Harry Nehrig, pastor of the Methodist church of Allerton, officiating. Songs sung by the pastor were: "There's a Star Spangled Banner Waving Somewhere," and "Beyond the Sunset." Burial was in Fairfield Memorial cemetery, with Dicks Bros. in charge.

Military rites were in charge of Dayle C. Potter post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Allerton, and the Sidell American Legion post. Pallbearers were Oliver McCormick, Charles Crain, Alfred Thode, Paul Jones, John Upp and Francis Davis.

The Fly Control Drive Moves Ahead

At least two-thirds of Illinois 204,000 farms will be treated for fly control this year, according to a preliminary county survey conducted by H. B. Petty, entomologist with the University of Illinois and State Natural History Survey.

County farm advisers have reported that 64 percent of the farms and 464 Illinois towns and villages will be going all-out to rid their areas of flies. About one-half of the towns in the state are making an organized effort to control flies. Another one-fourth, while not declaring open warfare against the hordes of flies will be gunning for flies. The remaining one-fourth have reported no fly control activity so far.

The time is ripe to launch the spraying phase of the control program, Petty said. Hand and power sprayers can be used to spread fly-killing DDT.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and deep appreciation for the many kindly ministrations of friends and neighbors at the time of our recent bereavement in the death of our beloved father, Claus Hoops. We especially wish to thank those who sent the beautiful floral tributes and all those who assisted at the time of the funeral. The friendly calls, words and messages of sympathy will never be forgotten.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Daniel 3:6
DEVOTIONAL READING: Acts 5:27-32

Men Who Dared To Stand For God

Lesson for June 6, 1948

Dr. Newton

read chapters three through six to get the full story.

DANIEL IN THE DEN OF LIONS

THE sixth chapter must be read to have an adequate background for this study. Daniel had been chosen as the first of three presidents to rule over 120 princes who should govern the kingdom. The other two presidents and the princes could find no fault in this Hebrew, save that he believed and observed the law of his God. So, they conspired against him by persuading the king to issue a decree that no person in the kingdom was to make a petition to any God or man for 30 days, save to the king, on the penalty of being cast into the den of lions. This decree was issued by Darius, and Daniel's enemies reported to Darius that Daniel was opening his window three times a day, praying to his God. Darius was greatly troubled, but had to stand by his decree, and Daniel was cast into the den of lions. Darius spent a sleepless night, and hurried to the den at dawn to know about Daniel. Daniel replied, "O king, live for ever. My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me."

DARIUS REWARDS DANIEL

CONVINCED that Daniel's convictions had been miraculously rewarded by God, Darius ordered the other two presidents and the princes, together with their wives and children, thrown into the lions' dens. They were all destroyed by the lions.

Then Darius issued a decree to all the nations and people of all languages that dwell in all the earth. Hear this decree:

"Peace be multiplied unto you. I make a decree, That in every do minion of my kingdom men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel; for he is the living God, and steadfast forever, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed, and his dominion shall be even unto the end." So Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius and of Cyrus, the Persian.

COURAGE TO PUT GOD FIRST

LOOK now at the other test of faith—that of the three Hebrew children, Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had made a golden image, 90 feet high and nine feet wide, and set it up in the plain of Dura. On a certain day, when he was going to establish his state religion, he ordered every subject to fall down and worship this image.

But Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego refused to worship the image. Nebuchadnezzar was furious when he heard of their refusal. He summoned them into his presence, and warned them of their fate if they further refused to worship his gods. They answered him frankly that they would not bow down to the image. He ordered them thrown into the fiery furnace.

They decided that death was more honorable than apostasy. The men who cast them into the furnace fell dead!

UNSEARED AND UNSINGED!

BUT the three Hebrew children walked into the flames, unseared and unsinged! The king was astounded. The people were amazed. They had witnessed what the God of all the earth can and will do.

Then went forth the decree, "There is no other God that can deliver after this sort." Thus we have the golden text for Sunday's lesson: "Be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up."

And what happened in the long ago when men dared to stand up and trust in God will happen today and every day.

Wallace and Stalin

One of the points which Henry Wallace has been trying to put over in his campaign speeches is the idea that if he were elected president, he could sit down with Premier Stalin and settle the differences between the United States and Russia.

In a recent open letter to Stalin, which was in reality a bid for the votes of gullible Americans, Wallace enumerated some of these differences, and made the hackneyed suggestion that the two governments cooperate in settling them.

Alert to the propaganda opportunity thus offered, Stalin replied in a statement broadcast from Moscow in which he praised the Wallace letter as a "most important political document," and said it "could serve as a good and fruitful basis for an agreement and for the development of international cooperation."

Stalin concluded his somewhat lengthy reply to Wallace by saying that "a peaceful settlement of differences between the U. S. S. R. and the United States is not only possible, but also doubtlessly necessary in the interests of general peace."

The foregoing words would sound fine—if we didn't know Stalin. We have heard such words from the Kremlin before, and know that they proved to be meaningless. We know we can't do business with Stalin except on his own terms. We tried appeasement and it didn't work.

For nearly three years the United States has labored earnestly and patiently for peaceful settlements, but our efforts have been met at every turn by Russian opposition of the most unreasonable character. Our motives have been misrepresented, our generosity has been unappreciated, and our leaders have been vilified.

