Lutheran Convention Expands Work For Its Second Century

Delegates representing over 5000 congregations with total 1,564,000 adherents, will assemble from July 20th to July 29th at the Palmer House, Chicago, for the 40th National Convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states. On Sunday, July 27, a gigantic Centennial rally and service will be held at Soldiers Field, 3:00 p. m., at which Dr. J. W. Behnken will preach the sermon. Special trains, buses and chartered planes will bring Lutherans from distant points for this centennial celebration.

A Centennial Concert will be given in the Chicago Civic Opera House on Wednesday, July 23rd, when Bach's "Reformation Cantata" will be sung by a group of selected choirs and accompanied by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Lutherans of the Missouri Synod are recognized as leaders among Protestants in the educational field, having established a nationwide system of 1210 private Christian Day Schools, with an enrollment of over 80,000 children. Sunday schools number over 4,000 with a total enrollment of over 330,000 children.

Among the issues to be presented at the Centennial Convention is the request for appropriations amounting to almost $5,000,000 from eleven theological schools and seminaries and two teachers' colleges, including Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Ill. and Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., pictured above. In addition the expansion needs of the colleges and seminaries in Porto Alegre, Brazil; Crespo, Argentine, and Buenos Aires, Argentine.

Light on the Problem Of Human Suffering

LESSON TEXT FOR JULY 20—Job 1:8; 2:7-10; 19:7-10; 42:1-5; James 5:11.
MEMORY SELECTION—Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.—II Timothy 2:3.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.
HUMAN suffering—what a problem it is to all of us, in greater or smaller measure. From the broken heart of men and women comes the question "Why?"

We cannot always answer, nor do we fully know the meaning and purpose. We must often simply put ourselves and our loved ones into the hands of God, trusting him to bring us into assurance and victory.

There are some things we can know, and they are most helpful. The book of Job reveals much concerning the background of suffering and its uses and advantages. It is not all loss and pain. God does not forget his people in their hour of trial.

Job had suffered the loss of property, family, and was now personally afflicted by sickness of his body. His friends who came to comfort him had added to his troubles by their pious platitudes about suffering being the result of sin (cf. John 9:3), and so on.

There was enough truth in what they said to make it hurt, and so we are doubly glad we are given a look behind the scenes. We learn that this was not a struggle between God and Job, nor even between Satan and Job. We see

I. The Battle Between God and Satan (Job 1:8).

READ the entire story here and you will see that Satan, when faced by God with the godly example of Job's life, threw down a challenge. He declared that the only reason Job loved God was because he received so much good out of it, because God protected him.

The issue was clearly drawn; the question was whether God was able to keep a man in the midst of trial and suffering. Was His grace sufficient for the dark hours of life as well as the happy and bright ones?

Having stripped Job of all his possessions, and left him childless and heart broken, Satan had to admit failure up to that point. But he sneeringly slandered both Job and God by saying that Job was not concerned about these other things so long as his own body was unharmed (2:4, 5).

So the Lord permitted him to afflict Job's body, and we see the conflict raging in

II. The Battleground—The Life of Job (2:7-10; 19:7-10).

THE mystery of God's permissive will enters into the picture here, and we learn too that Satan, while a mighty being, has limits to his power. God may give him liberty to test his people, but it is never with the thought that they will fall; rather to prove that they can stand true come what may.

Was any mortal ever more afflicted than Job? We find him finally an outcast, sitting on an ash heap, scraping the awful sores upon his poor body.

Job did have his times of questioning and doubt (19:7-10). He felt at times that God had forsaken him. He misunderstood the providences of God. But through it all he held on to his faith in God. He could do without his possessions (1:21). God could even take his life and he would say, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him." He saw beyond the grave, for he knew that if his body were destroyed he would still see his Redeemer.

What more sublime expression of faith could a man make than to say in his hour of seeming despair, "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

III. The Outcome—Victory for God in Job (42:1-5; James 5:11).

JOB had to come to the end of himself. Judging himself to be unworthy (42:6), he repented of all his own self-righteousness and cast himself upon the mercy of God. God then vindicated him and restored him to a place of blessing and usefulness.

