Illinois State Capitol News

Old age pensions averaging $44 per person were paid to 126,880 citizens of Illinois during September, according to a report by the Illinois public aid commission. The total cost of these payments was $5,584,000.

Illinois, which thirty years ago was producing only about 5 million pounds of cheese annually, now ranks second to Wisconsin in the making of American, Swiss and brick cheese. Approximately 70,630,000 pounds of these three varieties of cheese were made in Illinois in 1946.

The state department of conservation has purchased the Weldon Springs park area near Clinton for development as a public recreation ground. A 35-acre lake, a large pavilion, a bathhouse, amphitheater and roadways are included in the 115-acre tract. The purchase price was $50,000.

Oil production averaging 180,000 barrels a day throughout September, the highest Illinois flow for any month this year, is reported by the state geological survey. The total production for September is estimated at 5,401,000 barrels. During September 215 wells were completed, compared with 217 in August.

Governor Dwight H. Green has released $825,242 from the public works budget for immediate start of construction on a state tuberculosis sanitarium at Mt. Vernon.

The Mt. Vernon institution will be the first state hospital for tubercular patients, and will form part of the state's long-range program to provide adequate hospital facilities for persons having this disease. It will be a two-story, fireproof building with a capacity of 100 beds, and will be modern in every respect.

J. W. Carrier Dies Saturday at Age 103

Villa Grove—John Wesley Carrier, believed to be the oldest man in east central Illinois, died here Saturday at the age of 103.

Mr. Carrier, who celebrated his 103d anniversary on August 15 and predicted confidently that he would live to be 110, succumbed at 9 a. m. Saturday at Maple Rest home, where he had been living since last January. He was critically ill for only a short time before his death.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Monday, at the Methodist Church in Fairland. Rev. Harlow B. Ambler officiated, assisted by Rev. J. R. McBride of Newman. Burial was in Fairfield cemetery, north of Newman.

Born Aug. 15, 1845, in the Shenandoah valley of West Virginia, Mr. Carrier came to Illinois at the age of 10 and grew up in the vicinity of Ridgefarm and Cherry Point. He was married Dec. 31, 1871, to Loretta Burton, who died in 1941.

After farming north of Newman until 1897, he spent two years in Kansas and then returned to Douglas county to settle at Fairland. He intended to retire from farming in 1908, but continued to till an acre at his home and help other farmers until he really quit working at the age of 89.

The surviving children are Mrs. P. O. McFarland, Salem, Ore.; Mrs. Leonard Duckworth, of Cassville, Mo.; Mrs. Mamie Firth, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. J. M. Winans, Fergus Falls, Minn.; Mrs. Edith Barrick, of Springfield; W. E. Carrier, Oakland, Calif. He also leaves 50 grandchildren and more than 50 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Emma Massey Rites Are Held Here Sunday

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Emma C. Massey, of Danville, were held here Sunday afternoon, Oct. 10, in the Dicks Bros. funeral home, with Reverend Kennedy, of Danville, officiating, who was assisted by Rev. W. H. Loyd, pastor of the local Methodist church. Interment was in Fairfield Memorial cemetery, with Dicks Bros. in charge.

Pallbearers and flower girls were grandsons and great-granddaughters of the deceased.

The deceased, who was the mother of Mrs. Arch Walker, of Broadlands, was born March 19, 1863, and died Oct. 7, 1948, at the age of 85 years, six months and 18 days.

Card of Thanks

I wish sincerely to thank friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings in my recent bereavement in losing my dear mother, Mrs. Emma C. Massey.

Mrs. Arch Walker.

Life and Law

Lesson for October 17, 1948

YOU, friend reader, probably know less about what is in the books of Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy than any other part of the Bible. These are the sections mostly filled with laws—"Thou shalt . . . Thou shalt not." You either skip these entirely or you say to yourself, "Well, that has nothing to do with me." If so, you have been missing one of the most interesting sections of the Bible.

Dr. Foreman

Some of these old laws are dead; but even a mummy can be interesting. Call them dead if you like; you still can learn a great deal about the times and the minds and the customs of those far-off days by reading the laws which governed people's daily lives.

But it is hardly fair to call them dead. Rather, they have been honorably retired. That is to say, they were admirable laws in their time and place, and God's will was learned through them.

