Mail G.I. Christmas Gifts Early, Home Folks Told

CHRISTMAS comes early this year for families who will be packing gifts for folks in service overseas, points out Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer. Those whose service kin are still stationed in this country will, of course, have greater leeway in getting their gifts mailed.

For yuletide packages going overseas, a mailing deadline of October 15 was set. Only one parcel could be sent per week from any person to any one individual in the "armed forces overseas" between September 15 and October 15.

Among "What to send" items, Miss Griffin lists: fruitcake, cookies, hard candy, nuts, caramels or chocolate bars. Individually wrapped and packed in tin or wood, these travel well. Cigars, cigarettes and toilet articles in sealed packages may likewise be enclosed. Sharp-pointed instruments such as razors and knives must be well-wrapped and protected to prevent their cutting through a box. Small game kits and pocket-size books of jokes or good stories are popular, as are many items of apparel.

"Wrap each gift, no matter how small, in a different Christmas paper," urges Miss Griffin. "Even individual packages of hard mints and gum which can be slipped into tiny openings should each be wrapped gaily. If holiday wrappings are difficult to find this season, use plain colored paper. Glue on Christmas trees, snowmen and similar typical shapes fashioned from contrasting colors.

"Tuck in a miniature Christmas tree or Santa Claus.

"Pack the gifts in a box of wood, solid fiberboard or double-faced corrugated fiberboard. Print or type the address carefully. Take care to get the A.P.O. and serial number correct. Put the address on a slip of paper and tuck it inside the package. Also put the address on the box and on the wrapper. Label each plainly on the outside, 'Christmas parcel.'"

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for September 17

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE KINGDOM STRONGLY ESTABLISHED

LESSON TEXT—II Samuel 2:4-7; 5:1-10. GOLDEN TEXT—They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be moved, but abideth forever.—Psalm 125:1.

Position and power are important to a king, but of even greater importance is the winning of the hearts of his people. Only as he has them with him can he build a great nation.

David was the Lord's anointed. The kingdom was his. But God expected him to make the necessary effort and use his own abilities to bring it into a place of honor and usefulness. God gives us all we have, but He does not shower it down on us; we must go out and possess it.

Note in the three verses that precede our lesson (vv. 1-3) that David moved forward only after prayer and divine guidance. Little wonder that he succeeded.

I. The Southern Tribes Declare Their Loyalty (2:4).

The nation was divided into two parts, Judah in the south and Israel in the north. To bring them together again called for consummate skill. David had it.

When Saul had died, David showed his respect and genuine loyalty to the king by his actions and by his song of lament which we find in II Samuel 1. Then by the Lord's leading he went to Hebron, the national capital of Judah, and there awaited the will of the people.

Their declaration for David was not long in coming. They knew and respected him. He had shown himself to be their friend (I Sam. 30:26) and now they made him king. It was the first step and a long one in the right direction.

II. The King Makes Friends by Being Friendly (2:5-7).

The men of Jabesh-gilead, hearing that the Philistines had killed Saul, went for his body and gave it suitable burial. This gave David occasion to show his fine spirit of appreciation, which naturally warmed the hearts of all those who had loved and followed Saul. It was excellent strategy, but at the same time it was the natural expression of a kind heart.

He that would have friends must show himself friendly (Prov. 18:24). And why not? The friendly and open-hearted kindness of some Christians does more to win others to Christ than the brilliant discourses of some cold, exclusive Christian worker. Most of the Lord's work is done by ordinary people with warm hearts. Is there any reason why we cannot all be winsome and attractive in Christ?

III. The Northern Tribes Recognize Their King (5:1-5).

A period of seven years elapsed before this took place. The house of Saul was not willing to yield its supposed rights to the throne, and there was fighting and struggle. In it all David showed himself to be upright and considerate.

There is value in gradual development and in the struggle for the right. Had David found immediate success one wonders whether he would have gained the strength he needed for the future.

Then came the day when Israel, the tribes of the north country, of their own accord chose to put themselves under David. Note that it was because of their regard for him (vv. 1, 2) that they came to him (v. 3). That was great gain.

