Mobilization For Spiritual Ideals

Six thousand ministers in nineteen church denominations, nationwide, have banded together in a crusade known as Spiritual Mobilization to combat the peril to spiritual freedom because of communist infiltrations and due to a rising pagan level toward a mortal God state, according to announcement made recently by Dr. James W. Fifield, Jr., founder and director of the organization. The movement is locally represented by Rev. P. E. Kerkhoff.

The crusade for freedom, which recognizes man as a child of God and as such master (not slave) of the state, sponsors the return to the American way of life with its democratic process and constitutional government. Its advisory committee is headed by such notables as Dr. Donald J. Cowling, former president of Carleton College; Roger W. Babson, the statistician; Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, Bible scholar and author; Dr. Rufus B. von Kleinsmid, chancellor University of Southern California; Alfred Noyes, poet; Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president University of California; Dr. Robert A. Millikan, president California Institute of Technology; Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, clergyman; Albert W. Hawkes, United States senator; and others.

Eighty Bushels Is Average Corn Yield In This County

On the basis of reports from east central Illinois where mechanical pickers have made heavy inroads in the corn fields, mathematicians have figured the 1946 crop somewhere between 20,000,000 and 22,000,000 bushels.

"And there's not the slightest doubt but that the total score will exceed any previous record by a minimum of 5,000,000 bushels," was the recent report of Bob Castle, acting Champaign county farm adviser.

Castle, with the aid of several crop reporters who have checked dozens of fields for "samplings," emphatically declared that the average for the county will be 80 bushels, probably more. This figure is 15 bushels above the mid-season prediction made by state and federal crop statisticians, and at least 20 bushels above the high of any previous year.

"It's the exception, rather than the rule, to find a yield that falls below 80 bushels to the acre," Castle pointed out, "and by far the reports from farmers who have formerly been satisfied to estimate their yield at 60 are reporting from 90 to 100 bushels or more. Some fields have gone far beyond this mark and these aren't small acreages or test plots."

Castle, as does a large majority of the growers, credits the ideal growing weather, the right amount of moisture at the right times, as well as the wider use of limestone and phosphate, as being responsible for the sharp upturn.

On the basis of the federal loan price of $1.15 per bushel, the bumper yield will materially boost the 1946 farm income to a new high.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

PAUL MINISTERS TO THE THESSALONIANS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:1-7; I Thessalonians 1:2-8. MEMORY SELECTION—Be not weary in waiting.—II Thessalonians 3:13.

A great city, commercially active, religious to a high degree, a military center and a harbor so fine that it is important to this day—such was the city of Thessalonica. It presented a challenge to the preachers of the gospel and, in the name of Christ, Paul accepted and won a great victory.

In the face of persecution, bitter and persistent, the believers in this city remained faithful. The reason for that appears in our lesson. Rooted and grounded in Christ, they had brought forth the fruit of real Christian living under circumstances which were difficult and trying. Our lesson tells of both the preaching of the gospel by Paul and the living of the gospel by the Thessalonians.

I. The Gospel Preached—Accepted and Rejected (Acts 17:1-7)

Paul began his long and successful ministry in Thessalonica in the synagogue. It was to the Jews who worshiped the one true God that he came with his message about their expected Messiah—Christ the Lord. Here he established a strong church.

What was the message which so signally succeeded in this great strategic center? Well, it was not (as some modern preachers in large cities seem to think necessary) a series of social, political, or literary discourses. Paul preached Christ. He reasoned with them and presented the Saviour (v. 3) as One who was

1. Dead for our sin. These people were like us in that they needed a solution for their sin problem.

Without the death of Christ there is no salvation for any man. Only through the shedding of blood can there be remission of sin (Heb. 9:22). Paul had no part in the folly of a "bloodless gospel"—as though there were any such gospel.

2. Raised for our justification. It was not enough that Jesus died, marvelous as that is in our sight. For many a man has died for his convictions, but none has risen from the dead. Christ could not be holden of the grave. He arose the victorious Redeemer.

3. Declared to be the Christ. He is more than a man, more than a great leader and an earnest teacher. He is God's anointed One, himself divine—and our Lord.

Some believed (v. 4), including many devout Greeks, and not a few of the leading women. The gospel does have life-giving power as the Holy Spirit applies it to the hearts of willing men and women.

Others opposed (vv. 5, 6). Note that they were "of the baser sort." They always are, even when they appear to be cultivated and educated, for there is something fundamentally wrong in a life which rejects Christ.

It was a serious charge they made against the Christians (v. 7), for it was treason punishable by death to have any other king but Caesar if one lived in a Roman colony.

