Budget Balance In Doubt

A balanced Federal budget for the current fiscal year, which began July 1, is the nation's biggest financial question.

Weighing government estimates against business trends and congressional appropriations, fiscal experts say a balanced budget for the 1946-47 bookkeeping year may or may not be achieved, depending on whether Treasury receipts are greater than now expected.

Budget estimates pointing to a balance in the current year, after more than a decade of record-breaking deficits, have been upset by appropriations greater than anticipated early in 1946. Meanwhile, receipts also have held up better than expected and further gains in revenues may result from business improvement.

Economists are watching the budget with particular interest now because a balanced Federal budget is regarded as one of the most effective means of checking the inflationary trend in prices.

June Kemper, Sidney, Sgt. Holbrook Wed

Sidney—Before an altar decorated with white hydrangeas and banked with palms and candelabra, Miss June Kemper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kemper, Sidney, became the bride of Sergeant James Holbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Holbrook, of Franklin, N. C.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Gordon Waggoner at 7 p. m. Friday, Aug. 2, in the Sidney Methodist church.

Mrs. Kathleen Bray attended her sister as matron of honor, while Mrs. Bray's daughter Connie, served as flower girl. Chas. P. McCarrey, uncle of the bride, was best man. V. I. Johnston served as usher.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pastel grey dress trimmed with white eyelet lace. Her accessories were of white lace and she carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and white gladioli.

Mrs. Bray wore an aqua dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow-orange gladioli. The little flower girl was in white.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for the wedding guests.

Mrs. Holbrook was graduated from the Sidney high school and attended Illinois Commercial college. She was employed at Time, Inc., for 18 months. Sgt. Holbrook was graduated from the Franklin high school and has served in the army for 46 months. He is now stationed at Chanute Field. The couple will reside in Rantoul.

Louis Williamson Dies In Pennsylvania

(Newman Independent)

News was received in Newman Thursday afternoon of last week of the death of Louis Williamson. Particulars of his death were not known, but the funeral was held at the Phelps' Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon, at Waterford, Pa., with burial there.

Mr. Williamson had been in very poor health for the past several months, and was confined to his bed for weeks. The Williamsons resided in Newman for years. They owned the Williamson Market, on the west side of the square in this city.

(Editors' Note: The deceased was formerly a resident of this place.)

Letters To The Editor

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 9-'46
Friend Joe—Enclosed find money order for renewal of your paper, as I always look forward to receiving it.

