Commerce Chamber Asks For Red Expose

The Communist Party is an agent of a foreign power and should be forced by law to reveal its members and sources of income.

That is the conclusion of a report on Communist infiltration in the United States made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The report was drafted by a special committee of the National Chamber headed by Francis P. Matthews, Omaha lawyer and business man.

Opening a campaign for exposure of Communists in this country, the report calls for government action to bring the Reds into the open. The report says:

"Since Communism thrives upon deceit, exposure of the facts would be a potent counter weapon.

"We propose more fact-gathering competent, impartial and patriotic. Both private groups and the government have a responsibility here."

Order Eastern Star Installs Its Officers

The 49th annual installation of officers of Broadlands Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was held Friday evening, Nov. 29, in the Masonic temple, in the presence of more than 100 members and guests.

The chapter room was beautifully decorated, the decorations used in the East representing a rainbow on a field of blue, ending in a pot of gold. Colonial bouquets decorated the chairs.

Before the installation ceremony a candle lighting service was held with Alicia Jo Crain and Ronnie Mohr lighting the candles.

Mrs. Zermah Witt was installing officer, and was assisted by Mrs. Ruth Henson, installing chaplain; and Mrs. Alyce Crain, installing marshal.

Mrs. Gladys McClelland served as soloist, and Myrtle Mae Maxwell as organist. Montelle Maxwell was color bearer, and the "Ode to the Flag" was given by George Cook.

Escorts were Oscar Witt, Clark Henson and William Crain.

At the installation of the new worthy matron, Mrs. Freda Maxwell, Mrs. Gladys McClelland sang, "Always." For Clark Henson, new worthy patron, she sang, "My Task."

As the new worthy matron approached the East she was presented a basket of flowers, a gift of relatives.

Officers installed were: W. M.—Freda Maxwell.

W. P.—Clark Henson.
A. M.—Lorraine Mohr.
A. P.—Elmer Mohr.
Sec.—Jessie Archer.

Treas.—Harry Archer.

Miss Marilyn Divan Weds Dr. Wojnar

(News Gazette)

Miss Marilyn Divan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Divan, of 212 East University avenue, was united in marriage to Dr. Victor S. Wojnar of Philadelphia, Pa., in a quiet ceremony at 10 a. m., Saturday in the rectory of Holy Cross church.

Reverend Father Taylor of Newman foundation officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and friends. Mrs. Steven Lynn attended the bride as her matron of honor, while Robert Berry, cousin of the bride, attended as best man to the bridegroom.

For her wedding, the attractive bride wore a grey crepe dress fashioned with high neckline and long full sleeves. She wore accessories of black and a corsage of red roses. Her matron of honor was in light blue wool with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A luncheon at the Colonial tea room for the wedding guests followed the ceremony. The couple left later on a wedding trip to Chicago and from there will go to Philadelphia, Pa., to make their home. For going away, Mrs. Wojnar changed to a three piece suit of green with black accessories.

Mrs. Wojnar is a graduate of Champaign high school and the University of Illinois. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and was a member of Illustrators, and active in the Theatre Guild while in school. She has been attending the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Doctor Wojnar is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Medical college, and is a member of Alpha Kappa Kappa, medical fraternity and was a member of the Varsity club. He is now interning in the Philadelphia General hospital.

PAUL ADMONISHES THE CHURCHES

LESSON TEXT—I Corinthians 11:20-27; Romans 13:13, 14; Ephesians 5:18-21.
MEMORY SELECTION—Let us walk honestly, as in the day.—Romans 13:13.

Temperance is readily taught from the epistles of Paul for he was constantly moved by the Holy Spirit to exhort the churches and individual Christians to a careful and worthy walk before God.

In doing so he was not afraid to speak plainly about the use of intoxicants. Perhaps his brethren in the ministry today should consider him and take courage.

