DEVOTIONAL READING: Ezekiel 34: 25-31.

His Message to Exiles

Lesson for April 11, 1948

CONTINUING the theme of last Sunday's lesson, we go further into the ministry of Ezekiel as God's messenger to a people in exile. For this Sunday we have chapters 18 and 34, and portions of the 36th and 37th chapters.

Dr. Newton

have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge. As I live, saith the Lord God, ye shall not have occasion any more to use this proverb in Israel. Behold, all souls are mine. And then God adds, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."

GOD'S LOVE AND CARE

ALL through these chapters in Sunday's lesson, two solemn truths appear—God's love for his people, manifest in unwearied care; and the responsibility of each soul for the sin which such commits against God.

This truth, or these truths, I should say, are equally applicable for us today. As Ezekiel was sent to remind the people of God's love and care, so must we, early in our youth, accept the responsibility of accepting his love or rejecting his love.

We cannot claim his care if we despise his will. That is the message of Ezekiel for us.

WHAT GOD IS LIKE

NOWHERE in the Old Testament is the love of God more manifest and compelling than in Ezekiel 34:11-27. I hope that you will open your Bible to this passage. Here the Bible speaks in words that burn with the compassionate love of God for sinful souls.

"I will both search my sheep, and seek them out. As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and I will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day. . . . And I will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers."

One is reminded here of Jesus, when he said, "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

A NEW HEART

A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you," Ezekiel 36:26.

Here we have, perhaps, the sublimest sentence in the prophecy of Ezekiel. God is speaking, Ezekiel is merely the messenger—the voice, as John the Baptist delighted to describe himself.

Ezekiel has faithfully declared that each individual is responsible unto God, and just as faithfully he has proclaimed God's love and care, and now he adds the third great truth, namely, that God waits to bestow the new heart and the new spirit to every repentant soul.

A new heart and a new spirit. That is what the Jews needed. That is what the world needs today—a new heart and a new spirit. Only God could give a new heart then, and only God can make such gift today.

EZEKIEL'S MESSAGE FOR US

WOULD we listen to Ezekiel today? He has the message we need above all other words that may be spoken. He called the Jews to repentance of sin. That is what America needs today. Boys and girls need it. Men and women need it. And just as God waited patiently to bestow the new heart and spirit to Israel in the long ago, so does he wait to grant us today a new heart and a new spirit.

"Our God, our help, in ages past,
Our Hope for years to come;
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home."

There's No Substitute

"I thoroughly believe in a university education for both men and women, but I believe that a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible. Every one who has a thorough knowledge of the Bible may be truly called educated, and no other learning, or culture—no matter how extensive and elegant—can be a proper substitute."

Illinois Gave $350,000 To Friendship Train

Illinois contributions to the Abraham Lincoln Friendship Train totaled $350,000, according to the latest tabulation by the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Sixty Illinois counties cooperated in the work of collecting cash or crops to send food to Europe's hungry. Most of the gifts were from farm families and most of the materials and cash was collected by county Farm Bureaus.

One county gave Care packages. Others gave carloads of foodstuffs produced by Illinois farmers—corn, condensed milk, powdered milk, flour, seeds, lard, wheat, fats and oils, honey, soybeans, and corn syrup. Many gave money.

Of the other Illinois counties not contributing, many gave to the first Friendship train.

Automobile Accidents Average 300 Each Day

Throughout 1947, Illinois motor vehicle accidents in which persons were killed or injured or in which the property damage was over $50, occurred at an average rate of more than 300 a day. The total number of such accidents was 118,695, according to a report issued by the state division of highways.

About one-half of these accidents were in Chicago; one-third in other Illinois cities; and about 15 per cent on rural state highways.

Motor vehicle travel in Illinois was eight per cent greater in 1947 than in 1946. Fatalities for each hundred million miles of travel were 9.3, or three per cent less than in 1946.

Two Thirds of Deaths Are Due to Diseases of Old Age

More than two thirds of all deaths in Illinois are due to degenerative diseases characteristic of middle life and old age, according to Dr. Roland R. Cross, state director of public health. He points out that heart disease, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis, diabetes and arteriosclerosis are ranked among the ten leading causes of mortality, and were responsible for over 60,000 deaths in 1946.

Dr. Cross emphasized that all six of these diseases can be controlled to some degree in most cases through self-discipline and proper medical care. He added that periodic physical examinations aimed at early detection of important health defects, are perhaps the most effective means of preventing the degenerative diseases of old age.