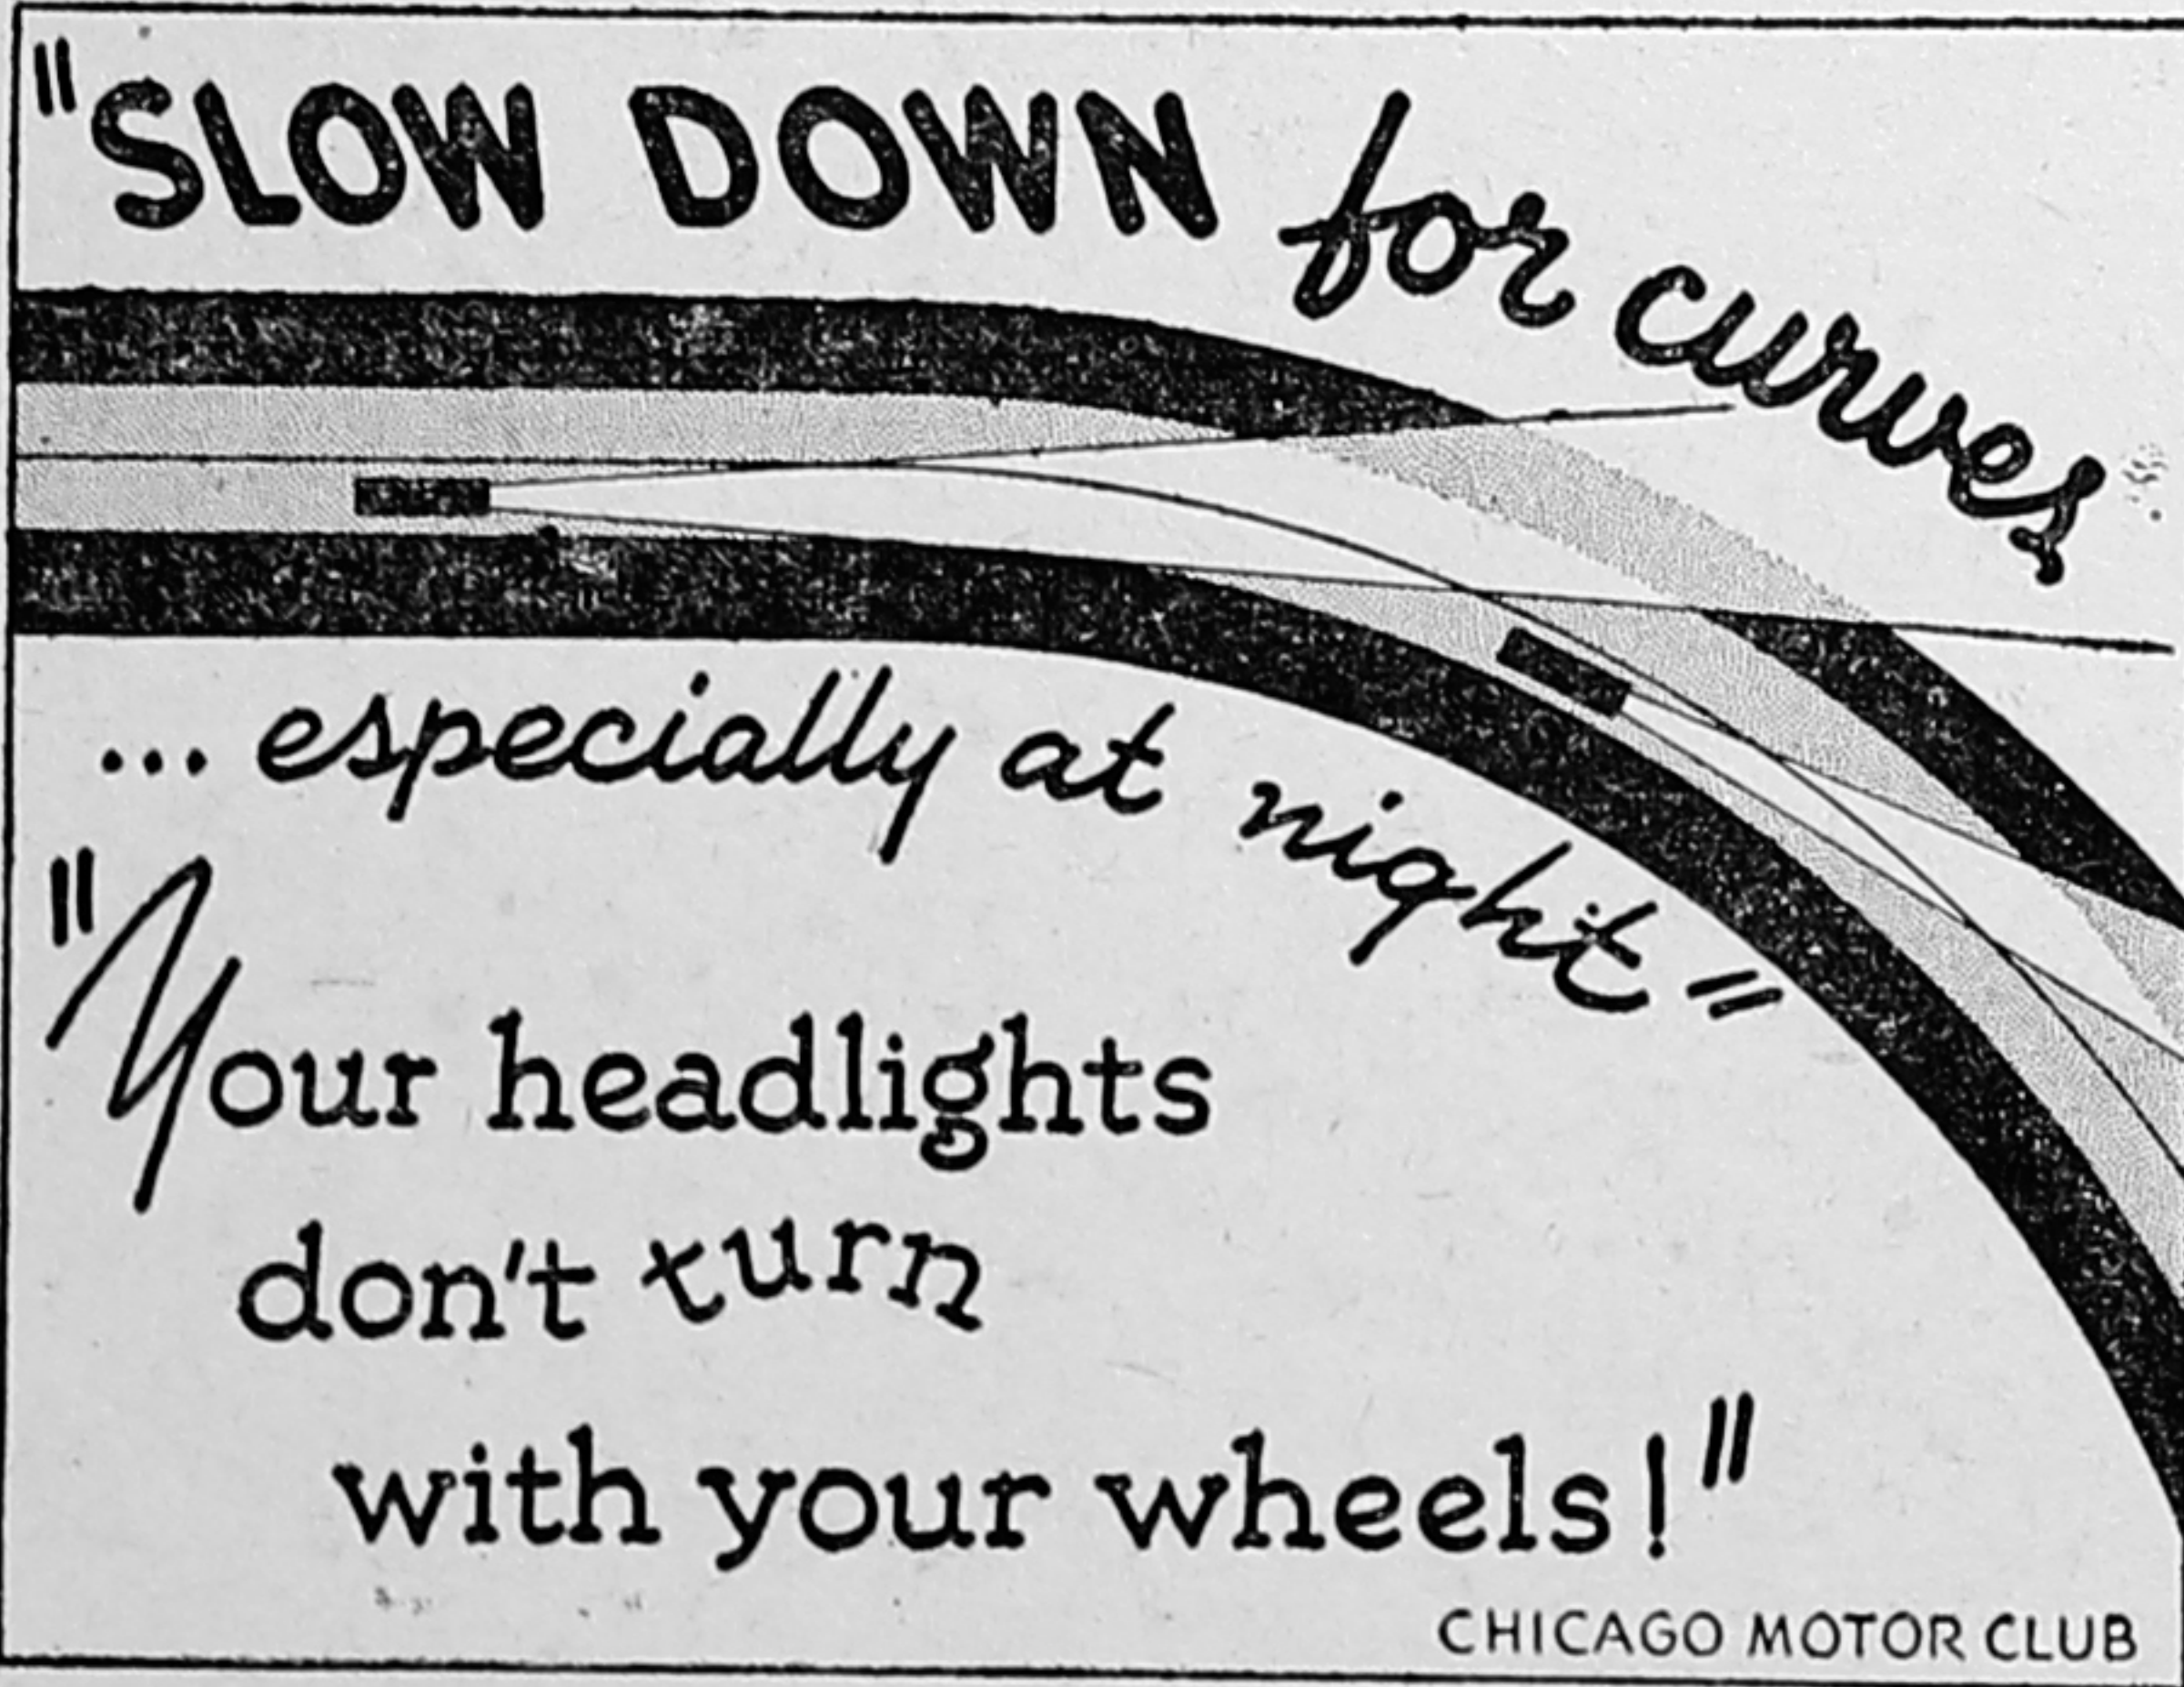

How is everybody? Fine I hope. I feel great as today was my birthday, so I am starting another year.

We are having very warm weather today but the past week was rather cool, but such is life.

Give all my best regards. With best wishes and health to you, I remain as ever,

Lee R. Bowman.

A heavy rain visited this locality Monday night and continued all day Tuesday.

