Thought for the week:
"He that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life!" That is Jesus' word to our generation. And never did we need more to hear and heed it.

PASSION PLAY APRIL 7-MAY 26

The famous "American Passion Play" of Bloomington, Ill., will be presented for the 24th consecutive season this year. Nine performances, two more than last year, will be given including one evening presentation. The first performance will be on Sunday, April 7, at 1:30 p. m. Subsequent presentations will be given every Sunday afternoon during the months of April and May. A mid-week performance is scheduled for Wednesday, May 15, at 7:30 p. m.

All presentations will be given in the auditorium of the Scottish Rite Temple.

Harold D. Walters will portray the Christ, and Mary, Mother of Jesus, will be played by Clara Koogle who has performed this same role since the first production.

More than 250 farmers, bankers, mechanics, business men, laborers, and housewives of Central Illinois will doff their everyday habiliments to depict the old, yet ever new, story of the Man of Galilee, His life and His teachings. These ordinary, everyday people, from all walks of life, are not professional actors—nor do they try to be—they must live their roles.

The American Passion Play requires more than 60 scenes, using equipment and costumes valued at more than $150,000. Over forty tons of scenery, tempered by the most elaborate lighting system to be found in any theater, fade noiselessly and swiftly from one scene to another.

To Open Dump Ground On Saturday, March 9

Effective Saturday, March 9, the local dumping grounds will be open all day for four consecutive Saturdays.

By Order Village Board.

January Disasters Bring Quick Red Cross Action

Destructive floods and tornadoes beginning in early January were grim reminders that more Americans died in home-front accidents and disasters during World War II than as war casualties.

By mid-month the siege, brought on unseasonably early by warm weather and heavy rains, had claimed 54 dead and upwards of 150 hospitalized, records indicate. Thousands of families in rural areas of 11 midwestern and southern states were affected.

In Paterson, New Jersey, a new chapter disaster chairman successfully tackled problems of the worst flood in that city's history. Two days after a Red Cross disaster conference in Montgomery, Alabama, a tornado ripped through the city. Outstanding care given the injured wrote a bright page in the year's disaster history.

In states where polio outbreaks occurred, Red Cross chapter volunteers hurriedly improvised hospital articles. In Salt Lake City, Disaster Service supplied face masks, children's nightgowns, hospital shirts, surgical gowns for nurses, blankets, and sheets. When flannellette could not be found for hot packs, Red Cross supplied 1,000 diapers for the purpose.

But whether disaster or any of many other Red Cross services, all are available to people in rural communities no less than in large cities. Home nursing, farm accident prevention, assistance to families of men in uniform and to veterans—these services continue year-in, year-out. During March the Red Cross is appealing for $100,000,000. It needs every bit of that amount to meet obligations to the armed forces and civilian population.

"We all have a share in the American Red Cross," said Basil O'Connor, Red Cross Chairman, when announcing the appeal. "Let's all maintain that share by contributing generously to the 1946 Fund Campaign and keeping our Red Cross society the strongest in the world."

Longview High Music Students Receive Awards

The following soloists were awarded gold medals for:

Division I Rating—Rita Bergfeld, piano; Jean Paul Zenke, violin; Marianna Partenheimer, alto clarinet.

Two ensembles received Division II rating.
The mixed clarinet ensemble included the following—Elvira Biesterfeld, 1st clarinet; Eileen Bosch, 2nd clarinet; Marianna Partenheimer, alto clarinet; Dorothy Eckerty, bass clarinet.

The brass quartet included—Betty Lou Dyar, 1st cornet; Jean Paul Zenke, 2nd cornet; Louise Twigg, French horn; Maurice Buddemeier, trombone.

Both ensembles received the appropriate certificate of award.

The following soloists were awarded silver medals for Division II Rating—Helen Wilson, piano; Louise Twigg, French horn; Maurice Buddemeier, trombone.

Of the twelve Longview high school students taking part at Charleston, Saturday afternoon, March 2, ten participated in the awards. Paul G. Smith is director of music; Mr. H. H. Jarman, principal.

