Illinois State Capitol News

Peach buds in the northern part of the Illinois peach belt, in the general latitude of Centralia, are reported hurt by the unusually severe cold weather of early March. Farther south the peach growers are still hoping for a fair to good crop this year.

In midwinter, around the turn of the year, something like 15 per cent of the 1942 Illinois soybean acreage was still unharvested. Rains, unseasonably early snows, lack of farm help and shortage of machinery were responsible for the delay. Exact figures are not available, but some loss of beans is known to have occurred from shattering of pods, and some fields are still unharvested.

Governor Dwight H. Green has proclaimed Friday, April 16, as Arbor Day and Friday, Oct. 15, as Bird Day for Illinois.

"The landscapes of Illinois would be lorn and desolate without trees, and our parks and woodlands would be lonely places without birds," the Governor's proclamation said. "Both birds and trees are so highly important that we do well to take special thought for them."

The Governor requested that suitable programs be held in the public schools on both of these days.

A starting salary of $120 a month and maintenance, increasing automatically to $132 and maintenance after ninety days, is now being offered for guards by the Illinois State Civil Service commission.

Minimum qualifications for the men hired as guards are: grade school graduation; six months' work experience; height 5 feet, 7 inches; weight 150 pounds; age between 25 and 60 years.

Men who can meet these qualifications are invited to apply to the commission at Springfield. Application blanks and information can be obtained from the commission, or from county welfare departments and U. S. employment offices. Applications must be postmarked not later than midnight, April 3.

World Day of Prayer Held at U. B. Church

Several duets were rendered by Mrs. Elizabeth Frey and Mrs. Mary Dicks, accompanied by Miss Edna Schumacher.

Mrs. Jessie Bergfield and Mrs. Zermah Witt acted as ushers. Rev. Mumaw gave a short talk preceding the offertory, and organ music was enjoyed at intervals during the services.

There was a nice attendance, and the offering amounted to almost $15.00.

A Tribute to Our Children

TO PUBLISH PICTURES OF LOCAL CHILDREN

Pictures of the children of this city and surrounding community are to be printed in this paper as a special tribute to our young citizens. Tomorrow the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the world will be placed upon their shoulders. All are invited and urged to participate in this featured event. Among our children are those destined to fame and fortune, so let's not omit any of them!

Every parent should cooperate to make this a colorful and inspiring exhibit. You can cut out and keep these pictures of every youngster in the community. They will always be treasured keepsakes and cherished memory records that could not be acquired in any other way.

You are all guests of ours, and all photographs will be taken free of charge.

We have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios, nationally known portrait photographers, to come and take the pictures right here in town. You do not have to order photographs, subscribe to, or be a subscriber to this newspaper, to have your pictures taken and run in this featured event. All that is necessary is that the children be brought by their parents to the photographer on the date and at the location mentioned below. Proofs of all poses will be submitted to the parents, and cuts of approved poses will be prepared, identified, written up, and printed in this paper.

The Studio will also take pictures of adults and family groups, and submit proofs without charge, but these pictures will not be published in the paper.

If photographs are wanted for yourself it will be necessary to arrange for them direct with the Studio when proofs are submitted for examination because they cannot be obtained through this paper.

Remember, all children must be accompanied by parents or guardians.

HERE IS THE TIME AND PLACE TO HAVE YOUR PICTURE TAKEN FREE OF CHARGE.

Miss Martha Lynch and Thomas Powell Are Wed

(Sidell Journal)

In a ceremony performed at 8:30 Sunday evening, March 7, at the First Presbyterian church in Corinth, Miss, Miss Martha Lynch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lynch of Sidell, became the bride of Thos. L. Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Powell of Georgetown.

The single ring ceremony was read by the Rev. John D. Simmons before the flower-decked altar, while the church organist played bridal airs. Attending the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of Jackson, Tenn. Other Members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barrow of Jackson, and Paul Gray of Corinth.

The bride was attired in a navy blue ensemble and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Girl Scouts Need Your Help to Obtain Charter

The local Girl Scout troop was organized as a community project. The enthusiasm of the girls and comments from the citizens indicate that the organization has been well received and will prove quite worth while. In the past week the Girl Scout committee composed of Mrs. Ben Rayl, chairman, Mrs. Roy Bergfield and Mrs. Clarence Bergfield met and made some plans for the troop.

Since the troop must organize as a "lone troop" it is necessary to obtain a charter from the National Girl Scouts. It is also necessary to be affiliated with the organization in order to carry on official programs and take advantage of the fine literature. To obtain this charter and necessary literature for the troop some money is needed. Each girl pays her own membership dues and buys her own equipment, and no doubt in the future the troop can be practically self-supporting. However in the beginning, it is hoped that some of the citizens of the community will make this truly a community project by contributing the amount needed. If you are interested in helping, will you give your donation to the troop thru Mrs. Robert Frey?