But the thing which they hated worst in these Christians was the fact that their topsy-turvy world was in danger of being set right (they put it the opposite way, v. 6), and they did not want to be made right. It is interesting to note that these early preachers had divine power to turn over the social order. Would that we showed more of that power in the church today!

Accepting the truth is good, but it must go on in daily living. The Thessalonians knew that and they are models of

II. The Gospel Lived—Followers and Examples (I Thess. 1:2-3)

Paul, the missionary, was a courteous preacher. He recognized the faithfulness of Christian brethren and did not hesitate to commend them. We could do more of that when we meet true and faithful believers.

They were followers of Paul, but only because he followed Christ (v. 6). His power was from above (v. 5), even as they also were chosen from above (v. 4).

Following Christ meant affliction to them (v. 6), but it also meant the joy of the Holy Spirit, which is entirely independent of the circumstances of life—and above them.

These Thessalonian believers were examples of what it meant to be Christians. Wherever Paul went their faith toward God was recognized and he did not need to explain or argue for his gospel. People knew the Thessalonian Christians, and thus they knew real Christianity.

There could be no finer witness to the faith of anyone than to be able to bear testimony that it is an example—a model—to which others may look and not go astray. Do we dare to measure our Christian lives by such a standard?

Veteran Aliens Can Take Short Cut to Citizenship

Many aliens in Illinois who served in the armed forces of the United States during World War II, now have less than two months left to take advantage of a special law on naturalization, Homer G. Bradney, Administrator of the Illinois Veterans Commission, warned today.

The second War Powers Act of 1942, which permits aliens to take a short cut to citizenship, expires Dec. 31, 1946. This affects all aliens entering the service before Dec. 28, 1945.

The act waives the customary declaration of intention, specified time of U. S. residence, educational tests and requirements to speak English.

Recent reports, Bradney said, indicate that approximately 100,000 servicemen throughout the nation, many of them in Illinois, have failed to take advantage of the speedier naturalization proceedings provided under the act.

Veteran aliens in Illinois who have not applied for citizenship under the act, may contact Ray S. Helm, Champaign County Service Officer, Illinois Veterans' Commission, 322 North Neil St., Champaign, Illinois, for assistance in making application.

The Fight On TB

Man's war against tuberculosis can be won. Already the death rate from this disease has dropped to less than one-fourth of the toll in 1900.

As more and more people have regular physical examinations, doctors will be able to discover those who have the disease without knowing it. Control of all such cases through modern medical methods can reduce the death rate still further.

Don't give tuberculosis a head start—see your doctor at regular intervals, particularly when your health is below normal. Those with persistent coughs, especially older people, should have X-ray examinations.

If you have tuberculosis, self-discipline in following all your doctor's instructions will generally lead to recovery. Periodic medical checkups will help to guard against recurrences, and permit you to lead a nearly normal life.

And if an examination shows that you are not threatened with this deadly disease—be thankful—and when the time comes to buy Christmas seals, make a contribution to aid in the fight to save the lives of those less fortunate.

"For a buck a throw we'll let it grow" was the slogan adopted by students at Purdue University when striking barbers asked for the doubling of the price of haircuts.

We have been told that the reason for the buttons on the sleeves of a man's coat dates back to early days when said sleeves were used instead of handkerchiefs and the obstructions deterred noses to other channels. However, we did not realize until now that there are 70 buttons on the average man's wardrobe. This number includes the buttons on his underwear to his overcoat. Only 37 of the buttons are useful—the other 33 merely ornamental.

Jack O'Brien of Honolulu, was a squadron leader of the AAF in the ETO. In 30 missions he had never "blacked out" and was rated tops as a pilot. The war over, he returned to Honolulu. A few days ago his wife told him that she wasn't feeling well and asked that he call the family doctor. He went to a public telephone and delivered the message to the doctor as instructed. The doctor told him to get Mrs. O'Brien to a hospital immediately—she was going to have a baby. Letting the receiver dangle, O'Brien slumped to the floor in a faint.

We have never liked practical jokes and we are certain that now Robert Throckmorton, Kansas City butcher, joins us in that dislike. Throckmorton, in order to pull a fast one, obtained the wrapping paper from a ham, stuffed it and placed the dummy package in the back seat of his car so that he could observe the envious reaction of passersby. He forgot to remove it overnight. Next morning the fake ham had disappeared—and the thief had smashed one of Throckmorton's car windows in the process of taking it.

Historic Cottage Will Become State Memorial

The historic Bryant cottage at Bement, Piatt county, in which Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas met on July 28, 1858, for a discussion which led to their famous series of debates, is to become a state memorial. Mrs. Lily M. Sprague and her son, Bryant P. Sprague, present owners of the four-room building, have donated it to the state for this purpose.