In floods and hurricanes, local Red Cross disaster units, through advance weather bureau advisories, have warned residents in time for safe evacuation; in remote sections, they have effected rescues. In all disasters, tornadoes, fires, floods, hurricanes, train wrecks, they have quickly sought out injured, given first aid, and arranged hospital care. Hundreds of thousands of homeless have been sheltered, clothed, and fed.

National 4-H Club Week March 2-10

Why have a 4-H Club? 4-H trains boys and girls for citizenship.

1. It gives young people the opportunity to work out their problems in a democratic manner.

2. Helps members learn skills and obtain knowledge of farm and home practices by actually doing them.

3. Teaches members how to produce and conserve for the peace effort.

4. Furnishes opportunities for the development of leadership in club and community activities.

5. Meets youth's needs for wholesome recreation and social activities.

Who can join a 4-H Club? Any town or rural boy or girl between the ages of ten and twenty-one. A Club must have at least five members and an adult leader. The Home Economic clubs are usually organized between April 1 and June 1. They are sponsored by the Champaign County Home Bureau in cooperation with the State University and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

What Projects are available this year?

1. Dairy Products—preparation of dishes using milk and cheese, milk drinks, desserts, baking.

2. Quick Breads—making of muffins, biscuits, gingerbread.

3. Yeast Bread—making rolls and bread.

4. Ways of using fruits and vegetables.

5. Food Preservation—including canning and freezing.

6. Outdoor Meals—preparing and cooking out-of-doors.

7. Clothing—making new garments, making over garments.

8. Old Furniture Made New—refinishing, upholstering, slip covers.

9. Flower Arrangements.

10. Party-a-Month—planning and directing games, etc.

Mayor McCormick Dies Suddenly, Monday

Rites Held This Thursday From Local U. B. Church; Burial at the Pleasant Ridge Cemetery.

C. D. McCormick, mayor of Broadlands for 18 years, was found dead about 9:30 a. m. Monday at the Broadlands Grain & Coal Company elevator. Mr. McCormick, who was formerly employed at the elevator for many years, stopped in at the scale office near the elevator, and after a chat with Guy Astell and Ortha Gore, regular employees, and James Crain, who was working there that day, remarked that he was going to the elevator for chicken feed and that if he didn't report in about an hour they would know where to find him. Mr. Gore states that Mr. McCormick had made the same remark many times in the past and that he thought nothing of it at the time. However, about 30 minutes later, the men went to the elevator and called to Mr. McCormick, but, receiving no reply they kept searching until they found him in an oats bin, with his sack partially filled. Mr. Crain was the first to find the body.

The mayor visited a Newman physician Saturday for diagnosis and treatment, and is believed to have died of a heart attack. He was 71 years old.

Funeral services were held from the local U. B. church, this Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. W. M. Robinson, pastor of the church, officiating. A quartet composed of Mesdames Fred Messman and Forrest Dicks and Messrs. Chas. A. Smith and O. P. Witt sang: "No Night There," "What A Friend We Have In Jesus," and "Nearer My God To Thee," with Mrs. O. P. Witt accompanying.

Burial was in the Pleasant Ridge cemetery, with Dicks Bros. in charge. Pallbearers were Messrs. Alonzo Zantow, Ortha Gore, Thos. Bergfeld, Frank Martinie, Herman Struck and Oscar Thode.

Mr. McCormick was born October 7, 1874, at Hume, son of Robert and Amantha McCormick, and came to the Broadlands vicinity as a small child. He was one of a family of ten children, three of whom are now living.

He married Betty Miller in September, 1899. She survives with six children, Orval and Roy McCormick, Broadlands; Mrs. Lillie Mohr, Homer; Mrs. Beulah Reed, Champaign; Mrs. Helen Wilson, near Broadlands; and Mrs. Opal Thode, Broadlands.

He leaves 17 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Edith Kalk, New Castle, Ind., and Mrs. Bertha Kracht of Broadlands; also a brother, John, Broadlands.