Church Fellowship Social

The tables were beautifully decorated in keeping with St. Patrick's Day.

Contribution Recognized

The Office of Price Administration has issued a public statement thanking the thousands of newspapers in the United States for the millions of dollars worth of space they donated to the government in repeated publication of the voluminous data regarding War Ration Book No. 2. This was an incalculable saving to the government in money and man hours, and a great convenience to the public.

A National Grab-Bag

Underlying most of the confusion which has existed in Washington since we were forced into war, it seems to us, is the inclination of each department, bureau and agency to grab all it can of manpower and material resources, without regard to the needs of other vital elements engaged in our great task.

As a consequence, we are beginning to discover that even the great resources of the U. S. are not sufficient to meet all the demands that are being made. It is well, therefore, that Congress is at last taking a hand in curbing some of the unreasonable demands that are throwing the war effort out of balance.

In the matter of manpower it has become evident that we do not have enough to do everything that has been planned. It is proposed to use 12 million men in our armed forces by the end of this year; to produce the modern equipment for this vast force; to furnish immense quantities of war material to our allies; and to provide tremendous amounts of food, not only for Allied armies, but for civilian populations of foreign countries as well. The transportation of the men and material contemplated by this program over thousands of miles of sea routes, infested by enemy submarines, is a gigantic problem in itself.

At the same time, some 120 million Americans remaining in this country must be provided with food and other necessities of life, without which all other efforts would fail.

In view of all these gigantic tasks to which the administration has committed the people of the United States, it is no wonder that the various government agencies are engaged in a mad scramble for men and materials. Thus our total resources have come to constitute a sort of national grab-bag, from which each department and bureau chief is attempting to extract everything he needs or thinks he needs.

The demand of the army and navy for 12 million men might be met if the overseas transportation problem were not so difficult, and if we were not expected to furnish such vast quantities of war material and food to other countries. No one denies that it would be very desirable to have 12 million men—or 20 million—in our armed forces, if it were possible to do so and at the same time fulfill the other tremendous obligations we have assumed.

But we probably have less than eight million men under arms now and there is already a shortage of manpower, especially in the various branches of agriculture, including livestock raising, dairying and other food-producing industries.

Estimated needs of the armed forces have been stepped up continually, from eight million to 12 million.

It is time for Congress to take decisive steps toward restraining not only the military, but others who have their hands too deeply in the national grab-bag.

Russian Aims

We have previously referred to the fact that Russia will have an important part in settling post-war problems, regardless of what ideas other United Nations may have concerning them. The Soviet Union is bearing the heaviest burden in the war, and it is only natural that this must be taken into account when victory is won.

From what may be gathered from official and unofficial utterances from Moscow recently it is evident that Russia will insist on defining her western boundary so as to include all territory she considers to rightfully belong to her, and this will reopen many old questions.

It seems certain that Russia's claims will include a slice of Finland, all of the three Baltic states (Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania), that portion of eastern Poland occupied in 1939, and Bessarabia; in short, all territory under Russian control at the time of the German invasion in 1941.

This may not be pleasing to the United States, particularly to our more idealistic statesmen, but whether any serious official protest will be made is problematical. From an entirely practical standpoint these territories probably would be better off under Soviet rule than they have been in the midst of the turmoil of the past.

However this may be, the recent pronouncements from Moscow tend to confirm what we have contended all along—that this war will not change human nature very much, and that each of the victorious nations will look out for its own interests as in the past. And it is just as well that this fact be understood now.

This does not mean that there needs to be any serious friction among the United Nations during or after the war, although such may conceivably occur. It will certainly occur if either the United States or Britain attempt to interfere with the reasonable aspirations of Russia or each other.

In the meantime, it seems the part of wisdom would be for all to concentrate on winning the war, instead of fomenting agitation over less important matters which might cause us to lose it.

The United Nations are still embarked on a tempestuous sea, and this is no time to rock the boat.

Fourth Term Talk

It is not surprising that some of President Roosevelt's more enthusiastic supporters should be suggesting that he be a candidate for a fourth term. In fact, most persons no doubt take it for granted that he will again be the Democratic nominee in 1944.

If the campaign next year were to be fought out on domestic issues alone, there might be considerable doubt concerning his re-election.

Many things will happen before the election of 1944 which will have great influence on the voters, but speculation on what conditions may be at that time is purely guesswork. Of most importance will be the war situation next year.

