Gasoline Tax Bill Soars

Revenues under the 3c state gasoline tax paid by Illinois motorists during the first six months of 1947 totals more than $21,245,267, according to J. H. Higgins, Executive Secretary of the Illinois Petroleum Industries Committee. This represents an 8.4% increase over the first half of 1946, setting a new high in the 20-year history of gasoline tax collections.

Mrs. Ella Dyar, Aged Longview Resident, Dies

Funeral services for Mrs. Rose Ella Hanley Dyar of near Longview, who died Wednesday of last week in Jarman hospital, where she had been a patient for four months, were held at 2:30 Friday afternoon from the Dicks Bros. funeral home in Broadlands, with Rev. J. R. McBride of Newman officiating. Burial was in Fairfield cemetery.

Mrs. Dyar was born July 15, 1871, the daughter of Jacob R. and Madonna Clapp Hanley. She was married to John D. Dyar on Sept. 27, 1898. The husband and three sons preceded her in death.

Mrs. Dyar had long been a member of the Longview Christian church. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Lamb, Wellington, O.; three sisters, Mrs. Forbes Ellis, Camargo; Mrs. Florence Mason, Chrisman; and Mrs. Daisy Corrsman, Tuscola; two brothers, Oscar Hanley, Longview; and Ora Hanley, Sidell; and a number of nieces and nephews.—Sidney Times.

Off to Washington

Mrs. G. E. Harden of Chicago arrived here Monday evening. On Tuesday morning she and her son, Kent, who has been spending the past month with his grandmother, Mrs. Fuller Freeman, joined the Russell Youngs on a trip East.

They will go to Washington, D. C., where they will visit Major David Freeman who is stationed there, and will see many historical places in our nation's capital and points of interest along the Atlantic coast. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

Lloyd Cable Home

Agent Lloyd Cable, who has been a patient at Carle hospital the past month, was brought home Thursday in Dicks Bros. ambulance. His condition is improving, but he will not be able to have company for several days.

Metcalf Child Crushed When Playmate Falls From Tree

Chrisman—Peggy Jean Atwood, 3, Metcalf, died here at noon, Sunday, enroute to Paris hospital, after being crushed at her home when a playmate fell out of a tree.

The accident occurred when Albert Sturchio, who was visiting in the Atwood home, climbed a tree to fasten a rope swing for the little girl. The limb broke and the Sturchio boy fell on the girl.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest conducted at the Scott Funeral home, Sunday evening. The body was shipped to Murphysboro, Tenn., where funeral services were held Monday afternoon.

The child was born Aug. 22, 1943, in Nashville, Tenn., daughter of Thos. and Margaret Eades Atwood. The family recently moved to Metcalf and Mr. Atwood was employed by the Eades trucking Co., Newman. Besides the parents there are three other children.

Auto Accident Injures Three From Sidell

Sidell—Three Sidell residents, injured in an automobile crash near Metcalf, Saturday evening of last week, were receiving treatment Monday at Lake View hospital, Danville. Condition of all three was reported "good."

They are Willis Harmon, 84, driver, suffering three fractured left ribs, chest abrasions and bruises and lacerations of the right eye; Oscar Hayes, 64, lacerated forehead and bruised left arm, and his wife, Mrs. Jessie Hayes, sprained ankles, lacerated head and face, swollen left eye and front teeth loosened.

The accident occurred five miles north of Metcalf at 11:55 p. m. Saturday as the three were returning from Paris. The men had met Mrs. Hayes at Paris when she returned from Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Harmon lost control of the car when he was blinded by lights of another car. Mrs. Hayes, with both ankles sprained, crawled out of the wreckage and walked a mile and a half to obtain help. The trio were removed to Lake View hospital in the McCauley ambulance, Sidell.

The front end of the car was badly damaged when it struck and broke a concrete culvert at the side of the gravel road.

Fire Razes the Baz Dickson Home, Sidell

Sidell—Fire completely destroyed the 8-room frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Baz Dickson here at 4:30 a. m. Monday. The loss was covered by insurance, but the amount was not estimated Monday.

The blaze was believed to have originated in wiring. Part of the furniture was removed.

