless handling of firearms. A study of the records indicates the following acts resulted in the majority of casualties which claimed the lives of Illinois hunters last year:

1. Carrying a cocked or "safety-off" gun.
2. Getting separated from balance of party then shooting without knowing their exact whereabouts.
3. Climbing over or through a fence with gun in hand.
4. Leaning a loaded gun against a tree or other object.
5. Carrying a loaded gun in the car.
6. Pointing a gun at another person.

New Operator In Charge

Lawrence Butler and family of Longview removed to Broadlands Saturday, occupying the Astell property in which the local telephone exchange is located. Mrs. Butler takes the place of Mrs. Lillie Baker, who recently resigned her position.

Mrs. Butler kindly asks and states that she will appreciate it very much, if all subscribers will call by number, as she is not yet acquainted with the names of the subscribers of the exchange.

John O'Bryant Seriously Ill

John O'Bryant, who was taken suddenly ill while at Hammond, Ind., two weeks ago, is still a patient at St. Joseph's hospital there and remains in a serious condition, so we are informed. She was born at Longview on July 9, 1941, and leaves her parents and one brother, Thomas.

Burial was in the Newman cemetery.

Drive on For Attendants at Illinois State Hospitals

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 8—President Robert L. Hunter of the Illinois Civil Service Commission today directed a special appeal to downstate citizens to apply for positions as attendants at the state hospitals. Mr. Hunter announced that the recruiting drive for attendants is being concentrated in downstate areas because downstate citizens usually make better attendants.

Hunter pointed out that a great many attendants are needed to fill vacancies as old employees are called into service. Because of this, he said, everyone who qualifies can apply with reasonable assurance of employment soon.

Hunter announced that the Civil Service Commission has adopted regulations that will make it much easier to qualify for these positions. Persons can now qualify as an attendant, he said, if they are over 18 years of age, are physically fit, and have the equivalent of an eighth grade education.

Inquiries should be addressed directly to the Illinois Civil Service Commission, Centennial Building, Springfield, or to the nearest Illinois State Employment Office.

Royal Guards Meet at Clarence Kilian Home

The Royal Guard class of St. John's Church met with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kilian last Tuesday evening.

The program for the evening concerned the constitution and the government of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. The subject was presented by Rev. Robert Frey. President Karl Partenheimer conducted the business meeting at the close of which the hosts served a copious lunch.

The next meeting of the class will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Nohren. At this time the class will entertain a guest speaker on the subject, "The modern Jewish attitude toward the Christian faith."

A foot mat placed at each entrance to the house will help to keep out dirt. Excellent shuck and grass mats can be made at home.

Broadlands Chapter, O. E. S., will meet this Saturday night.

Evelyn Schumacher, Fred Buescher Wed

The Georgian fireplace in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Schumacher, 13780 Lake Avenue, Lakewood, Ohio, was the setting for the wedding of the former's sister, Miss Evelyn, to Fred Buescher, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buescher of Cleveland, Ohio.

The wedding was performed by the Reverend Swigart, at 5:30 p. m. Saturday, October 3, in the presence of twenty guests.

As the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played, the bridal party took its place before the mantel which was banked with white mums, fern and smilax. Candelabra holding lighted tapers were on either side.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of Duchess satin trimmed with seed pearls, and fashioned princess style with sweetheart neckline, long tight-fitting sleeves, and a long full train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a poke bonnet of tulle with a face veil. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and bouvardia.

Miss Phyllis Bergfield led the bridal procession as maid of honor. She was attired in powder blue taffeta and net, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and two-tiered skirt. She wore a blue velvet poke bonnet, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

The mother of the bridegroom wore brown with matching accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Arthur Bluck, of Lakewood.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served at the Lake Shore Hotel for the bridal party and twenty guests. The decorations were white mums.

A reception was held at the home with about seventy-five relatives and friends in attendance. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, and lily of the valley.

The bride is a graduate nurse of Lake View hospital, Danville, Ill. Mr. Buescher is a graduate of Whittenberg College, and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is in the personnel department of Parker Appliance.

The newlyweds will be at home at 2473 Overlook Road, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Among those attending the wedding were Henry Schumacher of Broadlands, father of the bride; Mrs. Dean Upp, Vincennes, Ind., sister of the bride; Miss Phyllis Bergfield, Urbana; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leopp, Pittsburgh, Pa., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Carolyn Aikman, Chicago; and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Chadenworth, of Buffalo, N. Y., the former a fraternity brother of the bridegroom.

Losses at Dieppe

A recent official Canadian statement indicates that the percentage of casualties suffered by the Allies at Dieppe was far greater than had been previously revealed. The statement disclosed that there were 5,000 Canadians engaged in the raid, and that these made up five-sixths of the entire attacking force. The Canadians alone lost 3,367, including killed, wounded and missing, which represented two-thirds of those in action.

