Rites For Jas. Fogerson, 2 Men Sought In Villa Grove Shooting

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at the Longview Methodist Church for James Edgar Fogerson, 20, who was killed in a collision of two automobiles Saturday night. Rev. Earl Ballew, a former pastor of the Longview Methodist Church officiated at the services and a quartet from the Villa Grove Christian Church sang.

Burial was in Fairfield Memorial cemetery south of Broadlands with Dicks Bros. Funeral Home in charge.

Young Fogerson, who had recently moved from Broadlands to a farm north of Longview, received a broken neck, when the car in which he was riding, and which was driven by Charles Wright, 23, of Sidell, crashed into the rear of an auto driven by Joseph Parkaruskis, 25, of Westville, as both vehicles were heading south on Route 1, between Georgetown and Westville about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

Wright and Parkaruskis were only slightly hurt, but Phyllis Grimes, 17, of Georgetown, companion of Parkaruskis, received injuries which caused her death on Tuesday. Earl Fellers, 20, of Broadlands, a third occupant of the Wright car, has a broken leg and a possible skull fracture. He was taken to Lakeview hospital where his condition is reported as "fair."

James Edgar Fogerson, son of Labon and Ada Mae Fogerson, was born May 18, 1926, on a farm south of Homer. He attended the Homer high school and later engaged in farming. He was married two years ago to the former Dorothy Martin of Newman.

Surviving are his wife; his father, Labon Fogerson, Longview; one brother, Thomas, of Homer; and five sisters, Mrs. Carl Bretz, Fairmount; Mrs. Charles White, Danville; Mrs. Orville Bretz, Sidell; Mrs. Glen Hurst, Broadlands; and Helen Fogerson, at home. His mother preceded him in death.

2 Men Sought In Villa Grove Shooting

Villa Grove, March 12—Villa Grove authorities continued to search Wednesday for two unknown men who took part in a restaurant altercation early Tuesday morning in which Marion Ernest, 28, former night policeman here, was wounded critically by a gun fired by David Akers, the present night patrolman.

Ernest remained in a serious condition Wednesday at Jarman hospital, Tuscola, where attendants said he was making only a "fair" recovery from a groin wound.

John R. Hensen, Villa Grove mayor, reported that authorities had obtained the last name of one of the two men who allegedly assaulted Akers along with Ernest, but still were waiting for the man to report to local officers. The mayor said no headway had been gained in determining identity of the third man.

According to Hensen, Ernest and the two other men were causing a disturbance in Ray's grill about midnight Monday when the proprietors called Akers to the scene. The mayor said Akers fired his gun in self-defense when he was attacked by the trio.

Illinois State Capitol News

Thirty-five organizations will participate in the 16th annual conference on delinquency prevention, to be sponsored by the Illinois Division for delinquency prevention, April 10 and 11, at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago. A large attendance is predicted.

Effective results of the statewide highways safety campaign inaugurated by Governor Dwight H. Green were reflected in a report on January motor vehicle fatalities submitted to the chief executive by I. A. Palmer, assistant director of public works and buildings. The report showed that the 153 deaths attributed to automobile accidents during the first month of 1947 represented a decrease of 24 per cent compared to the 201 persons who lost their lives during the corresponding period last year.

Three hundred million dollars worth of Illinois veterans bonus bonds will be offered for sale by the state service recognition board on May 1. This will be the first offering of bonds out of the $385,000,000 bonus bond issue approved in a statewide referendum last November.

The bonds authorized for sale May 1 will be of $1,000 denomination, maturing in annual series over a 25 year period starting two years from date of issuance. The Illinois bonus act provides that the bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders on sealed bids, for not less than par and at interest not exceeding two per cent.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

LESSON FOR MARCH 16

INTIMATE FELLOWSHIP WITH CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—John 14:1-6, 12-18; 15:1-6.
MEMORY SELECTION—Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.—John 15:14.

