Sermon: "Miracle of Conversion."

No man can be more fixed in his prejudice against the New Testament doctrine of salvation by grace through faith than Saul of Tarsus once was; no man can be more decided in his opinion that those views are false than the same man was decided in his faith that they are true.

He came to his convictions in the face of all the influence of education, of bitter hatred, or of contemptuous disregard on the part of his friends. The only way we can explain it: The Miracle of conversion.

Kerkhoff, Mrs. Geo. Dohme, Mrs. Karl Partenheimer, Mrs. E. C. Schumacher, Mrs. Irene Wiese is 4-H Chairman; Mrs. Lois Beatty is Vice Chairman. Carl Zenke and Harold Anderson are Agriculture leaders.

Mrs. Ora Wiese gave a final report on the past year's salvage, 191 lbs. of fat and 360 lbs. of paper being collected.

3. The Home Bureau is supported by Federal funds and can bar no one from meetings, regardless of race, color or creed. Cannot advertise any commercial product; cannot enter politics; cannot have religious prejudices.

Mrs. Esther K. Thor, Home Adviser, was present and gave the major lesson, "Broadening and Deepening Our Social Attitudes," which was very timely and instructive.

Mrs. Johanna Goldenstein read a poem, "My Creed," and Mrs. Thelma Clem read a poem, "A Package of Seed," by Edgar A. Guest. Mrs. Edith Woolverton had charge of the music.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Board Fails to Adopt Daylight Saving Time

The village board met in special session Wednesday night to vote on the proposition of adopting daylight saving time. Only four aldermen being present, the vote was tied, two for and two against the proposition. Acting Mayor L. E. Skinner was present but did not choose to vote either for or against the proposition.

However, it was decided to send out notices to all residents of the community and let them choose or reject daylight saving time by voting yes or no.

Accordingly, we expect to be able to tell our readers what the verdict is in our next week's issue.

Since practically all surrounding communities have now adopted daylight saving time, would it not be best for all concerned for us to follow suit?

Within the next day or two you will receive a post card on which to express your preference. Vote yes or no on the card and promptly return it to the clerk of the village of Broadlands and you'll soon know the verdict.

Barton Parish, 74, Mrs. Wise, 62, Killed by Train

Homer, May 18—Barton M. Parish, 74, Homer, and Mrs. Ora Wise, 62, his housekeeper were killed instantly at 5:10 p. m., DST, Saturday, when the car in which they were riding was struck by a westbound Wabash fast freight train on the Broadlands-Homer hard road about two miles southwest of Homer.

Mr. Parish and Mrs. Wise were returning to their farm home west of Homer after voting in a special election at Victory schoolhouse and the crash was witnessed by several people in the school yard, adjacent to the railroad tracks.

According to reports given Dr. W. F. Lamkin, Champaign county coroner, the train was traveling at a fast rate of speed, when it hit the Parish car squarely and carried it more than half a mile up the tracks before stopping. Mr. Parish's body was thrown clear of the wreckage approximately 200 feet from the scene of the accident, but Mrs. Wise's body remained in the car. The car was completely demolished.

Dr. Lamkin said that the crossing was clear and was equipped with standard railroad crossing signs. He said witnesses could give no reason for the accident.

Mrs. Wise, who had lived at times in Champaign, St. Joseph and Ogden, came to Homer recently to serve as housekeeper for Mr. Parish. She is survived by five sons.

Mr. Parish, who was born Feb. 18, 1872, came to his present home from Allerton about 16 years ago. He was a 50-year Mason and had farmed most of his life. His wife, the former Ethel Yeazel, died about three years ago. He is survived by two sons, Francis, of Danville; and Paul, Cleveland, Ohio.

Three sisters preceded him in death in addition to the brother, George.

The body was scheduled to arrive in Danville Thursday noon and was taken to the Edmund & Dickson Funeral Home. FINDING A NEW SENSE OF VALUES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 12:19, 20; 18:24-30; 19:1-10.
MEMORY SELECTION—The kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.—Romans 14:17.

Money, riches, possessions—that's what men are living and striving for in our day. It is going to seem a bit strange, but it will be very salutary to stress once again the eternal truth, best summarized by our Lord Jesus when he said, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (Luke 12:15).

I. Don't Depend on Riches (12:19, 20).

The rich man increased in selfishness as he increased in wealth. He began to feel secure because he had laid up much goods. Now he became proud and boastful. He thought he saw years of comfort and ease ahead. Evidently he had not read, or did not believe, the words of Scripture, "Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth" (Prov. 27:1; see also James 4:13-17).

