New Bill Would Lift Care of Aged From Families

Members of Champaign county public aid advisory committee recently went on record as opposing Senate Bill No. 297, which would permit persons over 65 years of age to get old age pensions even if their children are able to support them.

County I. P. A. C. officials estimated that the $42,288 in pensions received by aged persons in Champaign county for the month of April would double you'd like to get off and walk," he should such a measure pass. total of 21.8 per cent of those 65 watch my dust," replied Ted with are receiving aid in Illinois as longing. compared with 52.7 in Texas, a state in which such a bill has been enacted.

L. M. Rovelstad, chairman of the committee, has written all down." members of the legislature from this district urging their opposition to this bill.

"As you no doubt already know at the present time. financially able children in Illinois, are legally required to contribute to the support of their needy parents," Rovelstad said in his letter to legislators. Those persons who are 65 years of age and over who have no children financially U. S. Treasury Department able to support them, and who meet other requirements speciage pensions.

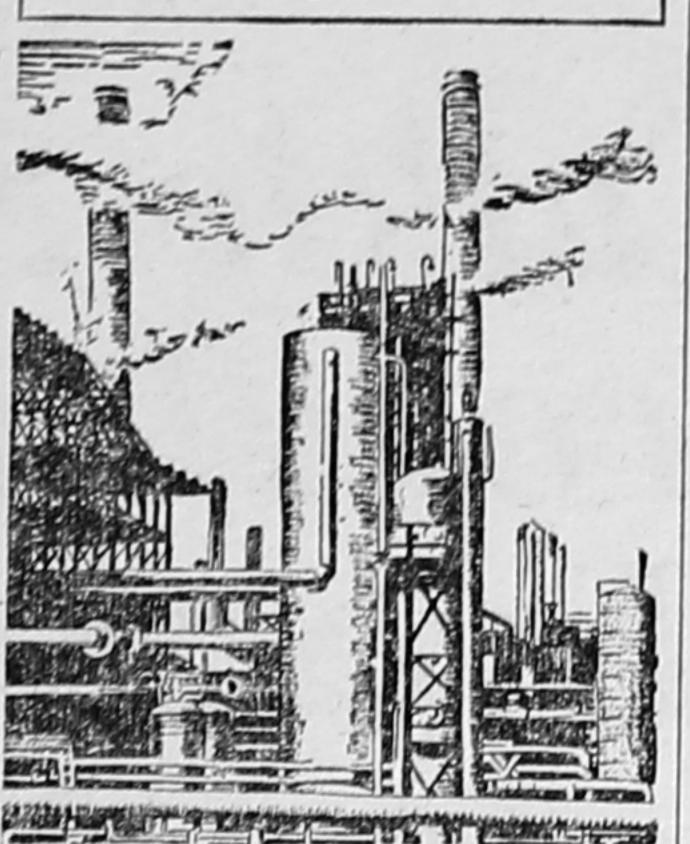

"If Senate Bill No. 297 is enacted into law in Illinois, public policy would be changed from one requiring financially able children to support their needy parents to a new public policy not requiring such support. The obligation of the state would then become primary and the obligation of the family incidental.

"A comparison between Illinois and the states of Texas and Washington which have laws relieving children of responsibility for the support of their parents, shows that the percentage of persons receiving old age pensions and the total amount paid them is practically double in those states as compared with "My work with the Champaign county reemployment committee of the Illinois public aid comission leads me to believe that there has been sound and steady progress in Illinois in providing the aged who are actually in need with decent care. Removal of the responsibility of children who are financially able to support their parents may result in lowered standards and inadequate care for those who must rely on the state's old age pension for support.

"It is my opinion that the primary duty of the state with respect to the aged is to those who are actually in need and without any other means of support. For this reason and others stated, urge you to oppose senate bill No. 297."

see something?" He fished inside his jacket and brought forth a handful of snapshots, crumpled and dogeared from much handling.

Corporal Boone looked with lackluster eyes. "So what? Must be a clothes shortage where those babes come from."