The hour had come for our Lord's final intimate words with his disciples. It was indeed a solemn, but also a blessed, hour.

It was the night before the darkest day in the world's history. On the morrow the Son of man was to hang on Calvary's tree for the sins of the world—for your sins and for mine. But for the moment he was alone with his disciples.

The last Passover had been eaten together, the betrayer had been discovered, and the Lord had told them that he was soon to go where they could not follow. Peter had, by his bold self-assurance, brought forth the prophecy of his denial.

The disciples were disturbed in heart and mind. Then came from the Saviour's lips the words of comfort, assurance and power which have been the strength and solace of his people through all the centuries. Our life both here and hereafter is in his mighty hands.

We learn in this precious portion of Scripture that

I. The Christian Need Not Be Fearful (14:1-6).

That is indeed a good word—a needed word! Troubled hearts are everywhere—in the palace and in the cottage, on land, in the air and on the sea. There is a place of rest, thank God! There is One who still speaks the majestic words, "Let not your heart be troubled, believe in God, believe also in me."

His comfort is one which covers the future life, for he says, "I go to prepare a place" (v. 2). Concern about future destiny is settled at once when Christ Jesus becomes our Lord and Saviour. We need worry no longer. He has gone on before to the Father's house to prepare a place for his own. When we come to that ever-peaceful shore we shall not come as strangers, but as sons and daughters to a prepared place in our Father's house.

His words, "I will come again" (v. 3), gives present meaning to the future promise. He not only prepared the place, but he is who brings us there. The glorious hope of his coming again is the Christian's greatest comfort and mightiest incentive to useful, holy living.

II. The Christian Need Not Be Powerless (14:12-15).

Christ's followers are not here in a world of sin and need as a little group of hymn-singing weaklings, thinking only of the day when they shall be in a brighter land. Ah, yes, they sing hymns and rejoice in them; they look for a better land; their weapons of warfare are not carnal. But weaklings? Oh, no! God uses them to do great and mighty things for his glory.

Note the blessed words of Jesus "He that believeth on me" (v. 12). The army of God carries the royal banner of faith in a living Christ. "Greater works . . . shall he do" (v. 12). Jesus only began his work on earth; its greatest development was to be the joyous privilege of his followers. We are ashamed that we have not lived up to this great promise, but by his grace we will do better.

"If ye ask . . . I will do" (v. 14). Someone has called this a signed blank check on all the resources of God.

III. The Christian Need Not Be Distressed (14:16-18).

The Holy Spirit, promised by Christ as the abiding comforter, came so to abide in the believer on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2).

The ministries of the Holy Spirit are many, but here the emphasis is on his work as Comforter. What a blessed and helpful ministry, and how much needed by distressed and disturbed souls! The Christian may count on him—and not be distressed.

IV. The Christian Need Not Be Detached (15:1-6).

What is worse than the feeling that one does not belong to anyone else, that one is a detached individual! That is never true of the believer in Christ. We are as close to him as the branch is to the vine. We are in him.

Christ is the vine, and the believer as a true branch is united with him. There is a oneness here which is difficult to express, but delightful to receive and believe. He who is the vine needs no cleansing, but the branch needs constant, daily purification by the word. Are we permitting God's Word to keep us clean? Only if we are reading it, studying it, meditating upon it.

There is, moreover, a severer type of purging to which the husbandman subjects the vine that it may bear more richly, and that is pruning (v. 2).

Some branches must be cut away altogether and burned (v. 6). They lack the evidence of life—fruit-bearing—and must be destroyed.

Teachers' Pay

The annual report of the U. S. Office of Education says that the elementary schools reach virtually all the children within the legal and compulsory school ages, and that "for many of these, education will terminate when they finish the grade school courses." John W. Studebaker, the United States Commissioner of Education, says in the introduction to his report that "it is during the elementary school experiences that foundations of knowledge, skills, attitudes and appreciations are established. The effectiveness of this foundation profoundly influences the extent to which children come to realize the ultimate goal of effective citizenship, the maximum individual competence and a full realization of their potentialities."