Well, can a man depend on riches? The answer is no. They are here today and gone tomorrow. Man himself is here today and gone tomorrow. When he goes, he leaves all that he has unless he has invested it for God.

Money is like a broken reed. The man who leans on it will not only fall, but will pierce himself through with many sorrows (I. Tim. 6:9, 10). Don't depend on riches—they will miserably fail you in your hour of need.

II. Beware of the Snare of Riches (18:24-27).

The rich young ruler had come running to Jesus to seek eternal life, but had turned away sorrowful when he found that a man cannot love money and love God at the same time.

Jesus improved the opportunity to point out that it is impossible for a rich man to be saved, except as the grace of God gets hold of him and sets him free from dependence on his wealth.

Apart from the grace of God, it is so easy for a rich man or woman to trust in riches, and to feel no need of God.

Look again at I Timothy 6:9, 10 and you will see that even the desire to be rich leads a man into a temptation and a snare. The man of God is warned to "flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness," and thus to be able to "fight the good fight of faith" (I Tim. 6:11, 12).

We repeat that all this has a strange sound to modern ears, so accustomed to the worldly philosophy of trust in things and in dollars. We need to warn our young men and women about the awful danger of loving money.

There is something infinitely better than riches, and that is what we find in our next point.

III. Seek True Riches in Christ (18:28-30).

Peter and the other disciples had forsaken all the things of the world to follow Christ, and now as he reminds the Lord of that fact, he receives the assurance that there is a higher level of riches and reward for the loyal disciple.

God will never be in debt to anyone. There is no sacrifice made for his glory which does not find its glorious recompense, and no burden borne for his sake which does not bring its rich reward.

All this is not the result of some kind of a "deal" with God. We do not serve him because we expect a reward, but the assurance of the reward is there to encourage and spur us on in life and service for him.

The fact is, spiritual currency has far higher value than the gold and silver of this world.

IV. Ask Christ to Deliver You From Riches (19:1-10).

Zacchaeus was a man well versed in the devious ways of the extortioner. He knew money, and how to make it. But he was not satisfied. He knew there was something more worth while than riches. His life was empty.

He sought Jesus. One look from the Master and he knew that he must lay his sinful heart open before him in confession. Salvation came to Zacchaeus that day.

Here, then, is the way to be delivered from the snare of riches—take Jesus Christ as your Saviour and Lord. He may then entrust riches to your care to use for him, but he will deliver you from a love for gold and from the folly of putting your trust in it.

The person who lives for riches is lost (v. 10), caught in a snare (I Tim. 6:9, 10), trusting in something that will fail him when most needed (Luke 12:19, 20), and trusting something which will keep him from God (Luke 18:24-27), unless there is grace to flee from it and turn to God.

U. S. Failing in Relief

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration was formed early in 1945, with the United States as its principal sponsor, for the purpose of aiding the distressed in foreign countries, but it got off to a rather poor start, with appropriations being delayed and its administration encountering many difficulties.

Through delayed action the United States is now unable to fulfill its promises to the famine sufferers throughout the world. Those promises were little enough in the first place, and the failure to make them good is tragic.

Recently the Department of Agriculture stated that the promised export of wheat for the stricken countries for the period from Jan. 1 to May 8 had fallen short 881,000 tons.

At the same time it was admitted that the Combined Food Board, composed of representatives of the United States, Canada and Britain, would be unable to meet minimum requirements for food in the famine areas during May.

Meanwhile, it is conservatively estimated that no less than 1,000 elaborate banquets, at which 60 per cent of the food served is wasted, are held in the United States every night, and the American people as a whole are consuming or wasting more food than ever before in their history.

At the same time, unnumbered millions elsewhere are reduced to slow starvation, or are already dead of hunger. Many are resorting to the eating of roots, grass, bark, and even clay, in a last pitiful effort to relieve the pangs of their famished stomachs. For crop failures, due to drought last year in most of Europe and Asia, were the worst ever known.

This great drought, coming immediately after the ravages of war, was a world disaster that may prove more destructive of human life than the war itself.

In many regions the situation may be even worse this year. The people have few farm animals and little machinery with which to till their infertile soil, and there is a scarcity of seed and almost no fertilizer.

Some new life has been put into the UNRRA by the appointment of former Mayor LaGuardia of New York as director-general, although he has been vexed by the many difficulties he has encountered.

