Vol. 19 — No. 6 | Georgetown, Vermilion County, Illinois | Friday, November 19, 1948

It was indeed quite a sight last Thursday forenoon to see the hunters around the Square, poised and ready for the take-off for the opening of the hunting season for pheasant, quail and rabbits, at 12 o'clock high noon. At the sound of the noon whistle they were off, arrayed in smart hunting jackets of variegated colors and tally-ho caps with shiny beaks. Why belong to an expensive country club when you can see such things as that for free?

Television soon to be a reality in this area . . . . Ivan Sherer denies the rumor that's been going the rounds to the effect that he tried to scoop the world last Sunday by putting in a trans-Atlantic telephone call to Buckingham Palace to find out whether the stork had arrived . . . With Thanksgiving only coming up, the Christmas season seems to be opening up everywhere; "White Christmas" is replacing "You Call Everybody Darling" and "Buttons and Bows," and the usual Christmas activities are getting a start . ., . The real proof of courtesy is to have the same ailment the other person is describing and not mention it.

Dear Town Crier: Down here in Pumpkin Center, we had to wait until we got the News to find out who was elected President. One of the big dailies had Republican Dewey elected as the next big chief, while others emphatically announced that it was Mr. Truman, the Democratic candidate, who had been chosen to succeed himself. From now on, we'll bank on your paper. Why, we find that even your want ads contain news and names of celebrities: For instance, General Hauling, in pursuance of various kinds of work, is mentioned several times in your last issue. Your contributor didn't know he had left the Army—supposed he was still in there pitching, maybe horseshoes, with General Orders or General Nuisance. Then there's the Heater family — Allen, Florence and Monte Ward, all well known in the vicinity. Do you suppose, by any chance, they are relatives of the eight o'clock bellringer, Gabriel Heater?

At the wedding over at the Moot's place in Podunk Hollow, the other day, everything came along fine until the preacher asked the bride if she would 'obey' and she said, "Do you think I'm crazy?" — and the groom, who was in a sort of a daze, mumbled: "I do." Then things began to happen.

Food for thought was dished out to the natives here recently by Prof. Snodgrass, who said that there are other relations besides your aunt & uncle and in-laws. It is called public relations. Public relations is one of those vague terms which can mean almost anything you want it to mean, but actually the meaning should be clear to the average business, whether large or small. Public relations simply means making friends for your goods, your firm or yourself. Said that some clerks, salesmen & businessmen he had encountered have good public relations while other do not, and advissed that any person so engaged who ignores this important function is throwing away one of the chief assets he has on his side.

Could it be that the readers or the writers of this column need a pinch of snuff? An old Scots woman was advised by the minister of the village kirk to take a pinch of snuff so she would keep awake during his sermon. Briskly — and aptly — she replied: "'Twould be better far, mon, if you'd put the snuff in the sermon."

Westville Loses 28th Grid Classic in Mud

Puts Up Stubborn Fight in Downpour

The 28th football game in the long series since 1927 between Westville and Georgetown was fought out under most adverse curcumstances last Friday night on the Georgetown field when the score ended 15-0 in the Buffaloes' favor, after Westville showed a stubborn fighting front throughout the game.

This leaves Westville with six games won, Georgetown with 10, and the tied games in the inter-school series total six.

The westville line gave virtually no ground when ground-giving would have counted. The game was cleanly fought with few penalties imposed.

The game was played in a steady mist the first half, and this grew into a steady downpour in the second half. The weather was among the worst of any in the 27 annual games.

Ray Watts, captain of the Tigers and a fine defense player, was out of the game because of an injury he suffered in the Schlarman game. Westville used a T attack, withQuarterback Yerem getting the hand-back from the center while standing slightly to the side.

"Deacon" McKenzie and Russ Alexander led the Buffalo ground attack, which rolled up 225 yards.

The Buffaloes scored their first points in the second quarter when Gene Libert attempted a fake punt play and was tackled behind the goal by Bill Long.

In the third quarter, the Tigers held on their 14 to take over on downs, but Bill Noel was thrown for a 12-yard loss in the next play and Libert was again forced to punt to the 32-yard line; then, six plays later Alexander went over from the 1-yard line.