Mr. McCormick was a member of the Modern Woodmen lodge. After each storm comes sunshine, after the darkness, light, after the winter's dreary cold, come blossoms fair and white, Surely, it is God's wisdom that, after an aching heart, There shall be life eternal Where loved ones never part.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

A PEOPLE IN CONFUSION

LESSON TEXT: Judges 2:7, 11, 16-23. MEMORY SELECTION: The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear.—Hebrews 13:6.

Confusion is a word well suited to describe the world today. With the end of the war we had hoped for peace and goodwill, and what have we? We may learn from the experience of Israel the reasons for such confusion. They, too, had come into their land and should have had only peace and prosperity. Instead there were turmoil and disorder. Why?

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another is his law, which is perfect and eternal.

God is no respecter of persons. Even Israel, his own chosen nation, found that observing God's law meant blessing, and failure to do so brought judgment and sorrow. No man is great and powerful enough to ignore this rule, and none is exempt from its operation.

I. The Cause—Forgetting God (vv. 7, 11).

The Lord had promised the land to them as they went in and possessed it by faith in him. He fully kept that promise in the measure that they believed him. They never did take the whole land, but that was because of their failure, not God's.

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who remembered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

The fact that a nation has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to the Lord, and so began its awful drifting.

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising future. But what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glorious days are ahead! They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

It is a significant thing that our business and national leaders often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they themselves are so frequently not Christians. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

II. The Condition—National and Spiritual Confusion (vv. 16-19).

The history of the period of the judges in Israel is incomplete, but what we have shows the awful condition of the nation. Not only were they in separate tribes, but the people as a whole were divided into three groups—north and south of Jerusalem, and east of the Jordan. The moral and spiritual decay were evident in their turning to the immoral practices of Baal-worship.

One would have thought that God would give up a people so set on sinning, but he did not. He provided deliverance for Israel. That gives us courage, for we know that he has not given us up, but has provided in Christ a sure deliverance, if America will turn to him.

It is interesting to note that God works through men. Some of these judges were great men; others were just ordinary men. But each in his appointed place, at the appointed time, was God's man.

Confusion, sin and disobedience cannot be tolerated indefinitely. So Israel stubbornly went on to

III. The Conclusion—Judgment from God (vv. 20-23).

God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if he has to turn over his people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and national chastisement, and he is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks he can do it should read Psalm 139:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is very disquieting to the unbeliever.

They compromised with evil, and lost not only their testimony but their very spiritual life. They forsake God and took into their friendship the enemies of God, only to find that they were their own enemies.

We are in danger now of compromise with evil, both in our personal and in our national lives. As we do—and if we do—we may expect only disaster and judgment.

The League's Passing

While the world's statesmen are engaged in efforts to firmly establish the new United Nations Organization, the old League of Nations is being liquidated by its Control Commission, whose recommendations will be passed upon by a final session of the League Assembly.

Some of the agencies of the League will be taken over by the UNO, which will probably acquire the magnificent library of about 330,000 volumes. What is to be done with the League's palace at Geneva, Switzerland, with its priceless furnishings, has not yet been decided.

The massive palace of the League of Nations, built of concrete and covering an area of about 20,000 square yards, stands on a ridge in Geneva's Ariana Park, overlooking Lake Lemana, with towering snow-capped peaks of the Alps contributing to the impressiveness of the scene. The building of the palace, which cost $7,500,000 was begun in 1929, and it was first occupied in 1936 as Adolph Hitler plotted to destroy everything for which it stood.

Even before the palace was occupied, Japan and Germany had withdrawn from the League. Italy gave notice of withdrawal the following year (1937) and Russia was expelled in 1939 because of her aggression against Finland.

No sessions of the League Assembly have been held since 1939 and during the war most of the League's political activities were suspended. Some of its offices were removed to the United States, Britain and Canada. About 100 persons are still connected with the Secretariat at Geneva.

We never heard of any logical reason for not utilizing the facilities at Geneva for headquarters of the UNO, although various unconvincing arguments against it were made. It is said that many Swiss feared the presence of the headquarters there might serve to involve their little nation in war, but the fact that Switzerland escaped two World Wars should have dispelled that idea.