Well preserved and looking much the same as when erected in 1856, the cottage originally was the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bryant, cousins of William Cullen Bryant, the poet.

Stephen A. Douglas, then U. S. Senator for Illinois, was about to make an address in Monticello and came to the Bryant cottage as a guest. Lincoln, a candidate for the Senate, was booked for a speech in Monticello the same day. The two men met on the highway about a mile from the town. This meeting led to a conference that evening in the Bryant home. The chair in which Lincoln sat during the conference is still carefully preserved.

Walter A. Rosenfield, state director of public works and buildings, announcing the gift of the cottage, praised the Spragues for their patriotic action.

Does your conscience bother you? Are you afraid to face God? Would you like to have someone "talk to God" for you?

There is Someone who can do that very thing for you! The Bible tells us: "If any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. And He is the reconciliation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world." 1 John 2-1.

An advocate is a representative, an attorney, one who talks to the judge for us. Jesus Christ is the Christian's Advocate before the eternal Judge on high. Of Him the Bible says: "He is able to save them to the uttermost that come to God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them." Heb. 7:25.

And Christ is the only Advocate, the only One who has been divinely empowered to represent the sinner before the court of heaven. Says Paul: "There is one God and one Mediator between God and man, the Man Christ Jesus, who gave Himself a ransom for All." 1 Tim. 2:5. Through Christ, and through Christ alone, we have access to the father-heart of God.

But not everyone has engaged the services of this divinely appointed Advocate. Have you? He is offering you His help at this moment. Why not accept His offer today—right now?

Remember: "He is able to save them to the uttermost that come to God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them." Make Christ your representative in heaven by accepting Him as your Savior from sin, your Substitute before the bar of heaven's justice, your one and only Advocate who is abundantly able to plead your case.

The opportunity of hearing the Christian Doctrines explained may not be open to you again. We urge you to come! Come before the day of grace pass and it is too late.

How to Handle a Fortune

Some months ago I reported in the Clarion how Mel Bate's uncle died up north, and left him with a tidy fortune.

Naturally, our town was curious to see how Mel would spend it: Traveling around the world... getting a new house or car... wearing fancy clothes... or dining on cold pheasant and champagne...?

