Local and Personal

Wanted—A soaking good rain.

Harriett Louise Archer spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nofftz in Champaign.

Mrs. Jess Ward took her son, Willard, to Chicago, Tuesday, where he took complete allergy tests at the Abel laboratories.

Mrs. Leone Cooper, daughter, Elaine, and Betty Mathews of Tuscola were supper guests in the D. P. Brewer home Saturday evening.

The Ray Gordons have gone to housekeeping in the Mrs. Charlotte Walker property on the north side which they recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Struck and Marvin returned Saturday after a three weeks outing at Souix Lookout, Ontario, Can. They report fishing good.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dohme, children, Ilene, Freddie and Paul, and Mrs. Grace Krukewitt, left Wednesday morning for a few days outing at the Wisconsin Dells.

Attending the Indiana State fair at Indianapolis, Tuesday, were Louis Stuebe and family, Hans Biesterfeld and family, Miss Evelyn Seider, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seider.

Struck Bros., local implement dealers, have just had their store front painted yellow, with a red trim, giving the same a neat appearance. Ralph (Ducky) Warner dood it.

Edgar David, who recently received third degree burns on his leg, is still confined to his home. The accident occurred when gasoline was poured into the tank of a hot mower and exploded.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Ward and son, Willard, returned Sunday from a week's visit in Chicago, and on their return trip they stopped at the Joe Ward home at Mansfield for the Ward-Smith reunion.

Fritz Thode, sons, Billy, Keith and Ted, took Bill Thode to the Municipal air port at Chicago, Sunday, where he took a plane for his home at Davenport, Washington, after a week's visit here with his parents.

The annual Maxwell-Mechem reunion was held Sunday at the Thos. Maxwell home, Homer. Those from here attending were Mrs. Ella Maxwell, Miss Myrle Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Henson and son Max.

Mrs. O. E. Anderson, who recently underwent an emergency appendectomy at Carle hospital, returned home Monday. Her many friends will be glad to know that she is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Arch Walker was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. David K. Farmer, at Mansfield, Thursday of last week. She was accompanied home by Dr. Farmer's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Farmer, of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zenke returned Wednesday of last week from a six weeks motor trip through the western states, Van Couver and British Columbia, Canada. They visited in 13 states, traveling 6,300 miles and report a most delightful trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Anderson and daughter, Miss Jane, returned Saturday, after a three weeks visit with the Frank Golles at Burlington, Wis. They enjoyed an outing at Lake Geneva, and Mr. Anderson also attended the state fair at Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wood entertained the following at dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Witt of Brocton; J. C. Latta and family, Arlington Heights; Raymond Witt and Harold Arthur, Georgetown; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tresenriter, Newman; Harold Witt and family, Champaign.

In last week's issue of The News, we published the names of those from here attending the All-State Stars basketball game at Champaign. Since then, we have learned that others also attended the game. They are Paul, Jim and Dick Bratton, Steve Ashby and David Dalzell.

Dinner guests in the P. O. Rayl home on Labor day were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiley, Urbana; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Combs, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Parsons, Camargo; Mr. and Mrs. Denton Salady, Villa Grove; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Rayl and children, Mrs. Alice Struck, Mrs. Lillie Bowman, Jo Ann Nohren, all of Broadlands.

John M. Smith won 1st place in the three-gaited English class, and 2d in the English pleasure class at the Potomac horse show, Aug. 28.

Mr. Smith also won 1st place in the pleasure class at Gibson City, Sunday.

O. P. Witt won 1st place in the western pleasure class, 2d in the western stock class, and 3d in the Tennessee walking class, at the Potomac horse show, Aug. 28.

Mrs. Eva Walker Entertains at Bridge for House Guest

Mrs. Eva Walker entertained at two tables of bridge, Monday afternoon, for her house guest, Mrs. Gertrude Farmer. Those who accepted her hospitality, were Mesdames Anna Struck, Jessie Bergfield, Bertha Cook, Ruth Henson, Betty Dicks, Jennie Nohren and Minnie Limp.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Farmer, Mrs. Henson and Mrs. Limp.