Our lesson is a temperance lesson, and since some twist that word "temperance" to fit almost any kind of indulgence, we should like to quote a careful evaluation of it by Dr. W. R. White:

"Temperance is a seriously misunderstood word. The best definition we know defines it as abstaining from that which is harmful, and using moderately that which is legitimate. We would not advise a man to be moderate in teasing a rattle-snake. We would not tell him that it is all right to steal, lie or commit adultery just so he is temperate about it. We would not tell a man to use dope moderately. . . . We could tell a man to be moderate about eating meat or any other wholesome thing."

The only way to be temperate about liquor is to let it alone!

I. The Wrong Way and the Right Way—in the Church (I Cor. 11:20-27).

There were a number of disorderly things about the Corinthian church which needed correction. One of these concerned the Lord's Supper. A time which should have given them a blessed unity in fellowship and love had become just the opposite.

It was their custom to eat a so-called love feast before the sacrament, and instead of making it a time of loving and sharing, the rich ate their sumptuous meals and let a poor brother gnaw on a crust of bread.

Then feasting led, as it so often does, to excesses. Some became drunken on the wine and even partook of the Lord's Supper while intoxicated.

We are not so much concerned with the Lord's Supper in this lesson as we are with the behavior of those who attended. Think of coming to the holy table drunk! It seems impossible, and yet it happened.

Do we not still let the poor in our midst shift pretty well for themselves? The rich flaunt their affluence and let the poor get along on their crust of bread. The church needs to renew its scriptural appreciation of what fellowship and communion really means.

II. The Wrong Way and the Right Way—in the Community (Rom. 13:13, 14).

This chapter of the epistle to the Romans concerns the right behavior of the believer in his civic relationships. He is a citizen of heaven, but he is also a citizen of the community in which he lives.

The use of intoxicants which a generation ago was a shameful thing is now generally accepted. The home in which liquor was served was a disgrace; now "cocktail" is one of the first words children learn.

What is the explanation? Is liquor any less destructive and demoralizing? Certainly not! Is it then true that people are more candid and open about what they do? No, it is rather that moral standards have slipped to the point where they are no longer ashamed when they should be, if they thought straight!

Along with the liquor go all the things enumerated in verse 13. Oh, the awful depth of sex degradation, of plain ordinary indecency and dishonesty, of strife and envy. It is not a nice picture, but it is true.

The right way is found in verse 14. It was reading these two verses in his mother's open Bible that led Augustine to Christ. He saw and took the right way. Will others do likewise?

III. The Wrong Way and the Right Way—in the Heart (Eph. 5:18-21).

This is a personal matter. The man or woman who finds satisfaction in wine wants the overpowering power of the narcotic influence to take away the sense of responsibility for life. It is a weak and hopeless way to avoid facing reality.

The right way is to let the Holy Spirit take full control of the heart and life. This is to be an experience of complete surrender, being "filled with the Spirit."

Does life then become drab and uninteresting? No, indeed! For the first time you will be really joyful. That inevitably leads to thankfulness, a grace too little known and practiced. It is for all things at all times. Do not overlook that fact. Then too there will be a delightful attitude of consideration and respect for one another (v. 21) and of devotion to God.

Coal Mining Facts

According to the Bureau of Mines of the U. S. Department of the Interior, the average weekly earnings of coal miners in August of this year were $62.37 a week, an increase of 161 per cent above those of seven years ago. Average hourly earnings in August were $1.47, including overtime pay for all time over 35 hours a week. Time actually worked each week averaged 42½ hours.

A considerable portion of the increase in miners' wages recently has been due to the fact that they now receive pay for the time used in traveling from the mouth of the mine to the point where the actual work is done, and return. This is what is known as "portal to portal pay," which is a new concession granted during the war.

In addition to the large wage increases for work actually performed, the miners have been granted many other benefits. These include more vacation pay, improved safety regulations, greater compensation for accidents and occupational disease, medical service, and the welfare fund provided by a "royalty" of 5 cents on every ton of coal mined.