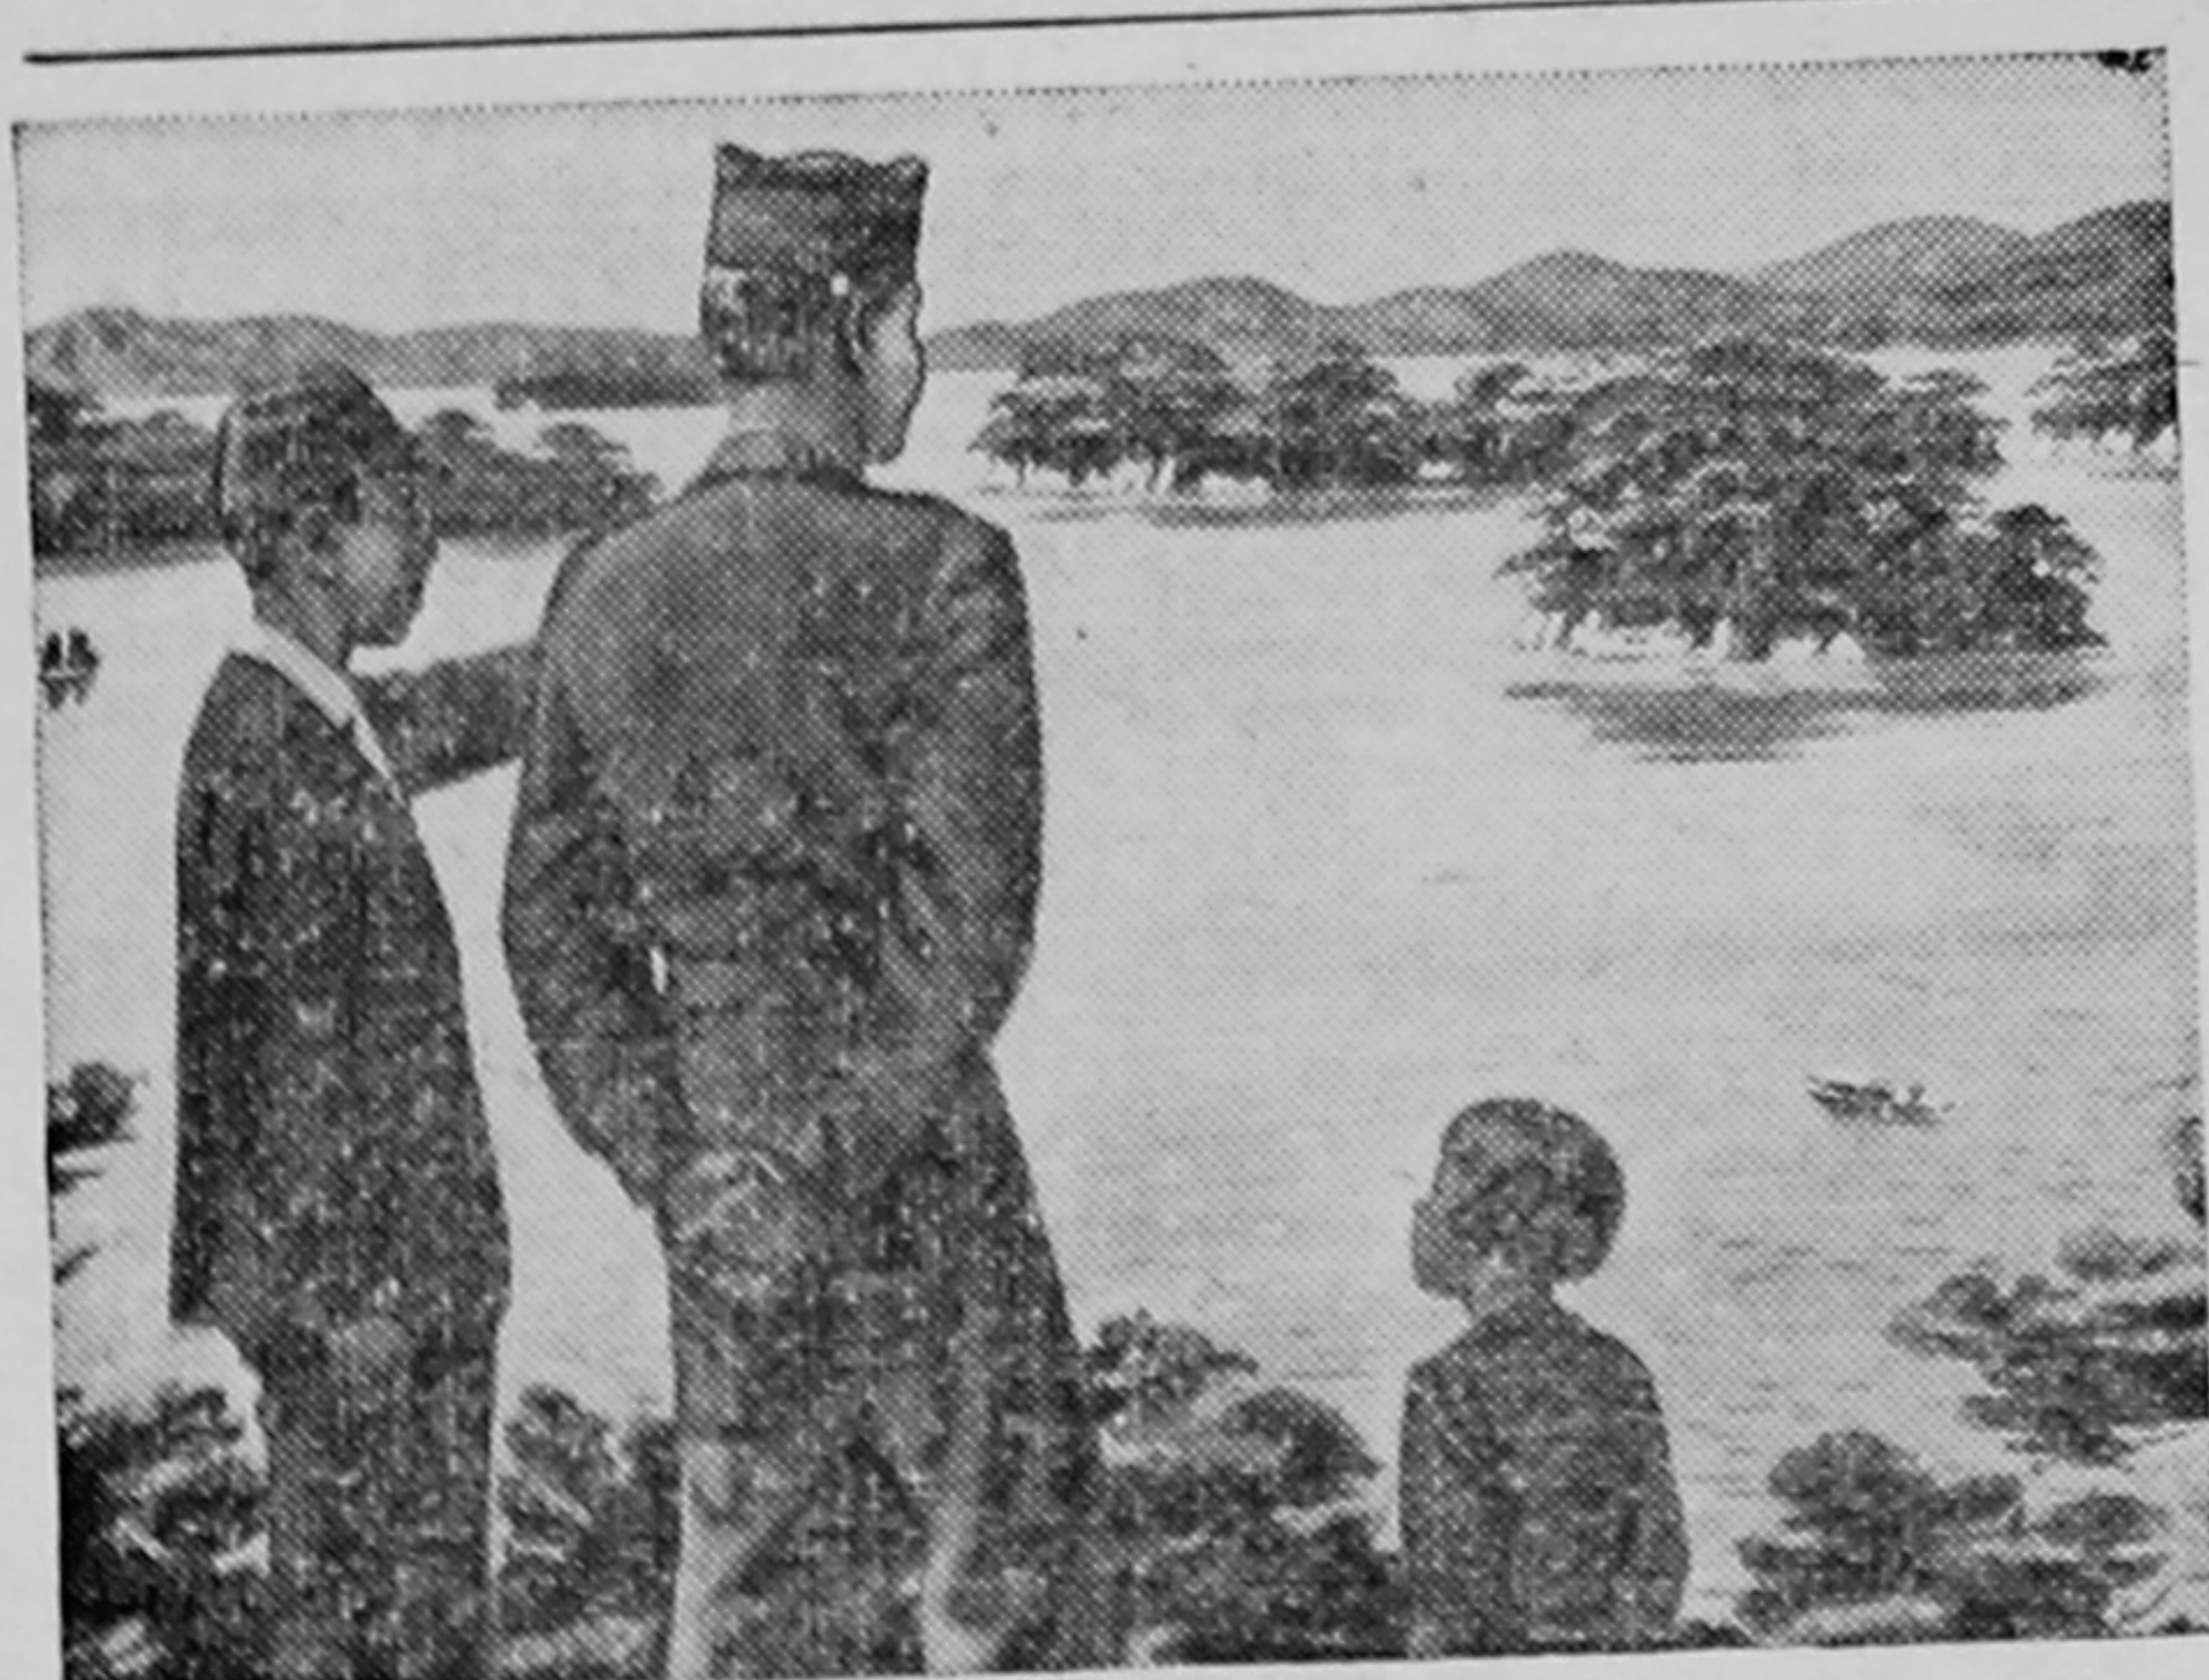

We can now report, Mel hasn't changed a bit! Drop in on him any night, and you'll find him in his shirt sleeves by the fire, chatting with the Missus, sharing a mellow glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, Mel has learned the art of handling money—as well as handling people. You don't let cash-in-the-bank push you around any more than you let people push you around. If you like the simple, homey life; companionship and quiet ways; a glass of beer and friendly talk—that's worth a fortune, after all!