Wages And Prices

After a prolonged struggle behind the scenes among President Truman and his top administrative officials over wage and price policies, a somewhat vague formula has emerged, the practical effect of which cannot yet be predicted. The plan is designed to provide for increases of 15 per cent or more in wages, while attempting to hold down prices—a large order.

The central figure in the economic controversy is Chester Bowles, former head of the OPA who has been made economic stabilizer, with powers also rather vague, as he is technically subordinate to John W. Snyder, reconversion director. Bowles and Snyder have engaged in a bitter row over wage-price policies for several months with the President apparently siding with Bowles, while keeping Snyder in his supposedly higher job. Paul Porter succeeded Bowles as head of the OPA, presumably with authority over price ceilings.

In settling the big steel strike, workers were granted an increase in wages of 18½ cents an hour, while an increase of $5 a ton in the price of steel was permitted.

Now manufacturers are faced with higher steel prices, as well as demands for increased wages. In fact the government's policy has been to encourage demands for large wage increases everywhere.

Yet Mr. Bowles insists that all these additional costs can be met without any material increase in prices for goods and services if the OPA is continued. But the government was obliged to raise the price of steel to settle the strike. It will have to permit many other price increases in order to get the needed volume of production.

Sidelights

We were told that a few days ago, a man who appeared to have had just about one too many, visited a public library and after roaming around in the stacks, asked the librarian if she had a book called "Man, the Master of Women." She thought a moment and said: "The fiction department is on the other side."

The story is told of one Ezekial Jeremiah James who lived in the same house 40 years, and to the consternation of the entire community, up and moved one day to the house next door. It was the biggest news of the day and soon everyone began asking what the reason could be. Finally, someone got up the nerve to ask Mr. James why he made the move. The reply was: "W-a-a-l, guess it must be the gypsy in me."

We were told a few days ago of the sheriff who was notified that the wife of a certain citizen had to be taken to the insane asylum. The doctor suggested that he accompany the sheriff to the home in order to relieve the shock to the husband. The doctor broke the news to the man and remarked: "This is very sad. I wonder what caused it?" The husband shook his head and replied: "That's what I can't figure out, Doc. She ain't been out of the house in 40 years."

The First Methodist Church of Sterling, Ill., has just completed the installation of a beautiful carillon at the cost of $2,100. The entire populace waited to hear the chimes which were to be played each day. The first scheduled playing of the chimes did not come off as it was learned that, according to an ordinance, such was against the law. The law, aimed at loud-speaker advertising, was so worded as to affect the church chimes. A hurried amendment by city officials corrected the trouble.

A GI, stationed in a U. S. camp, had been telling his pals that shortly he was to become a father and began outlining all the things he and his son were going to do as he grew up. The fateful day arrived and he received a telegram advising him that his wife had given birth to an 8-pound girl. A bit down-hearted as he steeled himself against the ribbing that he was certain would soon follow, one of his buddies pointed to the usual advertising sticker on the message which read: "When you want a boy, call Western Union."

Shades of King Solomon! To Mrs. Delphine Ackerson a three-year-old terrier was Jiggs. To Mrs. Katherine Silva the pooch was known as Spot. Both claimed the dog and both would lure him to their homes with daily rations. Finally the matter was placed before Judge Samuel E. Freidman of the Bridgeport, Conn., city court. Mrs. Ackerson won the first legal round and the dog became Jiggs. But, as the result of a replevin action, the terrier returned to Mrs. Silva and became Spot. Confused as to certain claims presented by the two women, Judge Freidman took the matter into his own hands, and on the fact—that after months in Mrs. Silva's home the dog "fell all over Mrs. Ackerson, but ignored Mrs. Silva," awarded him to Mrs. Ackerson. He's Jiggs again.