Considering these "extras" that have been granted, the miners have received greater increases in wages and benefits since 1939 than any other class of wage earners.

New Soviet Tactics

Russian diplomats have lately manifested a somewhat more conciliatory attitude toward other members of the United Nations, and this has led many to wonder whether some change in Soviet policy may be in the making.

Talk along this line has been supported by reports of Stalin's ill health, also of unrest, purges and other difficulties inside the Soviet Union. Some have suggested that Stalin's regime may be nearing its end, because of his becoming incapacitated thru sickness or even death.

Speculation over these matters is being indulged in by the British, according to a London dispatch by Ludwell Denny, Scripps Howard foreign analyst, who does not take much stock in their significance. In his view, more conciliatory tactics by Russia should not be taken as any indication of a change in her basic policy—which aims at ultimate world domination.

This policy will continue, he thinks, whatever may happen to Stalin. But, he says, it is not necessary to assume that Stalin is passing out of the picture to think Moscow is getting ready for a change of diplomacy. The Kremlin is notorious for sudden reversals. Mr. Denny adds:

"Since Russia's strong-arm methods unify and strengthen the opposition, instead of achieving the desired Soviet dominance, Stalin and his political bureau should be considering a more effective method. But it is naive and dangerous to suppose that if Russia reverses her methods because old methods have served their purposes, she thereby changes her totalitarian aims."

Sidelights

A fellow working by the week in China has to wait a long time for his paycheck, because a week in the Chinese calendar is sixty days long. The days in that oriental country are distributed into cycles of sixty in the same manner as ours are distributed into seven-day cycles.

From Capetown, South Africa, comes the news that specially selected stinkwood—the most expensive wood in the world, which comes from the forests of Knysna—is to be used for bedroom suites in the redecoration and refurbishing of Government House, Capetown, for the visit of the British royal family next spring.

A customer at James Kromar's tavern, Chicago, donated a live owl to give a little life to the collection of stuffed birds which adorn the walls. Kromar placed the bird on top of the cash register where it sat motionless among the stuffed specimens. But when the owl began to blink and hoot some of the patrons decided they had one too many and left. So Kromar was forced to turn the bird over to the Anti-Cruelty Society.

It has arrived sooner than we expected—Nylon hose are now being given away by a Cleveland O., butcher to stimulate business. With the American housewife now taking over the control of meat prices by refusing to pay too much for her purchases, this butcher advises that it was necessary to pep up his sales and he turned to the best medium he could find to accomplish this end. Encouragement of sales through premiums has returned.

We are told that recently the president of a civic club was anxious to have a large attendance at the weekly meeting and sent cards to the members advising that he would present to each one attending a pair of nylon hose. Every member was present and as the presiding officer made good his promise, he said: "I just want to tell you, gentlemen, that I also sent cards to your wives advising them of these gifts." There was a pause then one of the members said: "In that case, how about exchanging this pair of size nine for a pair of size ten and a half?"

Recently we reported in this column that even haunted houses are being readily rented and as a result of this item of information we have been told of a real estate agent who had a supposedly haunted farm listed for rent. To prove the accepted belief in error, he decided to engage a man to stay there for one night. The next morning the agent was up bright and early to make a check on the situation but upon arriving at the farmhouse could not find his man. On the lawn he discovered the remains of a window, sash and shutters completely wrecked. Four days later the agent came across his one-night watchman tramping along a country road some three miles away. "Hello, George," he cried. "Where have you been all this time?" The man wiped the perspiration from his face, and replied: "Boss I've been acomin' back."

Eat a Good Breakfast
Reasons for differences in personality, pep and energy are being traced to the foods we eat and the times we eat them. For example studies have revealed some startling facts about the importance of breakfast. In general these facts show that eating a good breakfast will increase energy and efficiency and even change dull, listless or irritable people to bright and cheerful individuals. To be greeted each morning by a breakfast of fruit, cereal, toast, butter, eggs, milk, coffee and cream, certainly improves morale.

