Pvt. Villagran Trial Begins This Thursday

Socorro Villagran, 17, charged with the murder of Edna Lucille Keitzmann, Rantoul, on May 13, went on trial before Circuit Judge Charles Keller at 9:30 a. m. Thursday of this week.

The Chanute Field soldier entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned on the grand jury indictment and waived trial by jury.

State's Attorney John J. Bresee will open the state's case against the youth, who is represented by Attorney Roy Cline. Bresee says he expects to call on the federal bureau of investigation in Washington for a witness during the hearing.

Villagran was indicted by a recall session of the April grand jury two weeks after his arrest. The Texas soldier is being held in the county jail.

Bresee said that he may call as many as 15 witnesses during the hearing.—News-Gazette.

Allerton Mother Gives Baby Wrong Medicine

(Tuscola Review)

Lonnie Warren, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Warren, of Allerton, was near death recently following an accidental dose of camphorated oil administered by his mother.

Mrs. Warren thought she was giving her son a dose of castor oil after he swallowed two beads. The baby was taken to Jarman hospital late in the afternoon suffering from convulsions. Doctors, however, said the little boy will probably recover. The baby was one year old.

New Vaccine to Prevent TB

The establishment of a state institution which will manufacture and distribute a vaccine for the prevention of tuberculosis and carry on research in tuberculosis control is provided for in a bill just signed by Governor Dwight H. Green. The institution will be operated by the University of Illinois and the Chicago municipal tuberculosis sanitarium.

The vaccine, known as BCG, has been used in Europe and in a limited way in this country with gratifying results.

Methodist churches in the Philippine Islands were just in the process of organizing the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the local churches of the archipelago when "Pearl Harbor" broke upon the Pacific. For five years the societies were quiescent, though Methodist church women did their share of keeping the fires of Christianity burning during the dark days.

In February, 1946, there were but four local societies existing in the churches; today there are more than 150, and the goal is "an organized society in each church." One goal of the year is the holding of training conferences for society officers in each district. In addition, the women are helping to increase the salaries of the poorest-paid preachers on each district, and planning to eventually send their "own" missionary to some foreign land.

Condition of Illinois Corn Greatly Improved

Recent favorable weather has greatly improved the condition of Illinois corn, and the present prospect is for a total yield of 415,000,000 bushels, according to a special midmonth report by the state and federal departments of agriculture. This is 9,000,000 bushels higher than the July 1 forecast. Last year's record crop was 514,000,000 bushels.

About one-third of the Illinois corn acreage is still regarded as in danger from killing fall frosts which on the average come during the second week in October in northern Illinois, the third week in October in the central part of the state, and the fourth week in southern Illinois.

Fire Sweeps Business Block at Humboldt

(News Gazette)

Humboldt, July 30—Two Humboldt men were being held in the Coles county jail for investigation on Wednesday after a disastrous early morning fire which swept through all but one building in a main business block here.

Coles county authorities said the men being held were J. L. Sparks, 63, in whose home the fire started, and Allie Crist, 55, who lived next door to Sparks. The men were arrested by Police Chief LeRoy Boggs of Mattoon at the request of Alex Younger, Humboldt chief of police, who said he was investigating an alleged "brawl" at the Sparks home.

The fire was discovered at 3 a. m. and was fanned by a stiff south wind as it swept through six buildings. Firemen from Arcola, Mattoon, Charleston, Tuscola and Humboldt battled the blaze before it was brought under control in mid-morning.

Although no official report of damages was available Wednesday, estimates of the loss ranged from $50,000 to more than $100,000.

Chief Younger said the fire was discovered by two soldiers and Pearl Gibson of Arcola, who went to Spark's house. Sparks apparently told the men he could put the fire out himself and refused them admittance. Gibson went to the home of Elmer Sutton, where the Arcola fire department was notified and responded immediately to the call.

Jury Fails to Agree In Manslaughter Case

Danville, July 30.—A circuit court jury was discharged Tuesday night after failure to reach agreement in the case of Charles Wright, 23, of Sidell, charged with manslaughter in the death of a 17-year-old girl in an automobile collision.

Wright was driving an automobile which was involved in a collision with another car in which Phyllis Grimes of Georgetown was killed near Westville on the night of March 8. James Fogerson, 20, of Longview, riding with Wright, also was fatally injured.

Wright testified he was driving about 45 miles an hour and that he did not see the other car until too late.