Flames and smoke were discovered while members of the fire department were extinguishing a small blaze caused by an electric cable under flooring in the Nolan Lucas home, on the opposite corner of the intersection.

When notified, Mrs. Dickson, who was up tending a small baby, had smelled smoke and was investigating. The Dicksons are retired farmers.

Illinois State Fair August 8 to 17

The 91st Illinois State Fair will open at Springfield this Friday, Aug. 8 and continue through Aug. 17. All the huge exhibit buildings have been reconditioned for the big show, larger parking areas have been provided, and an improved sewage system installed. This fair known throughout the Midwest as a great agricultural and educational event, will be the most elaborate this year since the war.

The first two days of the fair, Aug. 8 and 9, have programs especially for young people. On Friday morning 4-H competitions start, and junior livestock judging begins Aug. 9, continuing through Aug. 14.

Sunday, Aug. 10, will be Veterans' day. Prizes totaling $7,500 have been set up for competing units.

The Horse Shows will open with the Western Horse Show Friday night, Aug. 8, while the Society Horse Show will be presented Monday through Friday, Aug. 11 to 15.

Attend University Convention and Centennial Celebration

Mrs. P. E. Kerkhoff, Mrs. Leon Struck, Mrs. Ernest Mohr, Miss Mildred Messman and Miss Alice Rothermel attended the annual Valparaiso University Guild convention at Valparaiso, Ind., on Saturday. In the evening they had the privilege of attending the dedication services of the Guild and Memorial Residence Halls on the new campus.

On Sunday they drove on to Chicago where they greatly enjoyed the Centennial Celebration of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod at Soldier Field.

Fair Warning!

Notice to Parents and Children: Since the local community building was completed in the summer of 1942, boys have broken out many window panes, left water faucets turned on, flooding the shower stalls, and committed many other depredations on the premises. Fourteen new panes were placed in the windows one week ago, since which time four more have been broken. Such depredations must be stopped at once. We mean business.

Accordingly, any boy, regardless of who he may be, caught breaking into the building or committing such acts in the future, will be prosecuted.

Take fair warning and govern yourselves accordingly. By Order of: Village Board of Trustees, and of the Board of Managers of the Community Building.

Ice Cream Social

Homemade ice cream, cake, pie and coffee will be served by the Ladies Aid of the Immanuel Lutheran church, two miles north, and one mile west of Broadlands, on Friday, August 8th. Serving will begin at 6:00, DST. Everyone welcome.

Purity of Heart and Life

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 10—Proverbs 2:1-5, 10-17; 4:14-27; 5:1-4; 31:10-12; James 1:13-15.
 MEMORY SELECTION—Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.—Proverbs 4:23.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

IT IS well for us to face squarely such a topic as the one assigned. It is particularly necessary to review the biblical standards with regard to holiness of life, since the day in which we live is one of lowered conceptions.

You will probably remember the story of the celebrated artist who was renowned because of his ability to put on canvas colors of accurate hue and great beauty. His secret was that he kept a number of valuable gems of all colors. He would turn frequently from his painting to study the color of these gems.

We need to spend time with the precious gems of the Word of God that we may clearly understand how he would have us live.

I. True Wisdom Involves the Fear of Jehovah (Prov. 2:1-5).

IN THE opening chapters of Proverbs, Wisdom is personified. Anyone who believes in Jesus Christ cannot help understanding something of his relationship to wisdom. In him "are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" (Col. 2:3). To those of us who trust him, he has been made unto us wisdom (I Cor. 1:30).

In this passage in Proverbs the point is that if we observe his commandments, if we incline our ears unto wisdom, if we apply our hearts to understanding, if we long for discernment, as earnestly as we would seek for silver and hidden treasures, we shall understand the fear of the Lord and find the knowledge of God.

God will meet every individual who really wants to know him. Said our Lord, "If any man will do his will, he shall know..." (John 7:17).

II. True Wisdom Involves Holiness of Life (Prov. 2:10-17; 4:14-17; 5:1-4).

TO truly know God is, of course, to be spared the headache which results from being deceived by sin and Satan. When wisdom enters the heart, the result is discretion and understanding (Prov. 2:10, 11). Thus God delivers us from the way of evil and from men that speak evil things (v. 12).