Benjamin Fine of the New York Times reports that salaries are so low in California that teachers are definitely not respected as they should be by parents or students. In Colorado he found salaries so low that there was a general sentiment against capable men and women entering that field where they could not "make a decent living." In Alabama any young person would be unwise "to spend five years in college for a profession that does not average a living wage." In Wisconsin he found that not more than 400 rural teachers will be graduating from the rural departments of normal schools this spring, despite the fact that 1,100 rural teachers are needed.

Employer's Rights

Some recent decisions of the National Labor Relations Board indicate that the board as at present constituted is inclined to give some consideration to the right of employers. In dismissing a complaint against two St. Petersburg, Fla., newspapers made by the Typographical Union, the board held that unions, as well as employers, must bargain in good faith.

The Wagner Act requires the employer to bargain in good faith but does not require the union to do so—a manifestly unfair provision. The new decision places both parties on an equal footing in this particular respect.

Another NLRB decision confirms the right of an employer to replace strikers with other workers, when employees strike over wage increases, working hours or other economic issues.

More freedom of speech is granted employers in recent decisions. At one time the board held that merely discussing unionism with their workers was an unfair labor practice on the part of employers. In two recent decisions, however, the NLRB has upheld the employer's right to issue anti-union statements or pamphlets, provided no actual threats of coercion or reprisal are made.

Speed Ways to Pay Bonus

Ways to speed the payment of the Illinois bonus to its 900,000 veterans of World War II, were suggested by Gov. Dwight H. Green and Admiral John Downes, director for the State Service Recognition Board in a radio broadcast to citizens of Illinois recently.

Downes announced that headquarters had been leased in Springfield and Chicago and that the training of personnel to staff these offices was already under way. He said that application forms would not be distributed until the employees of the two offices were ready to handle them as they came in.

Downes suggested that Navy veterans do not wait until they receive their application forms but prepare for them in advance by obtaining from the Navy Department an official statement on the amount of time spent in service at home and overseas. This information is contained on army discharge papers but not on the Navy separation form.

1500 Deer in Rock River Valley of Northern Illinois

Airplanes are now being used to make game surveys in Illinois. William Preno, pilot biologist of the department of conservation, and Willet Wandell, game technician of the Illinois natural history survey, have made an intensive aerial study of the deer population in the Rock River Valley of Northern Illinois.

Flying a University of Illinois plane and using aerial cameras they found that there were 1,500 deer in the valley between Dixon and Rockford. Game technicians estimate that this is 500 more deer than the range will support and plans are being made to move the excess to various parts of the state where adequate food, cover and water is available.

Sidelights

A friend tells us that the bobby-soxers are cooling down and losing their squeal. This, of course, is a blessing. However, having lived through the Flapper era and a few other such headaches, we merely wait for the next fad to sweep the country.

If, as it has been said, man was given speech to conceal his thoughts, why is it that those who think less are forced to use more words to conceal said alleged thoughts? The fellow who says much in a few words gains in popularity every time he opens his mouth. The other fellow—well, you take it from there.

