Illinois State Capitol News

Fires in Illinois outside of Chicago caused a loss of $10,423,760 last year, according to state fire marshal John H. Craig. This is a substantial decrease from the $13,841,878 loss sustained in 1943. Deaths from fire totaled 119 for the last six months of 1944.

Governor Dwight H. Green has issued an appeal to all available registered nurses in Illinois, asking them to lend their services to the army and navy nurse corps to help care for wounded American fighting men. Battle casualties have climbed to an average of 1,000 per day.

Total Illinois production of oil during January is estimated by the state geological survey at 6,338,000 barrels, or 204,000 barrels a day, an increase over the 6,236,000 barrels total and 201,000 barrels daily output for December. This increase, achieved during severe winter weather, is regarded by the geological survey as evidence that the resources of the Illinois oil basin are not yet fully known.

Under the active sponsorship of Governor Dwight H. Green, a statewide campaign to recruit WACs for service duty in army general hospitals will get under way today (Feb. 16) and continue at least thirty days.

The Illinois quota is 405 recruits as part of a national effort to obtain 8,000 new WACs to be trained for administrative duties and as medical and surgical technicians. The age limits are 20 to 49. Previous experience is not required.

Through the Red Cross the American people serve the men of their Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Red Cross Faces Greatest Task in Fourth War Year

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Facing the greatest task in its history in serving American fighting men on advancing war fronts overseas, their families at home, their buddies returning to the United States after discharge, and the American people in emergencies on the home front, the American Red Cross will launch its third War Fund campaign March 1.

That the American people will respond with overwhelming generosity to the appeal for $200,000,000 to carry on this world-wide program is already indicated in the nation-wide determination to meet all its war needs and to bring the five-year struggle to an early and successful conclusion.

In every invasion during the past year, Chairman Basil O'Connor of the American Red Cross said, Red Cross workers have either gone with the troops, or have followed within a very short time. Red Cross field directors were with General Eisenhower's men in the great amphibious invasion of France, and with General MacArthur's forces when they returned to the Philippines.

Ten thousand men and women wear the Red Cross uniform overseas, serving in every theatre of war and with every command. They work in leave clubs, clubmobiles, rest houses, hospitals. Red Cross men attached to fighting units are with those outfits even in actual combat. Red Cross girls dispense snacks at air fields, along trucking supply routes, behind front areas and in liberated cities.

Many, both men and women, are on duty at scores of isolated outposts throughout the world, and give aid to wounded men in hospitals and on hospital ships, planes and trains. Away from the battle areas, thousands more serve at military and naval installations within the United States.

Red Cross service on the home front has expanded with the ever-increasing demand upon it, Mr. O'Connor said. In addition to collecting more than ten million pints of blood for plasma since the beginning of the war, the Red Cross has met requests of the Army and Navy for whole blood shipments to European and Pacific battle areas. Ten centers on the East and West coasts already participate in the collection of Type O whole blood, while others stand ready to join in that program as military needs warrant.

At four packaging centers, manned by volunteer workers, more than 20,000,000 food parcels have been turned out in a steady stream for shipment to prisoners of war and civilian internees in Germany and the Far East. Surgical dressings—775,000,000 of them—were prepared in the past year alone for front line and hospital use. Production workers in hundreds of communities have continued the never ceasing program of making warm garments for destitute civilians in war-torn countries overseas, and in those countries the Red Cross has assisted the Army in caring for refugees and homeless people.

Nor has its service to the armed forces on a global scale caused any relaxation on the part of the Red Cross to carry out its traditional service to the American people in time of disaster. More than 200 domestic disasters—floods, high winds and fires—have found Red Cross workers on the job to relieve stricken families and to aid in the rebuilding of communities.

"The need for Red Cross services in the coming year will be greater than ever before," Mr. O'Connor said. "In fulfilling the Red Cross appeal for $200,000,000, the American people will indicate its wholehearted backing of men in the front lines."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 18

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

TREASURES OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:44-46; 14:13-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.—James 1:17.

Hidden treasure!—there is something about it that catches our imaginations and stirs our expectancy of discovering great riches. Men are constantly going on expeditions to seek out lost treasure. Others are engaged in study and research to bring out new treasures in nature or in the realm of learning or art. Why not stir up a little excitement about the unbelievably rich treasures which are hid in Christ and in the life of faith in Him? It is not hidden, except to the eye of unbelief, but it is greatly neglected and all but forgotten by many.