Appeals for the voluntary conservation of food have not been very effective. The American people would willingly stand some rationing in order that the starving might have bread, and rationing is the only equitable method by which the appalling situation can be relieved.

85 Percent of Nation's Expenditures Go For War

America's war costs since the adoption of the constitution total more than the nation's entire accumulation of wealth since that time, the University of Illinois has reported.

The University's Bureau of Economic and Business Research has issued a statement saying that since 1789 approximately 85 percent of all federal expenditures have gone for purposes connected with war.

Wars have cost America $414,000,000,000, the report said, in comparison with a total evaluation of property and wealth in this country of $300,000,000,000.

The Revolution cost $500,000,000; the Civil war cost $14,000,000,000; World war I cost $33,000,000,000. The Mexican war, Indian wars and Spanish-American war brought the total direct war cost by 1921 to $52,000,000,000. World war II cost $320,000,000,000. To these figures must be added interest payments on the public debt and military pensions, the bureau said.

Smile Awhile

Grandpa, did you once have hair like snow?

Yes, my boy.
Well, who shoveled it off?

Teacher—What can you tell me about corpuscles?

Johnny—My father was a corpuscle in France.

Vacationist—Any big men born here?

Native—Nope; best we can do is babies.

Son—What is meant by the board of education?

Dad—Well, in my time, son, it was a heavy shingle.

Captain—I can't eat this stuff. Bring me the Mess Sergeant.

Dumb Private—No use, Captain, he's too tough to eat.

Bus Driver—How old are you little girl?

Little Girl—If you don't mind, big boy, I'll pay full fare and keep my statistics to myself.

Solicitor—Can I sell you a ticket in a raffle for a poor veteran?

Housewife—Not a chance. I got me a poor veteran by marriage.

So now you and your son are carrying on the business together?

Not exactly. I run the business and my son does the carrying on.

Visitor—Now that you have a new baby, doesn't it brighten up your life a lot?

Small Boy—It sure does. We have the light on most of the night now.

A little East Side New York boy was taken on a trip to the country by his aunt. Suddenly he called out, "Look aunty! A boid!"

She said, "That's a bird, dear, not a boid."

"Well," replied the boy, "it choips like a boid."

A psychiatric board was testing the mentality of a soldier. Do you ever hear voices without being able to tell who is speaking or where the voices come from? he was asked.

Yes, sir, answered the soldier.

And when does this occur?
When I answer the telephone.

The neighborhood doctor came out of the bedroom to talk to the anxious husband. "I don't like the way your wife looks at all," he announced.

"Well Doc," replied the husband, "to be honest with you, I don't care much for her looks either, but she always takes good care of the kids and me, so I figger it's worth it."

I Work for a Dame

By ETHELYN PARKINSON
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

I GUESS everybody's heard who my boss is this summer, but no one's going to rib me. My boss has a cooler business head than any man in the contracting business. I know that—now.

Before school was out the gang began to brag about their vacation jobs. Jack was going to the railroad shops, eight-hour days at 65 cents per. Jerry got in at the Main Street Tire and Battery. It was just my luck to have to work for a dame, and my aunt at that!

I didn't have much choice. Dad's in service—he was a captain in the first war. Mom's jittery about "bringing up" Sis and me alone. "I won't have to worry, Milton, if you're under your Aunt Alice's eye."

"But, mom, how can I tell Mary Ellen or the fellows that I'm working for a da—a lady? And Aunt Alice calls me 'dear'! She doesn't know I've grown up since she read Peter Rabbit to me. If you want me to learn the contractor's business, there's Mr. Trathen. His offices are right across from Aunt Alice's. She could still keep an eye on me."

Mom got stern, for her. "Milton, this is settled. You will work for Aunt Alice until she discharges you."

Aunt Alice had me running a mimeograph and the switchboard. I was under her eye, all right. I guess I wasn't too smart, and I spent lots of time mooning across at Mr. Trathen's offices but Aunt Alice didn't mind.

Then Mr. Trathen advertised for a boy. I wished I could get Aunt Alice to fire me. One day I was thinking hard about that and suddenly I happened to make a little clicking noise with my tongue. Aunt Alice was bending over some papers and I saw her wince. I had it! I knew how to make her get rid of me!

I had a date with Mary Ellen that night, so I experimented. About the third time I clicked my tongue she blew up. "For goodness sake, Milt, do you have to keep clicking that way? It's a terribly annoying habit."