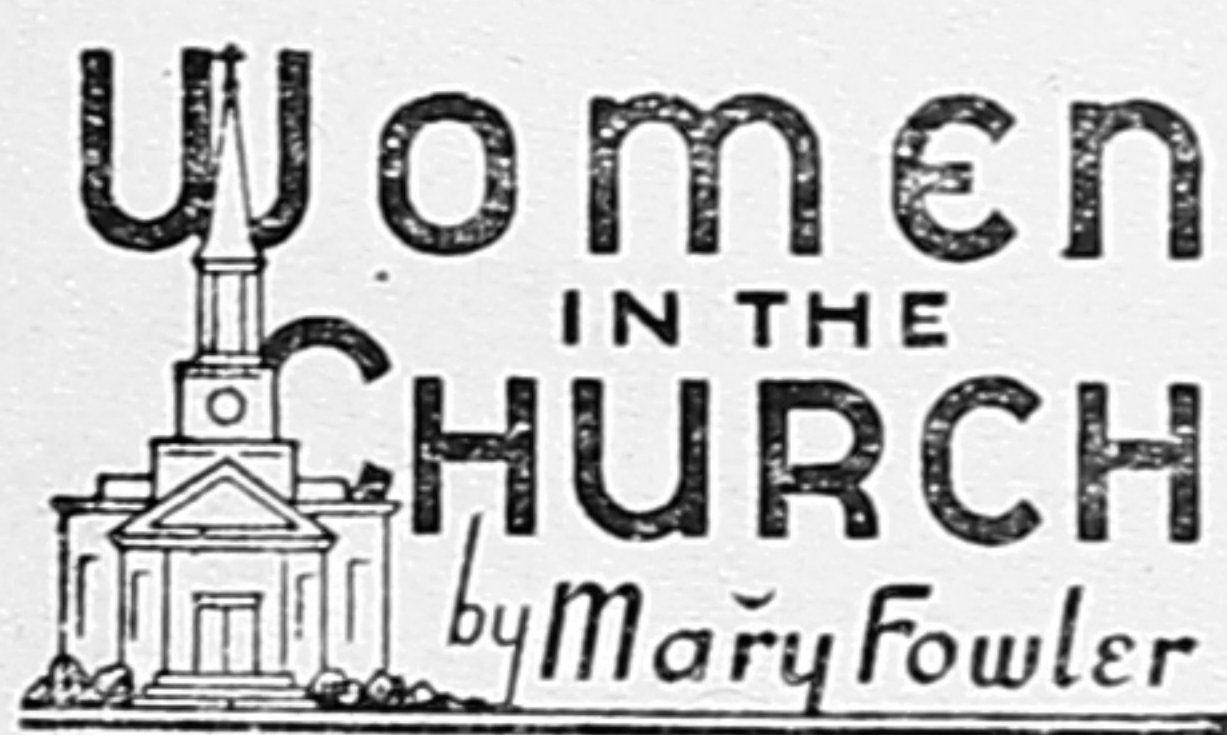

With prices on most commodities spiraling, the budget of the average family undergoes daily revision. Once upon a time budgets were outlined annually and the smart person stuck to his closely. A budget today is merely a method of worrying before you spend as well as afterwards, someone has pointed out—and, no doubt, from experience.

Those of you who have had some experience in political campaigns will appreciate the position two farmers, who had not spoken to each other in twenty years, found themselves in. One of the men decided to run for a county office and ran on the Democratic ticket. One bright morning he drove over to the fence line and hailed his old enemy. Rather startled, the other asked why he was speaking to him after all these years of silence. "Well, I'm just here to tell you that I'm running for sheriff and I don't want you or none of your family voting for me," was the reply. "Now look here," demanded the neighbor, "me and my kids have been voting the Democratic ticket since grand-pap came to these hills and if you don't want us voting for you, you just get off the ticket." You can't monkey with a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat.

"Soap is perhaps the rarest of all household needs," says the Church World Service in appealing to church women for continued relief supplies for use overseas. "The lack of soap has meant increased wear and tear on already well-worn clothes. Candles, too, are needed, carrying light to the dark and cold houses of the world; even small stoves can be melted down and used. Bedding and linen are cherished abroad. To a family that has lost everything, a blanket is a messenger of hope and cheer. Books, tools and kitchen utensils can all be shipped ab-

