Work Is Good

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 31—Proverbs 6:6-11; 18:9; 24:30-32; Ecclesiastes 5:12.

MEMORY SELECTION—Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might—Ecclesiastes 9:10.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and cation; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

WISE indeed is that legislator who understands that there are two extremes to be avoided in dealing with the problems of the working man. The one extreme is that heartless, cruel exploitation of labor which grinds men to powder, which deals with individuals as chattel. The other extreme is to provide such an amount of free time for the individual that both his personal life and economic prosperity are in danger.

Work is good. It is well to keep in mind that before the fall man was commanded to tend the garden.
Perhaps to some of us that command is not a command to work, because the evidences of sin in a curved creation were not present!

Life without purpose, life without activity for good, would be vain and actually intolerable.

I. An Illustration of Prudence and a Warning Against Indolence (Prov.
6:6-11; 18:9).

THE illustration from the creature world is apt. Ants, as this scripture states, have no overseer, and yet they are diligent in providing for the time of need.

It would seem as though they are constantly active in caring for present and future needs. In Palestine, where they may be active throughout the year, there is still the need of stored provisions for the rainy season, and so it is true that the ant gathers food in the harvest for future need.

Anyone who is tempted to be indolent would be wise to consider the ways of the ant, and to manifest as much concern for present and future needs.

The sluggard is described as one asleep, as one who is never satisfied, but constantly wants more slumber. Such folding of the hands, such indolence, brings poverty, and that poverty comes as a robber.
Indolence is not mere passivity.
The man who fails to work is not guilty of omitting to do what he should do, but he is actually a robber of society. There is an active element involved in indolence; not only has the man failed to contribute, but, in addition, the good that he might have done has remained undone. The sluggard is therefore a brother to the destroyer (Prov. 18:9).

II. An Illustration of Indolence and a Lesson in Prudence (Prov. 24:30-32).

IT IS striking that the Word of God presents the ant as the illustration of prudence, but when it comes to an illustration of indolence it directs our attention to man.

The illustration is that of the man who is lazy, who is void of understanding. The Preacher visits him.
Going to his field and vineyard, he finds it grown over with thorns, covered with vetches, and the stone wall broken down.

Instead of citing the particular lessons learned, the Preacher simply observes that he looked on, thought deeply, and received instruction. Perhaps the best antidote to laziness is to see it in its inaction. The squalid conditions, the inability to cope with emergencies that we normally see in the life of the man who wants only ease are sufficient to warn most of us against it.

Entirely apart from the dignity of labor, the homely recompense of being able to meet our own needs is the compensation of self-respect that initiative and resourcefulness bring. May we have a higher goal as we labor than merely providing for our own needs, though this is certainly important. Beyond it, of course, is the ability to help others also (cf.
Eph. 4:28).

III. A God-Given Reward for Labor (Eccles. 5:12).

ONE of the great compensations of faithful labor is sleep. This passage speaks of the sleep of the laboring man as sweet. When as Christians we have fulfilled our duty, when we have given an honest day's work, the recompense of the Lord is surcease from labor.

The great stress of the Word of God is similarly on the man in authority doing that which is right for those who labor under him, and on the laborer, to be worthy of his hire. Thus does the Bible guarantee a cordial and happy relationship between employer and employee. When either party departs from biblical standards, chaos results.

Here is a plan as up-to-date as the present hour, as workable as the most precise mechanical device ever made. All that is necessary is that the Word of God be followed.

Something New

For the first time in the history of the United States a President has vetoed a bill passed by Congress for reduction of taxes. Traditionally, it has been considered proper for Congress to hold the purse strings and determine expenditures. Consequently, when Congress has spoken on the subject the President has always accepted the verdict with regard to lowering taxes. This time the bill passed both Houses with a large majority and still was vetoed by the President—something new.

Financial experts are now predicting a considerable surplus in the budget at the end of the fiscal year. This happens because more income from taxes is being realized than was expected. Moreover, Congress has succeeded in cutting down proposed expenditures a great deal. Consequently, the reduction of four billion dollars in taxes could have been made and at the same time a large payment on the national debt.

Soaring Tax Load

The total tax bill of the nation is now running just about one-third of the total amount of money earned by the people of the nation. This means that one-third of the average income of the average individual is going for taxes. It means that one-third of every man's income directly or indirectly goes back to the government in taxes. This is a dangerously high tax rate for peace time, and if continued can be ruinous to the economy of this nation. In fact, no nation can be expected to prosper under that kind of tax load—not for very long.

President Truman, in commenting on the tax bill, said there was already sufficient cash available for "necessary investment and business expansion." It should be remembered however, that America didn't become great by making only what the government considered "necessary investment and business expansion." The government did not pronounce as "necessary" the development of our great western railroads.

Neither did government pronounce "necessary" the development of the great automobile industry. The government did not pronounce "necessary" the production of a cheap automobile made possible by Henry Ford, General Motors and others who had similar dreams and who made capital investments beyond what the government announced as "necessary."