I hoped so. I practiced a lot when I was alone.

On Sunday I went out to dinner with Mom and Sis. Almost without thinking, I clicked my tongue. Sis jumped on me. I was getting good.

Monday I started working on Aunt Alice. The first time I clucked in her office, I didn't look at her. The next day I clucked twice while she was busiest. She didn't look up but she said, "Milton, did you deliver the Branson blueprints?" It was working!

By Thursday I could see that I was getting on Aunt Alice's nerves. I wasn't surprised, Saturday, when she called me in. "Milton," she said, "I promised your mother I'd see to you all summer. But I suspect you'd like to work for a man, and Mr. Trathen has asked for you. Would you like to go to work for him Monday?"

"Oh, boy!" She kind of winced, and I realized I'd clicked my tongue. "Of course, if you need me—"

"I want you to be happy, dear. Mr. Trathen is high-strung, irascible at times. Don't let him frighten you."

Monday, Mr. Trathen's receptionist leered at me. "Funniest faces, in the newest places," she said. I was the fifth office boy in three weeks, she meant. But I wasn't working for her.

"Hey, boy!" Mr. Trathen yelled, "run this through the mimeo." The machine was in the corner of his room and he was dictating. But all of a sudden he changed his mind about me. "Hey, boy! Miss Smith can do that. You take these reports across the river."

I really worked that day. My legs were too tired to take me on a date that night. I hoped I'd be in the office the next day—and I was, for a while. In no time Mr. Trathen stopped dictating and roared, "Boy! Miss Smith has some errands for you."

At the end of two weeks I was petrified. One Saturday evening Aunt Alice came over and asked me to show her my garden. Outside, she put her arm around me. "Milton," she said, "would you like to come back to work for me?"

Suddenly I knew that was the only thing in the world I wanted. I'm over 16 and almost 6 feet tall, but I might as well bawled, I was so glad. "But—Mr. Trathen—"

"Mr. Trathen came over to say it would be all right."

"He—did?" I gasped. "He—fired me?"

"Maybe," Aunt Alice laughed. "I know I've been preoccupied. But I'd have noticed if you had any annoying habits. Mr. Trathen's henny. He says you get on his nerves with some boyish mannerism—clicking your tongue, I believe he mentioned!"

Urged to Make Appeals For Emergency Food Collection

Ministers of all faiths have been urged to make special appeals for the Emergency Food Collection now under way in thousands of communities throughout the nation, it was announced today by Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, the national chairman of the campaign to relieve hunger and starvation in famine-stricken lands. The collection of cash to buy food economically in large quantities and of gifts of food canned in tin is on behalf of UNRRA, of which F. H. LaGuardia is Director General.

Mr. Wallace has explained that cash contributions are preferred so that food may be bought in quantity lots at a lower price, and also so as to save sorting, packing and the shipping costs. Gifts of food canned in tin are also sought, especially from contributors who have such food on hand.

Notice of Claim Day

Notice is hereby given to all persons that the 3rd day of June, 1946, is the claim date in the estate of Ora Hamilton Hedrick, Deceased, pending in the County Court of Champaign County, Illinois, and that claims may be filed against the estate on or before said date without issuance of summons.

Warnings against inflation are beginning to reach us country people with increasing force and frequency. Nearly all the experts who comment on it say we have inflation already but it can get much worse. Accurate definitions of inflation are rather complicated. In fact, some of the definitions are harder to understand than the condition itself, such as we all can see by looking around.

When just about everybody has spending money in their pockets because they can't find enough of the things they want to buy, that is where inflation begins. The results are quite natural. Automatically people start bidding against each other for what items they do find, and prices advance far beyond real values. Then, no matter what we buy, we are squandering money.

Regulation Prices.

What we need to cure inflation is plain to see: more things to buy. That's all it takes. If I need a hat and can find only one that fits my head and suits my taste, the dealer can (unless restrained by law) charge me whatever he wishes. I may rebel at the price but somebody else will pay it and the merchant will not need to worry about me. What will set the matter straight? More hats!

When hats are offered by every haberdasher in town, some competitor is certain to lower his prices to increase sales. Another will try to outdo him, and this competition continues until falling prices get too near cost to go cheaper. It is that simple. Goods are the scare-crows that frighten away inflation. Whatever interferes with the production of merchandise only makes inflation worse.