Our Responsibility in Influencing Family Life

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 3—Proverbs 1:8, 9; 6:20-23; 17:6; 19:18; 22:6; 23:22-26.
 MEMORY SELECTION—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs 22:6.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.
TRUTH must be translated into living, and there is no place where it can be more effective than in the home. We will want to make much of this lesson, for it is the only one during the entire year which deals directly with the home. The book of Proverbs, to which we were introduced last Sunday, abounds in practical advice with a definitely spiritual emphasis, a combination at once wholesome and effective. This is the first of eight lessons making application of Proverbs to the problems of modern life.

Everyone in the home has a measure of responsibility for making the family life what it ought to be. No one from the small child to the great-grandmother is without influence, and each must contribute to the welfare of the home. Our lesson reaches from the young person to the grandfather rejoicing in his children's children. It begins quite properly with

I. Youth Looking to Parents (1:8, 9; 6:20-23; 23:22-26).

YOUNG people want to be well-dressed and properly groomed. They are interested in that which adorns and improves their appearance. It is right that they should have such concern. Let us remind them, however, that a young man or woman should not only be physically well-groomed, but spiritually attractive as well. If we should give as much thought to that side of our beings as we do to our bodies, there would be wonderful improvement in the life of the individual and in the home.

The child who is properly instructed, and who is responsive to that instruction, is prepared for life no matter where it may lead him (6:22). Wherever and whenever he needs guidance, night or day, it is with him. Even when he sleeps, he is in the hand of God for blessing.

Let no young man or woman be betrayed into that awful folly of our day which neglects the teaching of parents and of the church. Disaster is ahead on that road—sure disaster, and swift!

But now look at the other side of the matter, where we see

II. Parents Looking After Youth (19:18; 22:6).

THERE is a foolish idea current in our day which says that the way to rear children is to let them develop according to their own interests and instincts, without discipline or definite guidance.

The fruits of that kind of child training are now being harvested in the present crop of juvenile delinquents. We have the sad and awful proof before us that children cannot be reared that way.

We are not pleading for a return to the unduly restrictive measures of some of our forefathers; children are not helped by harshness or cruelty. But there is a proper place for definite instruction, for discipline, yes, even for chastening when that becomes necessary.

The larger part, and the most effective part, of this matter is the training of the child (22:6) and when properly done it brings forth the finest of results in later life. The boy who has been taught and directed right may get on a sidetrack for a time, but there is always the promise of a return to the right way.

This business of rearing children calls for the best any of us can put into it, and over and above that, all the grace and wisdom that God can and will give us.

We have reserved one verse for our final point, for here we find

III. Age and Youth Working Together (17:6).

OLD men need encouragement, and they receive it in no richer or more satisfying measure than in the delight they take in their children's children. Young people should remember that, and not fail to give to their grandparents, as well as their parents, the full measure of their interest and devotion.

But now note that "the glory of children are their fathers," yes, and grandfathers. How sad it is when a boy has to be ashamed of his father or one of his grandparents.

That puts on each one of us who has children a truly weighty responsibility. We must walk worthily before God, and before our children, even down to old age, when our grandchildren look to us for an example of godliness and gracious living. May God help us!

Cut In Naval Bases

Because of a reduction in appropriations, the U. S. Navy is being forced to make drastic reductions in its shore bases, in order to keep as many units of the fleet as possible in an active status, according to Admiral Louis E. Denfield, commander in chief of the Pacific.

During the war, the Navy spent many billions of dollars on shore bases, many of which are being abandoned. As an example, $131,000,000 was expended on the island of Manus in the Admiralties, north of New Guinea, for naval installations, airfields, roads and other facilities, out of which little of value can be saved.

Dozens of other island bases which were used as springboards in the Navy's march toward Japan will likewise be abandoned. Only one major base in the Aleutians and Alaska will remain in active operation. The Army, however, will have strong air bases in this region.

Pearl Harbor and Guam will be the great Pacific bases of the future, with Pearl Harbor as the keystone of our defenses in that vast area. Naval bases will be maintained on Okinawa and several other islands, but on a greatly reduced scale.

But even with the sweeping economy measures to be adopted with respect to shore installations, most of the vessels of the United States fleet, which two years ago was the greatest the world has ever known, are being laid up or scrapped.

The once powerful Pacific fleet is being reduced until only one battleship, six carriers, 16 cruisers, 60 destroyers, 39 submarines, and their necessary supporting vessels will be kept in active commission.

Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the Navy's general board, is directing surveys of Navy shore bases on the United States mainland and elsewhere, with a view to closing those not considered absolutely essential to serving the needs of the relatively small active fleet.

Similar sweeping economies are being effected by the Army and Air Forces as a result of greatly reduced appropriations for national defense.

In view of the dangerously unsettled conditions which continue to exist because of the hostile attitude of the Soviet Union, it is to be hoped that Congress will not press the economy program too far, at least with respect to the armed services.

Sidelights

Not all husbands are suspicious, in fact most have explicit faith in their wives. And so it was with a husband we hear about. A few nights ago the phone rang and he answered. After listening a moment, he replied: "How should I know. Call the Coast Guard." He then returned to his newspaper as his wife asked who was calling. "Oh, some nut wanting to know if the coast was clear," replied the head of the household.

It's an old saying but nevertheless is still true. If a man runs after money, those who know him say that he is money mad; if he keeps it he's a miser; if he spends it, he's a playboy; if he doesn't get it, he's a ne'er do-well; if he doesn't want it, he lacks ambition; if he gets it without working, he's a parasite; and if he accumulates it after a lifetime of hard work, people call him a fool who got nothing out of life. Where do you fit in?

Visitors to the maternity ward of the Memorial hospital at Chelsea, Mass., must be at least 14 years old or they are not allowed to enter. Miller Mitchell, who has just passed his 14th birthday was allowed to enter to greet his new daughter, born to his 14-year-old wife a few days ago. The attending physician reported the six pound, 10-ounce baby and mother were doing nicely. Hospital attaches report that the mother is one of the youngest in the institution's history.

We learn from a prison warden a few facts regarding correspondence between the inmates and the folks outside. He says that a prisoner's wife starts in to write often to her husband but after awhile the letters are less frequent, and then stop. But, whatever schedule his mother adopts, she keeps up to the end. When a wife's letters stop, said the warden, she probably has remarried, but when a mother's letters stop, she is dead.

It is interesting to note that when President Truman looked at the first official portrait of himself, painted by Jay Wesley Jacobs, his only real complaint was that he thought it flattered him. The other complaint was that one sleeve of his coat showed a distinct crease. The artist agreed with the latter complaint and immediately set about removing the crease, stating: "No well-dressed man ever has his coat sleeves creased." We realize that in pressing a sleeve it is easier to crease it than not

A Statement To Our Customers About Resale

PRICES of PRODUCTS

Built by International Harvester Company

Here at Harvester we are concerned over the fact that a growing number of our products are appearing on the resale market at greatly inflated prices.

As manufacturers, we try to produce at the lowest possible cost. We cannot set the prices at which our products—tractors, motor trucks, farm implements, refrigeration, and industrial power equipment—are sold. We can and do suggest list prices which the great majority of our dealers adopt as their retail prices.

$20,000,000 Price Reduction

Our basic price policy was publicly stated in March, 1947, when we announced price reductions at the rate of approximately $20,000,000 per year on our products. At that time, Fowler McCormick, Chairman of the Board, said: "ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED."

Practically all of our dealers cooperated with this policy and passed on the savings to their customers.

The objective of the price reductions was to make it possible for customers to buy our products, which they need so badly, at lower prices. Naturally, this purpose is defeated when our products are sold by anybody at inflated prices.

IH Production at All-Time Peak

Inflated prices are caused by the difference between supply and demand. To increase supply, we now have the greatest number of employees in history on our payrolls—almost 90,000 in the United States, as against about 60,000 prewar. Large new plants are getting into production in Louisville, Evansville, and Melrose Park. A fourth will soon be in operation in Memphis. The men and women now employed are turning out the greatest quantities of IH products of all kinds that we have ever made. These are also the finest products we have ever made, and recognition of that fact is an important contributing factor to the demand for them.

Distribution to Dealers

But even record-breaking production is not sufficient to give your dealer—and other IH dealers—enough products to meet today's demand. We have tried to make the fairest possible geographical allocation of our products so that every dealer would get a fair share, and we know that dealers, in most cases, have tried earnestly to make the fairest possible distribution to their customers.

But we also know that many of our products—far too many—are being resold at inflated prices. The public criticism and resentment of these resales are of real concern to us, as we know they must be to our dealers, because such reactions endanger the good will of both the dealer and the Company in any community.