This is a staggering loss, perhaps the greatest percentage of any invasion force in a single day. It may be assumed that the remaining 1,000 of British and American troops taking part in the raid suffered a similar percentage of losses, which would bring the totals to about 6,000 men engaged, with 4,000 casualties and the loss of 98 planes, besides much damage to vessels employed in the operation.

It has been said that much experience was gained by the Allied command as a result of the Dieppe raid, and this is true. But the most important lesson to be drawn from its failure is that any attempt to open a "second front" in Western Europe by land forces in the near future would likely result in a major disaster for the Allies.

Brigadier General Ira C. Eaker, commander of the American bombers in Britain, recently expressed the opinion, doubtless with the approval of the High Command, that our continued and increasingly heavier bombardment of German objectives from the air constitutes the most practical and effective second front at this time.

It is unfortunate that the hopes of the Russians to see a land invasion of Germany this year have been encouraged by ambiguous promises and a lot of loose talk in both the United States and Britain. But if the Russians will study the results of the Dieppe raid they should realize the impossibility of meeting their desires in this respect at present.

We can understand Russia's disappointment and resentment over the failure of Britain and America to make good on the rash promises given them by some leaders on both sides of the Atlantic. But it would only make matters worse for Russia, as well as for ourselves if rash promises should be followed by rash action which could only result in a further crushing defeat at the hands of Hitler.

Effects of Rationing

National rationing of gasoline, as recommended by the Baruch Committee, is not proposed because there is a shortage of motor fuel. To the contrary, there is an abundance of gasoline of all ordinary grades, and in the producing areas the oil companies are hard put for storage facilities. Gasoline rationing is to be imposed, instead, to save rubber—and to save rail and water transportation facilities for other uses.

At the present time gasoline is rationed in 17 Eastern states. According to Leon Henderson, it will be extended to the balance of the country on precisely the same basis. This means that the average motorist will be entitled to four gallons weekly—enough to carry him about 60 miles. Supplemental allowances are given to "essential" drivers. Practically all pleasure driving will be eliminated for the duration.

The effects of this will be felt most severely in the West. In the East, with great cities and heavily concentrated populations the motor car has not been nearly so necessary as it is in the West, where distances are vast and cities are few and far between. Furthermore, public transportation has naturally attained a higher state of development in big-population areas. The street car and bus systems, outside of the largest cities, are simply not adequate to handle the load that has long been carried by private automobiles.

Drastic restrictions on automobile use will work a veritable revolution in this nation. West of the Mississippi, where distances are great and interurban transportation limited, no one can estimate the effect of the slow-down that will occur. The motor car dominated our fashion of living ever since the First World War. To millions of people, the family car is practically as necessary as food and shelter.

During the twenties and thirties, there was an ever increasing migration away from towns and cities into suburbs. Men and women lived ten or twenty miles from their places of business. Just how these people will get back and forth now that car operation is to be cut to the bone, is an unanswered question. It is impossible for them to move closer to their jobs for the reason that there are severe housing shortages in all areas which have war industries of any kind.

Within the next year, without rubber, transportation problems will become acute. Tires are really beginning to wear out in volume now, and more and more cars are going into dead storage for lack of rubber. This is going to hit farm production in a critical manner. Street cars and bus companies are doing the best job possible, for the most part, but they simply haven't enough rolling stock to meet the need. Interurban transportation was abandoned long ago in many parts of the country and the tracks were torn up. We in America depend almost entirely on the motor car for short-haul transport. So the lack of rubber remains our number one domestic problem.

Household Hints

Edible soybeans may be used green or mature to add variety to the diet.

Long, hard cooking makes cheese tough. It needs just melting over low heat, and is thus economical as a fuel saver.

Ill manners, quick tempers, quarreling, and poorly cooked foods are harmful to perfect digestion.

Green tomatoes removed from the vines before frost and stored in a dry, cool place will usually keep until Christmas. If sufficient space is available the whole plant should be pulled up and hung where the tomatoes will not freeze.

Remove fruit stains from the household linens and clothes. Wash in warm water while the stains are fresh, still damp if possible, or pour boiling water over the stains. If this treatment fails use a chemical bleach.

Don't waste the sour cream. Whip half a cupful; mix 1 tablespoon of sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, a little pepper, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 2 tablespoons of vinegar to dry ingredients, stir mixture into whipped cream, serve on cabbage, cucumbers or lettuce.

Do You Know Illinois?