No Brakes Needed

From personal contact with industrialists and financiers I am thoroughly convinced that new ventures are entirely too few. Much capital is being held back because of various discouragements including high taxes and uncertain industrial relations. Had these brakes been on during preceding generations they would have prevented the development of the railroads, the automobile industry, the refrigeration industry, and the airplane industry. Our nation would have been much poorer today and we would have been living on a lower income level.

If we are going to have a prosperous economy ten years from now, taxes should be lightened immediately and industrial relations tremendously improved. We must look ahead to anticipate our needs. We can go along making "necessary investment and business expansion" and move into poverty and mediocrity, slipping gradually backward. If our nation is to remain great, free men must be able to dream their own dreams and make new ventures.

Uncle Sam Says

Did you ever can a United States Savings Bond? Don't answer "no" too quickly because that's what millions of wise Americans are doing daily. By buying bonds regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank, they are preserving income for future nourishment. Savings Bonds grow in nutrition value to you and your family through the passage of time. In 10 years they will produce $4 in goodness for every $3 you store away today. Yes sir, the best canning you can do now is the canning of some in the form of Savings Bonds.

Police Judge—I understand the two men were fighting with chairs; didn't you try to make peace between them?

Witness—There wasn't another chair in the room.

Dr. I. Q. recently asked a woman on his program to name five countries beginning with the letter "I."

The contestant could only name Iran, Iraq, India, and Italy—then her time was up.

Your name, please? the announcer asked.

She said—"Mrs. Iceland."

A lawyer became somewhat acrimonious in his cross-examination, but the little woman in the witness-box remained calm.

Eventually he said: You say you had no education, but you answered my questions accurately enough.

The witness replied: You don't have to be a scholar to answer silly questions.

Raymond, aged 5, had been taught always to say, "God bless you" when anyone sneezed.

Uncle Clifton, who suffered from hay fever, had come to the mountains to visit.

'God bless you,' Raymond said enthusiastically to Uncle Clifton's first and second sneezes.

To the third he said: "God bless you for the rest of the day. I gotta go play now."

Ruth, moaned her long-suffering husband, you promised you wouldn't buy a new dress. What made you do it?

Dear, replied the modern Eve, the devil tempted me.

Why didn't you say, "Get thee behind me, Satan?" the poor man inquired.

I did, the little woman replied, sweetly, and then he whispered over my shoulder, "My dear, it fits you just beautifully, in the back."

Young Smithers was feeling off color, and consulted a specialist. The specialist examined him and said:

"All that is wrong with you, young fellow, is that you smoke too many cigarettes. Here is a way to cure yourself of the habit. It is quite simple. Whenever you light a cigarette, put a stone into your pocket. Soon the discomfort of carrying the stones about will cure you."

Young Smithers nodded and departed. Three days later the specialist received a post card from his patient.

Dear sir, it said, I am following your advice, but I look darned funny pushing a wheelbarrow.

Value of Music

The value of music in various industries was proven during the recent war. Music sped assembly lines, got more milk from cows and, in fact, increased the tempo of production in various and sundry endeavors. Now comes word that Arnold Linchman, of Westville Grove, N. J., has gotten himself in trouble with his neighbors for a mile around because of a blaring radio. After receiving numerous complaints, police called on Linchman expecting to find a wild party in progress. Instead of a party, officers found loudspeakers rigged around the pig pen, carrying music from the phonograph in the house. "It keeps the pigs from fighting," Mr. Linchman explained.

U. S. DOG POPULATION IS NEAR 20,000,000

America's dog population is right around 20,000,000, a survey by the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City, indicates. The South leads in the number of dog-owning families and the average dogs per family is also highest there, the survey also revealed. Dog ownership varies in inverse proportion to the size of communities, with farmers having the highest percentage of dog ownership. Approximately half of all families with children boast dogs, while 40 per cent of families without children keep canine pets.

Save Sugar for Everyone's Share for Home Canning!

Start Your Own Rationing System

You're on your own this year so far as home canning sugar is concerned! How much you have for canning depends upon how much you save. As this is being written, the revised rationing system increases the amount of sugar allowed each individual but makes no provision for additional allotments for home canning. So it's entirely up to you to establish your own system of rationing, setting aside a certain amount from each individual's allotment for putting up home-canned foods. If you can't possibly, even by self-imposed rationing, have enough sugar to put up all the food you want with as much sugar as you'd like, then you can fall back on the sugar stretching methods used with such good results during the war. Housewives learned then that fruits for pies, puddings and gelatin desserts keep just as well without sugar, although it's advisable to use a little sugar, if possible, with light colored fruits in order to preserve color. They learned, too, that a combination of corn sirup and granulated sugar gives excellent results. Those who enjoy the taste of honey learned to use it as a sugar extender. Use of saccharin is barred of course because it has a tendency to produce an unpleasant taste. Home canners have also learned that they can use brown sugar, maple sugar and sirup in butters, jams and spreads, although these are not satisfactory for other canning. Putting up some amount of fruit without sugar is a good idea because you then have it on hand to make into jams and jellies as needed.