FIELD DOG TRIAL HOLDS BIG THRILL FOR SPECTATOR

Provides Fascinating Demonstration of Canine Speed, Grace, Precision

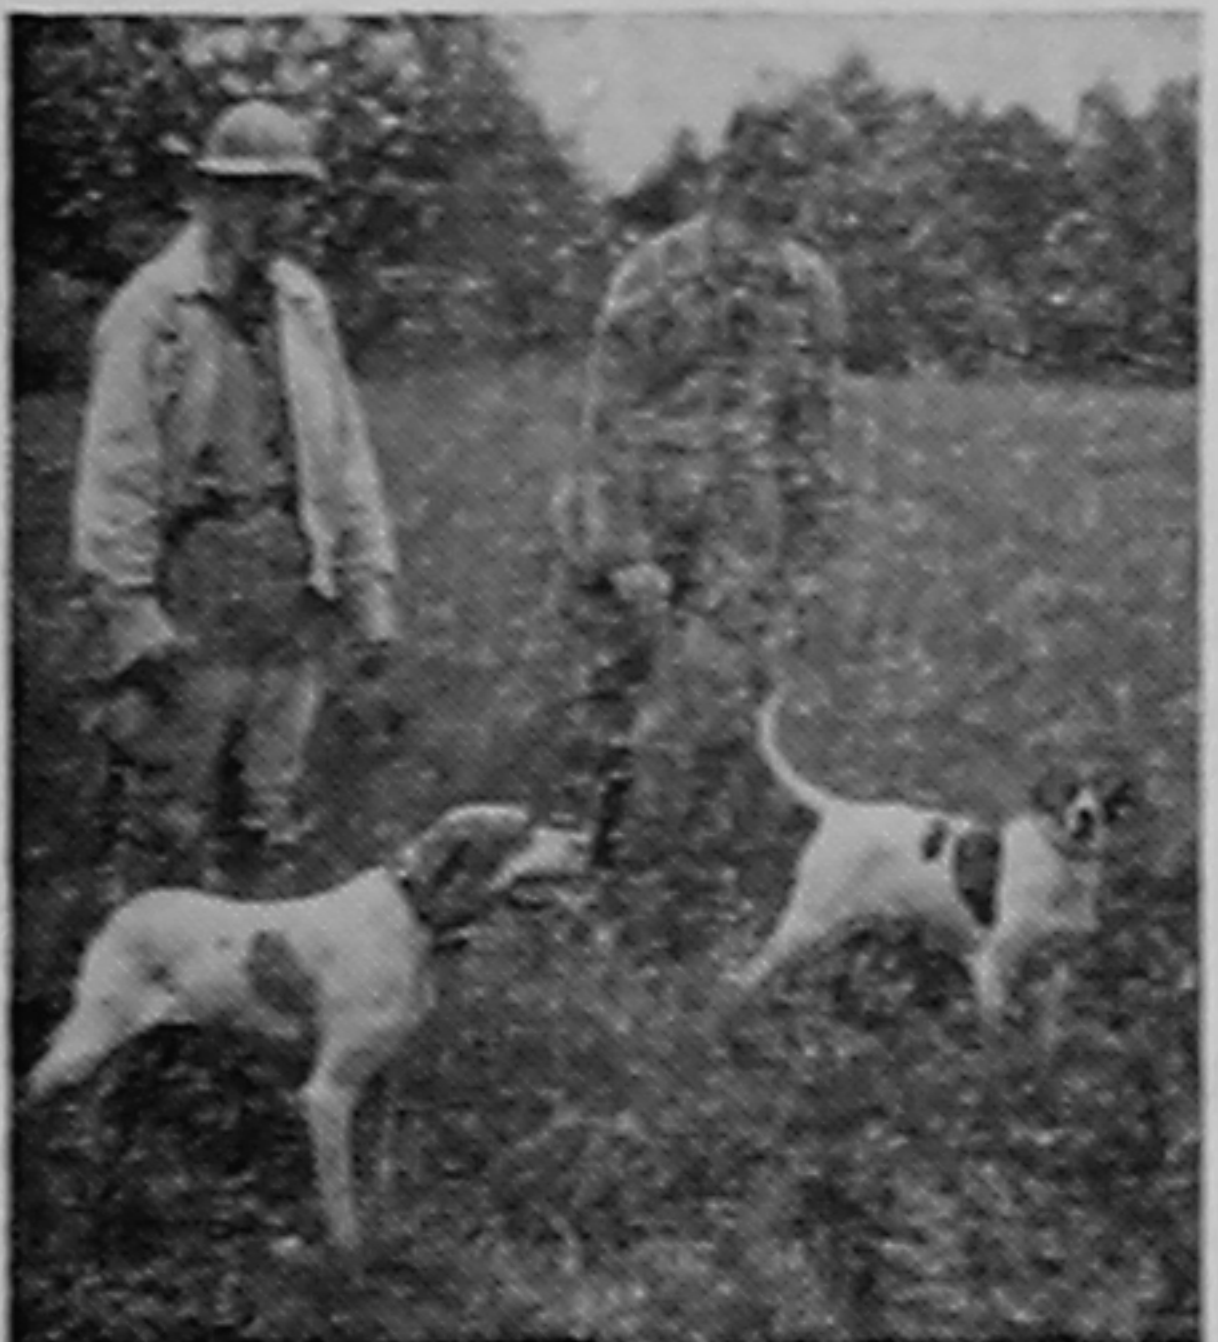

Anyone who likes dogs or has an interest in sports will find many hours of relaxation and enjoyment in following field trials, states the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

A field trial might best be described as a public competition for hunting dogs. The main purpose is to encourage and set standards for the breeding and training of better hunting dogs. Aside from its more serious aims, the field trial provides unrivaled recreation for both participants and spectators.

Trials are held for almost every breed of sporting dog and hound on all kinds of small game. There are 27 breeds which are eligible for trials. Some trials limit contestants to representatives of one breed exclusively, as, for instance, Beagle trials in which the game pursued is rabbit or hare. Most retriever trials are open to several breeds such as Labrador, Golden and Chesapeake Bay Retrievers, to name but a few. Entries in bird dog contests are largely made up of Pointers and English Setters, although the entries may include any or all of the other pointing breeds—Irish Setters, Gordon Setters, German Shorthaired Pointers, Brittany Spaniels and Wire-Haired Pointing Griffons. These are used on various upland game birds, such as quail, pheasant, grouse, prairie chicken and Hungarian partridge. English Springer Spaniels, Cocker Spaniels, Brittany Spaniels and several other types of Spaniels are frequent field trial contestants, starting in the role of retrievers. Basset hounds, Foxhounds, Coonhounds and Dachshunds also take part in trials, demonstrating their sporting blood in the pursuit of the rabbit, fox and raccoon.

To sharpen competition, events and entries in a field trial are usually grouped into classes arranged according to several factors. The puppy stake is for dogs not older than 18 months, the derby for dogs not over 30 months of age and the all-age for dogs of any age. The members class is limited to dogs handled by members of the organization sponsoring the trial. The amateur class is for dogs handled by non-professionals, and open places no limitation on the handlers. There are also gun-dog or shooting-dog stakes which are for dogs used as all-round personal hunting dogs. Futurities are limited to puppies made eligible far in advance, usually entered before birth. The Winners Stakes are limited to dogs which have placed first, second or third in some previous trial. Championships are trials held to determine a regional or national champion.

Field trials are given by clubs or associations of persons interested in hunting dogs. When the entries have closed, a drawing is held to determine what dogs shall run together. This procedure insures that there shall be no partiality concerning the time of day a dog runs or what dog shall be his brace mate.

As the dogs work they are followed by their handlers and the two judges, the judges generally being on horseback. The judges size up the competing dogs on the basis of the best all-round performance. A dog should run with speed, style and "class"—"class" being the indefinable quality which characterizes a great performer in any sport. The way a dog works is the most important factor. He should cover the ground swiftly but thoroughly, his actions indicating that he is really hunting and is not merely out for a romp.