Illinois State Capitol News

The squirrel-hunting season will open in the central zone of Illinois Aug. 15 and run through Oct. 30. In the southern third of the state the season opened July 15, to close Oct. 15. The season in northern Illinois will extend from Sept. 1 through November 15.

A marked increase in the squirrel population has been noted by field men of the state department of conservation, and a good shooting season is expected.

Illinois oil production during July is estimated at 6,479,000 barrels, as against 6,210,000 barrels for June, according to the monthly report of the state geological survey. Daily average production in July increased to 209,000 barrels from 207,000 barrels in June.

Six extensions to pools and six new pays in pools were discovered during July. During four weeks in July, 193 wells were completed, 112 of them producers having a daily average initial flow of 100 barrels.

Illinois sportsmen are to have a shortened duck hunting season and a reduced bag limit this fall. The migratory waterfowl season will open Oct. 26 and run thru Dec. 9, a total of 45 days. Last year the season extended 80 days. The daily bag limit on ducks has been cut to seven, while possession limit is 14.

There will be no open season this year on Canadian geese, including Hutchins, Cackling and White Front geese. Blue and snow geese may be hunted from Oct. 26 to Dec. 9, with bag and possession limit four.

The reasons assigned by federal authorities for the tightened regulations are a decreased number of wildfowl and an increase of something like 40% in the number of hunters.

Mrs. K. Fuller Given Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Kenneth Fuller, a recent bride, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower Friday evening, August 8, in the Newman Methodist Church basement.

The hostesses were Miss Marilyn Miller of Broadlands; Miss Patricia Six of Allerton; and Miss Alberta Culton of Newman.

About forty guests were present and Mrs. Fuller was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations, and also in the refreshments which consisted of punch, ice cream and cake.

Entertainment during the evening was furnished by Myrle Maxwell, who sang "The Blue Bird," and played "Always;" and Miss Margaret Morris, who gave a reading, and sang the "Indian Love Call."

B. C. C. School To Open Aug. 26 For Reistration

The Broadlands Community Consolidated school will open at nine o'clock Monday morning, Aug. 26 for registration. Registering early will enable parents and pupils to obtain needed supplies.

School will begin on Sept. 3, following Labor Day, Principal Geo. H. Cook announces.

Thus far the board of education has been unable to find a music and art teacher but are still searching for one.

All Teachers Reemployed Here For Coming Term

All members of last year's teaching staff have contracted to teach here again the ensuing term. John Jones, janitor, has also been reemployed, as has Bud Comer, school bus driver. And Charles A. Smith will drive the second bus which will be added this year, states Floyd H. Block, president of the board of education.

All the Big Ones Didn't Get Away This Time

Roy Richey, LeRoy Pigg and Carroll Miller, who went fishing in the Sangamon, near Monticello, Friday of last week, report fishing good, having caught 10, two of which weighed 11 pounds each. Lt. Col. H. Messman, Wife and Son, Visit His Parents

(News-Gazette)

Lieutenant Colonel Howard Messman, his Australian wife, and 12 weeks old son, Stewart, arrived recently for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Messman, 924 W. William street.

Mrs. Messman is the former Marjorie C. Stewart of Hamilton, Victoria, Australia, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Stewart. She was born and raised in Australia and studied at the University of Melbourne.

Her marriage to the Champaign army air forces officer took place July 28, 1945, in Australia when he was stationed there. Colonel Messman served in the southwest Pacific area for 44 months from Australia to Japan as an administrative officer with the Fifth air force. He returned to the states December 16. He is on a 30-day leave after which he will report at McClellan Field, Sacramento, Cal.

Mrs. Messman and the little boy left Australia July 6 and docked at San Francisco, July 19 where Col. Messman met them.

Mrs. Nora Griffin Entertains W.S.C.S.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met at the home of Mrs. Nora Griffin, on Thursday, Aug. 8, with Mrs. Anna Seeds assisting. Fourteen members were present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Gladys McClelland. The opening song was "My Country 'Tis of Thee," followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Mrs. Addie Freeman, leader of the worship service, read an interesting paper on "Laborers for Peace."

Mrs. Myrle Block was the program leader and the subject centered around the monthly topic, "Laborers for Peace."

There was an open business discussion on the chicken supper to be held Aug. 29.

The meeting adjourned with a closing prayer by Mrs. Freeman. Refreshments of ice cream, cookies and coffee were served.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Eva Brewer with Mrs. Myrle Block assisting.

Mrs. C. P. Hoggatt Is Released From Hospital

(News-Gazette)

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hoggatt, 209 East Main street, Urbana, have returned from Springfield, where Mrs. Hoggatt was released from a hospital after recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoggatt and their grandson, Philip Hoggatt, were on their way to Champaign-Urbana when their car was involved in a collision with an automobile owned by Cecil Atterbury of Decatur on Route 36 near Illiopolis. Mrs. Hoggatt received a bad shoulder injury and Mr. Hoggatt and their grandson were badly bruised as the car turned over twice.

Atterbury was uninjured.