A united people! How important that is in the affairs of the nations. Nothing is more disturbing or a greater hindrance than internal friction. We ought to deal quickly and decisively with any group or force in the life of our nation which is clearly divisive or disloyal.

Think, then, how important it is that God's people in the Christian Church stand together in undivided loyalty to Christ, our King, and in loving devotion to one another.

IV. The King Established a National Capital (5:8-10).

Jerusalem, which was to be the "city of David," and which figures so prominently not only in history but in prophecy, had to be wrested from the hands of the heathen Jebusites, and be established as the sacred city and the capital of the Jewish nation.

Note that the kind and considerate king was not a weakling. He knew how to fight and to win. Verse 8 is difficult to interpret, but evidently does not mean that David was cruel. The Jebusites taunted him by saying that their blind and cripples could hold the wall against David's men. Then they doubtless put their best soldiers on the wall, and David said to his men, "Let us take these cripples."

We see in verses 9 and 10 that David was not only a fighter, but also a builder. He began then the development of Jerusalem, the great city of which we are yet to hear wondrous things.

Do You Know Illinois?

By Edward J. Hughes Secretary of State

Q. Who was instrumental in having a state flag adopted by the Illinois legislature?

A. Mrs. Ella Park Lawrence, former state regent of the Illinois D. A. R.

Q. When was a state flag adopted by the Illinois legislature?

A. In 1915 by the Forty-ninth General Assembly.

Q. Who was the last survivor of the Black Hawk War?

A. Henry L. Riggs of Morgan County. Riggs died at Kirksville, Mo., March 11, 1911, and is buried at Diamond Grove cemetery at Jacksonvill.

Q. Is there a Hall of Fame for the Illinois Farmers?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is it located?

A. It is located in the Marrow Hall at the University of Illinois and called the Illinois Farmers Hall of Fame.

Q. When did the Fox River receive its present name?

A. In 1730 the Fox River was known as Big Rock Creek or Riviere du Rocher. After the massacre of the Sioux tribe in 1730 it became Riviere des Renards and translated Fox River.

Q. Where is Lincoln Log Cabin State Park?

A. Near Charleston, Illinois, in Coles County. The park contains the reconstructed cabin of the Lincoln family.

Q. What became of the original Lincoln cabin?

A. This cabin was dismantled and exhibited at the 1893 fair. While plans were being considered for its future disposition it mysteriously disappeared. No trace of it has ever been found.

Q. When did the first vessel come into Chicago through the Chicago River?

A. The schooner "Illinois" commanded by Captain Pickering came into Chicago through the Chicago River on July 16, 1834.

Q. When was the Chicago City Railway established?

A. Feb. 4, 1859. It operated horse cars.

The future may not need us—the present does.

Indifference is the cross on which humanity hangs itself.

A lit-up driver is a poor substitute for headlights.

Those who borrow trouble have no difficulty in obtaining a renewal of the loan.

Instead of trying to get ahead, many people waste time trying to get even.

Love's young dream is great while it lasts, but it sometimes ends in a nightmare.

Another paradox is that it is easier to carry a mortgage than to lift it.

The cause of most young people turning out bad is too many good times.

A professor declares that married men are smarter than single men. They have to be.

Household Hints

Durable, colorfast slip covers will prolong the life of upholstered furniture.

Wooden spoons are good for blending, beating and stirring foods. They won't leave any scratches on utensils.

A sweet potato or carrot will produce a nice kitchen or dining room plant if placed in a glass of water and kept in a warm room.

To keep fingers warm in cold weather when hanging out the family wash, heat the clothespins in a warm oven before taking out of doors.

Cream filling won't soak into a layer cake if a small quantity of confectioner's sugar is sprinkled over the cake before covering it with the filling.

Pieces of fine soft wool, soft cotton, especially knitted materials, and cheesecloth should not be wasted. They make excellent dusting cloths.

If painted or enameled handles on knives and other kitchen gadgets stand in water the wood under the enamel and paint will absorb water and cause the paint to chip off.

Smile Awhile

Teacher—What is a paradox? Student—It's two steamboat wharves side by side.

Does your husband always lie to you? No, some nights I'm too tired to ask any questions.

Teacher—What is an adult? Willie—An adult is one that has stopped growing except in the middle.