By Edward J. Hughes
Secretary of State

Q. Where in France are important Illinois papers?

A. In the Archives Nationales in Paris are the correspondences of French ministers of Canada and Louisiana.

Q. What do the vouchers in these papers disclose of the activity in the Illinois country during the French regime?

A. Expenditures stated to incite the Indian villages to the warpath, to soothe their resentments against the French or against other tribes, to condole with them for the loss of their chiefs or warriors; names of traders, kinds of goods in circulation, prices, charges for boarding and lodging officers and enlisted men, and a score of other live materials of that period.

Q. What important Illinois records are in Canada?

A. Papers in the Archives of the Palais de Justice at Montreal and the Archives of Quebec.

Q. What do these Canadian papers reveal of early Illinois history?

A. Engagements into which the voyageurs entered with LaSalle, Tonty, La Forest, and their successors to go exploring or trading to the Detroit and the Illinois. Recorded feudal land grants to favored followers in the Illinois.

Q. Who was the Earl of Loudon?

A. British Commander-in-chief in America, 1756-1757.

Q. What important Illinois documents were found among his papers?

A. 300 folio pages of the correspondence of the Marquis de Vaudreuil from 1741 to 1752, when the latter was Governor of Louisiana, concerning the Illinois.

Q. Through what treaty did England supercede France in America?

A. The Treaty of Paris of 1763.

Q. Where are the best source papers concerning this treaty?

A. At Ann Arbor, Mich., in the William L. Clements Library.

Q. How were these papers acquired?

A. From the papers of the Earl of Shelburne. Apparently these papers (volume of foreign correspondence of the British Foreign office) were removed from the official files for the Earl of Shelburne.

Q. What attempts have been made to collect the various source materials of Illinois history?

A. Through the Illinois Historical Survey the University of Illinois for many years has been acquiring in transcript or photograph these missing archives of Illinois.

A Flying Fortress is to America's air fleet what heavy artillery is to the Army. This gigantic four-motored bomber, equipped with heavy cannon, carries about three tons of bombs and reaches a speed of about 300 miles an hour.

These ships carry a crew of seven to nine men, weigh about 22 1/2 tons, have a wing spread of 105 feet and each motor develops 1,000 horsepower. We need more of these "Flying Fortresses" to compete with the Nazi air force. You can help by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday. FLIES SERIOUS ENEMY OF CREAM-PRODUCING FARMER

The STABLE Fly—a vicious blood-sucking insect largely responsible for the summer slump in milk production.

The HORN Fly—another biter, remains on cows constantly, torturing the animals and hampering the milker.

The COMMON HOUSE Fly—universal carrier of filth and disease—contaminates and lowers the quality of milk and cream.

It is not unusual for cows troubled by flies to drop off 10 per cent in their summer milk production. This figure does not take into account the annoyance and waste of time they cause for the milker, or the loss from contaminated milk. The loss from spilled milk is often very considerable also. Pictured above are the three kinds of flies that are the most serious pests in dairy barns. The stable fly gets a full feed of blood from the cow in a few minutes, then retires to digest its meal. He is good and hungry again by the time the cows come back for the next milking. The horn fly, smallest of the three, saps the strength of the animal by never getting off of them at all. The house fly, most numerous in barns and no biter, is satisfied to continuously crawl all over the cows and irritate them with its buzzing. To get rid of flies you have got to get rid of their breeding places. Spreading manure from barn and barnyard not less than once a week, and breaking up the droppings in the yard and fields with a brush drag so that the fly eggs and maggots are exposed to the air and sun, is extremely helpful. A good spray will keep flies off the cows and out of the barn and stable. Care must be taken to see that it is harmless to the animal's skin and that its odor is not so offensive as to taint milk. Spray should not be applied directly on the cows, but parallel to them so as to catch the flies as they rise from the animals. Early morning or late afternoon spraying of barn walls and ceilings catches the flies while they are napping. Such spraying is best done just before the cows come into the barn and before the milk utensils are brought in, otherwise the farmer is likely to find himself with a can of unsalable "medicine" flavored cream on his hands.

Family-Home Farms

The census of 1940 indicates tendencies in American agriculture which must be stopped before they become serious. Independent American farmers on family-sized farms have always been the anchor of our American land of opportunity. The 1940 census shows a decided increase in large farm operation—those farming 1,000 acres or more. Farms ranging from 50 to 175 acres dropped only three-tenths of one per cent from 25.3 per cent of the total number of United States farms in 1930 to 25 per cent in 1940. Farms of 500 acres or more have increased 46 per cent in the last three decades, while farms under 50 acres have increased only 19.6 per cent. Again, the number of city-owned farms shows a decided increase. Probably the reason for the increase in large farms and city-owned farms is that with the introduction of the use of power machinery, farming has become more and more a business. America must maintain her farm-homes at all hazards. The most effective and practical answer to this question lies in the hands of the small farm owner himself. Forty-seven of our 48 states provide for voluntary farm cooperation. Almost every farm community used to have threshing machine rings. The power-drawn farm combine has displaced the old threshing machine, but there seems no better reason why each individual farmer should own a combine than there was for owning a threshing machine. Joint ownership and the cooperative use of power machinery is showing itself in many states and may form the answer for the problem of maintaining and preserving our smaller farm-home unit.