Tarzan thumped his barrel chest. "Now, those gals used to go around with civilians, soldiers even, until I hove into their lives. Now they're laborers and clerical people, get all Navy Jills. They gimme these pictures 'cause any girl is proud to be a Navy man's pin-up, see?" "Here's one who isn't," said Ted that encircled the proud little head like a coronet. "That's my wife, Betsy," said Ted with pride. "I see what you mean," Tarzan said slowly. "You're a mighty lucky guy, Boone."

"We got married just before I was shipped overseas," continued Ted. "We never had a real honeymoon, so when I get back we're going to blow my allotment on the swellest honeymoon two people ever had." "Where will you go?" asked Tar-

"Who cares? Just so it's cool and quiet. Just Betsy and me and a gang of bellboys on call with tall, iced drinks. Imagine having your shoes shined and your clothes pressed, tickets for the best shows, no sergeants, no reveille, nothing to do but relax and enjoy yourself."

"Sounds like heaven," agreed Tarzan fervently. "Just remember it's the Navy that takes you home." The transport pitched sickeningly. "Not if I'm conscious," Ted gasped. 'Maybe I'll fly or swim, but they'll have to hogtie and drag me on board another ship. And when I once land, I never want to see the ocean again." Behind them a sergeant approached on deck. "Is that you, Boone? Got a letter for you."

Ted eagerly tore it open. As his eyes devoured the words, his face grew even greener and his knees sagged.

"It's Betsy," said Ted hollowly. "She has her heart set on a honeymoon cruise through the West Indies after the war."

National Income

How well a man lives is a matter that depends largely upon his income and how he divides it. If he earns $40 a week ($2,000 a year) and spends every bit of it on himself, he can live about as well as anybody until some unforeseen calamity hits him. If he has a wife and child and an aged parent to support, each individual must subsist on about $10

How well the people of any nation live is a similar matter. It depends upon the national income and how it is divided. Just like family income, national income changes from year to year and it is not always divided the same way. National income is the grand total of what everybody in the nation earns. It includes all wages, salaries, farm yields, interest, rents, profits and dividends.

How About Now?

The United States Department of Commerce keeps track of our national income figures pretty well, year by year. Already we know that the income of all Americans totaled 160.8 billion dollars in 1944 and that workers got 72% of it, or 116 billion dollars. By "workers," I mean people who draw wages and small clerical salaries. Corporation profits that year ran just under ten billion dollars or 6%.

There is a popular notion that people who work don't get very much of the fruits of their toil. Not long ago somebody repeated a 40-year-old piece of political propaganda to me, believing it every word. He said, 'Here in America 2% of the people have 90% of the wealth." There is not much to say about this statement: It is not true. It has never

Official Figures

Last year the national-income dollar went like this: 72c to American workers, 6c to corporations, 8c to small businesses in the form of profit, 7c to farmers as return on what they produced, and another 7c to landowners and stockholders in the form of rents and dividends, and to money lenders in the form of interest. Of course all years aren't alike but they vary less than you might think.

National income bobs up and down but people who work always get most of it. Back in 1939, which was a typical pre-war year, our national income was not half as high as last year's; 70.8 billion dollars to be exact. Then, workers got 68% of it, and 6% was corporation profit; not much change in how the income was divided, but less than half as much actual money for everybody. Ancient History

Back in 1929, the year Hoover succeeded Coolidge as President, national income was 83.3 billion dollars; bigger then, than in 1939. Corporation profits were higher-9% as against 6% in recent years. But wage earners and office help were getting 64% of national income, even then. In 1932 (the depression) when corporations generally earned 9% less than nothing, wages climbed to 97% and still some working people went hungry.

Any fair analysis of national income figures over a period of years leads to this observation: workers, more money with the slightly smaller percentage of a big national income than with the bigger percentage of a small national income. sharply. #### Duty First

By ETHELYN PARKINSON McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Features.

A S Officer Mike Calligan swung around the corner, he could see someone waiting in front of O'Day's and his heart and feet quickened. It might be Nora was waitin'. But, coming closer, he saw it was Nora's

"Ah, Mike Calligan," she said, "I've been waitin'. There's a blitherin' thafe of a gypsy fortune teller out at the carnival, and I want ye to put him in jail for makin' trouble for Nora."