Mistress—You serve on the left and take the plates away from the right.

New Maid—Why! Superstition or something?

Wife—Elmer, I wonder why we can't save money?

Husband—That's easy; the neighbors are always doing something we can't afford.

When did you first suspect that your husband was not all right mentally?

When he shook the hall tree and began feeling around on the floor for apples.

A New York teacher received a letter from the mother of one of her pupils:

"Dear Miss—Please don't give Tommy any more home work. That sum about how long would it take a man to walk 50 times round Central Park caused his father to lose a day's work. And after he'd walked it you marked the sum wrong."

The minister met Tom, the village steward, and much to the latter's surprise, shook him heartily by the hand.

"I'm so glad you have turned over a new leaf, Thomas," said the parson. "I was delighted to see you at prayer meeting last night."

"O!" said Tom, pondering this information. "So that's where I was!"

Way out west there is a small railroad station whose name is spelled E-u-r-e-l-i-a.

The conductor and the brakeman radically disagreed as to the correct pronunciation of the name.

The result was that one would come through the train calling out: "Your-a-liah, Your-a-liah," and the other would follow through with "You-really-ah, You-really-ah!"

An ultra-smart city man was driving through an Illinois village when he thought he would show his companions how clever he could be at the expense of the natives. He stopped the car and called to two of them.

Can either of you tell me this? If it's twenty miles from here to Rantoul, and butter is 35 cents a pound, how old am I?

One of the villagers thought for a moment, then said, forty-four.

Marvelous! said the city man, amazed. How on earth did you find out?

Well, replied the yokel, I have a brother who is twenty-two, and he's only half nuts.

Food Yeast Processing
Food yeast has a protein value twice that of meat and, more important still, is exceedingly rich in B complex vitamins. It costs as little as 10 cents a pound, and can be easily manufactured, shipped, stored and used.

The present manufacturing methods were developed in England in 1940. It is made from molasses and ammonia, and will soon be in full production in both this country and England. The process, a continuous one, consists of planting 125 pounds of this new yeast strain in a vat containing 7,000 gallons of water, a ton and a half of molasses and some ammonia. The yeast feeds on the sugar in the molasses, and the ammonia provides the nitrogen that the yeast converts into protein. Normally the yeast would ferment the sugar, resulting in alcohol, but in the aforementioned manufacturing process, the mixture is stirred by 1,000 cubic feet of air per minute, which prevents fermentation. The yeast multiplies itself about 16 times in weight in 12 hours and emerges from the vat as a ton of creamy mass which is then dried and ready for use.

Puppy Love

TOMMY walked past the jewelry store for the fourth time. The glittering display seemed to taunt him. Doggone it, he thought, I've got to do something. Tomorrow is Alice Dodd's birthday and I haven't enough money for a present. At least not enough to get her something as expensive as Chuck Hilton will.

A deep kindly voice behind him interrupted his thoughts. "Thinking of getting married, Tommy?"

The boy looked up at Mr. Scofield, the farmer Tommy worked for every summer vacation. "Oh, hello, Mr. Scofield. No, I'm just window-shopping for a birthday present, that's all."

"I see," said the big ruddy man. "Something for the girl friend. That's a little too much for you, isn't it?"