Attention should be given to the description of these evil men in verses 12-15; they speak perverse things; they forsake the paths of uprightness; they walk in the ways of darkness; they rejoice to do evil; they delight in the perverseness of evil; their paths are crooked and wayward.

Deliverance from the strange woman is likewise vouchsafed, as we have true wisdom. The description of these women is informative—flattering, forgetful of both friends and God; their lips drop honey, their mouths are smoother than oil. Notice the conclusion of the matter: In the end they are bitter as wormwood, sharp as a two-edged sword, their feet go down to death, and their steps take hold on Sheol.

How much we need God's wisdom in this world. It is easy to be deceived.

III. True Wisdom Means Peace at the End (Prov. 4:18-27).

TO walk with God, to walk in wisdom, is indeed as the dawning light, shining more and more unto the perfect day. If there were no other reward for living for God (and there are many, many others), the benediction at eventide would be enough to cause us to think seriously before we flout the ways of God.

IV. A Representative of True Wisdom (Prov. 31:10-12).

THIS passage describes the wise woman. She is indeed to be extolled. The worthy woman, the woman who loves God, the woman who is therefore wise, is in price far above rubies.

V. Sin's History (James 1:13-15).

THE wise man, the man who will be pure in heart and life, ought to understand something of the history of sin in his individual life. Temptation here refers undoubtedly to a solicitation to evil. God does make trial of men (Gen. 22:1), but he does not dangle before them that which is evil in itself.

The history of personal evil is, that because of our lust we are enticed. Thus when lust has conceived (that is to say, we have succumbed to the enticement), sin is born, and sin, when it is finished—but it is never finished; it goes on and on; no power on earth can arrest it—bringeth forth death.

Volcanic Wealth

While active volcanoes often spread death and destruction, they frequently are the source of great wealth when they become extinct. This wealth may be in the form of diamonds, gold, silver or oil.

Perhaps the richest deposit of volcanic gold ever found was that of the Cripple Creek district in Colorado, whence about 375 million dollars in the yellow metal has been taken since its discovery in 1890. This was mined from the crater of an extinct volcano which blew up about 25-million years ago, after which the deposits of gold ore occurred.

Another gold field in Colorado's San Juan mountains, is attributed to the eruption of the great Silverton volcano about the same time, and from this field some 270 million dollars worth of ore has been taken. When this crater finally settled down it formed a broad low dome covering an area of more than 1,000 square miles.

The diamond mines of Arkansas, the only ones so far discovered in America, are of volcanic origin.

Careful studies of these volcanic formations have aided geologists in their search for mineral wealth, and doubtless many more important discoveries will be made from time to time.

Flood Control Plans

Control of floods is undeniably one of the greatest of our domestic problems, as was again illustrated by the tremendous losses recently suffered in the Mississippi and Missouri River basins. Great as was the immediate damage to property and crops, this was relatively small compared with the permanent loss of millions of tons of topsoil from the land, which cannot be replaced.

An elaborate and costly program for flood control already authorized for these river basins would take more than 40 years to complete under the piecemeal system heretofore followed. In his recent message to Congress, President Truman urged that the work be stepped up with a view to its completion in ten years.

It is difficult to estimate the cost of carrying out a plan of such magnitude, but it would run into billions of dollars. The problem presents many engineering difficulties, as it has been repeatedly proved that present levees have not been adequate to withstand major floods, and many have crumbled under the impact of the raging waters.

An immense system of dams and reservoirs for the storage of water in the upper reaches of the many rivers is an important feature of the over-all flood control plan, and the acquisition of land to be intentionally flooded will be the subject of many controversies. It would involve the moving of many thousands of people from their present homes.

The present general plan for flood control is largely tentative, and its execution will depend, of course, on appropriations by Congress. In any event, disastrous floods at more or less frequent intervals are inevitable for many years to come.

Sidelights

A news item from Atlanta, Ga., tells of a group of scientists in that city who are experimenting with a process to make moonlight. There have been "scientists" for years who have been experts at making moonshine—but that may be an entirely different article, we wouldn't know.