"True for ye," said her ma. "The scoundrel told Nora that Barney Maloney was two-timin' her with a Frinch woman-Barney, that's true as the stars! Also, he told her Barney would be in trouble with the cops soon-Barney, that's honest as I am. So Nora and Barney had words, and she gave back his ring. Mrs. Dan Thomas at Newman. Ye'll make the gypsy swindler eat his bad words, and in Nora's presence?"

"Where's Nora?"

"At the Coffee Shop, still on duty. Whilst Barney is eatin' his heart out Italy. somewhere."

"Ah, the poor lad," Mike sighed. "Don't worry. I'll take care of it, Mrs. O'Day."

wasn't in it. For who but himself lege at Champaign. was in love with Nora O'Day? But he couldn't be telling her while she was that crazy about that worthless scoundrel, Barney Maloney. He'd have to patch up the romance, came first with Mike Calligan. He'd just go over to the Coffee Shop and question Nora. Nora was there, pretty as a picture, serving a salesman-looking fellow. Mike had thought Nora's eyes would be red with crying for Barney, but they were clear as stars. Ah, she was that spunky! "What's cooking, Mike?" she asked.

"I hear there's a crystal gazer out at the carnival."

"If there is, what's it to you?" Mike puffed out his chest. "Fortune tellin's forbidden by a city ordinance. I'm goin' out to make a pinch on complaint of a fine lady whose daughter got swindled-" "Mike Calligan, ye'll keep out of

The salesman turned around and scrutinized Mike. "You'll never get that man, officer."

"Yeah? Who are ye?" "Name's Nietzel. I sell-er-baloney." He smiled apologetically.

"And why won't I get the gypsy?" "He'll escape. He'll be tipped off. Anyway, making the arrest is your duty, but your heart isn't in it. You're loitering now. I know your kind. Big and handsome and romantic. Putty in a woman's hands. You'll go off with the first girl you see, and forget what you're about.' "Forget me duty? Me, Mike Calligan? I'll make the gypsy take back his words."

"O.K., Mike," Nora said saucily. "I'm off now."

Mike was that proud to walk on the street with Nora. If it wasn't for duty, he'd ask her to step into Louie's.

"Let's just have a sandwich," Nora said.

In the back of Louie's sat Barney Maloney, and with him Fifi Mercier. Nora sailed past, her nose in the air.

In a moment Barney came over. "So it's a copper, Nora, that's been turnin' your head. I'll be tellin' your ma-"

"Get back to your French girl," Nora said.

"Barney," Mike said, "I'll meet ye at Clancy's when I'm out of me uniform, and teach ye how to address a lady!"

Nora stood up. "Let's go to the carnival, Mike," she said. They went past the hawkers, a little slowly. "Here's the crystal gazer's tent," Nora said. "'Ali Sees All, Knows All!' Now let's see ye make him take it back." A blonde girl in gypsy's togs sat at the ticket window. "The young lady will be havin' her fortune told,"

Mike said. The gypsy smiled. "I am sorree. Ali, he ees gone."

"Ye lost him," Nora said, as they walked away, "just as Nietzel said. He was Ali. I knew his eyes, Mike. And all he said was true."

"What's true?" "Well, Barney was sparking a French girl-Fifi Mercier. Barney's in trouble with a cop-yerself. And ye ran off with the first girl that asked ye-me! And yer heart wasn't in making the arrest, or was it, Mike?"

Nietzel was only a meat salesman. Mike had seen his truck in town, off and on, for years. But with Nora believin' and with the Tunnel of Love so close . . . Mike took her arm. "Ah, Nora, who'd arrest an honest gintleman like the gypsy?" he said.

Milkweed Oil

About 22 per cent of the weight of the milkweed seed is a brown colored oil, which can be refined to a very pale color. Largely because of a lower iodine value, milkweed seed oil dries slower than soybean oil. However, like soybean oil, the milkweed seed oil could be used to advantage in blends with fast-drying oils, especially oiticica oil which displays a tendency to embrittle.
