Sermon: "Christ's Resurrection the Proof of Our Resurrection."

The resurrection of Jesus stands out as one of the great redemptive facts. It is God's assurance to man that all that Jesus did and suffered was satisfactory and well-pleasing to Him.

Easter's message to us is a message of new life. It promises us that because He lives we shall live also. It declares that the grave is not the end of human existence but that we shall live again. It is God's answer, to the question, "If a man die shall he live again?"

Jean Miller Given Party on Birthday

The schoolmates of Miss Jean Miller carried out a surprise for her on her 16th birthday, Sunday at the home of Mrs. Norman Seider. About four o'clock Jean was called to the Seider home to stay with their children. Upon her arrival she was met with a "Happy Birthday" greeting from the group.

Contests and games were enjoyed, prizes being won by Rex Thomas and Glen Miller. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, carrot salad, ice cream and cake were served, after which all attended the theater in Villa Grove.

Jean received several nice gifts.

Those attending were Misses Mary Felkner, Helen Mix, Wanda Rayl, Doris Thomas, Jean Miller; and Rex Thomas, Glen Miller, Ed Felkner, Mrs. Norman Seider and children.

Local Home Nursing Class Finishes Course

Members of the local Red Cross home nursing class, conducted by Mrs. Frieda Limp and Mrs. Louise Zenke, have finished their course, with eleven receiving diplomas. At the last meeting, Miss Mary Jane Fee, county school nurse, and Mrs. Jackson, head of the county Red Cross home nursing, were guests. Miss Fee gave a demonstration on isolation of a room in case of a contagious disease.

The class presented gifts to Mrs. Limp and Mrs. Zenke. Refreshments of sandwiches, cakes and coffee were served.

Those receiving diplomas were Mesdames Hilda Seider, Maude Anderson, Helen Ward, Leathie Boyd, Ruth Henson, Ora Wiese, Pearl Wiese, Chester Hickie, Tillie Schumacher, Irene Witt and Frieda Kilian.

Raise $718 Here For Red Cross War Fund

Solicitors for Ayers township raised a total of $718.76 in their recent drive for the Red Cross War Fund, states C. T. Henson, local Chairman. The Junior Red Cross raised $8.96 of the total amount.

Considering the fact that Ayers township is the smallest township in Champaign county, the amount raised is a compliment to her citizens, and the corps of solicitors is to be highly commended for the splendid drive they made.

Community Sunrise Easter Service at Methodist Church

There will be a community sunrise Easter service at the Methodist church Easter morning at 6:00 o'clock. The Evangelical, United Brethren, and Methodist churches join in presenting this annual worship service for the community.

Music will be furnished by the combined choirs of the three churches. Mrs. A. O. Struck will be the organist.

A short address will be given by Pike Reynolds, the Methodist minister.

After the service the Woman's Society will serve breakfast in the church basement.

Everyone is invited to worship and fellowship in celebration of the resurrection of our Lord.

Receives Letter Regarding Death of Twin Brother

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Gail Potter Mominee, we are publishing herewith a letter which she received regarding the death of her twin brother, the late Dayle C. Potter:

Headquarters, XIII Bomber Command, AAF Office of the Chaplain, APO 717, January 25, 1944.

Mrs. Gail Mominee, 805 Bush St., San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Mrs. Mominee—Your letter of December 31st has finally reached me and, believe me, my heart grieves with you in the loss of your twin brother. It certainly is a difficult task to think of them as having passed from this earth when one has not personally seen the life depart from the body. However, I made the trip to the scene of the crash and it was impossible to identify the bodies because the crash and the climate were against us. We knew how many were in the plane and who they were and there were eleven bodies—all accounted for. I, myself, hunted and hunted and finally discovered the eleventh one.

We did our best. We handled them as tenderly as you would have done and they are all buried together in the government cemetery side by side. Please do not attempt to remove the body after the war. You will only be disappointed. It is not in God's plan that the fleshly house shall preserve its form when the spirit returns to Him. So you would not see his smiling face. It is best that you keep it ever in your memory and remember him as you last saw him. It is God's plan that the body return to the dust of the ground from whence it came. Out here with no means for embalming, the tropical conditions hasten the process.

You are a brave girl and a sister of whom Dayle can be proud and I know that you will always live to carry on the cause of Truth and Right until you, too, shall answer the roll-call of Death. It is ever thus that one generation passes on to the next the highest and best things in life. Let not these fine men of ours die in vain.

Keep God at the center of your life.

Yours in the service of God and country,

Lertis R. Ellett,
Chaplain-Captain.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schumacher Entertain Royal Guards

A British Exploit

Recently an official announcement by First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander told of brilliant exploit of five 1,000 ton sloops of the British Navy, which sank six German U-boats within a period of 20 days during a 6,000 mile cruise in the North Atlantic.

This flotilla of light, speedy submarine killers was composed of the Kite, Magpie, Starling, Wild Goose and Woodpecker, and was commanded by Captain F. J. Walker, who has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order three times. He is the Royal Navy's champion U-boat destroyer, vessels under his command having accounted for a total of 17 enemy submarines sunk and others damaged.

On its most recent victorious cruise the group of five sloops lost one vessel, the Woodpecker, which sank in heavy seas after receiving a torpedo hit, but every member of her crew was saved. The sloops carry about 125 men each and are usually armed only with anti-aircraft guns and with depth charges.

Upon the return of the four surviving vessels to Liverpool a few days ago they brought with them the entire crew of one U-boat, composed of 51 men, as prisoners. The British commander and his men were given a gala reception and were personally commended by First Lord Alexander, who declared that theirs was "the greatest cruise ever undertaken in this war by an escort group."