The Living Soul of Law

THERE are two ways of looking at any law, or you might say there are two sides of every law, the inside and the outside, the soul and the body as it were. The body, the outside, is the letter of the law; the inside or soul of the law is the spirit or principle of the law.

The body of the law, like the body of a man, dies; it is not intended to live on and on. But the soul of the law (if it has one; some don't) lives forever.

Take, for instance, that law in Lev. 19:9, 10. The body of it, the letter, says: Do not be efficient in getting in your crops. Leave some wheat in the field. Leave some grapes on the vine.

Today that sounds rather stupid, on the face of it, and no good farmer would pay attention to it. But look at the spirit of that law: the wheat and the grapes were to be left for "the poor and the stranger." There was then no Red Cross, no bureau of displaced persons, no traveler's aid, no family service, no social security, none of our many modern agencies for the underprivileged. Those who had property were bidden to have a care for those who had none.

The duty of society to see that no one starves, the duty of all to help those in need, that is the living soul of this law, and it still breathes in laws of the 20th century—laws of old age assistance, maternity assistance, pension plans and so forth.

The living soul of the Old Testament laws can be expressed this way: The love of justice and the justice of love. The best and wisest laws today are those which give this same spirit its fullest and most practical form.

Jesus' Last Word

THE Jews figured out that there were in all 613 separate commandments in all the laws combined. They used to have interesting debates as to which of all the 613 commandments was the most important.

They came to Jesus with that well-worn question. Jesus quoted only two laws, one from Deut. 6:5 and the other from Lev. 19:18. Love God, love your neighbor, he said. All the other laws depend on these two.

To this day, Christian thinkers are not entirely agreed as to just how far Old Testament laws may be binding on Christians. But all are agreed on two points: The basic principle of these laws is always good, and that fundamental principle is love.

Love Is Not Repealed

THIS is what Christians mean when they say that the laws of God are eternal. We do not mean that every law between the covers of the Bible can and should be used as the law of our land today.

What we do mean is that the spirit of these laws is immortal, for the spirit is love, and love never has been repealed.

Show me a law which helps the strong at the expense of the weak, a law which encourages cheating and selfishness and fighting, and I will show you a bad law. Show me a law which encourages and helps men to deal fairly with one another and to live together in peace, and I will show you a good law. Every law that helps you love your neighbor is a good law; indeed there is something divine about it, for God is Love.

West Speaks Its Mind

For the first time in the history of the United Nations, the foreign ministers of the principal Western Powers have joined in a concerted attack on the indefensible policies of the Soviet Union, which are causing the fear of war to disturb the entire world.

Secretary of State Marshall led off the general debate in the U. N. General Assembly in Paris giving a forceful statement of the position of the United States with respect to various international questions, and with obvious reference to Russia he declared that no nation should make the mistake of taking our patience as a sign of weakness.

Foreign Minister Bevin made the policy speech for Britain, which was the most powerful arraignment of the Soviet Union ever heard from a British diplomat. He accused the Russians of insincerity, untruthfulness and evasion, and warned that Britain would defend herself against any Soviet attack.

Foreign Minister Schuman of France made an address in which he said the blockade of Berlin was an act of force, and called upon the United Nations to take some action against Russia.

Foreign Minister Spaak of Belgium, who is also premier of that country, made what was perhaps the most vigorous of all denunciations of the Soviet Union yet heard at a U. N. meeting. He charged the Soviets with maintaining a fifth column in every country, which made that of Hitler's "look like a Boy Scout movement." He said the imperialist policy of Russia was more ambitious than the policy of the Czars themselves.

Delegates of all nations present, except the Russian bloc, gave all the foregoing speakers standing ovations at the close of their respective addresses, and the demonstration for Premier Spaak lasted more than five minutes.

The Kremlin should no longer be in doubt regarding the feelings of the other nations concerning its high-handed policies in Berlin and elsewhere.

The Berlin Airlift

When the Russians put the railroad and highway blockade of Berlin into effect on June 26, under the false pretext that the roads had to be closed for repairs, the Western Allies were faced with the tremendous problem of supplying their zones of the German capital by air.

As these American, British and French sectors of Berlin contain more than 2,000,000 people, the magnitude of the task was staggering. There were not enough transport planes available for the job, and those at hand were not of the largest size, being mostly American two-engined C-47s, carrying about three tons of freight.