The answer then to our problem is this—God is able to keep to the uttermost those who put their trust in him (Heb. 7:25) through the grace he gives. Suffering may be in his permissive will for our own self-judgment and growth in grace. But back of it all is the assurance that God knows about it, he has not turned away; that in due season, if we faint not, we shall see victory.

Ultimately, the question is not whether we can stand or not, but whether God is able to keep us in the midst of the onslaught of the world, the flesh and the devil. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Warnings of Doom

Another warning of the doom which faces the world if the nations do not find a way to abolish war was sounded recently by a group of atomic scientists, headed by Dr. Albert Einstein. In a statement to the public these men express the belief that this question must be solved in a comparatively short time to avert the "death of our society."

The substance of this warning has been repeated many times since the first atomic bomb was produced in 1945. There is no doubt that the danger to civilization is the greatest with which the world has ever been confronted.

It is generally conceded that other nations will ultimately be armed with atomic weapons, unless some means of outlawing their manufacture can be devised. The United States has proposed to the United Nations a plan for this purpose, and has earnestly sought its adoption.

But, as everyone knows, Russia has stubbornly refused to join in an effort to make the plan work. She has persistently obstructed every important move made by other nations to settle the problems arising out of World War II. Worst of all, she has violated most of agreements she voluntarily made at Yalta and Potsdam.

How, then, can the rest of the world deal with a nation which has proved false to its past promises, and consequently unworthy to be trusted in the future?

By this time it should be evident to every informed person that no sincere cooperation can be expected from the Soviet Union. And without such cooperation the dangers which the scientists and others have pointed out will remain.

It appears that all that can be done is to make ourselves strong enough to discourage any who might have a notion to attack us. To fail to do this is to invite disaster.

Air Tragedies

Airplane crashes are killing crews and passengers with alarming frequency. In three crashes alone, 146 persons were killed recently in less than two weeks. Ever since the end of the war such tragedies have occurred at comparatively short intervals, in spite of numerous investigations which apparently have had little effect.

We hear much of the wonders of radar and other scientific improvements designed to insure greater safety, yet regular air liners, carrying up to 50 or more passengers, continue to meet disaster. Responsibility for crashes which kill all on board is difficult to determine, but some of the causes seem to be the following:

1. Lack of thorough inspection of all planes before they are permitted to take off.
2. Overloading of planes when weather conditions are unfavorable.
3. Permitting flights when it is known that storms are certain to be encountered.
4. Insufficient fuel on board to allow for unforeseen emergencies.
5. Mechanical failure of engines or other plane parts and instruments.
6. Taking unnecessary chances for the sake of making schedules.
7. Inadequate safety facilities on planes and at airports.

These are some of the possible causes of disaster and those experienced in aviation can doubtless enumerate several more. Many boards of experts have studied these things and have made recommendations for increased safety.

Yet there is no uniformity of performance. One plane circles the globe without accident of any kind, while another flying from Pittsburgh to Washington crashes, killing all on board. It doesn't make sense.

Sidelights

A certain police court judge stated recently that he thought he had heard every possible excuse, alibi or reason in defense of charges preferred but a few days ago a new one was added. The young man before him was charged with stealing an automobile and he was asked why he happened to take the car. "Well," replied the prisoner, "it was parked in front of the cemetery, so naturally I thought the owner was dead."

When a young lady got off a Columbus, Ohio, bus the other day it wasn't a parade that she started although a large number of passengers followed her. She was attractive and she was strikingly dressed but that was not the reason that several men and not a few women fell in behind her, many having gotten off the bus several blocks from their destinations. Why the exodus from the bus? Because the package she carried was a freshly painted sign which read: "Apartment for Rent. Unfurnished."