Delightful refreshments were served, consisting of home made cake, ice cream, coffee, nuts and candy.

Dear Contributor—When you have any news items for this paper, we kindly ask that you make our Wednesday noon deadline, if possible.

The fifteenth annual Messman family reunion was held at Hessel park, Champaign, Sunday, Aug. 31, with 131 members and seven guests in attendance.

After a basket dinner, the business meeting was brought to order by the president, Earl Willard, of Pesotum. The secretary, Mrs. Joe Hageman, Danville, read the minutes and the treasurer's report, and reported three deaths, fourteen births, and seven marriages having occurred the past year.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Walter Messman, Sadorus, president; Fred Weasel, Pesotum, vice president; and Mrs. Dolores Hageman, Danville, secretary-treasurer.

Wm. Messman, 75, was the oldest member present, and Ervin Frederick Woller, six months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Woller, was the youngest member present. Mrs. Ed Deedrick of Florida, traveled the longest distance to attend the reunion.

It was decided to have the 1948 reunion at the Isaac Walton Cabin, Atwood.

Following the business meeting, entertainment for the children was led by Mrs. Floyd Magill, while the young men played ball and the rest of the folks enjoyed visiting.

Nancy Wood Has Party on 7th Birthday

Earning and Spending LESSON TEXT FOR SEPTEMBER 7—Proverbs 11:24-27; 16:8; Ecclesiastes 5:10, 11; James 5:1-6.
 MEMORY SELECTION—Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right.—Proverbs 16:8.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D.
 Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

AS BELIEVERS in Christ we are responsible not only for the way we earn our living, but for the way we spend what we earn.

Of course we must earn our living honestly, but if we spend foolishly that which we have earned, we shall have dissipated much of the effect of our example in earning.

Possessions are a trust from God, and we shall have to render an account of our stewardship.

Just because we have given a certain percentage of our income to Christian causes is no reason to think we shall meet with divine approbation with regard to our stewardship. If we give a tithe, well and good, but what about the other nine-tenths? Is God pleased with our stewardship there?

I. The Vanity of Wealth (Eccles.
 5:10, 11).

IN ANY study of wealth, it seems necessary to begin with an understanding of its limitations. We live in a world in which men frequently lay great importance on possessions, and indeed, there are many things which wealth can purchase. On the other hand, there are some things that money cannot buy. And further, we should recognize that our possessions are not eternal, that they may suddenly fade away.

The passage here reminds us of the fact that wealth for wealth's sake is bound to be a disappointment. The man who loves silver shall not be satisfied with silver, any more than the man who loves pleasure shall be satisfied with pleasure. Augustine was right when he said that man could be satisfied with no less than God himself.

Notice how accurately the picture is drawn. If we have increased wealth, we have increased responsibility (v. 11). That fact is as unalterable as the most rigid law we know. The only advantage is, as the Preacher expresses it, the beholding of goods with the eye—not a very great advantage after all.

II. The Proper Accumulation of Wealth (Prov. 16:8).

IT IS just as true as when Solomon wrote it, that "Better is a little, with righteousness, than great revenues with injustice." This statement needs no argument, needs no proof. If we would have the honor of men, self-respect, and the blessing of God, there is no alternative.

III. The Improper Accumulation of Wealth (James 5:1-6).

THE apostle James speaks of a condition that will obtain in the last days (v. 3). There are many evidences that the condition he describes has had altogether too many fulfillments in recent history.
 James excoriates the rich who have defrauded their employees in order that they might fare sumptuously and live riotously. These unscrupulous rich have taken advantage because they were not resisted (v. 6). Such wealth is corrupted.

Notice once again that the result of their sin will rise to break them. It is a serious thing to trifle with sin, to eat the bread of iniquity. God has no patience with injustice in social relationships.
 Sooner or later judgment will come.

IV. The Proper Use of Wealth (Prov. 11:24-27).

LIBERALITY should characterize the child of God. It is true that the Bible condemns the attitude of imprudence, yet it also condemns the attitude of the miser. To withhold more than is meet, also tends to want.