Teacher—What is an octopus? Johnny—Well, I'm not exactly sure, but it sounds like an eight sided cat.

Waiter—Would you like to drink Canada Dry, sir? Customer—I'd love to, but I'm only here for a week.

Teacher—You are late this morning Samuel. Why? Sam—Oh, the bell always rings before I get here.

Country Cousin—You see, we have gone in for truck farming. City Cousin—You can't fool me. You don't raise trucks, they come from a factory.

Elmer—Before I married every one told me marriage was a gamble. Henry—And how did you find it? Elmer—Why, a fellow hasn't got a chance.

Kind Old Lady—You should try to cheer up your little brother and make him stop crying. Boy—I'd like to see you try to cheer up anybody who's just had four bananas, three hot dogs, four ice cream cones and a bag of peanuts.

Gerald—Pop, what does it mean here by "diplomatic language?" Pop—My boy, if you tell a girl that time stands still while you gaze into her eyes, that's diplomatic language. But if you tell her that her face would stop a clock, that's something else.

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL BARTON KITTRIDGE announce the engagement of their daughter Sarah Chilton Kittridge to Craig Harrison III of West Branch Road. The wedding date has been set for—

Kit's hands crashed on the typewriter keys. Never in the three years since she had taken over the society desk of the Clarion Courier had a story been more difficult. Sarah Chilton Kittridge and Craig Harrison III! Clarion's glamour boy number one, the papers called him. A series of eastern schools, travel, vice president of the Harrison factories. The desire of every mother with an eligible daughter, the hope of each of those daughters. Yet Craig was well-liked. Easy-going, good-natured, a bit on the spectacular side.

Kit ripped the paper from the machine, viciously squeezing it into a hard ball. She aimed at the basket and hit Barry Bradley as he came through the door. "Ye gods, Kit, won't you ever learn to throw straight? See, you hold a ball this way." His fingers gripped an imaginary missile.

"The pride and joy of the sports department plays he's another Bobby Feller, does he? If a girl could throw straight she might be anything else, but with you she'd be O.K."

"Do I detect a trace of sarcasm from our Kit? It doesn't become you, darling. What's cooking with society today?"

"Nothing. Go 'way, will you? I've a deadline in an hour and no lead." "You can always dig up the Harrisons, you know. They're good for a line or a column any day. Always reliable Harrisons, I call 'em."

"That's just what I was doing when you came in."

"Um, and what has Mamma Harrison joined this time, or is it our white-haired boy who is in the news again? Well, you keep him on your page, sister. My pugs are particular about the company they keep."

"I'm announcing Craig's engagement."

"No foolin'! So somebody hit the jackpot. Who?" Kit hesitated a moment and her voice was low. "Sarah Chilton Kittridge."

Barry stared at her. His voice, usually so strong, was uncertain. "You're kiddin'."

"Am I? Look at the paper in your hand."

Barry unfolded the crumpled sheet. "Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barton Kittridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Sarah—" he read aloud, easing himself to the corner of Kit's desk. The pain in his eyes made Kit wince. "So Sarah Kittridge is marrying our glamour boy! I suppose I should offer congratulations. I thought I knew the Kittridge gal pretty well. Seems I'm wrong. What a laugh! It doesn't make sense, Sarah Kittridge and Craig Harrison. What's she really like, Kit? You ought to know."

The girl raised her dark eyes to look deep into Barry's stormy gray ones. Her voice was weary. "I don't know, Barry. She's twenty-four, has had a good education, traveled a bit. Rides well, plays rotten golf, dances divinely I've been told. Not much to look at."

"I thought her very pretty."

"Did you? Well, if you care for that type."

"I do. Very much."

"Oh!"

"And this guy, Harrison," Barry probed, "what about him, Kit, is he a stuffed shirt?"

"Not at all. He's all right when you know him. Too much money, perhaps, but he's worked hard for honors at school, tennis titles . . ."

"Well, he can give a girl whatever she wants."

"Maybe."

"What d'ya mean, maybe? Position, houses, furs, jewels, cars. What more could a girl ask?"

"What more is there?" Kit walked over to the dirty window looking out on a brick wall.