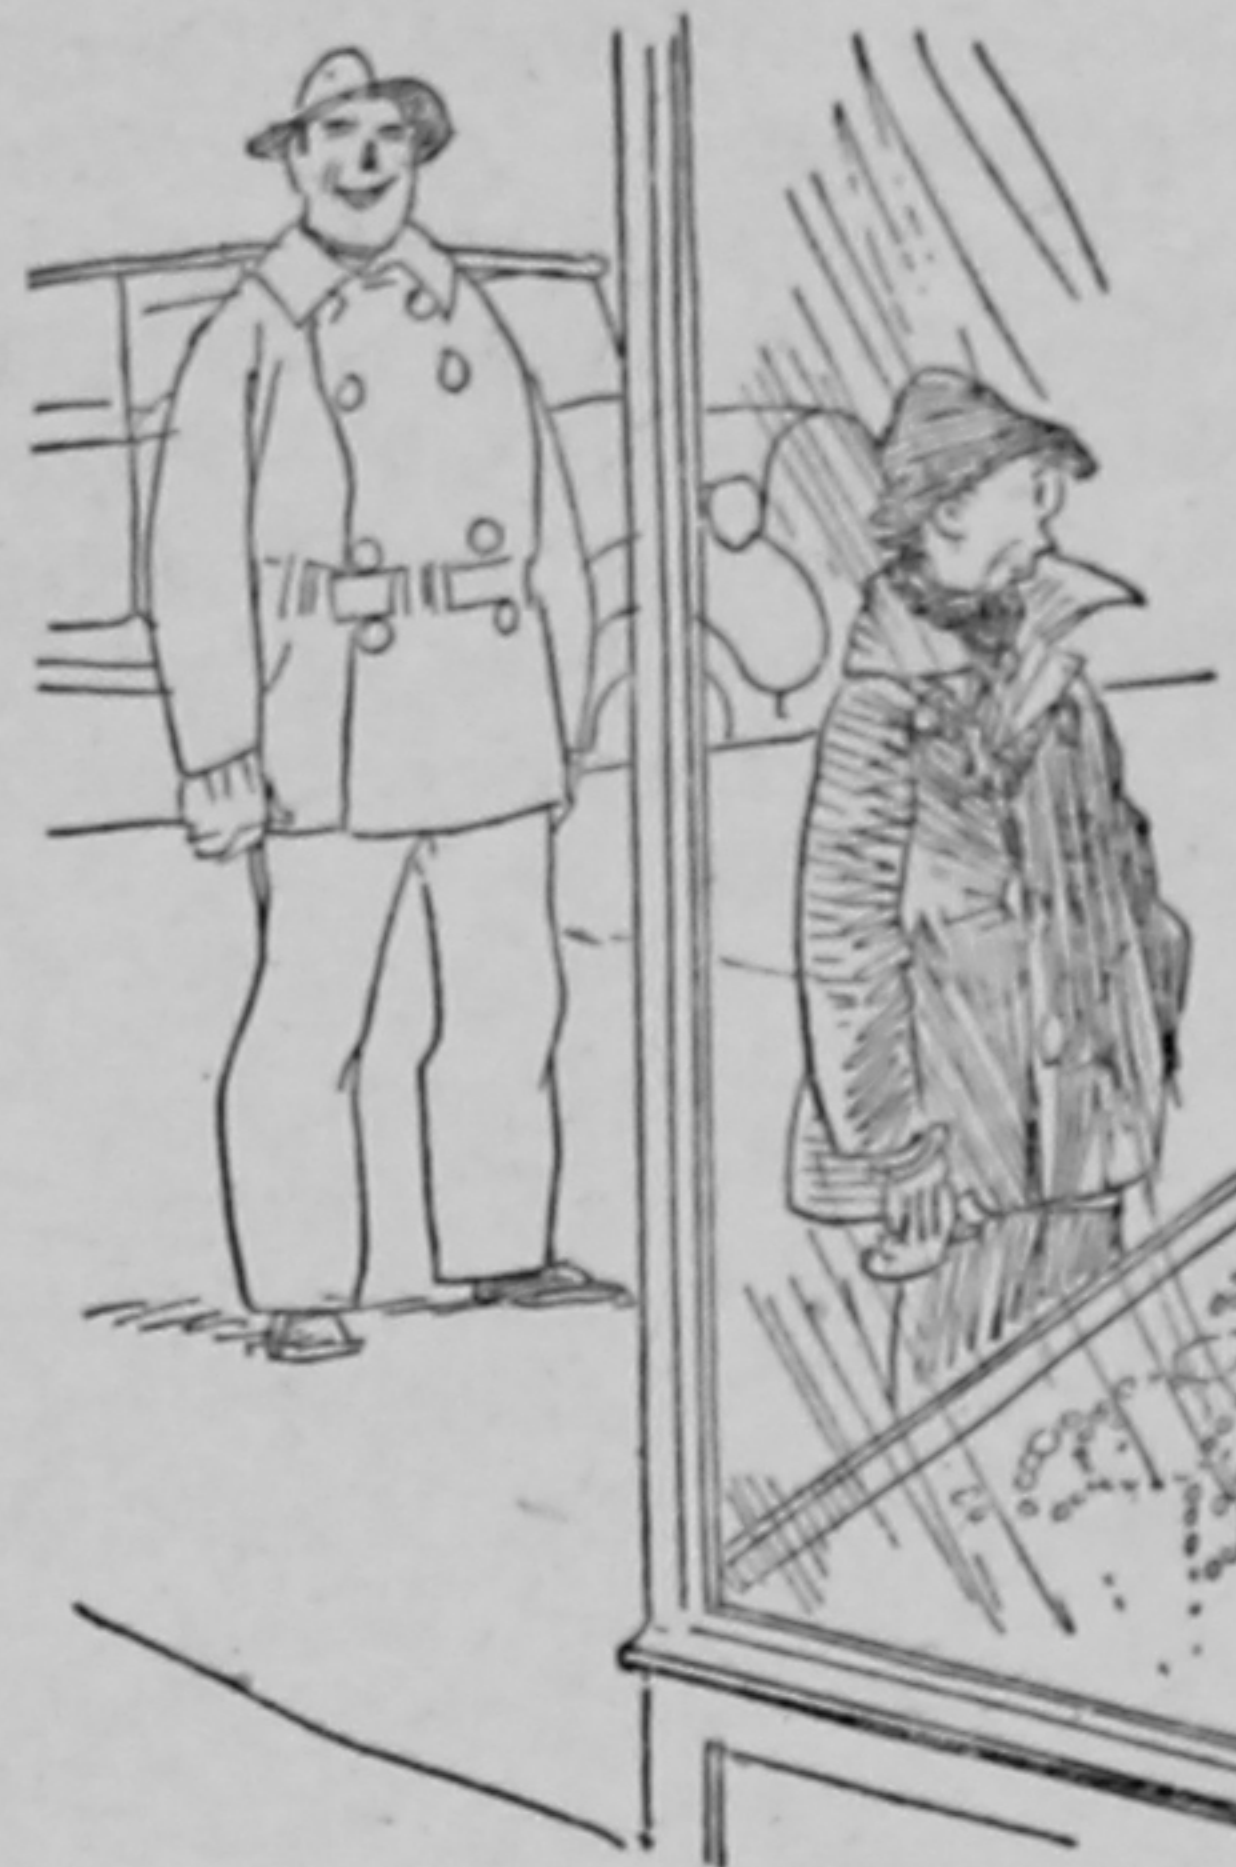

Tommy's gaze dropped to the sidewalk. "I wasn't going to buy it. I haven't enough money. You see, Mr. Scofield, Alice Dodd's birthday is tomorrow and I just got to give her something as good as Chuck Hilton is going to get."

The man smiled. "Your rival, eh? What is he giving her?"

Tommy made a face. "Perfume." He said the word with disgust.

Mr. Scofield shook his head. "That's not a very good gift for a young girl like Alice. There are many things much more suitable. Books, handkerchiefs, a box of candy."

"Now, I thought of all those things. It's got to be something that really knocks her eyes out. You know what I mean, Mr. Scofield?"

"Something for the girl friend."

His friend gave him an understanding look. "I think I do, Tommy. Let's go over to Hank's Drug store and have a soda. On me, of course. Then maybe we can figure out what to give Alice. How does that sound?"

The boy's eyes lighted up. "Gee, that sounds swell."

"Come on, then. I have an idea I can help you select a present to 'knock her eyes out!'"

The following afternoon Tommy stood at Alice Dodd's front door with a cloth-covered box under his arm. Presently he heard footsteps in answer to his knock. The door opened and a pretty blond girl greeted him. "Hello, Tommy."

"Hello, Alice. I brought you a-a—" his voice trailed away. His eyes caught the glint of something silvery about her neck. "Where did you get that locket?" It was the same one he had seen in the jeweler's window.