How blessedly true it is that there is a recompense to giving. Here we read that the one who waters shall himself be watered. Our Lord affirmed the same truth in Luke 6:38.

To have it within our power to help, and fail to do so, is to bring upon ourselves censure and condemnation. Therefore, we should seek to perform the good (v. 27).

This passage concludes with the statement that one who searches after evil shall find that evil will come to him. The man who sets his heart to do wrong will not have to wait long to find the occasion to do that which is in his heart.

Many are the injunctions in the New Testament regarding the proper use of wealth. For example, the Christian has a duty toward his own family (I Tim. 5:8). He is enjoined to be sympathetic and generous in his giving to help others (II Cor. 8:15). Certainly he is to dispense his goods with the glory of God in view (cf. Col. 3:17).

Painter Prince Dead

The death recently in Stockholm, of Prince Eugen of Sweden, at the age of 82, removes the youngest of four aged brothers of the Swedish royal family. The other three, still living, are King Gustaf V, 89; Prince Oscar, 87; and Prince Carl, 86.

Their father, King Oscar II, who died in 1907 at the age of 78, was the last king of both Sweden and Norway, whose union was dissolved in 1905.

Prince Eugen was known as the "painter prince," and he was an artist of much talent, having studied art in Paris and Stockholm after graduation from the University of Upsala and completing his military training.

He held one-man exhibitions of his paintings in Stockholm, Paris, Brussels, Copenhagen and Helsinki, and a number of his pictures have been exhibited in New York. He particularly liked to depict scenes of the Swedish countryside, and in addition to oils and watercolors he painted several large murals, including one in the Stockholm City Hall.

Remaining a bachelor, Prince Eugen devoted most of his long life to his chosen art, in which he attained a high degree of excellence.

Loyalty Probe Is On

Acting under recent orders from President Truman, the Department of Justice has begun a sweeping investigation of government employees to determine whether any have been engaged in Communist or other subversive activities. In conducting the investigation the Department will utilize the services of the FBI.

The first step will be to require employees to fill out a questionnaire giving essential information regarding their present or past connections, but not including church affiliations, or membership in major political parties. It will also inquire whether the employee has been known under more than one name, this being considered important especially in the case of former aliens who may have entered the country unlawfully.

Fingerprints are also required, and these will be checked with those on file with the FBI, to disclose any possible criminal records, and all information given will be verified so far as can be done. The Civil Service Commission will cooperate with the Department of Justice in making the investigation, which will be a long job.

Presumably employees in key positions, or who have access to confidential information, will be scrutinized more thoroughly than those whose duties are purely routine. It is unlikely that any large percentage of workers will fail to pass the required tests, and those who are conscientious and loyal will have nothing to fear.

The necessity for the investigation is evident, however, from the fact that quite a number of Communists and fellow travelers have been found in positions in which they could do much harm.
 Twenty employees in the State Department alone have been fired in the last few weeks after their subversive tendencies were discovered.

It is well that the FBI will have a principal role in the housecleaning now being undertaken.

Sidelights

Business conditions in Glen Falls, N. Y., must be unusually good judging from a sign appearing on a local barber shop: "Closed on account of improved financial condition—may open next week." Now, that's a guy after our own heart.

We understand that recently a person interested in buying a small farm went in to see a local real estate dealer to inquire about a place he understood the agent had listed for sale. After the preliminary remarks, the would-be farmer asked: Is it a modern farm house? No, replied the agent, "five rooms and path."

The observation made recently by the Duke of Windsor may bring a smile but the seriousness of the situation is nothing funny.
 The Duke, though certainly not considered an authority, stated that "The thing that impresses me most about America is the way the parents obey their children." We can see what the former British king refers to—and it's not a pretty picture.

Buddy Bingham often rode along with his daddy as he made his deliveries of laundry on his Birmingham route. He was too small to see over the sides of the big truck, but somehow he learned the route perfectly. The mother got sick and daddy had to stay with her. With an official of the company, Buddy took over the 70-mile route—without a hitch. There were 100 customers and 100 stops. He knew every one. There was only one trouble—the customers had to make out their own laundry slips as Buddy, just six-years-old, was a little too young for that.