We have always understood that age was a relative thing. To the real young, a man of middle age seems old, but when we reach that age we find ourselves resenting being called 'old' by even the very young. But there is one fellow in Missouri who has the right idea. Known as "Uncle Bob" to everyone in the community and having just celebrated his 75th birthday, a neighbor asked him one day if he didn't hate to get old. Uncle Bob looked him squarely in the eye, and snapped back: "Hell, no! If I weren't old, I'd be dead!"

Household Hints

A quick way to cool boiled starch so that it leaves no scum is to pour it over ice cubes.

To remove hard-water deposit from the bottom of the washer, rub with a cloth dipped in vinegar.

Most fruit stains will come out if boiling water is poured on them with force while stains are still fresh.

A mirror adds immense charm to a room. It reflects and gives light and color and increases the sensation of space.

Poisons like lye, insect spray and disinfectants should be kept on high shelves, out of children's reach.

Curtains to be stored for a season should not be starched, for the starch may attract insects and weaken the fabric.

Sprinkle cornmeal on your rugs and let it remain for a short time then sweep. This picks up dirt and particles imbedded in the nap.

When setting out upon a shopping trip, include an extra pair of hose in your handbag. One can never tell when a run may occur.

When footsore after a hard day's shopping, sit down and soak your feet in warm salt water, dry with an absorbent towel, and massage briskly with ice-cold cologne.

In remodeling your kitchen it is a good idea to redesign it as a precautionary measure against fire. To do this be sure curtains, doors and wooden cabinets are not too close to the stove.

GET THE MOST FROM NATURE'S SUMMER FEED

GAINER PIG & HOG RANGE SUPPLEMENT . . . 35% protein

. . . is an ideal summer feed that does a remarkable job of boosting pork pounds and profits. When pigs and hogs are on pasture, they like nature's fresh green feed so much that ordinary solid feeds lose their appeal—and not enough grain is eaten to produce maximum gains. But Gainer Range Supplement—a properly balanced, carefully mixed feed—provides the appetizing addition that porkers want and need for quick, economical gains on summer pasture. That's why so many farmers say, "Results are best the Gainer Way!"

"Not Responsible For Wife's Debts"

A young man came rushing into the Clarion office the other day and wanted me to print an ad—"right quick"—saying he won't be responsible for his wife's debts from now on, as he's leaving her for good immediately.

I allowed as how the forms were all closed up, and it was too late to take his ad. He says: "All right, Monday then"—and we agreed on Monday.

Of course, the forms weren't closed. But I had kind of an inkling of what might happen. Then Sunday he phones me, and says, kind of sheepishly: "You can forget that ad. Me and the missus have everything all patched up. And we're having a friendly glass of beer, right now."

From where I sit, if you give folks time enough to think things over, those hasty quarrels that come so often from misunderstanding will give way to tolerance and common sense.

Smile Awhile

One middle-of-the-road politician attributes his stand to his earlier training in the highway department, painting those white traffic lines.

Two men were arguing. 'What is the meaning of tact, Jim?' asked one.

Jim wrinkled his forehead. 'It's—it's—' he began.

Well, what is it?

Look here. I'll give you an illustration. The other day I went to mend a pipe in a bathroom. When I got inside I saw a woman in the bathtub. I gave one look, raised my hat, and said: 'Beg pardon, sir!' That's tact.

Returning to the hotel room for the night, the weary traveler had just got into bed when there came a knock at the door. When he opened it he saw a stranger swaying in the doorway.

Shorry—wrong room, explained the stranger.

Ten minutes later the knock was repeated. It was the same man again.

Oh, par—don, he said. My mistake. Wrong room!

Half an hour later the incident was repeated. This time the drunk looked quite bewildered.

My goodness, he exclaimed. Have you got every room in the place?

Law Extended Providing Cars For Amputee Vets

While the fate of a more liberal free car law for amputees hangs in a balance, the present law, which expired June 30, has been extended for another year, according to Army Times editors. The extension slipped thru both houses of Congress as a "rider" on the appropriation bill, which protects hundreds of veterans who have lost their legs, or the use of them, and are still in hospitals and have not been discharged from the service. Veterans Administration officials had no information on the new extension of the law as late as July 8.