"I suppose so. Sarah Kittridge has never missed much. Perhaps she's old-fashioned enough to think she owes her family a good marriage. Perhaps she wants to have a home and children. Perhaps she—" Kit's head dropped. Her slim shoulders shook with sobs.

Barry was on his feet in an instant. He swung her around to face him. "Kit, don't cry. Look at me, darling." Slowly he tilted her head back until their eyes met. "You crazy little fool. You darling idiot. And I'm the world's prize dope." His lips met hers in a kiss. Sometime later Barry held her away from him. "Say, gal, you've a deadline to meet. Come on, let's write the story and get out."

"But I haven't a lead," wailed Kit.

"Oh, haven't you? I'll draft it for you. You type it. Ready?"

"Yes." Kit's voice quavered.

"Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barton Kittridge announce the engagement of their lovely daughter Sarah to Barrison Bradley. The wedding date has been set for—"

"For when, Barry?"

"Just write 'darned soon,' darling."

School Lunchbox Gets Zip With Citrus

A LUNCHBOX can be as full of zip as the tangerine or orange tucked in, Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, advises mothers faced with the daily problem of making their school-age youngsters' noon lunch zesty.

"It can be just as refreshing as the thermos of grapefruit juice," she writes in the Country Cooking section of the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. "Citrus fruit supplies vitamin C as well as interest to the lunchbox."

Another citrus delicacy that can perform the twofold assignment of providing a tempting dessert for home meals or a toothsome addition to the lunchbox, is Orange Bread. It is simple to make and quickly becomes a family favorite.

This bread requires only 1/2 cup of sugar and may be served with or without frosting.

Orange Bread.
 1 large orange
 Hot water
 Raisins
 1/2 cup nuts
 2 tablespoons shortening
 2 eggs, beaten
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1/2 cup white sugar
 2 cups flour
 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon soda
 1/4 teaspoon salt

Squeeze juice from orange and add hot water to make 1 cup. Put rind and pulp of orange through food chopper and add raisins to make 1 cup. Combine liquid, fruit, nuts and melted shortening. Add eggs and flavoring. Add sifted dry ingredients in 3 portions. Mix only enough to dampen flour. Bake in a moderate oven (350-F.) from 50 to 60 minutes.

This recipe for Orange Bread was selected from hundreds sent in by readers of the Country Cooking department of the farm magazine, which invites homemakers to submit practical, wartime recipes each month.

HOW UNDESIRABLE FLAVORS FIND WAY INTO CREAM

FEED FLAVORS	FERMENTATIVE FLAVORS	ABSORBED FLAVORS
(Caused by cows eating certain offensive flavored weeds or feeds.)	(Caused by action of bacteria on improperly cleaned utensils.)	(Caused by storing cream where there are objectionable odors.)
Preventive: Keep cows off weedy pasture several hours before milking. Feed silage, turnips or cabbage after milking.	Preventive: Wash separator and all utensils after each use with brush and dairy cleaner. Scald with boiling hot water and place in sun to dry.	Preventive: Do not store cream in barn, kitchen, vegetable cellar, garage or other odorous places.

Flavors are of prime importance in determining the grades of butter. Flavors are no less important in the grading of cream, since butter contains all the original flavors of the cream from which it was made.

Undesirable flavors can be kept out only if careful feeding, careful cleaning of utensils, and careful methods of handling milk and cream are followed on the farm.

CAREFUL FEEDING: When cows eat certain feeds or weeds their milk becomes badly tainted with characteristic, objectionable flavors. These flavors move right along into the cream. By way of safeguarding the original wholesome flavor of the milk and cream, cows should be kept off weedy pasture three to four hours before milking and silage fed only after milking—never before.

CAREFUL CLEANING OF UTENSILS: Milk pails and cream cans should be bright and shiny after cleaning. Old battered, seamy, rusty, poorly-washed pails and cans are a definite menace to cream quality. Dents and uneven surfaces are hard to wash and sterilize, and the crevices and rust spots invite deposits of particles and bacteria which contaminate the milk and cream and introduce unwholesome flavors. Dairy utensils are best washed with a brush and a good dairy washing powder. No utensil can be said to be well washed which has not been sterilized with boiling hot water and sweetened in the sun.