We just read the statement:
 "People who are not up on a thing are usually down on it." And it got us to thinking. In other words, when we are in total ignorance of anything, we are against it. If we don't understand a problem, instead of endeavoring to get the facts, we usually turn thumbs down and believe we are in the right. And further, if we do not know a person, we find an excellent excuse not to like him and then, when we do become acquainted, we wonder why we disliked him in the first place. Today there are a few—very few we are glad to say—that know nothing at all about the proposed Amendment No. 1, have taken no time to read or ask for details, and therefore are against it. Many, who have not taken the trouble to learn of its importance, will, when it becomes law, wonder why they did not support it.

The church must be humble if it is to have a place of leadership in the world today; it must be distinctive in the Christian lives of its members; it must be a fellowship that is different—evangelizing, and teaching its message to the world, beginning with its own children, Miss Ruth Seabury of Boston, Mass., secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions told a recent gathering of the International Council of Religious Education, in Des Moines, Iowa.
 She called upon church leaders to bring up a generation of young people, through the church schools, to know the true meaning of "Our Father," and to show individuals and nations how to live in unity and understanding.

It Has Happened There

Most of us thought it would never happen. But it has. According to the Associated Press, the House of Commons on August 8 approved a bill giving the British government authority to tell its people where they must work and what they must do. This means that the government may order men and women to do whatever job it pleases: coal mining, farming, fishing, anything.
 Moreover, it means the government may choose the place where any man or woman must work.

This is a drastic step. Why is individual freedom thus destroyed by a country with such a long record of high devotion to the individual citizen and to freedom? The answer is simple. Two years ago a socialistic government embarked upon a campaign for government management of leading industries in England. Things were in such a bad way, because of weakness from war, that the people permitted this.

Crisis Upon Crisis
 The socialistic government relied upon nationwide sympathy and cooperation. However, this lasted only a few weeks. Then as absenteeism set in and productivity lagged, the whole system bogged down. The crisis came last winter, when a terrible coal famine came to that country with plenty of coal under ground. Under socialism crisis thrives on crisis, and there were more to come. In these crises, it is easy for men to accept disaster, if they think it will prevent more disaster.

This is what has happened. In an apparent final resort to keep government management of industry from becoming a complete failure, the British are taking this more drastic step. Yes, in peace-time one of the greatest liberty-loving countries in the history of the world has given its government authority to draft labor, and to tell each man and woman where to work and what to do.

Let's Have Freedom

Despite their great love of liberty, the British people have now found that loss of individual freedom follows adoption of a government managed economy, just as night follows day. It leads to this every time.
 It is sad to see this great country, like others that have accepted the blandishments of socialism, willingly give up the freedoms for which her people have shed blood through the centuries.

A considerable number of our people are evidently inspired by foreign ideologies, and some are asking for government control of American industry. This step England is now taking is a real warning to all American workers that with government management of industry there must surely come government dictation to workers. The workers, in the face of constant crisis, are told where to work and what to do.

Seeing that these things point in every direction toward a totalitarian government, our people should make up their minds now that we do not want government managed economy. What is happening in liberty loving England is proof that such dictation cannot be avoided once government management is adopted. Let us determine now that such a blight shall not fall upon the freedom loving land of America.

Huge Demand Seen
 For Capital Goods

Under the surface of business exists huge potential demand for building, machinery, transport equipment and other types of capital goods.

This is pointed out by Earl O.
 Shreve, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in a plea for national policies to encourage industrial expansion.

The filling of underlying demand for capital goods, Mr. Shreve said, would sustain production and employment at high levels for years and "keep near-term business recession within the limits of a moderate let-down."

To stimulate long-range industrial expansion and capital investment, Mr.
 Shreve proposes: (1) Slashing of Federal tax rates; (2) Reduction in government spending and application of part of the savings to debt repayment; (3) labor reforms to aid industrial peace; (4) cooperation with other nations to maintain world peace and expand world trade.

