Dr. David Farmer Ill at Ft. Dix, N. J.

Mrs. Arch Walker recently received a letter from Mrs. Gertrude Farmer, mother of Dr. David Farmer, a former Broadlands resident. Concerning the Doctor she says: The Doctor came very near passing out in England. He has been very sick. Took sick in May, but kept right on until July 15th when he collapsed and was put to bed. After eight weeks in a hospital at Oxford, England, he was brought back home. I have just returned from Ft. Dix, New Jersey. Spent ten days there. His wife and I both went. She remained there with him. He looked so bad I was just heart-broken, but he is doing fine now. Had a letter today. He is able to take walks and go to his meals. I am so glad he is back in this country. He sure did hate to come back and leave his Company, but he never would have gotten any better there.

Letter From Lawrence Sy

The News is in receipt of the following letter from Lawrence Sy:
Camp Livingston, La., Oct. 11, 1942.

Dear Joe and Friends: How is everybody around Broadlands? I am in the army and like it fine. We get plenty to eat and extra good medical attention. I think the army is a real life. Everybody has a chance of advancement. The only thing is he has to work for it. There are a few boys that are dodging the army. They will regret it one of these days. It will be much harder for them when they do have to go. The excuses they have now won't do them any good in the army.

I will now say good-bye to all my friends until I see them again.

Truly yours,
Pvt. Lawrence Sy.

Our Duty

Duty is an old-fashioned word. We moderns may talk glibly of rights, but it was the word "duty" that founded this country, that animated those who built it from the wilderness, and that made from people drawn from all nations and all walks of life a united nation.

Duty has a simple meaning—merely to do what we ought to do. Not until we began to hedge it around with self will, did our people turn from the path of duty to the pleasanter road of "rights." And therein came our period of weakness and the slackening of moral fibre, the days of self interest that found us unprepared as a nation when the crisis came.

There is no privileged group in this country—no one who has the right to shirk his duty. There is no class above the power of this simple word. No employer nor worker is beyond it. Neither rich nor poor can avoid its tasks. Neither black nor white can shrink from its commands. Protestant, Catholic and Jew are alike bound by the call of duty.

We are in the midst of a world war between the forces of those who want rights for themselves and for those who accept their duty toward others. Hitler has stated the Axis case—the master race of Germans are to rule the world with all other peoples working for them. He has declared that there is to be no religion but the worship of the Nazi state. Our Secretary of State has stated our case when he said, "We have always believed—and we believe today—that all peoples, without distinction of race, color or religion, who are prepared and willing to accept the responsibilities of liberty, are entitled to its enjoyment."

Now we must retrace our steps and follow once more the path of duty. We must do what we ought to do. We must live up to what we know to be right, not stand on our rights.

What that duty is, we know. We are a free people, with a heritage of thinking for ourselves, not of servilely following the commands of a dictator. We know what is right and what is wrong. No matter what the religion to which we owe allegiance, we have learned as children from those in spiritual authority over us, what our duty is. We must put into practice what we know.

We have a duty to perform—let us use that duty as our guidepost in all our acts. If we do, the victory will be ours. "He that followeth after righteousness and mercy findeth life, righteousness and honour."

A Real Scrap Drive

The little town of Petersham, Mass., with a population of 900 in 195 homes and farms recently climaxed a three-week drive with a Sunday scrap harvest festival which was a model for communities throughout the nation.

Total yield was 54 tons, more than five times the original 10 ton goal. Mentor and spark-plug for the community's outstanding job was Ayers Brinser, local salvage chairman.

Brinser organized his drive with the war Action Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, selecting the grounds of the high school for the scrap festival.

Lists of local organizations and possible festival events were drawn up and each group was asked to sponsor one or two activities out of a choice of four or five. As a result, one organization ran a baseball game, another children's contests and a third a horseshoe-pitching contest. The Grange sold sandwiches, ice cream and soda pop, and another staged a "hit Hirohito" game.

With all local organizations sponsoring one or more events, literally the entire town was on hand. Prizes were given to persons contributing the most scrap and the most original scrap and to the boy and girl who showed the most effort in scrap collection. Proceeds of the harvest went to the Red Cross.

With the festival planned, Brinser arranged to devote all his time to scrap collection for a period of two weeks, a step he regards as essential for the leader of any rural drive.