The Scripture portions assigned for our lesson are not as well adapted to it as one could wish, but we may make good use of them. We learn here:

I. The Cost of Redemption (13:44-46).

Undoubtedly the lesson committee had in mind the usual interpretation of these parables, which presents the sinner as the one seeking the treasure and giving up all that he may have Christ.

While it is true that our redemption is worth more than anything else in all the world and that the Christian would gladly set aside (or would he?) everything for Christ's sake, yet that does not fulfill the thought of this parable. After all, what has a sinner (whose own righteousness is described in Scripture as "filthy rags") to sell in order to obtain redemption? And is it for sale? (See Eph. 2:8).

Obviously, we here have the Saviour with His all-seeing eye and loving heart noting in fallen humanity the pearl of great price, His own Church. He then gives up all the glory He had with the Father, comes to the earth, and even becomes sin for us that He may bring us to God.

Salvation in Christ is no little thing, not something which was purchased with gold or silver, but with the precious blood of Christ. We ought to value it highly, and because we are bought with such a price we ought always to glorify God (1 Cor. 6:20).

II. The Heart of Compassion (14:13-16).

The One who was willing to die that men might have eternal life was not unmindful of their need of His mercy and grace for their daily problems. Jesus not only died that we might have redemption from sin, but He lived (yes, and lives now!) with tender-hearted compassion toward those in need.

He who is the living Bread was not willing that men should hunger for their daily bread. The disciples saw only one solution—to send them away, but Jesus said, "They need not depart."

One is fearful that the church has been all too quick about sending the needy away to some social agency or community charity, when it should have won their confidence by its compassion, and then brought them to Christ.

Little is much when God is in it, and by the divine touch of Jesus the multitude was fed. Could we not do far more for Christ if we would only use the little we have, with His blessing, for the help of our fellow men?

III. The Miracle of Provision (14:17-21).

We pray, "Give us this day our daily bread," and it is only as God provides it that we have it. He gives life to the seed, and multiplies it in rich harvest, and we eat, we trust, with thankful hearts.

That is a miracle—so oft repeated that we have lost a bit of the wonder and glory of it. Here in the story of the feeding of the five thousand and more (v. 21) with five loaves and two fishes, we have such a miracle of provision taking the little and making it enough for the multitude.

The Lord may not work in exactly the same way today, but do not God's servants see Him multiply their meager store as they give it out in His name? That is true whether the gift be of material or spiritual things. God can and does bless those who trust Him. Letting what we have pass through the hands of Christ results in transformation and multiplication. Try it!

Men and women are value-conscious in our day. While money is plentiful, goods of real quality are scarce, and one must look for that which has durability and worth. The treasures which Christ offers are enduring. He says, "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal" (Matt. 6:20).

By contrast, "the things Satan offers are temporary. In a few years most earthly honors and wealth must be laid aside. But the treasures of the kingdom are treasures which God intends that we should possess forever.

The Nurse Problem

Since legislation providing for the drafting of nurses was recommended by President Roosevelt in his message to Congress, there has been a marked increase in the number of nurses volunteering for duty with the armed forces.

While this has partially relieved the shortage of military nurses, it has caused a corresponding depletion in the number available for the civil population, and at least 22,000 more are still desired by the Army and Navy.

A survey has revealed that a few large hospitals are holding a surplus of nurses, one in New York having almost twice as many as are actually needed, while another was reported to have 826 nurses to attend 723 patients. It is estimated that at least 17,000 nurses in all are being hoarded in this manner throughout the country.

It was also found that many wealthy persons are permanently employing private nurses they do not really need, and others keep nurses far longer than necessary. It is believed that at least one-third of the more than 60,000 nurses now on duty in homes could readily be spared for needed work elsewhere.

Besides the additional nurses needed for the armed forces, most of the country's smaller hospitals and public institutions are understaffed. The 95 hospitals under the Veterans Administration should have 3,000 more nurses.

The Red Cross is calling for more volunteer nurses' aides to augment its present total of approximately 162,000, who are rendering valuable assistance in the present emergency.

Military medical authorities still believe the drafting of nurses necessary if the urgent needs of our wounded fighting men are to be met, but Congress shows little inclination to act on the President's recommendation for such legislation.

Terms For Germans

Pamphlets clarifying the "unconditional surrender" demand of the Allies have been dropped over Germany by army aviators, according to a recent dispatch from Paris, sanctioned by official authority. Some paragraphs contained in the pamphlets are quoted, as follows:

"Unconditional surrender does not mean that Germans who surrender would be at the mercy of the victorious side. They would be under the protection of the Geneva Convention and would be treated with fairness.

"It is the wish of the Allies to give the German people the possibility for normal peaceful development as members of the European family of nations.