SHORT STORY

Young Blade

By GLORIA FERSCHT

DANNY HALE, his teeth still chattering from the wet chill of the night, twisted his head on the soft warm pillow in an effort to speak. "Mom, I'm sorry, honest I am. I couldn't help it."

The tall blonde boy pulled the warm covers more closely around him. Two dimples, which he had not outgrown during his 15 years, were even now visible in his cheeks among several scratches and a deep gash slightly below his right eye.

It was not unusual for Danny to wander off by himself, especially when he was angry or disturbed. He often spent the entire day swimming or boating in the lake, but he was never gone overnight. At one hour past midnight, Mr. Hale and a small searching party had found Danny lying on the beach, cold and wet.

Dr. Scott spoke softly to Danny as he applied an anesthetic to the boy's bruised face. "Are you warm, Danny?"

There was a curt reply. "Sure." The experienced country doctor could see at once that Danny was straining himself to keep the tears back. "What's the matter, son? You can trust old Doc Scott, and surely you have no secrets from your parents. Where have you been? What have you been doing?"

Danny pulled himself up and leaned against the bedstead. His natural color was slowly coming to his cheeks, but his eyes showed fright. He slowly parted his lips to speak. "I loved her so much."

The doctor showed no sign of surprise; he remained silent. It was Danny who did all the talking now.

"Mom and dad tried to keep it a secret from me. They wanted to take me to the city. They knew I loved her, just as I loved the country too." Danny's voice had a tone of grief. "Dad said I couldn't see her again. Jeanne has always been so good to me; I couldn't live without her. We always have picnics together, and she can swim as fast as I can. I loved to go bicycle riding with her too. Going to the city is had enough but losing Jeanne is the worst."

Doctor Scott began to see clearly the whole situation. This 15-year-old youth knew what he wanted. Jeanne had been his constant companion. Mr. and Mrs. Hale had very suddenly decided to move to the city in order to open up a small business. They knew, however, it was out of the question to have Jeanne with them. The small apartment which they had rented was no larger than a cubby hole.

DR. SCOTT motioned for Mr. and Mrs. Hale to leave the room, and, after opening the window for some fresh air, he followed. Danny was falling asleep, but the old physician knew that it was a troubled sleep, a restless one, which might haunt the boy for many months.

"Doctor Scott," Mrs. Hale began, "my husband and I were wrong. I see it all now." She spoke slowly, a faint smile came upon her lips. "Danny's instincts are healthy, sound. He loves the woods, the lakes, the open fields." There was a short pause and then she added mournfully, "And he really loves Jeanne. I did not think a 15-year-old boy could possibly have so much love for anyone."

There was a sudden hush in the room and then a movement of feet. Mr. Hale, who had been silent all this time, now jumped up. "Doctor, in Danny's room, that noise."

"Quick, I left the window open. He is climbing out," she doctor replied. Mrs. Hale was the first to open the door.

She saw the long curtains fluttering in the open window, which framed a full moon and myriad stars.

One glance in the bed explained the noise and the black footprints which covered the neatly polished floor. Closely snuggled to Danny lay Jeanne, dripping wet and covered with mud. The dog had loved her young master enough to swim back across the lake and find the way home. Danny's eyes were filled with tears, big tears, full of love and joy.

Fat to a woman is like sugar in tea; it soon settles to the bottom. Ouch!

He—Do you believe in Buddha? She—Of course; but I think o-o-margarine is good too.

Housing conditions are getting so bad that people are sleeping in churches on week-days, too.

Have you made up your mind to stay in?

No, I've made up my face to go out.

Susie, the "26" girl says that many a man has made a monkey of himself by reaching for the wrong limb.

A man was applying for county relief and the young lady who was filling out the customary form, asked: Do you owe any back house rent? The applicant got huffy: "I should say not, he replied, we have modern plumbing."

The guide was describing the Statue of Liberty to the visitors. This little finger on the statue is just 11 inches long, he remarked.

Why only 11 inches? cracked a smartalec.

Because, shot back the guide, if it were an inch longer it would be a foot.