"Home on the Range," the cowboy ballad that swept the nation a few years ago, has been adopted officially as the state song of Kansas. Dr. Brewster Higley, a country doctor, wrote the words back in 1872. It was set to music by Dan Kelley, druggist friend of the good doctor. The plaintive song is an old favorite, not something relatively new as is generally thought by those living far from the deer and buffalo country.

The question that has been puzzling the entire nation for months has finally been answered. Mrs. Richard Chason, 32-year-old resident of Los Angeles, was in court recently, seeking a divorce from her husband. She testified that her husband had locked himself in his room and when she knocked at the door and pled with him: "Open the door, Richard," he refused and informed her that he did not love her anymore. Divorce was granted.

Few men now living have made as much history as has Winston Churchill. It has just been revealed by the Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, that when Churchill made his stirring "we will fight on the beaches" broadcast after Dunkerque, he uttered one phrase that the audience did not hear. As Churchill rose to the heights in his oratory, he placed his hand over the microphone and whispered to Dr. Johnson: "And we will hit them over the head with beer bottles, which is all we really have got."

Recently a young preacher, new to the backwoods country, was making his rounds through the hills and hollows getting acquainted with the inhabitants of the area. He came upon a cabin back in the hills and on the porch sat an old lady calmly smoking her corn-cob pipe. After introducing himself, telling of the plans he had for his new church, he remarked to the old soul: "When your time comes to face St. Peter, do you expect he's going to let you through those Pearly Gates with odor of tobacco on your breath?" The old lady calmly surveyed the young man and after taking a deep puff, said: "When I get to Heaven I figure to leave my breath behind."

Household Hints

If an egg breaks while boiling, put a small amount of vinegar in the water. This will seal the egg back in the shell.

Snip the rind off bacon with your shears and save the rind for flavoring green beans and other vegetables.

A paper plate glued to the bottom of a paint can provides a place for the paint brush and keeps paint from dripping onto the floor.

When substituting cocoa for chocolate, use four level tablespoons of cocoa plus one-half tablespoon of butter for each square specified by the recipe.

When the eye of a button is pulled out in the washer the button can still be used. Simply place a small button of the same color in the center of damaged button and sew through both.

To revive wilted flowers cut off the stem and place in 2 or 3 inches of boiling water until it cools. They'll revive quickly. Chrysanthemums, zinnias, gladioli and carnations are some of the flowers that last longest after cutting.

SHORT STORY
LUCK OF THE IRISH
By DEE RANDALL

ANN and Terry were young. They were in love. That's why the sky looked bluer, the clouds looked whiter as they lay arm in arm on the fresh green grass.

"Just think," said Ann. "Tomorrow at this time I'll be Mrs. Terrence Patrick O'Halloran."

"Sure and the O'Hallorans were always lucky," Terry exclaimed, mimicking his grandfather.

After the wedding it was grand fun going together to the little white frame house they had selected. Most of their savings had gone into the modestly furnished little place. But it was a home. Theirs.

Then Marianne was born. A sweet pale baby but so delicate. It took a great deal of skimping to meet all the expenses.

They lived simply and Ann knew how to get the most out of everything.

Right in the middle of this economical but ecstatic heaven of theirs a thunderbolt crashed.

Terry lost his job. But youth is not easily discouraged. Terry set out to find another job. He was eager to work. He was sure to find something better.

His enthusiasm wavered however after several weeks. Too many, "Sorry, young fellow, but we're not taking anyone on."

Back home evenings with Ann though, he was optimistic. "I've got a good prospect tomorrow," he would say, and Ann's answer invariably would be:

"Don't worry Terry. We've still got a little money in the bank."

Terry thought to himself, how little it was.

ANN tried to keep her worries from him too. She didn't tell him that there was going to be another baby, until it was impossible to keep it a secret any longer.

He took her in his arms. "Ann darling, it's wonderful." But he couldn't keep the note of despair out of his voice as he said, "if it's a boy, I hope he's a better success than I am."

Their money dwindled down to nothing. Debts piled high. They lost their little home.

They moved to a smelly, dank tenement. But they weren't discouraged yet. The future surely held something good for them.

But Terry gradually declined; pulled himself into a shell. Ann was sweet and kind. Terry misunderstood. He thought she grieved. He brooded. There was only the one way out. Suicide. It would look like an accident.