Distribution to Customers

Experience shows that many IH new products are being resold by users who decide they can continue to make out with their old equipment after they have had an inflated offer for their new equipment. To eliminate this, many dealers are taking measures to be sure that equipment purchased is for their customers' own use and is not to be resold.

Nearly all IH dealers, we believe, are now using the basis of PRESENT NEED as their primary guide for the sale of scarce products. The customer whose need is real and urgent is not likely to resell.

What Price Should You Pay?

While it may take a little more time to get delivery, we urge our customers to consider all of the factors mentioned here, before paying more than the list price for any IH product. Any IH dealer or branch can furnish the suggested list price for any IH product.

We know that the overwhelming majority of IH dealers are as much opposed to inflated prices as we are. In the public interest, we have already asked their cooperation—and are now asking the cooperation of customers—in correcting this situation.

HELP BUILD

on AIR FORCE DAY, AUGUST 1ST

No one today questions the fact that the whole future of the United States may rest in the very clouds over your head. And the new, reorganized Air Forces give thousands of eligible young men an opportunity to take an active part in building America's air power . . . on the ground as well as in the sky.

You may, for example, enlist in the Air Forces for three years. If you have a specialty which will qualify you, you may also be able to enlist in a grade at higher pay.

If you have had Air Forces experience, you may join the Air Reserve and continue your military aviation training outside of business hours.

Or, you may join the Air National Guard and perhaps become eligible for advanced technical training at special Air National Guard schools.

On Air Force Day, make a point of finding out everything about your Air Forces — especially the new Aviation Career Plan described below. Full details can be obtained at your U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

NOW—THE WORLD'S GREATEST OPPORTUNITY FOR A CAREER IN AVIATION

Today the Army Air Forces offer high school graduates an unprecedented opportunity to get the finest aviation schooling on earth — and select your school or course before you enlist.

The AAF Career Plan is unlike anything ever offered before. It permits selected high school graduates to apply and qualify for AAF specialized courses of their own choice. Simply go to your U. S. Army Recruiting Station, advise the Recruiting Officer the kind of aviation training you want and he will provide you with an application blank and a complete list of available courses.

When you are selected to attend the course of your choice, you enlist in the Army Air Forces for 3, 4 or 5 years. After your basic training period you are guaranteed the education you have selected to make you a specialist in the type of work you want.

Get a list of all the schools and courses open to you under the AAF Aviation Career Plan at your U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

 To get "Something for Nothing"

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions . . . representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work; the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains—one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of trains, and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that when a crew in one class of service perform incidental service of another class, they will be paid not less than a day's pay for each class, even though all service is performed as a part of the same day's work. The crew would get at least two days' pay for one day's work.

 The Union leaders demand that the present basic day for passenger conductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost A BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employes, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

For only through greater production can we hope to stop the steady upward surge of living costs.

Surely, if ever there was a time in our history when we needed to work, not waste, this is it.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Household Hints

To keep your mattresses from sagging turn them from top to bottom one week and side to side the next week.

The brine left from a jar of sweet pickles gives potato salad a delicious new flavor and may be substituted for vinegar.

To remove unpleasant onion odor from the hands, try rubbing them with dry salt immediately after peeling the onion.

If you have been wondering what to do with those old felt hats, check and see if any of your lamps or ash trays need new bases.

A good home-made furniture polish can be made by placing 3/4-pint of linseed oil, 1/4-pint of turpentine and one tablespoon of vinegar in a bottle and shaking well. Apply with a soft cloth and rub until a luster is obtained.

One good way to eliminate some of that wash-day fatigue is to make a slide-along a clothespin bag of heavy material and sew it onto a coat hanger. You can then hang this over the line and slide it along as the clothes are hung on the line. In this way you can avoid stooping for the clothespins and perhaps avoid a backache as well.

Defective Cars
One-third of the vehicles on our streets have mechanical defects, according to reports on safety checks of two million vehicles by the police of the United States and Canada. Of the total defects found, faulty rear and front lights account for half and inadequate brakes for 14 per cent. In both countries 1,939,128 cars were checked. Of these, 662,753 had defects. In the United States 1,845,309 vehicles were checked. Of these, 630,523, or 34.2 per cent, had obvious and hazardous defects. The Canadian police checked 93,819 vehicles and found 32,230 defective. A total of 859,143 separate defects were reported by type.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Jane Cupper's
"Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes . . . but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that mellow, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes—to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

Joe Marsh