Communist Fronts Named In Report

Communists use an elaborate facade of "fronts" to extend the influence of the Communist Party in the United States far beyond the relatively small circle of party members.

Calling attention to this deceptive facade, a report on Communist activity made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States explains that the Communists usually do the active work behind the front of "honorary" names.

"Thus, for youth, the Communists have the American Youth for Democracy," the report says.

"To win over the Negroes, they have the National Negro Congress. In the field of insurance, particularly among the foreign-born, there is the International Workers Order.

"Other fronts, by contrast, are temporary. Such is the committee which in 1946 is staging the various 'Win-the-Peace' rallies throughout the country."

The report names as "one of the more prominent and apparently respectable fronts today" the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences, and Professions (I.C.C.).

"This group," the report says, "has been successful in gaining publicity and support which would never have been accorded to the Communist Party. It has enlisted aid from persons who would not consciously collaborate with Communists.

"Yet, the Party has claimed credit (in its 1945 New York State Convention) for founding the I.C.C. A large number of I.C.C. directors have participated in pro-Soviet activities. Its line is identical with that of the Daily Worker, the national Communist paper."

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of my nieces and nephews have gone through the experience of signing on the dotted line for something or other. In fact, signing on the dotted line is as American as the Army-Navy football game. This month your Uncle Sam is Salesman Uncle Sam asking you to scrawl your name on this payroll savings card where you work. You will note it reads: "Sign Up for Security!" It means exactly what it says. It will authorize your employer to save the amount you specify from your pay every payday for investment in U. S. Savings Bonds.

Smile Awhile

The average woman has a vocabulary of only eighteen hundred words. It is a small stock, but think of the turnover.

I think I'll go to Virginia for my health, said the ailing actor. Well, Virginia has cured a lot of hams, you know.

Officer—Don't you know what the crack of dawn is?

Private—Sure, what my wife used to give me when I came home at 4 a. m.

First Drunk—Whassat sign say?

Second Souse—It sez, "Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Dresses."

First Drunk—Well, it's about time. I'm sick of seein' em in slacks.

First Gal—I like a man with a past. A man with a past is always more interesting.

Second Gal—That's true, but I don't think he's nearly so interesting as a man with a future.

Third Gal—The man who interests me most is the man with a present; and the more expensive it is, the more interest I take in him.

The teacher had recited "The Landing of the Pilgrims." Then she requested each pupil to draw from his or her imagination a picture of Plymouth Rock.

Most of them went to work at once, but one little fellow hesitated and at length raised his hand.

Well, Willie, what is it? asked the teacher.

Please, ma'am, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?

Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed were silent as the train bore them swiftly home at the end of their honeymoon.

Mr. Newlywed had spent every available penny and his next pay day was two weeks off.

But as they neared home, the young wife gave a merry laugh.

I'm going to tell you a secret that will cheer you up, Billy, she said. Before we went away I hid ten dollars in the dresser.

Yes, moaned her husband, I know. I found it.

A United States Army officer stationed in Australia decided to go on a kangaroo hunt. He climbed into his jeep and instructed his driver to proceed to the plains in quest of a kangaroo. Soon they spotted one, and the driver drove the jeep in hot pursuit.

For some time they went at breakneck speed without gaining on the animal.

Finally the driver shouted to the officer: Ain't no use chasin' that thing, sir!

Why, Sam?

Cause we is now doin' sixty-five, and that critter ain't put his front feet down yet!

Experiment

Nationalization of industry is the big issue in England. The Labor government, elected last year on a nationalization platform, is proceeding to carry out the program as rapidly as possible. Some sectors of American thought are advocating the same measures for our country. For this reason it is my belief that many readers of this column will find interest in the progress of this socialistic program in England.