Janet Struck Drowns In Maine On Sunday

Seldom, if ever, has this community been so deeply moved by the death of a young person as it was last Sunday afternoon upon learning of the death by drowning of Janet Struck, 9, at Rockwood, Me. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Struck of Broadlands, to whom the hearts of all go out in sincerest sympathy. Janet was on a two weeks vacation trip to Maine with her parents and her brother, Marvin, 13, when the drowning occurred, while she was playing on the beach.

Leon Struck, an uncle of the girl, left Sunday evening for Maine by plane from Indianapolis. Paul Madigan, an uncle, O. D. Struck, her grandfather, and Arthur Struck, a cousin, left on Monday by chartered plane from Champaign.

The body was brought to the Dicks Bros. funeral home here Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this Friday afternoon from the local Immanuel Lutheran church, with Rev. P. E. Kerkhoff, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment will be in the St. John's cemetery, with Dicks Bros. in charge.

Miss Windler, Sidney, Engaged to C. R. Leeper

Sidney—Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Windler residing four and one-half miles northwest of Sidney, announce the engagement of their daughter, Verdell Louise, to Charles R. Leeper, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Leeper, Sidney.

Miss Windler is a graduate of Sidney community high school with the class of 1945. She is now employed in the stenographic bureau in the Administration building at the University of Illinois.

Mr. Leeper graduated from the Sidney high school with the class of 1943. He served as a cadet with the United States army air forces and received his discharge last November. He is attending the University of Illinois, and is majoring in electrical engineering. He is also employed part time at the Bryan Cole hardware store, Sidney.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for August 18

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

JESUS AND THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-24; 10:29-31; 18:10-14. MEMORY SELECTION—But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment.—Matthew 5:22.

Human life is sacred, and that is not primarily because of any law of man, but because God created man in his own likeness and image. Since that is true, no man has any right to take the life of another for any cause except at the direct command of God. Only by the orderly process of law for the protection of society and in accordance with the Word of God may there be any such action by man toward man.

Both of these truths are declared in Scripture in God's covenant with Noah (Gen. 9:5, 6), which was made possibly a thousand years before the Ten Commandments were given to Moses.

I. The Prohibition of Murder (Exod. 20:13).

The word "kill" in this commandment is one which means a violent and unauthorized taking of life, and is therefore more properly translated "murder."

Not all killing is murder. A man may kill another entirely accidentally, or he may be the duly constituted legal officer carrying out the law of the land in taking the life of one who has forfeited his right to live because he has slain another. There is also the right of self-defense, be it individual or collective as in war. But these are the only exceptions; let us not attempt to justify any other.

Murder is more prevalent than most of us suppose. In 1944 there was a murder every fifty minutes in our land.

Do not forget the deaths, the destruction of life, by avoidable automobile accidents. Some of these were really murder because the one responsible drove with defective brakes, dangerous tires, or while he was intoxicated. Add to these the deaths in industry caused by failure to provide proper safeguards or healthy working conditions, and by the exploitation of child labor, and we say that we should cry aloud, "Thou shalt do no murder."

II. The Provocation to Murder (Matt. 5:21, 22).

Murder finds its provoking cause in the heart of man. Our Lord was concerned about correcting the desires rather than to apprehend the offender after the act had been committed. It is the better way, and the more effective one.

In this matter of murder, Jesus cut right through the outward aspects of the matter and pointed out that an angry hatred in the heart is the root of all murder. If we hate, we have murder in our hearts. Circumstances may hinder its fulfillment, but the danger is always there until we remove the cause.

May God help those of us who have strong feelings that we may not yield them to the devil in such anger against our brother!

III. The Prevention of Murder (Matt. 5:23, 24; 10:29-31; 18:10-14).

Prevention with God means more than putting up a barrier to try to keep men from killing one another. He deals with the heart of man, and when that is right the whole life will be right. There must be

1. A Right View of Self (Matt. 5:23, 24). We must learn by prayer and humility of heart to suffer at the hands of others, to keep peace, to seek our brother's welfare.

Note that it is not even a question of how we may feel against our brother. If he has aught against us we are to do all we can to win him.

We who believe in Christ are to be in deed as well as word the children of our heavenly Father (Matt. 5:45), loving not only those who are kind to us but also our enemies.

2. A Right View of God (Matt. 10:29-31). He who knows when a sparrow falls to the ground is concerned about the smallest detail of our lives. No man can lay hands of violence on another man without having to reckon with God about his misdeeds.

Our God is not afar off and too concerned with eternal affairs to be interested in the sufferings of the individual. He is here now, and we should count him into every relationship of life.

3. A Right View of Man (Matt. 18:10-14). Even the little ones, apparently defenseless and at the mercy of a cruel world, have guardian angels who have access to the throne of God. He has a special interest in the lost and rejoices in the rescue of the one who has strayed, so we see that even those whom the world regards as weak and unimportant are in the mind of God for good. He watches over them.