On the kickoff in the last quarter, Grider got a bad kick and Georgetown was able to recover before Westville could receive the ball. But Westville held on the 40 and Grider went back to punt, making a good kickoff, the ball rolling out on the 1-yard line. Libert punted on the first Westville down but the ball went over to his right and went out of bounds on the 19-yard line. Three plays later Alexander went over from the 9-yard line for the final touchdown of the game.

John Morefield and John Chrostowski were the star offensive and defensive boys for Westville, both of them being in on every play.

For Georgetown, Long, Bildilli, Perkins, were playing very tough on defense. Williams especially played a whale of a game at line-backing position.

Westville was the host team this year, but pending the installation of lights and completion of other improvements on the Westville field, the game was played on the Georgetown gridiron. The line-ups:

Congregational Church Notes

Rev. C. R. Dierlamm, Minister

There is a virtue in being narrow minded when it helps a man to walk the tight rope without falling, or to walk on a narow plank across a dangerous stream.

We hate to be accused of being narrow, especially when we are misunderstood. It is far better to follow the narrow path that leads to life eternal than to go with the crowd on the broad way that leads to destruction. Yes, there are a few people who follow the strict and narrow path of definite thinking. Few are the people who exercise the keen and careful discrimination in the shades of meaning. There are men who know how to measure the finest fraction of an inch. The exercise of a sensible narrowness is most worthy. Christianity offers you the jewel of every promise, but that prize is only to be found in being narrow enough so as not to topple over, and yet broad minded enough so as not to be careless in our thinking.

Illinois Bell Asks Increases; Higher Phone Rates Here

Files Application With ICC for Advances Up to 16 Per Cent

Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Friday, Nov. 12, asked for a 16 per cent increase in its total income to be spread among all telephone rates in the 323 Illinois communities it serves. In a petition filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission in Springfield, immediate relief was sought from "inflationary pressures."

The alternative cited by the company was that it "will be unable to furnish adequate and efficient telephone service and unable to raise necessary additional capital."

New prices would be applied to all types of service and equipment, and to many long distance calls. Although the rates would produce a 16 per cent increase in the company's total income, no specific per cent increase can accurately characterize all individual bills, because of varying local and toll usage, the company stated. The company also noted that more than 40 per cent of the increase asked would be paid out in the form of state and federal taxes.

RATE COMPARISONS

Present monthly rates and the proposed rates in the principal classes of service for Westville are:

Classes of service	Present	Proposed
Rural residence	$1.90	$2.65
2-Party residence	2.25	3.00
1-Party residence	2.75	3.50
Rural business	2.40	3.65
2-Party business	3.50	4.75
1-Party business	4.00	5.25
Residence extension	.60	.75
Business extension	1.25	1.40

In Westville, residence increases average 2½ cents a day. Monthly charges for all classes of local residence service would be increased 75 cents monthly and business $1.25 monthly.

All other prices would be increased, including private switchboards, mileage charges, service connection charges and miscellaneous items of equipment.

Toll Call Changes

On the shorter distance station-to-station calls, which were increased in 1947, no rate increase would apply; others not raised before would generally be upped 5 cents, and the initial talking period on 15, 20 and 25-cent toll calls would change from five to four minutes.

There would be no increase on calls to any points outside Illinois, or to Illinois points beyond 65 miles.

The company plea to the commission was signed by G. K. McCorkle, president, and asked for hearings, without unnecessary delay. "The company has delayed filing these rates as long as possible," McCorkle states. "It presents them now only after the actual operating results demonstrate the clear need for that action and its urgency. Its action is based upon fact, not estimate. The facts herein set forth are well known to the commission, as a result both of regular and detailed reports to it, and of checks made by the commission and its staff .·. .·"

The Bell company pointed to the sharp rise in cost of operation since 1940, which has been at a faster rate than income. In the petition's words, "Annual operating payroll has increased about $76,000,000 since 1940, or more than 184 per cent, and its other expenses, on an annual basis, have increased about $35,000,000, or 84 per cent. The company adds that the rise in revenue during this same period has been at a much slower rate.

The result of continued inflation, according to the company statement, is that "present return on plant investment, after giving effect to the third round of wage increases, is at a lower rate currently than it was in 1946 . . .", when Bell applied for its last increase.