First step was the nationalization of the Bank of England, upon which the government long has relied for more or less of its own financing, particularly as it obtained large short-term loans for years. The bank's stock belonged to private individuals and had been paying about 3% interest. The government did not evaluate the bank, but simply took over all the stock, giving to all former owners bonds equal to the market value of the stock and bearing 3 per cent. The invaluable hidden assets which invariably accrue to such an institution went to the government without remuneration to the former stockholders.

Danger Present

The Bank of England also was given power to require other banks of the country to accept such banking policies as it might decide to issue. Some experienced bankers fear that the day may come when the government, because of extensive deficit financing, will advocate unsound banking policies which would react badly upon the financial status of the United Kingdom. Policies already adopted by the bank have led to the discontinuing interest formerly paid on deposits and savings accounts.

Industries slated for nationalization by the Labor government are: (1) Transportation, including railroads, transport buses, street-cars, canal barges, and coastal shipping, (2) Utilities, including production and distribution of electric power and the operation of water systems throughout the Kingdom, (3) The iron and steel industry, and (4) Civil aviation.

Complications in Steel

Perhaps the most complex problems for nationalization are presented by the iron and steel industry. This is a highly skilled craft, requiring skills and know-how to be found only in the present management of the industry. Many important but closely related industries in manufacturing, from needles to locomotives, would be affected.

One government economist told me that the government would take over production of steel and iron up to the point where the metal was allowed to cool, regardless of the form in which that might be. However, another economist stated that this policy would draw the line of demarcation for nationalized industry right through the center of some plants which were accustomed to using a continuous process until metals were actually shaped into materials for sale.

Some observers in England think difficulties will be so great that the government finally will give up the scheme of nationalizing the iron and steel industries. In fact, the government has recently indicated the scheme would be postponed for at least four years. One steel operator ventured that production per man-hour would certainly go down when and if the government took over. One of his reasons was that the workers would be at points entirely too far removed from the source of authority. He also affirmed that in his opinion workers did not like the idea of nationalization.

Interesting Notes

Egypt has 12,000 square miles of arable land in the Nile valley and the delta below Cairo.

There is enough ice in the Antarctic today to cover the entire globe with a layer 120 feet thick.

Firearms accidents in farm homes were third only to falls and burns in 1945, according to the National Safety council.

In the snow belt states, traffic death rates, based on mileage, are 24 to 53 per cent higher in winter than in summer.

December is one of the two deadliest months of the year for accidental deaths, the National Safety council says. Peak traffic deaths, burns and asphyxiations swell the toll.

The volume of liquid fuel shipped overseas in the last year by the Navy and the Merchant Marine was nearly 16 times that of food. Overseas forces required nearly twice as many tons of oil as of all other supplies combined.

Of the 1,725,000 tons of major warships lost by the Japanese in the last war, American carrier-based aircraft accounted for the most with 680,000 tons sunk. Submarines destroyed 507,000 tons and surface ships 257,000 tons. Land-based aircraft accounted for only 62,500 tons.

In 1945, there were more accidental deaths of workers in agriculture than in any other industry. However, there were more deaths of farm residents from home accidents than from any other type of accident. And there were more deaths of farm residents in motor vehicle accidents than from all other types of accidents.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Stop Worrying

I guess folks in our town do about as much worrying as in yours—over housing and prices, and crops, and jobs—and the little domestic problems that are always coming up.

Dad Hoskins, who's lived to the happy age of eighty, has a simple formula for stopping worry. About every problem, he asks himself: Is there anything I can do about it? If there is, he never postpones making a decision, or taking necessary action.

If there isn't anything he can do about it, he sets aside a "worrying hour" after dinner, and gets his worrying over in one concentrated period. When that's over, he relaxes over a friendly glass of beer with Ma Hoskins—and they talk about pleasant things together, until bedtime.

From where I sit, that's as workable a formula as you could find... right down to the mellow glass of beer that seems to wink away your worries.