The man who sees himself for what he is, and who realizes what God thinks of man, will find that he agrees with the command of God, "Thou shalt not kill."

Russia's "No" Again

When the Baruch plan for the control of atomic energy was first made public, we expressed the opinion that Russia would never agree to its provisions, because they required that every country permit inspection of its mines, industrial plants and laboratories by the proposed United Nations Atomic Development Authority.

This was confirmed recently when Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet representative on the U. N. Security Council, flatly said 'No' to the American plan advocated by Mr. Baruch and the Truman administration. Besides the inspection feature mentioned, the plan stipulates that the Big Five veto power be waived in matters dealing with atomic energy.

Gromyko argued that a restriction on the veto power would mean giving up a measure of national sovereignty by the nations concerned, which is, of course true. The position of the United States is that if we are willing to give up some of our sovereignty, Russia and all other countries should agree to do the same.

There seems little hope of reconciling the views of Russia and the United States on this or any other important question in the near future. Russia appears in no hurry to settle anything, if we may judge her intentions by the obstructionist tactics of Stalin, Molotov and Gromyko.

A correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor gives the following explanation of Russia's policy of aloofness:

"Russia's leaders feel that to maintain their authority, and to achieve their long-range development plans, they must restore much of the isolation or insulation of Russia from the outside world which existed before the war and was broken down to some extent during the war.

Thus any proposal for a subordination of Russian sovereignty comes up against a Russia which is in the most intensely nationalistic phase of its history, a Russian disposition to distrust foreigners, and a Russian government under strong political pressures to tighten rather than open the doors of contact with the outside world."

More War Scandals

It now looks as if the Senate war investigating committee, of which Senator Mead of New York is chairman, has a lengthy job ahead, if it attempts to probe all the shady transactions connected with war contracts.

While the Garsson case, in which Congressman May and other high officials are involved, has held the spotlight recently, the statement made before the committee recently by Comptroller General Lindsay Warren revealed the connivance of government representatives with war contractors was widespread and shocking.

As head of the general accounting office, which passes on the legality of government expenditures, Mr. Lindsay declared that the government lost "untold millions" by not allowing his office to exercise any control over the terms of the contracts or the manner of their performance.

He said it was a "rule rather than an exception" for some government officials to accept favors from contractors. He denounced as "damnable" the widespread practice of former Army officers accepting highly paid jobs after leaving the service, from war producers whose contracts they had helped to draft and settle while in uniform. He said "it looked as if everybody and his brother were out to get (rob) the government during the lush war years."

Sidelights

According to Viking, a hat is something the average man covers his head with; the beggar passes around; the statesman throws into the ring and the politician talks through.

Practically every time you ask a little girl her age, she will reply that she is going on such and such an age. Yes, many a girl who was 9 going on 10 a number of years ago is now 30 going on 29.

A few years ago much was done to raise the status of the soy bean in the eyes of the housewife. Considerable money was spent by the soy bean growers association to place their product high on the list of desired edibles. Now we note that the National Kraut Packers Association has employed a press agent to raise the social level of sauerkraut.

And men, too, often are much concerned over their advancing years. One fellow told us that he avoids looking at himself as much as possible and would shun mirrors completely in order not to note the tell-tale lines of age if it were not necessary to take at least a glancing look at himself when shaving. A barber might even suggest a way to remedy this situation.

We recall the remark that Henry Ford made on the witness stand a number of years ago when questioned about his own early education, which was meager. When asked questions concerning some historical facts, his reply was that he need not clutter his brain with such knowledge because he could hire history professors at $5 per day to answer these questions. Which reminds us that success is a matter either of getting around you better men than yourself or getting around better men than yourself.

It's the high-pressure, fast-moving motor age that is shortening the lives of men, according to 78-year-old Dr. Alfred Lee Ellis, of Baltimore, who refuses to use an automobile in his practice, preferring his horse and buggy with which to make his calls. Dr. Ellis says he has time to relax while traveling about the city calling on his patients as his driver, whom he hired off a hay wagon 26 years ago, relieves him of the tension driving a car causes. When asked what he does for relaxation, Dr. Ellis smiled and said: "I take nice long automobile trips."

If you own an automobile and have had occasion to take it to a garage, you, too, will be interested in a little story told us today. It seems that this car owner was waiting in a certain garage for a small job to be done on his car and while killing time watched a mechanic change the oil in another car without spilling a drop. He then checked the radiator, cleaned the windshield, wiped away all greasy fingerprints, placed a clean cloth over the upholstery, washed his hands thoroughly and then drove the car slowly out to the street curb. "Now there's a real mechanic," our friend observed to the shop foreman. "Oh, that's his own car," replied the foreman.

Many a man is particular with his car nowadays. It's the first one he ever had that wasn't mortgaged.

THANK YOU
for waiting for delivery of your
NEW CHEVROLET
We are doing our best to see that you get your new car as quickly as possible

Remember—Our CAR-SERVICE is your best CAR-SAVER. Keep your present car "alive" until you get delivery of your new Chevrolet by bringing it to us for skilled service now and at regular intervals.