Ridiculing the Pollsters

Since election day, there has been a great deal of ridicule of the pollsters and the straw vote experts. A cloud of doubt has been cast on their reputed scientific value. Some of this may be justified, much of it is unfair.

It must be remembered that there certainly must have been a considerable amount of last-minute switching. We know that some 350,000 registered Republicans in downstate Illinois alone did not bother to go to the polls. There were several splits in the Democratic party, which were hard to guage. Some of the Democrats themselves admit that as late as the morning after election they came forth to bury Truman, not to hail him. And even the President's own daughter expressed herself as tremendously surprised at the outcome.

Applying hind-sight to the situation, some of the pollsters have pointed out a few of weaknesses in the pre-election forecasts, which seemed to be weaknesses of interpretation of findings rather than in the basic sample-survey techniques. The wrong interpretations seem to have been placed on the "undecided" vote, which was about 16 per cent of the total vote. Most of the poll-makers estimated the percentage of this "undecided" vote with fair accuracy. But they failed to foresee that this "undecided vote would go mainly Truman.

It may be a good thing that the public and the press has been made aware that opinion polls are not infallible in predicting future elections. It may also be good that opinion research practitioners and students have had pointed out to them the need for caution in interpretations involving probable future actions.

It is unfortunate, however, that the smallest and least worth while application of the developing science of public opinion measurement should serve to cast doubt on its vastly more valuable contributions — particularly the measuring of areas of general information or ignorance, the revealing of public attitudes, and serving as a means of communication between the people and their leaders, and among the people themselves. The science of public opinion measurement must be aware that predictions of future action, based upon surveys of opinion at a given time, are a risky business.

The election day rout of the Republican party in Illinois also has brought into sharp focus the conviction of most Republicans that a complete reorganization of the party management is imperative. There has been opposition to the leadership, based no doubt in part on the knowledge that there has been constant autocratic interference in local party affairs, particularly in Cook county, and the belief that the best interests of the party in the state are being subordinated to the private interests of a small group. There have been other elements of opposition also, including the suspicion that there has been a community of interest between the Republican state organization and the old Kelly machine in Chicago. These, of course, have nothing to do with the science of public opinion measurement, but they are items of considerable importance. When 350,000 voters of a political party, in the heart of the downstate stronghold of the party, refuse to go to the polls on election day, there must be something that needs attention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FOR VETERANS

This is another in a series of questions and answers regarding the rights of ex-servicemen and their families, as answered by Howard Bond, Veterans Employment Representative, Illinois State Employment Service, 220 N. Vermilion St., Danville. In this service, theISES attempts to answer questions most frequently asked by ex-servicemen and women.

Question — I married an English girl while overseas in service and my wife is in England. I desire to utilize my educational privileges under the GI Bill in attending Oxford University. Is this possible?

Answer — Yes. Many students are attending colleges and universities in various foreign countries under the GI Bill. For further information, address your request to the Veterans Administration, Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Department, Central Office, Washington, D. C.

Question — May I obtain a GI loan while I draw subsistence as a student?

Answer — Yes, you may obtain a loan at the same time you are drawing subsistence. You will have to satisfy the Veterans Administration and your loaner that you have the ability to repay the loan within the requirements of the law.

Question — While in the process of being discharged from the Navy, I lost some of my baggage and personal property; how may I try to find it?

Answer — Naval personnel who have lost baggage or personal effects within the continental United States should write directly to the station that made the shipment, requesting a tracer. For effects missing either through overseas or continental shipment, when specific information is not known, inquiry should be made to the Personal Effects Distribution Center, Naval Supply Depot, Clearfield, Ogden, Utah.

Illinois TAX FACTS

By George L. Mahin, Executive Secretary Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois

The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois will not oppose legislation at the next session of the Illinois General Assembly giving municipalities the power to levy and collect the public utilities tax now collected by the State of Illinois within the corporate limits of the municipalities, assuming a practical, workable bill is introduced.

As pointed out in this column last week by A. L. Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, this would not mean any increase in cost to the consumer or in the tax burden of the utilities, since this tax is already being levied by the state and is already being paid by the utilities. Such legislation would merely transfer this taxing power from the state to the municipalities and would not mean an increase in taxes or a new tax.