TOTAL WAR VS. WASTE

We have all cooperated in campaigns to collect waste rubber, iron, aluminum and the like, and have been told what these waste materials mean in our total war. A similar picture can be drawn of public waste in unnecessary projects and useless payrollers. The prices quoted below are approximate and include the price of maintenance parts and accessories for the operation of the item for one year after delivery. Rifle, cal. 30 . . . . . $ 80 Machine gun, cal. 30 . . . . . 350 Medium tank (without armament) 82,723 The approximate cost of a complete airplane varies widely according to type and model, as follows: Trainer . . . . . $ 6,000 to $ 17,000 Fighter . . . . . 75,000 to 100,000 Bomber . . . . . 140,000 to 400,000 One unnecessary public employee drawing $200 a month means 30 rifles or 7 machine guns in a year. If the useless employee draws $300 per month, it means 45 rifles or 11 machine guns in this total war, and two such employees mean one trainer airplane. What Economy Will Do Economy in city, county, state or of the nation, which will save $100,000 means 1,221 rifles, 285 machine guns, one tank, 6 trainer planes or one fighter plane. If any state of the nation, by the practice of economy, could save $1,000,000, it would mean military equipment in this total war for about an entire regiment. This picture shows at once what Senator Byrd and other leaders have meant in insisting upon an economy program in Washington which would save more than two billion dollars of needless expenditures on useless civic employees and projects. The most ordinary garden variety of patriotism would lead every public official to abandon for the duration all unnecessary civic projects and concentrate upon winning this war. This is especially true in the case of payrollers where, each time we drop a useless payroller for the sake of economy, we have released a man who can either play his full part in our fighting forces or do a necessary military job which will release some one who can and will fight.

The Driving Force

"Government can take over the physical facilities of production if it chooses to do so and if public opinion will support such action. Government cannot supply that driving force which can come only from individual initiative and cooperation among men and management, inspired by patriotic motives and working at a common task." — Donaldson Brown, vice-chairman of General Motors.

The U. S. Navy Needs More Officers

If you are physically fit, morally straight, and mentally alert, Lt. Commander Lansden McCandless, officer in charge, and his staff of officer specialists of the office of Naval Officer Procurement, would like to talk to you about becoming an officer in the Navy. The office is in the Missouri Pacific Building in St. Louis, where full information can be secured either by personal call or by mail.

"The Navy needs officers as badly as it does men," Commander McCandless said yesterday, explaining that there are now more officers in the Navy than there were enlisted men in World War I. The entire personnel of the Navy in 1918 was approximately 100,000 and there are now that many officers in the present Naval establishment. The number is rapidly increasing because the United States Navy is going to be the biggest thing afloat and in the air.

Boy Throws Dad's War 1 Gear on Heap

(Danville Commercial News) A real sacrifice went into the scrap iron pile at Douglas School this week when Guy Shumway, 13-year-old son of a World War veteran placed his father's World War equipment on the school scrap collection.

Included was his father's helmet, trench knife, bayonet, mess kit and several other souvenirs.

The value of these might not be great in dollars but they were worth a great deal to the boy. His father is still disabled and is now in an institution as a result of his World War service.

(Editor's Note: The young man mentioned in the above article is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Shumway, who were formerly residents of Broadlands.)

Dynamite Axis Instead of Using Soft Soap

Dynamite the axis instead of using softsoap, George M. Eisenberg and Walter V. McAdoo, co-chairmen of the salvage committee, Illinois State Council of Defense, urge in requesting housewives to discontinue home soap-making for the duration.

Kitchen fats yield glycerin for dynamite when refined commercially, they said, but chemists estimate millions of pounds of glycerin are wasted weekly in home soap-making. Prepared soaps are now limited by law to one per cent glycerin content and their use is preferable.

Illinois' fats salvage quota has been set at 326,000 pounds weekly from outside the metropolitan area.

"We must save every drop of fat to meet this quota. Using commercial soaps may cost a few cents more, but it is cheaper than losing the war," Eisenberg said.

Lower Speed on Illinois Highways Saves Lives

Lower speed on Illinois highways is saving lives. In August last year 274 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents. During August this year 145 persons lost their lives on the highways, a reduction of 47 per cent.

August was the sixth consecutive month to show a declining trend in fatal road accidents. For the first eight months of this year, the totals on mileage, travel and fatalities indicates a general falling off of ten per cent in traffic and a decline of twenty-four per cent in deaths.