Can I be of service? inquired the polite floor-walker.

I don't know, replied the perturbed young man. I was told to stop in here and buy either a camisole or a casserole, and for the life of me, I can't remember which.

Well, said the floor-walker, 'If you'll tell me what kind of chicken you propose to put in it, perhaps I can help you.

Two colored brothers were driving a car on a country highway, when suddenly the driver slammed on his brakes and stopped the car while a fast train barely missed their front fenders. The other darkey said:

Boy, why-for you blow dat horn jes as dis cah stops?

The driver said: Boy, dat wuzn't mah hawn—h'it wuz Gabriel's.

The woman breezed into the room with the remark: Doctor, I want you to tell me quite frankly what is wrong with me?

The man surveyed her from head to foot, and at length said:

Madam, I've just three things to tell you. First, your weight should be reduced by about 30 pounds. Second, you should use much less powder and lipstick, and third, I'm an artist; the doctor's office is on the floor below.

A tourist was standing at the Bay Bridge terminal one morning, watching the commuters pouring into town. Finally, he turned to a native and wondered:

Say, I notice that the commuters seem to arrive in bunches—in fact, in waves. How come?

Shrugged the native: Very simple. From 6 to 8 a. m., come the works. From 8 to 9, the clerks. From 9 to 11, the shirks—and from 11 on, the jerks!

Portuguese Like Spanish Portuguese is "like" Spanish. It is also akin to the other Latin-derived Romance languages. However, it is spoken more slowly than Spanish, is "nasal and soft," while Spanish is quick and staccato. Take the word "yes"—"si" in Spanish, "sim" in Portuguese. In Spanish it is a quick "see"; in Portuguese, it is like a very nasal "seem."

Portuguese ranks sixth in the major language areas of the world, is spoken in India, China, Europe, on both coasts of Africa. Dating back to the second century before Christ, Portuguese includes remnants of Germanic, Arabian, French and Provencal. In Brazil it has absorbed Indian words of the Tupi dialect as well as many Pure African words.

A familiar name formerly given to Winter street, Boston, was Ladies street, because the stores upon it were exclusively for ladies' trade.

Real enjoyment of your home vegetable garden depends largely upon proper preparation of the vegetables for the table.

Gather leafy crops early in the morning, if possible, before the sun wilts them. If they are to be kept until a later meal, wash and cover them and place in the refrigerator. Pick peas and sweet corn within an hour of getting them ready for the kettle; if gathered very long before cooking, they lose both sweetness and flavor. Gathering any vegetable too long before using causes loss of vitamins.

Scrape or peel vegetables thinly; valuable minerals are just beneath the outer skin. Young carrots, beets, and summer squash should merely be scrubbed and not peeled. Neither should vegetables be soaked in water before cooking. This, too, causes loss of minerals.

Cook vegetables quickly and only until barely tender. Usually they taste better if slightly undercooked than they do if soft and mushy from overcooking. In boiling, use only a small amount of water, saving whatever liquid remains when the cooking is finished. If there is too much to serve with the vegetable, keep it to add to soup. In boiling vegetables make sure the water is really boiling before adding them. If put over the fire in cold water, vegetables lose color, flavor, texture, and much of their food value.

Vegetables fresh from the garden need very little dressing up to make them deliciously appetizing. Simple methods of cookery are best with the simplest of seasonings added. Until you have eaten vegetables fresh picked from your garden and properly cooked, you do not know the taste of vegetables at their best.

Profitable Forestry

A 10-inch tree, for the growing time required, has little value by the Doyle scale. At the comparative prices at $10 per thousand board feet, it is worth only 20 cents as a sawlog, and if it were cut it would take about 30 years to replace. On the other hand, if this 10-inch tree is allowed to grow 6 years and reach a 12-inch tree, its value is nearly tripled; or if it is allowed to grow 12 years to reach a 14-inch tree, its value becomes better than five times its value at 10 inches. By simply allowing this tree to stand for 6, 12 or more years, the owner is making approximately 36 per cent interest annually on his investment.
