Cool Jars Right Side Up

Cool all jars right side up. Jars, while cooling, should be set far enough apart so that air can get to all sides. Don't set hot jars in a draft or on a cold surface to hasten cooling. Sudden cooling may break the jar. Do not cover jars with a cloth while cooling either. This may cause the food to spoil.

Illinois State Capitol News

Richard Yates Rowe, of Jacksonville, has been appointed secretary of state for Illinois by Governor Dwight H. Green, to succeed Edward J. Hughes, who died suddenly in New York recently. Mr. Rowe formerly was executive secretary of the state budgetary commission, and since early in May, chairman of the Republican state central committee, which position he has resigned.

Corn and soy beans are making good progress in most of the main producing areas of Illinois. In some localities late planted corn and beans on spring-plowed land have been held back by drouth. Corn varies widely in size, all the way from fields that are laid by to others just being plowed for the first time. Chinch bug infestation is causing concern in Logan and Sangamon counties, and in other south-central areas where June rainfall was far below normal.

Old age pensions were paid to 128,808 Illinois citizens during June, according to the state public aid commission. There was a decrease of 2,483 pensioners and drop of $66,746 in the amount of total payments, compared with the preceding month.

Aid to dependent children payments were made in June to assist 49,978 children in 21,247 families. The total of these payments was $703,168, and the total paid out for old age pensions was $3,981,823.

A drastic decline in the number of chicks sold by Illinois hatcheries for June or later delivery, as compared with last year, is disclosed in a report just issued by the state and federal departments of agriculture. While a total of 79,183,000 chicks were hatched during the first five months of 1944, as against 88,827,000 in the same period last year, only 15 per cent as many were booked for delivery after the close of May as were sold last year.

Little summer hatching is planned either in Illinois or in the country at large because of an intention to bring poultry flocks down in line with prospective supplies of feed.

A Tribute to the Horse

Horse you are a wondrous thing, No horns to honk, no bells to ring No license buying every year With plates to screw on front and rear; No spark plugs to miss, no gears to strip, You start yourself, no clutch to slip. No gas bills climbing every day To steal the joy of life away. Your inner tubes all work O. K. And thank the Lord they stay that way. Your spark plugs never miss and fail Your motor never makes us cuss Your frame is good for many a mile Your body never changes style, Your wants are few and easy met Horse you've something on this auto yet.

—Earl R. Turner.

Precooking Food

Heating food before it is canned is called precooking. This quick heating shrinks the food so that more will go into the jars. Precooking also shortens the processing time, saving fuel as well as time.

SUCCESSES AND FAILURES OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—Judges 2:6-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another, is His law, which is perfect and eternal.

God is no respecter of persons. Even Israel, His own chosen nation, found that observing God's law meant blessing, and failure to do so brought judgment and sorrow. No man is great and powerful enough to ignore this rule—and none is exempt from its operation.

I. Remembering God Brings Blessing (vv. 6-9).

Although Israel had not fully obeyed God's command, and had been rebuked by an angel of the Lord for their failure (Judg. 2:1-5), they had come into a measure of their inheritance under Joshua.

They now possessed that inheritance and entered into enjoyment of it (v. 6). It is one thing to have an inheritance, but another thing to claim it and make use of it. Countless Christians have never taken out their inheritance in Christ. All they have is the earnest (Eph. 1:14) or "down payment."

God never meant that any child of His should live a poverty-stricken spiritual life, or should go halting on first one side and then the other. He has made provision for a full-orbed, strong and joyful life. Why not enter upon your full inheritance in Christ now?

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who remembered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

II. Forgetting God Brings Backsliding (vv. 10-13).

The fact that a people has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to God, and so began its awful drifting away from God.

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising future. But wait—what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glorious days are ahead. They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

Let us always remember that America is not some vague entity apart from us, for we, you and I, are America, we determine what it shall be, and how it shall relate itself to God. Let us be sure that no one we know ever forgets God.