Requirements vary with the different breeds. For example, hounds are expected to give tongue and "declare their work" when on the trail of game. Retrievers are required to plunge unhesitatingly into the icest water or the thorniest underbrush when commanded to "go fetch" game that has been shot down. Bird dogs are expected to find birds, hold a steady point and honor or "back" points made by their running mates.

According to the Gaines Dog Research Center, the field trial spectator can expect an interesting and thrilling experience, whether the trial attended be for hounds, bird dogs or retrievers. No one with sporting blood can fail to be deeply stirred when he hears for the first time "the sweet cry of hounds" or watches the perfect coordination and control of a well-trained bird dog and his handler working together.

Smile Awhile

Possibly man could live twice as long if he didn't spend the first half of his life acquiring habits that shorten the other half.

Father—Well, son, what did you learn in school today?

Son—I learned to say "Yes, sir, and No, sir," and "Yes, ma'am and No, ma'am."

Father—You did, eh?

Son—Yeah!

Johnnie, asked his mother, what is all that noise on the back porch?

There's a thousand cats out there, fightin', said Johnnie, after a survey.

Johnnie, you shouldn't exaggerate so. Now, how many are there?

There's five hundred, anyway. Are you sure?

Well, there's fifty.

Johnnie, did you count them? Well, there's our cat and Thompsons' and I won't come down another cat!

Needing a new secretary, the firm's manager decided to have applicants judged by a psychologist. Three girls were interviewed together.

What do two and two make?

The psychologist asked the first. Four, was the prompt answer.

To the same question the second girl replied: It might be 22.

The third girl answered: It might be 22 and it might be four.

When the girls had left the room, the psychologist turned triumphantly to the manager.

There, he said; that's what psychology does. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second smelled a rat. The third was going to have it both ways. Now, which girl will you have?

The manager did not hesitate. I'll have the blonde with the blue eyes, he said.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Definition of Our Town

Somebody defined our town just the other day as "A place where the people talk about you behind your back, and come to wait on you when you're sick."

I've got to admit there's something to it. A lot of our folks are inclined to be pretty outspoken and quick to criticize . . . even about little things, like a woman's hat, or a man's preference for a glass of beer, or the color of Cy Hartman's new barn.

But when anyone's in trouble, those differences and points of criticism are forgotten . . . and folks become neighborly and helpful, like they really are.

From where I sit, criticism never did much harm to anybody, so long as folks don't let it guide their actions . . . so long as they respect our individual preferences, whether they apply to hats or beer. That's the way it is in our town, anyway, and I hope that it's the same in yours.

3 of 4 Students
On Navy Pier
Are Veterans

A veteran—age 20½, single, a native Chicagoan, a graduate of a Chicago high school, and primarily interested in engineering or pre-professional training—that is the typical student among the 3,846 freshmen and sophomores enrolled in the new University of Illinois undergraduate Division at Navy Pier, Chicago.

A survey of the student body shows:
—9 out of 10 students are men (3,403)
—3 out of 4 are veterans (2,856).
—11 out of 12 are freshmen (3,534).
—15 out of 16 are unmarried (3,590).
—11 out of 12 are Cook County residents (3,554 Chicagoans).

At the new branch of the University of Illinois which offers the first two years of work in liberal arts, commerce, engineering, and architecture, the largest enrollment is in liberal arts—1,696 students. Engineering (including architecture) ranks second with 1,350 students, and commerce has a total enrollment of 800.

A further breakdown shows 405 women enrolled in liberal arts, 10 in engineering, and 28 in commerce. Three hundred and fifty-eight students were formerly students on the Urbana-Champaign campus of the University, 870 are transfers from other colleges and universities, and 2,545 are taking their first college-level courses. All but 303 of the 3,846 students indicated church affiliations.