Lining up as much manpower and equipment as he could, including trucks and part and full-time helpers, he swung into house to house solicitation.

Farmers were asked to pile their scrap in a central place, but in at least 50 per cent of the farms Brinser and his men found important scrap in outlying parts of the land.

Heavy scrap such as abandoned cars and farm equipment was broken up and trucked to the high school pile.

Looking back on the drive, Brinser suggests that salvage and wrecking crews search out and pile scrap centrally on farms in advance of collections so that trucks will not be kept idle while scrap is being prepared.

Somervell's Speech

In a speech before the Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri in St. Louis recently, Lieutenant General Somervell gave some plain and timely talk regarding what must be done to win the war, declaring that "we and our Allies have taken a terrific shelling all around the globe."

He made an impressive plea for unity to support our fighting men, and warned that unless such unity is attained the war will be lost. After naming the countries which have been conquered by the Axis, he said:

"We've lost all our rubber, most of our tin, our hemp, our silk. We've lost ships by the hundreds, men by the thousands. We've lost the freedom of the seas. We've lost everything except a smug sense of complacency. And that's the one thing we've got to lose, and lose fast, or we'll lose our independence."

"We're all in the same boat, the rich and poor, the city man and the farmer, the Republican and the Democrat, black men and white men, Protestants and Catholics and Jews, management and labor. It's a good stout boat. It has weathered many a wild storm. But it's not going to weather this one unless we're all good sailors."

Any manager who uses the war effort to take advantage of labor is guilty of sabotage, he said, and any worker who lays down his tools to strike, for even an hour, is no better than a saboteur.

Let's be realistic. Let's deal with saboteurs as they must be dealt with, whether they land on our shores in rubber boats or are home-grown. They both want to stop or slow down our production.

Let's stop all argument about who will be top man after this war. If we keep on fighting among ourselves the top man is going to be Hitler.

Let's forget about business as usual, pleasure as usual, tires as usual, and politics as usual. It's going to be the same war after election it is today. The danger is going to be just as great, the future just as dark. Hitler and the Japs don't care who wins American elections, just so we take our minds off the war long enough to fight with one another.

The American soldier mixing with a Jap in a dogfight over Australia doesn't relish the idea of putting off any decision until after election. No soldier or sailor does, and as for me, the lives of our sons, the life of any young American out there fighting for us is more important, and more valuable than any office in any state of the union.

Sidelights

"Going to a fire?" was the time-honored question asked of Robert La Bonge by Los Angeles traffic officers as he was speeding home. "I've got to hurry," the flustered La Bonge shouted, "my baby is about to have a wife." The otherwise hard-boiled coppers soothed the expectant father's jittery nerves by switching to convoy duty and shouting, "follow us."

No longer will there be jokes about the WPA worker because the WPA has been called upon to protect the Army's rear. After studying statistics, which show that the pants of soldiers in tanks and jeeps take a terrible beating, Brig. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator went right to the seat of the trouble. He called on 300,000 WPA seamstresses to ply their needles in support of the Army's rear defense.

A bus-load of selectees arrived at Camp Shelby, Miss., recently. The reception center clerk called off the 20 names on the list—but 21 men reported. Turning to the man whose name did not appear on the list, the clerk asked: "How'd you get here?" "Well," said the extra passenger, "when this bus loaded up I was standing there looking and the sheriff said, 'if you're going on this bus you better get on, buddy,' and since I never argue with a sheriff I got on and here I am."

Sheriff Angus McDonald, of Philipsburg, Mont., could stand it no longer, so he enlisted in the Army. He wanted to serve where there was lots of action. His wife, Mrs. Clarice McDonald, pinned on his badge, strapped on his six-shooter and took over. And everyone, so far, is satisfied. The 32-year-old woman, weighing 122 pounds, without the gun, is ably assisted by her brother, Deputy Sheriff Fred Supernau. The home-front remains quiet.

T. G. Bond, 87-year-old merchant of Murfreesboro, Tenn., is capable of some excellent advice—especially with no more automobiles available, tires rationed and gasoline soon to be rationed. In addition, Mr. Bond can give advice on marital problems, since his marriage has lasted nearly 68 years. Driving his 1913 T-model Ford on which his 18-year-old tires are still serviceable, Mr. Bond said: "I've been over some rocky roads, but I never drove over 18 miles an hour." He has placed his car in the garage for the duration. No use in wasting four good tires, he says.