We want to thank our customers and prospective customers for your friendly patience while awaiting your new Chevrolets.

We know it is a hardship to wait for needed transportation; but we believe you will understand that we, and Chevrolet, are as eager to deliver cars as you are to obtain them. Unfortunately, production so far this year is far under expectations. Chevrolet Motor Division sums up the situation thus:

"Even though our rate of production normally exceeds that of any other manufacturer, we have been able to build, up to July 1, only 12.4 per cent as many cars as we had built up to that date in 1941. Production is still far below normal, because of frequent shortages of essential materials and parts. Strike after strike at the plants of our suppliers has seriously impeded our progress toward full production, and the cumulative effect severely hampers every manufacturing and assembly plant. In June we were able to build only 29.2 per cent as many cars as we produced in the same month in 1941."

While production is restricted, so—in proportion—are shipments of cars to us. As production increases, we are assured of getting our proportionate share of the total—and as quickly as cars are received, we will speed deliveries to our customers.

Last Plane Out

By K. W. BROOKS

McClure Syndicate,
WNU Features.

HANK GIBSON fingered the weather report of the meteorologist. He ordered another cup of coffee and drummed on the counter. The coffee shop of the Hortonville Airport Terminal was not crowded, though there were obviously more passengers than the antiquated DC 3 could accommodate. It was the last scheduled flight of the day, and a lot of disappointed customers would have to drive back to Hortonville Center by automobile, cursing the snow and slush an airplane could ignore.

A frigid blast enveloped the room and condensed in whirls of vapor over the steam table. A large red-faced man put a tentative hand on the counter at Hank's left. "This seat taken?" he asked. Hank shook his head and wondered why every civilian from Dakar to Diamond Head picked him for company. "You counting on the Pittsburgh plane to-night too?" the man asked.

Hank looked out at the rough weather and shrugged. "Maybe," he said.

"I got to make it," the man said importantly. "Promised my daughter I'd be back sure. You know how kids are. Think their old man can make good on anything."

"Yeah," Hank said.

"If you're from Pittsburgh you must have heard of me," the man went on. "Lawrence L. Grainton."

Hank shook his head. "Afraid not. I've been away a good bit."

Grainton grinned. "Well, you get your share of the girls, I bet," he said. "Take my advice, son, and have your fling while you can. These little business trips are like a vacation. I could have done everything by telephone but it breaks up the monotony, a plane trip."

"What line are you in, Mr. Grainton?" Hank asked.

"Greeting cards. Finest in the country. Manufacture 'em. Don't mind admitting I've done pretty well, too."

"Guess homes being split up hasn't hurt your business any, has it?" Hank suggested.

Mr. Grainton winked broadly. "Over fourteen thousand last year. Clear."

Outside the glass brick walls the landscape was winter's frosty desolation. The pilot came in with the passenger list. "Attention, please!" he called. "As our regular passengers know, we have our own system of priorities and our judgment is final. The weather's making up, but we plan the Pittsburgh flight so far. The following persons are checked for passage."

Near the beginning Grainton heard his name called. Then he watched Hank's face. It did not change expression. "I guess you didn't make it," Grainton observed, and boomed sympathy. "Say, now, that's too bad. I'm real sorry!"

"Now, folks," the pilot said, "if our meteorologist gets an O.K. in the next ten minutes, we'll sail. Passengers kindly take their places in the plane without delay."

"Too bad, soldier," Grainton said. "I guess the businessman has top priority now. Those meteorologist fellows sure take an awful responsibility. Betting on weather. Gambling with human lives."

"You don't have to ride the plane, Mr. Grainton."

"I got to get back. I promised my daughter, remember. You'll know how those things are when you get married."

"I am," Hank answered soberly. "That so? Well, wait'll you get a girl like my Sue. Thirteen. You'll understand then."

"My daughter, Carol, is twelve."

"You don't say! In Pittsburgh, is she?"

"Yeah."

"Say, I'm real sorry. I'd gladly give you my place, only I promised I'd be home sure. You know how it is."

"Yeah, I know. I promised too."

The motors idled, the big props turning over with the peculiar jerky motion they have before the motor revs up. The pilot came out, accompanied by Hank now muffled in an army greatcoat. When Hank took the co-pilot's seat, Grainton protested. "Look here," he said. "That boy's got no priority!"

"Technical Sergeant Gibson is acting co-pilot, sir," the pilot explained. "He's better qualified to fly this ship than I am. Don't you recognize the insignia—A. T. C.?"

They were ready to take off when the meteorologist ran out. After a hurried consultation with Hank the pilot announced apologetically, "Sorry, folks. Storm making over the mountains. Can't endanger human life."

Grainton complained, "I promised my Sue! What am I going to do?"

"Send her a greeting card!" Hank said. "Air mail!"

"How can I?" Grainton demanded. "What do you mean, air mail?"