It is a significant thing that the leaders of our nation so often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they are so frequently not Christians themselves. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents who reared them, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

III. Forsaking God Brings Judgment (vv. 14-16).

God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if He has to turn over His people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and national chastisement, and He is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks he can do it, should read Psalm 139:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is not a little disquieting to the unbeliever.

God, however, always remembers mercy in the midst of judgment (Ps. 101:1). He sent judges to deliver Israel, when He was sure of their repentance (v. 16). "If there was ever a time when nations needed deliverers, it's now. The systematic looting of subjugated peoples, the deliberate murder of multitudes of Jews, the mass executions of many innocent people in reprisal for some patriotic act of resistance, are evils that cry to heaven.

"If men would call on God not merely for deliverance but in real repentance for sins committed (perhaps the God who delivered Israel) would send deliverance to suffering people still" (Arnold's Commentary).

Well—why not call on Him now, in earnest repentance and faith. Will you do it?

The C&EI is geographically located near the center of population of the United States, in the very heart of America, with connecting carriers extending to the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and to Canada and the Gulf of Mexico. It is the connecting link between the North, South, East and West.

The C&EI organization is busy now moving war supplies, troops and other essentials in its all-out effort to help win the war, but it is not too early to look ahead to the time when the dark clouds of war will be displaced by the sunshine of peacetime pursuits.

The C&EI is planning many postwar improvements in passenger and freight services to its patrons—travel will be attractive, comfortable and convenient, in high speed modern trains, and freight shipments speeded in all directions on dependable schedules. In the meantime, confident in the ability of its organization to meet any requirements of war and civilian needs placed upon it, there is no interruption in its services. Its Agents, located in many important cities throughout the country, are available at all times to help solve any shipping or traveling problems.

The good-will of its many patrons; the loyalty of its employes; the friendly relationships existing with the communities it serves, are priceless jewels which the C&EI Management gratefully acknowledges to be the finest assets a railroad can have.

The Runaway

By DEE CAMPBELL
McCure Syndicate—WNU Features.

IT was ten minutes past midnight when Big Mike Condon saw the boy in the dim glow of his big truck's headlights. Immediately his large foot pushed on the brakes. The boy wore the white hat and blue pea-coat of a sailor. Big Mike had a friendly feeling for bluejackets; his kid brother was one.

The truck smoothed to a stop. "Hop in, Mac."

The sailor leaped into the seat, placing at his feet the small bag he carried and tilting his hat to the back of his curly brown head.

Big Mike gave him a quick comprehensive glance. "Pretty young to be in the navy, aren't you, Mac?"

"I'm seventeen," the sailor answered shortly.

Big Mike kept his eyes on the gray concrete ribbon that retreated dizzily beneath the hood. "Cigarette?" He turned and offered his pack.

"Thank you — I — I — don't smoke." There was a moment's pause and then the boy went on hastily, "Of course I really do smoke — it's just that — I don't want one."

"I think I know what you mean," Big Mike said meaningly. Then he changed the subject. "How's the navy treating you?" His keen eyes didn't miss the way the boy's mouth stiffened stubbornly. "Not exactly 4.0, huh?" Big Mike probed.

"No," the boy replied emphatically. "No, it's not! I —" His eyes held a frightened look.

The zipper of the bag had jammed halfway and through the opening Big Mike could see a jumble of socks, unfolded dungarees and skivvie shirts. It had obviously been packed in a hurry. He said quietly, "So you're running away — or as you boys say, you're going 'over the hill'?"

The boy swung around. "Yes," he said defiantly, "for good!"

"Well," Big Mike began, "that's a pretty big thing to do—"

The sailor interrupted. "There's no use trying to stop me, either! I know the line about serving my country and being patriotic! Well, I'm sick of it! I'm sick of standing watches and being bawled out and not seeing my folks!" He swallowed hard and went on. "Anyway Dough tried to tell me all that — Dough's my buddy back at the base. He thought he'd talked me out of it too — but I waited until I was sure he was asleep and took out. So you see," he turned back to Big Mike "nothing you can say will make any difference!"

