Grow Perennial Flowers From Seed

You can save considerable garden money and add new zest to your gardening by growing your own perennial flowers from seed. The best quality seeds cost only a few cents a packet and with simple care will produce scores of plants to bring color and beauty to the garden for years to come. Most perennials grown from seed bloom the second year after sowing. Seed should be started at about the same time as that of the annuals, such as zinnias and marigolds. The secret of success is to get the seedlings to transplanting size early enough so that the seedlings to the seedlings to transplanting size early enough so that the seedlings to when set in their permanent places in a shallow covering of soil. Firm the garden or border, they will get a good soil down on them so that they will root-hold before cold weather comes on. make immediate contact with the mois-

Double Trouble By Lila Lennon

INDA WARE slowed her little coupe and pulled off to the side. That suspicious swaying felt like a tire going soft. And, if it was. . . she was going to use some unladylike in her own honor!

One look verified her suspicions. The tire was very, very flat. She gave it a little kick and stood glarthrough, she would be good and hot, and dirty.

A long sleek car came zooming people to own our business. up, slowed and stopped. The young man behind the wheel spoke, "Having trouble?"

said meekly.

changing a tire a clean job?" Really, if he was going to be rude, she thought indignantly.

The young man was busy with the trunk. He rolled the tire out and found the jack. He was still scowling. Linda spoke quickly, "Please Delaware, according to the Associdon't bother, I'll change it."

He proceeded to loosen the wheel, looked up. "You?" he asked, unbelievingly.

Exasperation filled Linda. "Certire!" The young man grunted.

Exasperation filled Linda at the young man's remark.

Then, as if he hadn't heard at all, he said. "That's the trouble with women drivers, they know just two things about a car; how to start it and how to stop it."

Linda thought of a thousand remarks to make, but she contented herself with observing coldly, "Please remember that I did not ask for your assistance, and I do know how to change a tire!"

He shivered and turned up his coat collar. "It's chilly, isn't it?" he observed.

INDA started her car and drove away. The mirror showed him still standing there.

"Obnoxious male," she murmured aloud. "Why do all goodlooking men always seem to be so egotistical? He was impossible. That superior manner. Could she take it?" She snorted. "I'd like to tell him a thing or two." Suddenly, she began to smile. "I must tell Bud about this," she thought.

Bud greeted her at the door. "Hi, sis, late as usual."

Linda kissed him quickly. "Bud, the funniest thing happened to me . . . " Bud interrupted. "Not now, sis. People are waiting to see you, come on." He propelled her into the living room and Linda made the rounds of her friends.

Suddenly, Bud was tugging at her elbow. "Linda, I want you to meet a special friend of mine. This is Randy Palmer. . . he was my engineer on the Flying Fort."

Linda turned, and they stared at each other. Impossible, but there he was again, the obliging tire changer.

"How do you do," Linda said briefly. "Kismet," he murmured, and smiled.

Bud grinned. "You two ought to know each other, neither one of you ever arrives anywhere on time." "Really, Bud. . . " Linda began. Bud put his arm around her. "I'm really very proud of my little sister," he said to Randy. "She probably knows more about cars and engines than any man in this room." Randy's smile was enig-

"Yes sir," Bud continued, "For two years she drove a jeep all over North Africa. She's a good gal to have along on a trip."

Randy's smile stiffened, and he seemed to be swallowing something. "A jeep. . . North Africa . . .?", he asked weakly. "Yep," Bud said.

Linda didn't say anything, but her eyes danced. Bud moved off, but Randy stood there, looking.

"Well?" Linda said. "I can't believe it. . ." he said slowly. "You're so small and pretty. . . . " Then suddenly, he chuckled, "I guess this puts me in the well known corner." He took her arm. "Please forgive me. . . and thanks for not telling on me."

Linda smiled. Maybe. . . maybe she wouldn't tell Bud, after all. Released by WNU Features

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Fish Bites Woman!

Willie Wells was coming home from Seward's Creek the other evening with a string of trout, when a stern looking lady (visitor at the Boxwood Inn) stops him, and tells him a man his size could be better occupied than catching fish.

Willie tells her off real goodnaturedly by saying: "Perhaps we are to recognize another's you're right, but if these fish had kept their mouths shut, they wouldn't be here." (At that, says Willie, laughing out loud, she looked just as if a fish had bit her!) Blabbing mouths never cause anything but trouble. Nobody who knew the facts would ever criticize Willie's right to go fishing on his one day off -any more than they'd deny his right to come home to a mellow glass of beer. From where I sit, the slower we are to criticize - and the quicker tastes, the better we'll get along together - whether those tastes apply to beer or fishing.

Business To Tell American Story

American opportunity! What it means and how it works— That is the title and the task of a nation-wide effort undertaken jointly by business leaders, public opinion specialists, economists and advertisers, cooperating with the United States Chamber of Commerce. The objective is to give the American people better understanding of their enterprise system and its benefits. The chief medium of this effort will be advertising. An example of the economic truths the joint effort will seek to tell in concrete language is the following: The average American can earn a pair of shoes with six hours workthe average Russian 30 days, the average European 20 days. In 1900 it took the average American 24 hours to earn that same pair of shoes. In 1920, only 12 hours.