In spite of all this the United States has no hostile intentions toward Russia, but we don't want to be pushed around. If Stalin really wants to improve relations with us let his actions speak.

Let him stop harassing our military and civilian personnel in Berlin and elsewhere; lay off trying to hamper the Marshall Plan, keep his Potsdam agreements ant those concerning Korea. Let him lift the Iron Curtain, and try a little genuine cooperation in the United Nations and its several agencies.

As for Henry Wallace—he is a prisoner of the Communists already, and doesn't seem to know it.

Sidelights

The following letter was written to the New York Times: "My son has been reading the Times since his confinement to a mental institution. Now that he is cured, I wish to cancel his subscription."

The little woman was discussing her husband with a group of her friends. She complained that it was seldom that she and her mate spent their evenings together. "In fact," she said, "for years I didn't know where my husband spent his evenings. But one night I got home early—and there he was."

The question was asked in an examination of students in medical technology at an Ohio school: "What is the first test you would make on an emergency patient suffering unconsciousness from an unknown cause?" Some suggested an electro-cardiogram to rule out possible heart disease; some preferred blood sugar determination for diabetes coma; others thought of various procedures. One student wrote: "I'd smell his breath." No doubt he had been around a bit.

When big, affable Catcher Gabby Hartnett came as a rookie to join the Chicago Cubs, he was immediately sent into service in a game against Cincinnati.

Just before game time, a sports writer approached him.

Is this the first big league game you've ever caught? he was asked.

This, replied Gabby, is the first big league game I ever saw.

The city man was demonstrating the technique of milking a cow before the patient gaze of a farmer. When the city slicker had completely filled his bucket with milk, he took the cow's head and forced it into the pail while the cow drank all the milk. The farmer confessed he could not understand this procedure. The city man explained: I found the milk pretty thin and decided to run it through again.

During World War I, an American officer in the war zone met a very agreeable young man in a British uniform. He asked him his name, and the young man replied, "The Prince of Wales."

The American officer was frankly skeptical, so when the British officer asked: Who are you? the American replied: I am the King of England.

Some nights later they met again in a Red Cross hut where, to the consternation of the American, he learned that the jovial young man was the Prince of Wales. While he was considering what sort of apology he should offer, the Prince spied him. With a friendly wave of recognition, he shouted: Hello, Dad!

Women IN THE CHURCH
by Mary Fowler

The abnormally high death-at-birth rate in the vicinity of Chefoo, East China is being coped with by the staff of the new East China Medical College, partially supported by the China Welfare Fund and by Christian missions. A school for the training of Chinese midwives has been established, and there is a maternity center and two well-baby clinics. It is in the rural areas, where local midwives have little knowledge of sanitary methods, that losses have been extremely high.

Big Loss From Pests

Losses in stored feed and grain will total 600 million dollars and the equivalent of 300 million bushels of grain unless control insecticides are sprayed or dusted, according to a department of agriculture report. Other insect losses cited include 150 million bushels of corn from the corn borer, 283 million dollars in cotton from the boll weevil. The annual loss from weeds has been placed at 3 billion dollars. Household pests, such as flies, mosquitoes, roaches, bedbugs and moths, cause inestimable loss in health and property damage.

Household Hints

Two tablespoons of vinegar used in making pastry will give you tender pastry.

For a taste that's different, cut biscuits with a doughnut cutter and make as usual; then fill the centers of the hot biscuits with creamed ham or chicken.

Peanut butter frosting is delicious on spice cake. Simply take 1½ cups of powdered sugar and add one tablespoon of peanut butter and enough cream to spread.

Keep a stiff brush near the tubs as brushing is more efficient and easier than rubbing on a board. The brush is good for cleaning out pockets and for brushing soapsuds on stubborn stains.

Braising in a small amount of liquid at a low temperature will help to tenderize some of the tougher cuts of meat. If vegetables are to be cooked with the meat they should be added toward the end of the cooking period.

Named After Hero
The word "academy" was derived from the name of a hero in the Trojan war. World Book encyclopedia says that the Greek philosopher, Plato, taught a group of young people in a grove which belonged to a military hero named Academus. In honor of the owner, the school was known as Plato's academy.

YOUR CONTRACTOR KNOWS

Here's WHY you need Adequate Wiring

Adequate Wiring for electricity is as necessary as adequate piping is for water. Too small wire and overloaded wire "choke off" power, reduce the efficiency of electrical equipment, waste money and limit the advantages of your electrical service. In addition, you need plenty of outlets, enough circuits. Plugging several appliances to one outlet also is a dangerous practice. Overloading circuits may result in fire.

*No size wire smaller than "Number 12 Size" should be used in your home.

Three Mighty Important Ideas

Maybe you read, where a great encyclopedia has sorted all basic ideas into a few select groups. Under the letter "T" they have:

Temperance - Truth - Tyranny.

Sounds like a funny combination. And to philosophize a little, notice that Truth is in the center—between Tyranny and Temperance.

Now and then you hear folks criticize temperate people who enjoy a moderate glass of beer... who talk about "two beers" getting some one into trouble, and claim: "There ought to be a law!"

Then Truth steps in between, and points out that two beers never got anybody into trouble—and that somebody's trying to distort the facts. No, there shouldn't be a law—there should be Truth.

From where I sit, those ideas are arranged just right. Temperance on one side, Tyranny on the other—and Truth in the middle—seeing that Tyranny never encroaches upon Temperance.