Big Mike turned to him with a little smile. "That's exactly what I wanted to find out. How would you like a job? It'd be safe enough. You'd do all your work at night — like me, see, driving a truck."

The boy looked at him straight "Hauling what?"

Big Mike grinned knowingly. "Well — you know, Mac — what you were talking about — all this nonsense about patriotism and so on? Well, I feel the same way. So when this scrap started I figured there was ways of making it pay off — and there is! Know what I got back there? Tires — new rubber tires. I'm making big dough! Sometimes I haul — beef. Ever hear of the black market? Yeah? Well, that's the racket."

"So you're running a black market? I've heard of them — sure I have!"

"I'm offering you a chance, kid. And right now is the time to look out for yourself. Oh, yeah, I know you hear that stui on the radio about the fighting men needing food and rubber for jeeps and planes — so what? I'm looking out for myself and not a bunch of rum-dum soldiers in Italy or Alaska! It's me I'm interested in!"

Without warning the boy swung his fist struck Big Mike squarely on the chin jerking back his head. Before he could recover the sailor struck him again, this time in the eye. "Black market, eh? So you don't care what happens to our soldiers —"

The big truck swerved and left the road. Big Mike jammed the brakes and it lurched to a stop. "O. K., kid," he panted. He was trying to ward off the blows and manage the wheel at the same time.

The sailor got out. "Anyway you showed me something," he said grimly. "Guess I never knew there really were people like you!" He took his bag. "I'm heading back to the base in case you're interested."

Big Mike looked at him. "I'm interested," he said. There was an odd look on his face. "Here's something I want to show you."

He took out his billfold. The sailor stepped close to look. Then he gasped. "Why, that's Dough's picture!"

"Sure," Big Mike grinned. "My kid brother. You see, he didn't fail to stop you. He knew that I carry defense material every night and so when he saw you pack your bag he just gave me a ring before I started. He figured I'd be along in time to pick you up. Things worked out fine too, except," he rubbed his chin, "Dough didn't say anything about that right wallop you pack!" He opened the door. "Get in, sailor," he said. "I'll drive you back to the base."

Dick Tracy
By Chester Gould

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, I've had a lot of calls for that book you took out last week... Tell the Boys Back Home. How did you like it?"

"Fine, Sarah, fine... it's just the kind of book I like to get hold of... I enjoyed every word of it. Wish I could have been along with the author myself... actually living with the men right on the fighting fronts. He got mighty close to them and they certainly opened up their minds and their hearts to him."

"There were lots of new things in the book I hadn't seen in any other reports from front-line writers. But there was one question the men asked the author that I have seen time and time again in these stories. That was 'Are you going to put prohibition over on our soldiers again... and without getting our vote?'"

"I noticed that, too, Judge, and I think the least we can do for those fighting men who are doing so much for us is to respect their wishes on that subject."

Wise to Can Chickens

Wise homemakers will help to provide for their family's meat supply next winter by canning chicken during the coming months when farmers will be selling hens that are not laying enough. Chicken will be less plentiful on the market later this year. A good supply of home canned chicken will be a convenience as well as an economy for home meals.

Coconut Products

Coconuts supply the natives of Central America with a highly nutritive vegetable milk, important proteins and oils. The young leaves and shoots of the coconut tree are recommended as a green vegetable. The dried meat of the nut, copra, is the source of coconut oils used in making oleomargarines and other butter substitutes, candies and confections, as well as manufacturing candles and imitation waxes, perfumes, glycerin, cosmetics, various pharmaceuticals and an unknown number of other uses. The pulp of this copra makes the feed for livestock, particularly sheep, hogs, poultry, and cattle.