CAREFUL STORING: Because cream is so sensitive and perishable, it should not be exposed to objectionable odors. Dark unventilated caves and cellars are bad because their odors impart a stale musty flavor to the cream. Cream kept in the kitchen absorbs undesirable cooking and other odors—say nothing of the risk of spoilage from the stove heat. The same holds true of the home laundry. Neither should cream be kept in a garage or other place where gasoline, oils or similar products are kept or used. That cream should not be kept in the barn goes without saying. The ideal place for keeping cream is a cold water tank, preferably one located in a milk house.

Illinois State Capitol News

Widespread rains the latter part of August enabled Illinois corn to make a notable recovery from effects of mid-summer drouth. Soybeans also are showing improvement. Soil conditions throughout most of the state are favorable for fall plowing, and pastures have revived, thus easing the food situation.

Illinois oil wells produced approximately 6,425,000 barrels in August, or 207,000 barrels daily, according to the state geological survey. Drillers found seven new Illinois pools during August and extended the known boundaries of four previously discovered pools. The seven new pools are in Hamilton, Gallatin, Jefferson, Lawrence, Richland and Clay counties. In all, 199 wells, 121 of them producers, were completed in August.

With the opening of the fall sessions, the public schools of Illinois are adjusting their health and exercise programs to conform to the physical education law which was enacted by the General Assembly, signed by Gov. Dwight H. Green and went into effect July 1 of this year. This measure requires daily periods of physical education for all public school pupils and students at teachers colleges. It also requires the physical examination of school children before they enter the first grade and at least once every fourth year thereafter.

Women IN THE CHURCH by Mary Fowler

"The canteen by the side of the road" is the name which grateful British Tommies of the Cross Keys Division have given to the home of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Cassens, young American missionaries in Sirur, India. The American soldiers are entertained, too. A pot of boiling water, hanging over an old wood burning stove, is constantly in readiness to provide tea for any Tommies who drop in—as they do at all hours of the day and night; while the coffee pot is in daily use for the visiting GI Joes. The fact that the thermometer in the kitchen is always more than 100 degrees bothers none of them. A glowing British tribute to Paul and Betty Cassens recently appeared in the Division's publication, "Keynotes."

Mother—Do you really think our daughter has a one-track mind?

Dad—Yes, and I suspect there is a troop train on it.

So Clear, Too

Your wife is a very sympathetic woman, isn't she? asked Robinson.

Yes, very, replied Smith. She works on the theory that you can find whatever you want when you don't want it by looking where it wouldn't be if you did want it.

That's Why

The famous novelist invited an admirer to visit his home. The visitor could not conceal her disappointment when she observed the author's modest surroundings.

Is there something wrong? asked her host.

Well, frankly confessed the lady, the homes you describe in your writings are so magnificent, I can't understand why you built such a modest one for yourself.

My dear friend, answered the novelist, "words are cheap, but materials are expensive!"

GAS tronomy CARE FOR YOUR REFRIGERATOR

Do you treat your refrigerator as a catch-all for leftovers and pleasantly forget about them?

Or, do you give the refrigerator the place of respect it truly deserves as food insurance?

The Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association gives a dozen simple rules on the care and use of refrigerators. The association represents the industry which produces propane and butane gas and delivers them in bottled or tank form to homes away from city gas mains, for use as fuel in gas refrigerators, gas ranges and gas water-heaters.

1. Remove paper wrappings from foods before storing in refrigerator.
2. Wipe off milk and cream bottles.
3. Wash and clean vegetables and fruit before storing. Wash berries just before serving.
4. Place uncooked meat (unwrapped) under freezing unit.
5. Allow foods to cool before storing and make sure they are covered.
6. Watch leftovers and use them attractively.
7. Place foods to allow for free circulation of air throughout refrigerator.
8. Keep bottles and cans at room temperature until ready for chilling and serving.
9. Open and close doors as quickly as possible to preserve cold.
10. Clean refrigerator by wiping with a damp cloth often. Wash with a weak solution of baking soda.
11. Use ice trays for frozen salads, ice creams, mousses, and for colored and flavored ice cubes.
12. Defrost regularly according to manufacturer's instructions.