If the war is going reasonably well for us, Mr. Roosevelt's re-election for a fourth term will probably be certain, regardless of other considerations, because many who are personally opposed to him would hesitate about voting for a change while the nation is at war.

As to the President's own attitude, there is not the slightest doubt that he will consent to become a candidate again, unless something now entirely unforeseen should occur. So, while fourth term talk at this time is perhaps premature, it will have little effect one way or another.

Sidelights

Private Martin Collins of Chicago, stationed somewhere in India, can now eat army chow. Not that there has been anything wrong with the food that Uncle Sam serves his nephews in that far-off country, but for the past 14 months Private Collins has had to do the best he could without his teeth. Anxious to ship with his outfit, Collins in his mad rush, left the U. S. without his false teeth and it has taken him all this time to find an Indian dentist to fix him a new set.

For seven years at Christmas time a housewife of Port Washington has presented her maid a $5 bill for a present. A year ago the maid decided to quit her job for a better paying one in a nearby war plant. It has just come to light that last Christmas Day the maid rode in her car to the door of her former employer and rang the bell. "Merry Christmas," said the maid and presented the matron with a $5 bill. "Merry Christmas," was the reply as she took the bill. Time about is certainly fair play.

The value has long ago been taken out of the dollar and now they have taken the copper out of the penny. The new zinc coated steel pennies are now in circulation and soon will find their way into everyone's pocket. It is reported that they look like a cross between a nickel and a dime, but it is said that they will turn almost black with usage. No matter what they look like or what they are made of, the important thing is that 100 of them still make a dollar.

What constitutes pleasure driving? That's what Traffic Officer Leonard Peck, of Santa Barbara, Cal., wanted to know when he saw a woman with a B sticker on her car's windshield, driving up and down the street to exercise a big dog. But when she continued through a boulevard stop and kept driving up one street and down another with her dog running beside the auto, he decided that enough was enough. The woman accepted the citation but stated that she had been driving a car 35 years and that was the first time she had ever been cited.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A pelorus, used by the Navy, is a device which fits over the surface of a compass to enable the operator to take bearings on distant objects. It has split hair sights, has been in use for many years . . . and costs approximately $125.

These instruments are essential equipment to every American ship which comes out of the shipyards. With the scores of ships now being completed each month, we need many of these instruments. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help pay for them. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in these interest bearing Government securities.

Schools Open Drive To Buy 10,000 Jeeps

THE little jeep which is serving so nobly from Guadalcanal to Africa has become the symbol of the gigantic efforts of millions of American school children in their War Savings program.

Thousands of public, private and parochial schools soon will be displaying a certificate of honor from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., signifying that they have paid for at least one jeep by buying $900 in War Stamps and Bonds.

Countless others will be flying the Schools At War banner awarded to schools with 90 percent pupil participation in War Savings.

Ten thousand jeeps and a hundred bombers! This is the new goal of America's schools as 30,000,000 children continue their Schools At War program under the auspices of the Treasury Department and the U. S. Office of Education.

Results so far in the program reported by Dr. Homer W. Anderson, Associate Field Director in charge of the education section of the War Savings Staff, are:

Battle Flags of the Schools

More than 7,000,000 elementary and high school students from 30,000 schools have prepared special Schools At War scrapbooks for state and local exhibits.

War Stamp and War Bond purchases may reach a grand total of $300,000,000 for the school year.

His Pigs Go to War

Young Johnny Clay of Rocky Mount, North Carolina, is typical of farm children raising victory pigs and devoting profits to War Bonds.

Farm Youth of U. S. Looks to Tomorrow

TOMORROW'S farmers and farm homemakers are second to no school group in their enthusiasm for investing in War Bonds and Stamps to make sure their future is secure. Through the Schools At War program they are investing what they save and earn in War Stamps and Bonds.

First evidence of this is the amount the 4-H Club boys and girls and the FFA boys invested in war savings in 1942 from "Victory Pig" and other projects. A million and a half 4-H Club members put $6,000,000 of their own savings in War Bonds and Stamps and sold $2,500,000 worth of War Savings to their neighbors. Nearly a quarter million members of Future Farmers of America invested more than $1,500,000.

Spurred by the realization that the financial welfare of farm families the next 20 years depends on how wisely they use today's higher incomes from increased food and other wartime production, both groups have set their goals still higher for 1943.

These farm youths are building financial reserves, and urging their parents to do the same, for after-the-war necessities, to meet financial emergencies and to help them get started in college.

They're building reserves today for tomorrow's farm buildings and for the other things they will need when they're tomorrow's farmers and homemakers.

THE ASS THAT STARVES WITH HIS MASTER

Both are hungry. For both there is not much promise of food. Why? Because they live in Greece.