Fortunately the emergency came in the summer, when only cargoes of food were urgently needed, and the "airlift" was begun with such transport planes as could be hurriedly assembled. French planes were few in number, and those of Britain were limited, so the heaviest burden of operating the airlift fell to the U. S. Air Force.

Additional transport planes were assigned to the airlift as soon as practicable, and during recent weeks the U. S. C-47s have been mostly replaced by big C-54s, each carrying a cargo of 10 tons.

By the end of the first three months of the airlift, American planes had made 28,846 flights, covering 15,794,972 miles. Supplies flown to Berlin during the period included 68,142 tons of food, 125,608 tons of coal and 7,748 tons of miscellaneous supplies.

Recently the Russians proposed additional flying restrictions on Western planes entering Berlin, and in view of the new crisis which is developing, the outlook for the people of that city is not very encouraging.

Sidelights

The "Barn" Savings Bank was a total loss Monday night and so were William Nagel's savings of $450. The 74-year-old resident of New Orleans had hidden his savings in a safe spot in the barn but fire destroyed the barn and his money. Nagel was badly burned in his attempt to retrieve his money after the barn caught fire.

We read where a couple of career girls found their apartment growing rather dull in the evenings as far too few male companions availed themselves of their hospitality. Finally a bright thought came their way—so they named their apartment "The Better Mouse Trap." The word went out and soon men beat a path to their door.

We have been pondering over a statement made by Benjamin Franklin many years ago. Surely he must have given serious thought to his pronouncement as he was treading on dangerous ground. He said, so the records reveal, that all women are alike below the neck. The more we glance about us the more we come to the conclusion that Benjamin Franklin could be wrong.

Do you like ghost stories? Well, here's one that most residents of Atlanta, Ga., will vouch for. It is told and retold when October mists begin to rise. It seems that a couple was riding on the outskirts of town one evening when they saw a girl, clothed in white, standing in the rain. They stopped and offered her a ride. She gave them her address, got in the back seat and lapsed into silence. When they reached the address, the man, who was driving, looked in the back seat and the girl had vanished. He went to the door of the house and knocked. A gray-haired woman answered. "Yes, I know," she said when told of the experience, "that was my daughter. She was killed in a wreck at that point a few years ago. You are the third person she has tried to ride home with."

Prove to yourself how little Cipsco Service costs you daily

Electricity is one essential item in your household budget that has not gone up in price. In fact, it's lower now than ever before. Your Electric Dollar has increased in value since 1939, while other dollars have continually decreased in value. According to dollar values compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics your Electric Dollar today will buy the same amount of electricity which cost you $1.09 in 1939. But your food dollar now is worth only 47 cents, your clothes dollar, 51 cents, compared with 1939 values. Electricity, which contributes so much to your comfort, convenience and greater enjoyment of work-less living, is your biggest bargain today.

What did the calf say to the silo?
I don't know.
Is my fodder in there?
Teacher—If a bunch of cows is called a herd, and a bunch of sheep is called a flock, what is a bunch of camels called?
Johnny—A carton.

Willie—Mother, can I have Tommy come over to our house and play Saturday?
Mother—No, you make too much noise and tear the house to pieces. But you can go over to his house to play.

If I stand on my head, the blood rushes to my head. Why does it not rush to my feet when I stand upright? asked the teacher.
Please, ma'am, replied the small boy, it's because your feet ain't empty.

Father was furious; his shaving brush was missing.
Doesn't anybody know where my shaving brush is? he thundered.
N-n-no, answered a small voice from the nursery; but Willie's wooden horse has grown a new tail!

A couple of old college pals met one day and were discussing this and that and finally got to the job subject. What type of work are you doing now, Jim?
Why, the usual advertising run, nothing extra. What's new with you?
Why, I hold a position as psychiatrist at a pottery factory.
Psychiatrist at a pottery factory?
Yeah, I take care of the cracked pots.

Household Hints

To evenly distribute wear on sheets, put the small hem at the top of the bed half of the time.
Holes bored in the top and bottom sections of the doors of clothes closets will provide ventilation.

When milk needs to be scalded for a cream sauce or a custard or pudding dessert heat it carefully; if placed over too high heat it scorches easily.