Artificial Feeding

Inflation is like hunger. It is a want that has the full force of a need. Hunger includes a craving that throws a person's sense of values completely out of plumb. Food is the only satisfactory answer to the hunger question and, just so, goods are the only sound solution to inflation. There are trick ways to hold prices down, when goods have to be scarce, but they are only temporary help.

Once in a while somebody has a strange ailment that makes eating impossible, or very dangerous. Physicians deny such a patient food while they try to adjust the malady. Sometimes they use drugs to make the patient sleep and forget his craving; sometimes they flow energizing liquids into the blood-stream, but it is no diet. Nobody can live on it; it only makes starvation slower.

War Is a Malady

During the war, people in America were rightly denied goods; there were not enough workmen; not enough factories, not enough materials to supply the nation's defenders, our men and their allies. Consumer goods were scarce and a lot of people had extra money. All prices would have skyrocketed but government restrained it by law. It was an emergency—drastic remedy; no complaint.

Price controls did not contribute anything permanent to this country's economic strength, however. They simply eased the shock for civilians who had to undergo economic surgery or perish of dictatorship. Now the ordeal is over and the patient is wholesomely hungry for merchandise. Every regulation that now retards production should be removed or relaxed in the public interest.

Gov. Dwight H. Green Gives Memorial Day Proclamation

In his Memorial Day proclamation, Gov. Dwight H. Green averred that World War II has given world-wide scope to this annual day of recollection. "The hallowed dust of Americans who died for our republic now rests in the soil of every continent," the Governor's proclamation said. "Feeling these new sorrows keenly, we appreciate more clearly the devoted gallantry that has guarded our country in every generation of her history."

"To honor the memory of our heroic dead on this especially appointed occasion is at once our duty and our privilege."

May Rains Avert Threatened Drouth

After the driest Illinois April in more than a decade, the May rains have been highly beneficial in averting a threatened drouth. Weather permitting, corn planting will be in full swing next week in the main Illinois corn belt.

When planting is held off until late May or early June there is less danger of serious corn borer damage, but there is increased risk of having a crop of soft or immature corn.

The latest crop report of state and federal departments of agriculture predicts that the 1946 Illinois winter wheat crop will be one of the smallest in recent years—18.0 bushels per acre for a total of 23,490,000 bushels.

Three Year Old Boy Killed By Truck at Sidell, May 9

(Sidell Journal)

Ray, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Titus, was struck by a limestone truck driven by J. L. Clapp of Arcola on Thursday, May 9, about 11:00 o'clock. He died a few minutes later in the office of Dr. C. C. Dillon.

The accident happened on the west side of Hooker's Garage as the little boy darted back across the road from behind a car, after having followed his father across the street to the garage and suddenly decided to run back to his father's truck just as Mr. Hooker opened the garage door for him to enter. He hit the truck about midway and was knocked to the ground, the double back wheels running the full length of his body. The accident was unavoidable as it happened so suddenly those standing near were helpless to prevent it. The state police soon arrived to investigate the accident.

Besides the parents he is survived by one sister about one and a half years old.

Illinois State Capitol News

Nearly one hundred men are working at the Illinois state fairgrounds, Springfield, preparing the place for this year's fair, to be held Aug. 9 to 18. The United States war department, which has been in possession of the grounds since March, 1942, has officially returned them to the state.

The cost of Illinois old age pensions for April, including hospital care, was $4,306,433, according to the Illinois public aid commission. A total of 125,217 persons received pensions, and the average monthly payment was $34.39.

A survey by the state teachers college board shows that teachers' salaries in Illinois have increased substantially during the last five years and that the trend is still upward. The salaries of all teachers who obtained positions through the placement bureaus of the five Illinois state teachers colleges in this period were considered in the survey.

Salaries for beginning high school teachers increased approximately 51 per cent between 1941 and 1946, and those of elementary teachers increased 55 per cent. The salaries being offered for inexperienced teachers for next fall range from $1700 to $1870.

Governor Dwight H. Green has announced the allocation of $21,427,500 among all the counties of Illinois for improvement of federal-aid roads. The fund, to be available during three fiscal years ending June 30, 1948, is made up of $7,142,500 furnished by the state of Illinois, and $14,285,000 federal money. The counties will be required to furnish an additional $7,142,500, and may use the motor fuel tax funds allotted to them by the state in providing their share of the matching funds.

The present allocation is wholly apart from the $15,000,000 appropriated by the General Assembly at its last session for farm-to-market roads.