Because in Greece the Axis took every scrap of food and every source of food—and deliberately left the people, the dogs, and a few useless burros to starve and to die.

Remember the farmer of Greece as you eat your Friday evening supper. Remember him the next day, as you market your produce. Remember—and buy Bonds. All the U. S. War Bonds that you can. Buy Bonds with every cent that you don't actually need to run your farm.

Buying Bonds will not only help win the war, but will provide you with a nest-egg for the future. They are the best investment in the world today. They never sell for less than you paid for them. They increase in value every year. In ten years, they are worth a third more than you paid. And you can cash them any time after sixty days. Buy Bonds now—from your bank, post office, or rural mail carrier.

Red Cross Field Directors Solve Soldiers' Problems

Thousands of U. S. fighting men last year accepted the invitation to discuss their personal problems with Red Cross field directors who accompany troops to all parts of the world. This picture, taken in London, shows everyone happy after the field men had satisfactorily solved the problems of the two soldiers at the desk. Contributions to the Red Cross 1943 War Fund, now in progress, make this service possible.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The soldier stormed into the Red Cross office at a southern Army camp. His mouth was set in a hard, straight line; his eyes were cold, determined. His wife trailed him as he strode across the reception room; her face was red and swollen from crying. They were not over 22.

"I need help," the soldier told the Red Cross field director at the desk. "And I need it fast."

The Red Cross field director smiled, but the soldier did not return it. "All right, soldier, let's see what's the trouble."

"If I don't get help I'm going over the hill," he blurted. "I'm on alert now—due to move out almost any minute. But I'm not going—and leave my wife with no place to stay."

Further conversation developed that the young bride was an expectant mother. She was unable to go home because of her stepfather. Her husband had no relatives with whom she could stay. And the allotment he had made to his wife had not yet come through.

Two hours later—after much conversation and planning—the soldier was shaking the hand of the Red Cross field director.

The Red Cross man had arranged that the soldier's wife spend the night at the Army camp guest house. Preparations had been completed with a nearby Red Cross chapter for her transportation back home. The Red Cross chapter in the girl's home town had agreed to see that she had proper care until the baby was born. By that time the allotment would be coming through.

In every United States military establishment, at home and abroad, the American Red Cross maintains a field director and staff to help Uncle Sam's fighting men work out such personal problems. More than 1,000,000 servicemen passed through the offices of the Red Cross field directors last year. Their problems covered all phases of life—families needing financial aid, allotments, illnesses, deaths, loss of contact with the home folks. These and other problems are unfolded in a never-ending panorama before Red Cross field directors. Almost always they are solved.

The Red Cross field director is ready to furnish information, counsel, and assistance as needed to men of the armed forces. Reaching into every county in the United States through local Red Cross chapters, these workers and local home service chairmen act on behalf of the men of the armed forces and their families in matters affecting the welfare of either or both.

In addition to the servicemen aided by field directors, more than 500,000 families of men in the service received help through Red Cross chapters and branches.

Contributions of the American people to the Red Cross during the $125,000,000 War Fund appeal now in progress will help to keep and expand these services to the nation's fighting men.

Varied and often unusual are the other demands made of Red Cross field directors. Field Director William Finhart, stationed in a remote Australian area, traveled down to a railroad junction to bring back 6,000 pounds of American magazines for troops to which he was assigned. Returning on a train, he was asked to help deliver a baby for a native woman, belatedly en route to a hospital.

Red Cross Field Director Albert S. Campbell and two assistants, David S. Oman and John J. Clancy, Jr., distributed clothes, cigarettes, soap, razors, tooth brushes, playing cards and other articles to American fighters during one of the most furious Solomon Islands battles.

Whatever the welfare and personal problems of American fighters at home or abroad, the field director, backed up by 3,755 Red Cross chapters and 6,000 branches, is the serviceman's best friend in time of need.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Many of the women of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps are already overseas serving in various capacities to help win the war. The WAACs go through a strenuous training to fit them for the arduous duties they must perform.

A uniform for a WAAC, complete, costs approximately $170.00. The quartermaster's department must provide thousands of them. Your purchase of War Bonds helps pay for these uniforms. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday through a Payroll Savings plan at your office or factory.

Household Hints

Scrape or grate a raw Irish potato and apply it, like a poultice, to a burn. It will be found most soothing.

Before planting the flowers in porch boxes whitewash thoroughly inside. This will discourage insects and also prevent the boxes from rotting.

Spring is the time to clean out the medicine cabinet and destroy all medicines over a year old, except those that do not deteriorate with time.

If there is a sick person in the house, who requires stillness, you can lessen the noise of the doorbell by placing a finger of an old glove over the clapper.