The skill and daring of Captain Walker and his sailors is typical of that displayed by hundreds of other British and American crews of small, swift submarine hunters in the battle of the Atlantic, who with the aid of equally skillful and daring airmen have largely overcome the U-boats, which for many months destroyed Allied ships faster than they could be built.

A Royal Wedding

King Peter, 20-year-old monarch of Yugoslavia, who may or may not again return to his throne, and Princess Alexandra, 23, daughter of the late King Alexander of Greece, were married recently in London under rather inauspicious circumstances in several respects.

The young king was driven from power when the Germans invaded his country, which has since been torn with internal strife in addition to its struggle against Hitler. Peter has been supported by the Chetnik army of General Mikhailovich, but is opposed by the stronger partisan forces of Marshal (Tito) Broz.

Both factions in Yugoslavia have been aided by Britain and the United States, which have sought to bring them together. Russia, however, has given aid only to Marshal Tito, who for some time has commanded a large and well-equipped army which has fought so valiantly against the Germans.

It is said that King Peter is seeking to form an alliance with Tito, knowing that Mikhailovich's influence has been overshadowed by the Partisan leader. Whether this can be arranged remains to be seen. The situation has been further complicated by the fact that Peter's government in exile, which he has maintained in Cairo, Egypt, opposed his marriage to the Greek princess.

Friends of King Peter say he was willing to risk his shaky throne in order to wed the woman of his choice, and that if he loses it he may bring his bride to the United States, where he has considerable wealth invested, and may live in California.

So, while the future of the royal couple is uncertain, it is not entirely dark. To most people life in California would be preferable to occupying a throne in the ever turbulent Balkans.

Pills and Politics

Apparently nobody can agree on the extent of the rise in the cost of living during the past couple of years. Representatives of labor groups have dug up figures that show a startling increase—as an excuse for higher wages. The government figures show a more modest increase. But regardless of the exact figure, everyone knows that the cost of living has gone up substantially. Only a few necessities have failed to join in the rapid upward trend. One of those is medical service.

The fact that cost of physicians' services have not risen proportionately with wages and other costs, should cause people to pause when asked to believe that doctors need regimenting to guarantee the nation adequate and efficient medical care. The ethics of the medical profession and custom make it unthinkable for the doctor to raise prices whenever his "operating margin" grows thin. The bureaucrat, on the other hand, is bound by neither ethics nor custom. The word "economy" is not in his dictionary. When costs go up in government, taxes go up.

The country can be mortally certain that a socialized medical system would be expensive—as well as inefficient. Moreover, inasmuch as such a system would spell a government medical monopoly, the people would be helpless to combat these evils. Costly, inefficient medical care would be the price of mixing pills and politics.

Sidelights

Sgt. Herman Graf is now 18 years old. He managed to join the U. S. Army when 12, became a sergeant before his 13th birthday. He served in Alaska and Italy and on the latter front won the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster. Nothing strange about that, but recently Sgt. Graf applied for his citizenship papers as all this time he has been a German citizen.

When a letter is a day or so late in arriving, we find ourselves getting all hot under the collar and begin complaining. But what should Mrs. J. T. Walden, of Jackson, Tenn., say regarding a post card she has just received. It was mailed to her in Bells, Tenn., 20 miles away, just 28 years ago. The postmark read March 25, 1916. The writer of the post card has been dead a number of years.

Those of you who have been getting your pennies and dimes mixed up and often are embarrassed when you attempt to purchase a ten cent article with one of the war coined one-cent pieces will be pleased to learn that the "regular" penny is coming back. The WPB has found the copper situation sufficiently improved to permit addition of enough virgin metal to restore the old copper-zinc ratio of 95 to 5. Production is expected to start shortly replacing the present steel cent.

The New Yorker tells the story of Dr. Alfred Meyer, the second oldest graduate of Columbia University, who has been playing the piano since he was eight years of age. He was very fond of his Steinway piano and kept it in top shape at all times. The other day some of the keys began to stick and he called the company to send him a repairman. He made several calls and still no one showed up. Finally he sat down and wrote the company a letter: "I've been using one of your pianos for the last 81 years and would hate to change brands now." A repair man showed up the next day.

Do You Know Illinois?

By Edward J. Hughes
Secretary of State

Q. When was electric current introduced into the rural districts of Illinois?

A. In 1889 at Elmwood.

Q. What were the rates charged by this community?

A. Because this was when electric meters were perfected, a flat rate of fifty cents per month per light was charged.

Q. What city in Illinois is sometimes known as the "Old Little Fort"?

A. Waukegan.

Q. Why is Waukegan so called?

A. Tradition cherishes the possibility that LaSalle and his followers built a fort there in 1679.

Q. When did "Little Fort" first receive historical mention?

A. In 1795, in a history of the United States, published in London.

Q. What was the Indian name for the DesPlaines river?

A. "She-snick-ma-wish-sippe," meaning "soft maple tree river."

Q. Who were the delegates from Illinois to obtain from Congress the Great Lakes Naval Training Station?

A. Congressman George Edmund Foss and Graeme Stewart.

Q. How was the land obtained for the station?

A. The merchants and commercial clubs of Chicago purchased 182 acres and donated them for the site of the station.

Q. Which one of his sons did Lincoln nickname "The Tadpole"?

A. Thomas, his youngest son.

Q. Why did Lincoln so name him?

A. Because as a baby his son's head was abnormally large.

Tire Inspection Dates