GAS would be the best way. He planned the whole thing stealthily. He knew he was a coward. But he had to do it. He couldn't bear to see Ann go on this way any longer.

It was the way he always had loved to wake up.

The $1,000 insurance would mean Ann could go to a hospital when the baby was born. After that . . . he couldn't think of any more.

His opportunity came quicker than he had expected. That night Ann said she was going for a walk in the fresh air.

She kissed him goodbye, then went out, telling him to take care of Marianne. "I'll take a nap," he said, "my head aches."

Alone, he went to the kitchen. Turned on the gas. Then laid down exhausted. He dozed off.

He didn't know how soon after, but it seemed like an eternity, Ann was gently stroking his head. It was the way he loved to wake up in the morning.

It all seemed so unreal. Ann was excitedly waving a paper in front of him. "It's from your firm. They want you back. Things are picking up. You'll take old Jim Blake's place. And there'll be a $10 raise."

Now Terry was sure he was dreaming. "The gas . . ." he said.

"Ob, how did you know?" questioned Ann. "I didn't want to tell you but we can have it turned on tomorrow. They were really very polite, waiting until after supper time."

"Yes," said Terry, "the O'Hallorans were always lucky."

Smile Awhile

Love makes the world go around, but then so does a good swallow of tobacco juice.

Politeness is like an air cushion—there may be nothing in it, but it eases the jolts.

Old Mother Hubbard
Went to the cupboard,
To get a drink of gin;
When she got there
The cupboard was bare;
And the old man
Was wiping his chin.

Irvin S. Cobb once told of a nice old lady, enjoying her first ride in a taxicab. Going through heavy traffic, the old lady grew more and more nervous as the driver kept removing his hand from the steering wheel, putting it outside the car. Finally, the old lady could stand it no longer.

Leaning far forward she tapped the driver on the shoulder. "Young man, she said sternly, you just tend to your driving. I'll tell you when it starts to rain."

Journeying by night on horseback, Benjamin Franklin reined his horse before a small wayside inn and went inside to warm himself. But to his disappointment, he found a crowd of loungers shutting him off from the fire.

Half a peck of oysters in the shell for my horse, he called out in a loud voice.

When the astonished inn-keeper went out to obey this startling order, the entire assemblage (save Franklin) rushed out to see a horse eat oysters.

Soon the people returned and told Franklin that his horse had refused to consume the oysters.

Then, said Franklin, now settled before the fire, bring them in and watch me eat them.

"If you want to know what life is like for your missionaries in Japan," reports Mrs. William C. Kerr, from Tokyo to the Presbyterian Churches in the U.S.A., "disconnect your hot water heater, turn off your furnace in the dead of winter, spend six or seven hours a day in an unheated schoolroom, and come back to a house not above 50 degrees in its warmest spot; to a dinner of spam, potatoes, heavy dark bread and a canned vegetable. Remove from your table, even for a week, milk, cream, raw vegetables, cake and pastry, and you will begin to get the feel of the pioneering our missionary force is doing in Japan today."

One of the greatest contributions that the Christian forces of America have made in the last half century has been the training of young Chinese women as nurses, says Dr. Leo Eloesser, formerly a professor of clinical surgery in Leland Stamford University. Dr. Eloesser has recently returned from China where he served with the medical personnel of UNRRA. He will return to China under the auspices of the World Health Organization to serve the Chinese government in health matters. He declares that from 4,000,000 to 12,000,000 Chinese die needlessly each year because of medical ignorance.

Burns Cause Large Number of Mishaps

Burns, caused by hot liquids, make up about one-fourth of the kitchen accidents. Most accidents are caused by faulty practices rather than unsafe equipment. Lifting a lid so the steam escapes away from the person, using thick pot-holders, and turning handles of pans so they do not extend over the edge of the range will save many accidents.

Falls due to highly polished linoleum, and floors made slippery by spilled grease, water or fruit peelings cause many accidents in the kitchen. Reaching into high places using a chair, table or other piece of equipment not intended for that use also causes serious falls.

Cuts and bruises are the result of a large percentage of accidents and may be avoided by storing knives in a rack or knife drawer. Keep knives sharp. A sharp knife is not as dangerous as a dull knife.