The hot dog has the situation well in hand, according to advice given Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard and Price Administrator Leon Henderson by Harry D. Oppenheimer, president of the Natural Casing Institute. Oppenheimer is the man who supplies the "coats" in which the hot dogs make their appearance and he asserted that the meat shortage could be taken care of through the use of more and more of the "sizzling puppies." He explained that the meat shortage was chiefly steak, roasts, chops, hams and shoulders, which are sought for the need of our armed forces, and that the lowly weenie—in mile after mile of links—was ready to carry on for the duration.

Many of us have been in the fight for years to keep the wolf from our doors, but residents of Chicago's Southside have been on the alert for the real thing. Warnings went out from police headquarters that an 18-month-old prairie wolf, answering to the name of Cayo, had escaped from its owner, Francis Abella, a vaudeville actor. It was stated that the animal resembled a police dog—but had a wild look in its eye. Further instructions stated that if the wolf called at the door, he could be appeased quickly by being given some raw meat and apples. (We thought apples kept the doctor away, not the wolf.)

Household Hints

Keep lemons fresh for months by sealing them in glass jars.

A cottage cheese ring makes a delicious and cool looking mold for fruit or vegetable salad.

The next time you make corn fritters add some chopped, cooked bacon to the batter.

Keep pickles well down under brine containing 15 per cent salt to prevent their becoming soft and slippery.

For successful baking don't overcrowd your oven. Fill it to capacity, but leave at least a one inch space between every pan and the edge of the oven.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Military motorcycles, for couriers, for speeding light guns from one section to another, are an important part of America's mechanized army. Many are equipped with side-cars for use of staff officers. They cost from $400 to $450.

We need thousands of these small maneuverable machines in our Army today. You and your neighbors, all buying War Bonds and Stamps, can help buy them for the Army. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in War Bonds and Stamps and become a member of the patriotic "Ten Percent Club." It is rapidly becoming the largest club in the world.

Wasteful Government

In 1913, we as a people managed to get along fairly well with a total cost slightly over three billion dollars for local, state and federal government. In 1940, these same governments were spending more than 21 billion dollars. They took six cents out of each dollar earned in 1913, and 20 cents out of each dollar in 1941.

Plug the Rat-Holes Of Wasteful Spending

Harry F. Byrd, United States Senator from Virginia, writing in The American Magazine, states facts which every American should know and consider.

Senator Byrd is chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures. The facts as stated by Senator Byrd, because of his official position and personal reputation for honesty and forthrightness, make this article outstanding.

"Nobody for one minute objects to any spending that helps the war effort, but Washington spends as furiously for nonessentials as it does for battleships, planes and tanks . . . There is a tendency to hang on to every government employee, whether he is busy or idle . . . Two billion dollars a year is being tossed away by these agencies.

How Money Is Wasted.

"Here's an example of the way your money is being wasted: In February of this year a WPA representative in West Virginia asked for $123,747 to organize bands, choruses and orchestras among WPA workers, to teach those who couldn't play, to furnish slyphorns, bull fiddles, and bass drums to those who hadn't any . . .

"Remember last February? You were grunting over your income tax . . . At that moment the WPA in Washington was examining this application for $123,747, and it didn't say 'no'. Incredibly, it said, 'That isn't enough. You can spend, in West Virginia alone, up to $405,107!'

"We have been holding hearings since November 28, 1941, and have thus far recommended to Congress and the President specific cuts of $1,301,075,000. We will continue our hearings indefinitely and believe that further investigation will show that two billion can be saved in the next year without affecting our war effort.

"We are meeting strong resistance. The WPA, for instance, is quite sure its bands, orchestras, and choruses, as well as other activities, are needed to help win the war . . .

"Almost everybody who works in a nonessential government position has convinced himself, and attempts to convince others, that we can't fight a good war if he loses his job.

Where Savings Can Be Made.