Alice held it toward him. "Chuck gave it to me for my birthday. He said he was going to get perfume at first, but he changed his mind at the last moment. It's pretty, isn't it?"

Tommy sighed with relief. "Yeah, it's pretty, all right. Only I brought you something you'll like a lot better."

Her blue eyes looked expectantly at the box. "What is it, Tommy?"

He grinned teasingly. "Well, you remember when we were walking past Winter's Pet store and you stopped to look at the little puppies in the window? You said how much you'd like to have one, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Well," he beamed, "you've got one. Here." With that he pulled the cloth from the box and revealed a tiny brown puppy with big soft eyes busily scratching himself.

Alice gave a little squeal of delight and took the dog into her arms. "Oh, Tommy, he's darling! Thank you. Thank you so much!" Suddenly she looked at him wide-eyed. "Tommy," she gasped, "those puppies at Winter's cost 25 dollars apiece!"

Tommy looked nonchalant. "That's right."

"But 25 dollars—"

"Can't a fellow spend his last cent on his girl if he wants to?"

An hour later he emerged from the house more satisfied than before. She liked the puppy better than any of her other presents, including Chuck's! And she thought he paid 25 dollars for it at Winter's!

He laughed. "Well, let her think it. I didn't lie to her. Just because Mr. Scofield's spaniel had a little and he let me have one for $18 if I promised to work on his farm again this summer isn't telling lies, is it?"