"Oh, we're taking the ship through," Hank explained. "Neither snow, nor rain, nor sleet, nor gloom of night—don't you remember? And where would the greeting card business be if the mail didn't get through? I'd gladly give you my place, Mr. Grainton, only I promised I'd be home sure. You know how it is!"

Smile Awhile

Young lady, on ship—My good man, where's the captain?
He—He's forward, Miss.
She—I don't care—I'm on a pleasure trip.

Mr. Skunk—What's the matter, honey?

Mrs. Skunk—How many times do I have to tell you not to kiss me when you've been eating onions?

A Kansas revival service was being held, according to authentic reports, and one of the partners in a coal concern had joined the church. He tried to get his partner to do likewise.

I can't do it, John, replied the partner when the insistence became irksome. Who'll do the weighin' if I join?

A boarder bought some sausages and asked his landlady to cook them for his breakfast.

How'll I cook them? she asked.
Just fry 'em like fish, replied the lodger.

The next morning, when the landlady served them, she remarked: I hope you'll enjoy your breakfast, sir, but there's not much in these things when they are cleaned out.

Women IN THE CHURCH
by Mary Fowler

"Even to the present time, among some of the aboriginal Bhil tribes in Panch Mahals, India, the widow of the dead man is carried along with the body of her dead husband to the burning or burying ground, and there she is laid down," says the Rev. W. Ferrell Pledger, of Tyler, Texas, Methodist missionary to the Bhils. "Then she breaks her marriage necklace; and her ornaments with it are thrown into the fire to be consumed with the corpse of her husband. This seems to be a revival of the time when she was actually burned with her husband, or buried alive with him."

The Evelyn Briggs Cranska Hospital, erected in 1930 by the American Baptist Home Missionary Society in Nicaragua's capital city, Managua, is to have a new building built by the same women at a cost of $115,000. The city and the Hospital are on the great Inter-American highway connecting the two continents. It is the only hospital in western Nicaragua to employ trained nurses; and its Nurse Training school has already gained wide acclaim. The Hospital ministers to about 10,000 people each year. Dr. John S. Pixley, for many years its superintendent, is in charge again after two years of service in the U. S. A. Medical Corps.

Wife—I'm going shopping today, dear. What does the paper say about the weather?

Hubby—Rain, hail, sleet, thunder and lightning.

Taxes Take Largest Slice Of Top Salaries

Uncle Sam is getting by far the largest cut out of those top corporate salaries the Treasury has brought back into the news.

Commenting on Treasury reports of salaries and bonuses ranging upwards of $75,000 annually, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States notes: The Federal tax collector takes about $64,000 out of a $100,000 net income. Surtaxes rise steeply until the Treasury gets about 85.5 per cent of a $1,000,000 income.

The man in the $100,000 bracket whose income doubles to $200,000 has only about $15,000 left out of his "raise" after the Federal tax.

"A company has found," says the Chamber, "that it has to pay one of its executives a $300,000 salary in order that he might net about $60,000 after paying Uncle Sam $240,000. And he has other taxes to pay in addition to the Federal income levy!"

For Sale—A round dining room table and four chairs. If interested, call phone 22.

Uncle Sam Says

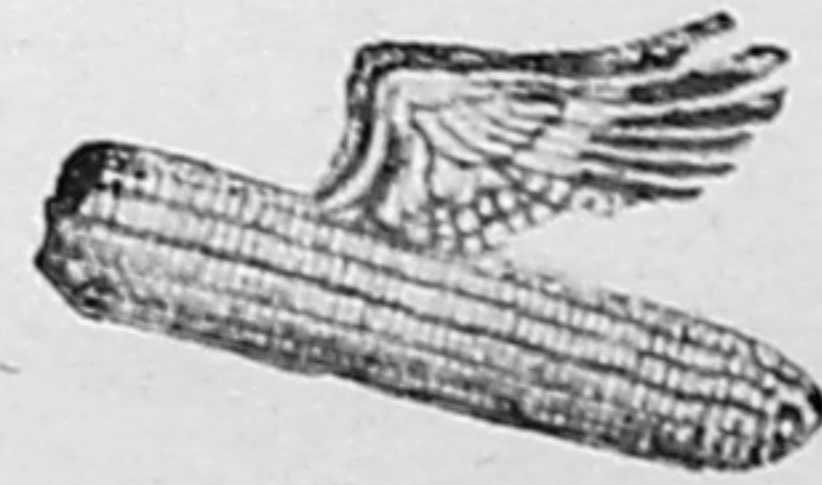

Sucker bait is a phrase you have heard used or used yourself many times. Anglers know its meaning when they watch the fish bite for the impossible. The term also applies to individuals who send their hard-earned cash on get-rich-quick errands. Your income invested in United States Savings Bonds will mount steadily and safely in value to serve you 10 years hence. The American who buys bonds regularly with the dollars he doesn't need today for living costs will not wind up a poor fish. U. S. Treasury Department