CHURCH
by Mary Fowler

The Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church has given $160,000 from funds raised in its recent "Crusade for Christ" for the development of its medical college and hospital at Vellore, United Provinces, India, into the All-India Medical College, with extensive hospital services, nurse-training school, and other related institutions. Originally organized by the women of the Methodist Church and long serving in the training of young women as Indian nurses and medical practitioners, it now becomes a training center for men and women, and will be supported by eight Protestant denominations of the United States and Canada. It will be Protestantism's central training school for the healing ministry to all India's provinces.

Lies the Might of America

LOUISVILLE'S INDUSTRY

Three-fifths of the output of Kentucky's 1,700 industries by dollar value comes from plants in Louisville. About 75,000 wage earners in the state are paid some $70,000,000 annually to turn out items valued at over $600 millions. It's a fine showing for an essentially agricultural state and will go far to guarantee Savings Bonds for years to come.

Smile Awhile

A cold winter means a good crop to follow.

If you think money doesn't talk, then just try to telephone without a nickel.

What is a fox?
A fox is a wolf who sends flowers.

Complained the hen: "I give and what do I get for it? Chicken feed!"

I called her Checkers because she'd jump every time I made a move.

Then there's the guy who says marriage is like a bath—by the time you get used to it, it's not so hot.

Why, darling, what ails your eye? Why the bandage?
Don't be funny. This is my new hat.

If you refuse me, he swore, I shall die.
She refused him.
Sixty years later he died.

Spinster (piously)—Oh, Lord, I ask nothing for myself; but will you send dear mother a son-inlaw?

Helen—You like his attention. Why don't you marry him?
Betty—Because I like his attentions.

First Old Maid—I shiver every time I think of a handsome young man kissing me.
Second Old Maid—And here I been thinking you had St. Vitus Dance all these years.

A bricklayer working on the top of a very high building accidentally knocked a brick off the scaffolding with his foot and it unfortunately landed on the head of a Negro who was passing.
Negro, shouting—Be careful up there, Big Boy. You made me bite mah tongue.

An old lady, who was about to die, told her niece to bury her in her black silk dress, but to cut the back out and make herself a dress.
Oh, Aunt Mary, said the niece, I don't want to do that. When you and Uncle Charlie walk up the golden stairs, I don't want people to see you without any back in your dress.
To which the old lady replied: They won't be looking at me. I buried your Uncle Charlie without his pants.

Functional Designs

Clothing designs are more functional than they might at first seem, and the machine age has left an indelible impress on the industry. Of the many factors affecting fashions, the automobile—in its 50-year evolution from the towering, noisy, one or two-cylinder, five-mile-an-hour horseless carriage of the gay nineties to the streamlined, fluid-drive, silent motor car of the mid-Twentieth century—has had a potent effect. The linen "duster" and flowing motoring veil that are laugh-provoking museum pieces today were necessary equipment for the motorist of 50 years ago, who rode in an open car over dusty roads. His clothes were only too obviously functional. But with the advent of closed cars and effective heaters, the motorist no longer needed these extra protections against the elements. Today, he is even protected from extreme summer heat by air-conditioning in his automobile.

Cell Constituent

Defined by chemists as a sterol, one of the high-molecular weight cyclic alcohols, cholesterol is a normal constituent of every living animal cell. It also is found in the blood, the bile, and is the main ingredient of certain types of gallstones. There is little true cholesterol in any food of vegetable origin, recent tests show. In milk it is associated with the fat and hence the amount in skim milk is negligible; likewise there is almost none in egg white. Egg yolk and brains are the only foods which contain more than 1 per cent cholesterol. Most muscle meats contain only about 0.1 per cent cholesterol, and there is little evidence that this amount is likely to cause trouble in any diet.

Brazilian Palm Tree Yields Valuable Wax

Heralded as the world's most valuable vegetable wax, carnauba wax is a product of the carnauba palm tree. The entire world's supply comes from the northeast area of Brazil, and about 70 per cent of the annual harvest goes to the United States.

Carnauba wax comes from the fanlike leaves, radiating from the crown of the tree. Giving the appearance of a coating of dust, the wax forms during the dry season, preventing excessive water evaporation from the tree. Drouth increases the yield of wax, but a severe drouth over a period of several years may kill the tree. Young trees begin to produce wax after 8 or 10 years.