To peel cold ripe tomatoes, take a paring knife and rub the whole tomato with the back of the knife, then peel. This eliminates the necessity of scalding.

To use an extra egg white or two, whip until very stiff and fold into chilled, sweetened applesauce. Sprinkle with a little cinnamon and serve with a topping of marshmallow fluff.

Add 1 cup of diced cooked beets, 2 cups of diced cooked potatoes to 2 cups of chopped corned beef, mix in a half cup milk, a little grated onion, salt and pepper to taste. Melt butter or margarine in a skillet and cook until browned.

If you make your own fruit cake, here's a super way to do it. Slice the top off an orange and extract the fruit so that the shell is left in one piece. Candy the shell, let it drain dry, then fill it with cake batter. Steam the whole thing for two hours before you bake it, and you end up with fruit cake in an attractive, edible container.

Dangerous Flame Heaters
Emergency operation of open flame gas and oil heaters brings a serious hazard into the home, engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters warn. During heavy snowstorms in the northeastern states, many deaths were caused by gas poisoning through use of unvented open flame heaters in tightly closed rooms. If a house is tightly closed or a room is small, the amount of oxygen in the room is gradually burned up, with the result that the products of combustion will contain high percentages of deadly carbon monoxide.

How to Celebrate Your Wedding Anniversary

The "Dutch" Millers celebrated their Tin Wedding Anniversary Saturday. Everything had to be tin. Folks even ate off tin plates, and drank coffee out of tin cups.

When it was time to drink a toast to the "bride and groom," out came the final touch: ice cold beer in cans. And come the Millers' 15th anniversary (Glass) I expect we'll be toasting them with sparkling beer in bottles!

And I couldn't help thinking that there was a lesson for married folks in the way Dutch and his missus have got along together—in their policy of live-and-let-live, with never a criticism of each other's differences in taste.

From where I sit, it's due to two things: Temperance—as that moderate preference for beer suggests, and Tolerance—for their own differences of opinion—and for the tastes of others, whether applied to beer, to politics, or how to celebrate an anniversary.

Douglas Farm Home Destroyed By Fire

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McQueen, near Camargo, was destroyed completely in a fire of undetermined origin on Saturday.

The four-room frame house was on the farm owned by Chas. Warnes, Longview. Most of the furnishings were saved before the home was consumed by flames. Damage was estimated at $5,000 and was covered by insurance.

Compressed Air Blower
Substitution of compressed air for the lung power of the glass blower was one of the first industrial modifications of the ancient art of glass making. Later, the technique of glass making was revolutionized even further by development of the first machine for producing flat-drawn sheet glass.

140 Classes in 30 Fields of Study Now Available

To meet increased demands of men and women students, the University of Illinois Division at Galesburg has expanded its number of course offerings to approximately 140.

The enlarged list of subject courses offers students a chance to become proficient in one or more of 30 fields of study," according to Dr. G. E. Giesecke, assistant dean at Galesburg.

The Undergraduate Division, an integral part of the University of Illinois though operating on a different campus, offers freshman and sophomore instruction in the Colleges of Liberal Arts, Commerce, and Engineering.

Dean Giesecke declared that "all students enrolled at the division study the same texts, take the same courses, follow the same procedures, and maintain the same high standards as do students on the Urbana-Champaign campus.

"Teaching is of the same quality and faculty of the same standard as on the University's main campus, and students transferring for advanced work there will receive full credit."

Dr. Giesecke said that Galesburg students have priority over outside students in transferring for advanced training, according to a ruling by University trustees.

Courses from the following list of subjects may be selected by students at Galesburg:

Accountancy, botany, chemistry, civil engineering, economics, electrical engineering, English, entomology, French, engineering drawing, German, geography, geology, history, hygiene, mathematics, mechanical engineering, philosophy, political science, psychology, rhetoric, sociology, Spanish, speech rhetoric, theoretical and applied mechanics, physical education, physiology, physics, and zoology.

Fruit Juice Improved
Fruit juice, having the characteristic color of the fruit from which it is derived, but without being cooked or treated with dyes, is produced by a recently patented process. Crux of the process is uniform refrigeration of the fresh juice to a mass containing fine ice crystals, subsequent addition of heat, separation of liquid from the ice mass which retains solid pulp particles and running the latter through a colloid mill, adding the colored product to the juice separated from the ice.