"Individual Germans who had nothing to do with the crimes committed by war criminals will not be taken to account for those crimes."

Obviously the object of these announcements is to encourage the masses of the German people to revolt against their Nazi leaders and surrender to the Allies as opportunities permit. Whether the pamphlets will influence Germans to any considerable extent remains to be seen.

The new propaganda line taken by the Allies—the holding out of some hope to non-Nazis—should be of ultimate benefit, although it comes very late.

Without a large measure of cooperation on the part of the German people themselves, it would take years to overcome the chaotic conditions which will exist in the Reich after the organized armies are defeated.

That would mean the military occupation of Germany by hundreds of thousands of Allied soldiers, and probably a continued and costly guerrilla warfare for an indefinite period of time.

The Germans do not deserve, and certainly do not expect a "soft" peace. But the rank and file of the German people are sick of a war that the most stupid among them must know is lost.

If the assurances contained in the pamphlets distributed among them were backed up by similar statements from Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, it might hasten the end of German resistance and avert to some extent the terrible aftermath of guerrilla warfare that many thoughtful observers expect and fear.

Sidelights

The story is told of a negro soldier who, in explaining his role in the artillery to some of his civilian friends, said: "Ah opens de big gun, puts in a big shell, closes de gun, pulls de trigger, steps back, and says 'Mitgah Hitlah—re-count yo' army.'"

A much delayed Christmas gift box had just reached S-Sgt. W. M. Swimme, of Everett, Wash., who has spent the past four Christmases in Honolulu, and his comrades gathered around to view the contents. First came a fruit cake . . . then toilet articles . . . then handkerchiefs, candy, and other goodies. Then the final box was brought out to be unwrapped—it was a medium-sized can of sliced pineapple. A study of the label revealed that it had been packed within rifle shot of Sgt. Swimme's barracks. The round trip had been completed.

Have you read the Bill of Rights recently? A recent poll revealed that two out of four contacted had never read the Bill of Rights, and one out of four did not know what it was. How can anyone, who does not know what the Bill of Rights contains, know what is meant by the American way of life? The United States Constitution without the Bill of Rights has been likened to a body without a soul and anyone, without the knowledge of what these first ten amendments to the Constitution mean to his liberty and pursuit of happiness, should immediately avail himself of the privilege of learning all that the Bill of Rights holds for him.

The plight of Earl Smith was recently reported in the Omega News. A few days ago Earl came into the newspaper office and reported that his wife left suddenly to visit her parents. The power line was down, so there was no lights nor water, and he had to draw water for the stock; the electric fence without current, had turned his hogs into his cane and potatoes; his hogs had eaten his wife's new brood of chickens; his milk cow kicked the full pail of milk over him; his mule jammed a stump with the wagon, broke an axle, and ran away; he had torn his clothes getting over somebody's fence. Earl, it was noted, was not at all happy.

An extensive vocabulary enables us to expose our ignorance more convincingly.

If folks were compelled to practice what they preach there would be considerably less preaching.

Household Hints

Curtains will stay fresh looking much longer if they are shaken well at least once monthly.

Hanging clothes to dry immediately after they are starched will prevent mold.

It is dangerous to plug an electric iron into a light socket, but the iron may be plugged into a wall socket anywhere.

Egg whites that have been warmed to room temperature will beat more readily than will chilled eggs.

Starch stuck to the smoothing iron can be softened with beeswax and then removed with soap-suds or a mild scouring powder.

Bacon will be crisp if cooked slowly at low heat, turned often, and the fat drained off as it accumulates.

Hanging each garment on a separate hanger keeps the garment in shape and avoids wrinkles.

Furs, woolen, and feathers that are put away for summer should be thoroughly cleaned before storing to prevent moth attacks.

Rinsing glasses which have held milk, particularly buttermilk, with cold water before washing prevents the milk from curdling in the glasses.

The fine side of a grater is excellent for preparing "grated" onions for recipes, and the coarse side is good for making "minced" onion.

Bonds Over America

MICHIGAN'S CAPITAL
Michigan was known to Jesuit missionaries as "Michihiganing" or "Michiganay," relating to the great body of water east and west of the peninsula which now bears that name. The state's first capitol building was erected at Detroit in 1823 but in 1847 Lansing became the capital city. The present imposing capitol, constructed of New Hampshire granite and Ohio sandstone, cost $1,510,130 and was dedicated in 1875 at an historic ceremony attended by all living governors of the state. Through its ornate halls and chambers have flown legislative streams directly enhancing the life of Michigan's tremendous industrial activity. And War Bonds are keeping that life-stream flowing.