"By no means is it proposed to stop relief to the sick, the aged and the infirm, or to those mired in debt and struggling conscientiously to get out of debt. Nor is it suggested that we hold back one cent needed for projects that actually help the war effort. But what is the reason for continuing relief to men and women who are able to earn a decent living? What is the reason now for appropriations for anything non-essential to victory which can be postponed until some more opportune and less fateful time? . . .

"When our Joint Committee recommends savings of two billion dollars a year, that figure looks like small change, but that's 23 million dollars more than the total expenditures of the United States government in 1917. Two billion dollars will pay for 48,000 medium tanks, or for 8,000 heavy four-motored bombers."

More power to Senator Byrd. Every one of us in our own state, in our own county and town can do the job that Senator Byrd is doing in Washington. Senator Byrd's disclosures should not discourage us either in buying bonds or being united in our war efforts. These facts by Senator Byrd simply indicate that there are rat-holes in civic spending at Washington out of which money is being wasted. Let's plug those rat-holes and be sure there are no holes in our state or local treasuries. Then at the proper time and in our own American way we can deal with whoever is responsible for the rats.

The Illinois Home Front

"Share the Meat"—America's voluntary rationing program is receiving enthusiastic support on the Illinois Home Front as more and more home makers discover protein substitutes and a great variety of nutritional meats available in addition to the 2½ pounds per person.
 "Share the Meat" is the American way of approaching actual rationing, anticipated early in 1943.
 Although this country has on hand the largest supply of meat in its history, the unprecedented demand of army, navy and allies for 6½ billion pounds makes rationing necessary. Our total supply today is slightly over 24 billion pounds. Civilians, whose demand for meat has increased with their greater buying power, would take 21 billion pounds. With military demands, that would call for an outlay of 27½ billion pounds, 3¼ billion more than we've got.
 That 3½ billion pounds must come out of the civilian supply. We must curb our demands and be satisfied with 17½ billion pounds. This amount has been the average yearly consumption of Americans in the past ten years. The situation calls not so much for hardship as for fairness in sharing among ourselves the supply we have.
 According to the Foods Requirements Committee, the weekly share of meat should be 2½ pounds per person of cuts of beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton from dressed carcasses. This "red meat" does not include such tasty and nutritional cuts as hearts, livers, kidneys, sweetbreads, brains and pigs feet which can be used to supplement the 2½ pound ration.
 Anti-Freeze—No shortage of anti-freeze compounds is expected to develop this winter with extra supplies saved from last winter, careful use of existing supply and restricted automobile mileage, motorists were advised by the Office of Price Administration.
 Sugar—October 31 is the last day that five pounds of sugar may be purchased upon the surrender of Stamp No. 8, OPA reminds householders.
 School Buses—Although some children will have to walk two miles to and from school where weather conditions permit as did their fathers and grandfathers before them—the boys and girls who ride school buses were advised by the ODT that they would continue to get to their classes this winter. School districts everywhere were warned to survey their bus service at once to determine where curtailments could be made, either in fewer stops or revised schedules with staggered hours.

Non-High Board Cuts the Tax Levy

At a meeting of the non-high school board of Champaign county recently in the office of Ernest M. Harshbarger, the board levied $70,000 to be used in paying high schools this year's tuition, against $85,000 a year ago. This means that the tax rate will be $1 on the $100 valuation against $1.25 this year.

A Week of the War
 U. S. Army Headquarters in Britain reported that 115 American bombers, in their first large-scale daylight sweep over occupied France, shot down 48 Nazi planes, probably destroyed 38 more and seriously damaged at least 19. Never before had so many German planes been shot down in a single operation over Western Europe as were brought down by the massed fire of the American flying fortresses and Consolidated B-24's. Only four American planes were lost and the crew of one was saved. The bombers made a destructive attack on the Lille industrial area.
 Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters in Australia announced October 12 that Lockheed medium bombers scored two direct hits on a large Japanese seaplane tender in the Solomon area. The Navy reported October 10 that a Japanese destroyer was sunk and a heavy cruiser and destroyer were damaged by American airmen during enemy attempts to land reinforcements on Guadalcanal. Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters also announced that the biggest force of flying fortresses ever sent against a target in the Australian zone made an unusually destructive raid on the Japanese base in this area, Rabaul. Australian troops continued to drive the enemy back into the Owen Stanley mountains and removed the threat to the Allied base at Port Moresby.