Sidelights

Yes, sir, there's no doubt about it—two can live as cheap as one, provided one eats what is usually thrown to the cat.

Aunt Hettie says there's nothing like a weddin' to make a feller learn. At first he thinks she's his'n, but later he finds he's her'n.

Mosquito time is not too distant for us to tell you about the mother mosquito who called her brood about her and said: "If you kiddies are good, I'll take you to a nudist camp tonight."

A southern newspaper, always abreast of the times, reports the conversation of two colored boys. Sambo said: "I hears we's gwine to have nother presidential election." Whereupon Rastus commented: "I thought us already got a president." And Sambo replied: "Us is, but the white folks wants one."

The passenger on a recent airplane flight was in a bad way. The stewardess did all she could to comfort the suffering woman who was making her first trip by air. "Don't be downhearted," she pleaded, "nobody has ever died of airsickness." "Oh" moaned the sufferer, "how can you be so cruel! Only the hope of death has kept me alive so far."

The story comes to us that a few days ago a certain doctor sat at the bedside of a patient he had been treating and debated whether he should break the news to this suffering man that he was very sick and anything might happen. He finally decided to break the news as gently as he could. After explaining that the sick man should get his affairs in the best possible condition, he asked: "Is there anyone you would like to see?" The patient feebly nodded and replied "Yes." The doctor asked: "Who"? In a whisper the doctor heard him say: "Another doctor."

Smile Awhile

See this stickpin? Well it once belonged to a millionaire. And who is the millionaire? Woolworth.

Sure the list price of the dinner is two dollars, said the waiter blandly to the new car salesman, but the flowers on the table bring it to $3.75.

During a conversation with an old darky he hadn't seen for some time, a Florida farmer asked how he had been sleeping.

Ah sleep purty good nights, he said, and Ah rests purty good mawnings—but afternoons Ah just seem to twist and turn.

It's a strange thing, Jim, said Farmer Brown. Yer allus late of a mornin' and you live right on the farm. Now Bill, here, who lives two miles away, is allus on time.

There's nuthin' funny about that, retorted Jim. If Bill's late in the mornin' he can hurry a bit, but if I'm late, I'm already here!

Butcher—Fifty cents a pound. Shopper—Why, the shop across the street sell them for 40 cents a pound.

Butcher—Oh, well, when I don't have any I sell them at 20 cents a pound.

Dave was reading the paper in the kitchen.

It says here, he remarked to his father, that in France people eat horses.

That's right, son, replied father. As a matter of fact they eat horses nearly all the time in big hotels and restaurants. Haven't you ever seen a menu written in French?

No, replied Dave. Well, explained father, whenever they are having horse meat they write on the top of the menu the word 'A la Carte.'

A man who had been bitten by a dog found that his wounds did not heal and consulted a doctor. The physician, alarmed by the appearance of the wound, had the dog caught and examined. The dog had rabies. As it was too late to give the man a serum, the doctor told him he would have to die of hydrophobia.

The poor man sat down at a desk and began writing. The physician sought to comfort him. Perhaps it will not be so bad, he said. You needn't make your will now.

I'm not making my will, replied the man. I'm writing out a list of people I'm going to bite.

Women IN THE CHURCH
by Mary Fowler

The Christian Chinese women in the churches of Canton, South China, recently became aware that blind children need more than good care in institutions and education en masse—they needed to feel that they were wanted by someone and that they belonged to a family. So they planned that each child at Ming Sum, the church home for the blind, would be "adopted" by some church family; and the family take the child small gifts of food and clothing, frequently visit with him, go with him to special school affairs, and take him to their own home for a meal or for a weekend. Miss Schaefer, the missionary head of Ming Sum says the plan has worked two wonders; it has heightened the morale and happiness of the children, and it has made the "adopting" parents proud and happy with their children.

Household Hints

Left over paint should be coated with melted paraffin to prevent drying.

A damp cloth sprinkled with a few drops of ammonia or camphor will remove water marks on furniture.

It's a good idea to have a yearly "weeding out" of worn out kitchen utensils to save storage space.

To remove lime deposits in your teakettle, add ½ cup of vinegar to one pint of water and boil in the teakettle for several minutes.

To get curtain tie-backs fastened straight, pull window shades down to desired length and fasten the tiebacks in line with the bottom of the shades.

Good portions of worn chenille bedspreads can live a new life when they are made into robes, brunch coats, jackets and even dressing table draperies.

When your bed sheets have worn out, the good parts can be used for making pillow slips. Cut the desired width and use the original hems. This will add years of service.