In harvesting the wax, largely from wild trees, the stems are cut and the leaves collected as they fall to the ground. Cut leaves are sundried for three to five days, during which their wax coating becomes a flour-like dust. In a windproof shed the dried leaves are beaten to liberate the dust, which is placed in clay vessels and melted down into wax, or mixed with a small quantity of water and boiled. When dissolved, the wax is strained through a coarse cloth or wooden press to remove some of the impurities, and then allowed to cool. The solidified mass is broken into small pieces and packed in bags for shipment to market.

Puerto Ricans Seek Greater Governing Power

Virtually all Puerto Ricans ask for a broader governing act to replace the organic act of 1917, which granted American citizenship to all the island's people but limited their citizenship rights.

That act, with amendments, provides that the island's governor shall be from the continental United States; and that he and other top officials including five Supreme court justices shall be appointed by the senate of the United States. Puerto Ricans aged 21 and over elect the members of their own 19-man senate and 39-man house and their resident commissioner at Washington.

Seeking their full rights as United States citizens, the islanders would like to choose their own governor, who has the power to veto acts of their island congress. And since the U. S. congress can also override actions of the island legislators, Puerto Ricans would like their elected resident commissioner at Washington, who sits with the U. S. house of representatives, to have a vote as well as a voice in that body.

Diet Affects Teeth

Children in one family who show varying degrees of susceptibility to dental decay may be subsisting on different diets even though they eat at the same table, says Dr. Nina Simmonds of the University of California. Dr. Simmonds recalls a family which recently came to the dental clinic. Two sisters, aged ten and thirteen years of age, showed almost no tooth decay; their brother, six years old, who lived in the same household had scarcely a tooth which was not diseased. After questioning the mother, Dr. Simmonds concluded that the explanation was as follows: The boy, who was the apple of his father's eye, was undisciplined so that he was eating only what he chose, mostly starches and sweets. Although there was good nourishing food on the table, containing adequate amounts of such nutrients as proteins, fats, minerals, and vitamins, he was getting almost none of these substances which he needed for healthy teeth.

Governor Meant What He Said

State Police Force Is Best In The Country And Composed Of Many Vets.

Governor Green wasn't fooling when he declared that Illinois' state highway police force MUST and would be the finest in the country. His insistence that every new state highway policeman be of high moral character with a natural aptitude for police work, and then be trained thoroughly for the job before he is issued a uniform, should set a new level for this important law-enforcement agency. It is a move that might well be employed in some of our Illinois cities.

Every one of the 71 candidates now in training at the state police school in Chicago is a veteran of World War II, a requisite which the Governor insisted be made a part of the law passed by the General Assembly increasing the force from 350 to 500 men. Sixty-one of these 71 new men at the second school term are former commissioned and non-commissioned officers in the armed forces, including captains, lieutenants, flight officers, ensigns, sergeants and corporals. Seven hold Purple Heart awards, and 198 battle stars are represented. These men were chosen from more than 2,000 applicants and after they had passed the scrutiny of the Director of the State Department of Public Safety, his staff and the police merit council.

Under the guidance of nationally famous instructors, the new men are learning courtesy to the public, first aid, crime prevention, causes of juvenile delinquency, scientific aids to crime prevention, and other allied subjects which will fit them for doing an intelligent job. Thanks to Governor Green, Illinois' state highway police force has really come to the front.

Vets May Train as Farm Operators Under G. I. Bill

Under the amended G. I. Bill, veterans may now be trained "on the job" as farm operators and receive a subsistence allowance for themselves and their dependents, in addition to farm wages.

Veterans' service officer Ray S. Helm, with offices at 322 N. Neil street, Champaign, has the particulars, having just returned from a conference of farm advisers, agricultural teachers and other agencies, where this new farm management program was explained.

Illinois is one of the first states in the nation to institute the apprentice and on-the-job training programs in the farming industry. The objective is to make successful farm operators of those who participate, and is designed to prevent students from developing into mere farm laborers.