Under tentative determination of policy by its state and local tax policy committee, approved by the executive committee, the Taxpayer's Federation of Illinois will not insist that this additional revenue for municipalities be an offset against property taxes unless the people of the municipalities, by referendum, authorize the use of this money as additional spending power. This tentative policy was agreed upon because of the fact that a number of municipalities do need more money to provide essential services, such as police protection, fire protection and others.

Nevertheless, the Taxpayers' Federation is convinced from its research studies that a large number of the 1157 cities, villages and incorporated towns in Illinois do not need additional funds, can provide better services at less cost from existing revenues. The Federation has also found, however, that public officials generally in such instances are very willing to co-operate in eliminating waste, extravagance and inefficiency where such waste, extravagance and inefficiency are pointed out to them.

We strongly recommend, therefore, that local citizens study their municipal governments in order to obtain the facts, and then meet with their public officials to improve their governments wherever possible.

A mass meeting of taxpayers of the 12th Senatorial District—Carroll, Jo Daviess and Stephenson counties —is being held in Freeport at the Masonic Hall at 8 p. m. Nov. 23. This is the first of a series of more than 20 such Senatorial District taxpayer mass meetings to be held throughout the state by the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois.

The purpose of these meetings is to find out what the taxpayers of Illinois want their representatives to do on tax issues of major importance coming before the 1949 sessions of the Illinois General Assembly and Federal Congress, and to develop a follow-up action program for the passage of good legislation and defeat of bad legislation as determined by these meetings.

Through these taxpayer mass meetings, the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois can be sure that its policy represents what a cross-section of Illinois taxpayers actually wants, instead of making a final determination of policy from the top down.

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Dwight has issued the annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation for Illinois, naming Thursday, Nov. 25, for the holiday. The governor's proclamation pointed to this season's bountiful harvest of grain and to the constitutional liberties, the human rights and the impartial justice still enjoyed by citizens of our Republic as blessings for which "it is fitting for us as a nation and as individuals to return thanks to God."

Arnold P. Benson, state director of agriculture, is appealing to the people of Illinois to take part in the 1948 "Silent Guest" movement to provide holiday meals for hungry persons in Europe. The movement is being sponsored by governors of the various states, headed by Gov. James H. Goff of Pennsylvania. Benson has been appointed by Gov. Green as director and treasurer of the Illinois "Silent Guest" Fund. The plan calls for Illinois families to contribute cash equal to the cost of a Thanksgiving dinner for the "Silent Guest." The money so raised will be used to provide CARE packages to be delivered to the needy in Europe as holiday gifts from the American people. The campaign has just opened and will continue until Christmas. Contributions may be mailed to Arnold P. Benson, Department of Agriculture, State House, Springfield.

The Illinois Public Aid Commission distributed aid to dependent children allowances for the benefit of 56,938 children in 22,440 families during October, according to a report by Carl K. Schmidt Jr., executive secretary of the commission.

The average monthly allowance was $37.14 per child, and $94.23 per family. The total cost of these payments was $2,114,420, of which amount the federal government contributed 36 per cent and the State of Illinois the remainder.

Gov. Green has ordered all department and commission officials under him to limit purchases to current needs and to hire no additional employes during the remainder of his term.

"I specifically charge each director and commission chairman with responsibility for continuing to operate his department or agency on an efficient and economical basis during the balance of my term as governor," his order said.

Recent medical advances in the diagnosis and treatment of venereal diseases are the subject of discussion this week and next at three institutes sponsored by the Illinois Department of Public Health. The first of these meetings was held Nov. 15 and 16 at LaSalle, the second is scheduled for Nov. 18 and 19 at the St. Nicholas Hotel in Springfield, while the third will be on Nov. 23 and 24 at Hotel Emmerson in Mt. Vernon.

Physicians, nurses, investigators and other persons interested in the control of venereal diseases are invited to attend these meetings, at which efforts will be made to point up the need for general public education in the prevention of these infections.

. . . Letters . . . To the Editor

Georgetown, Ill.,
Nov. 11, 1948.

Dear Sir:

Your column (Town Crier) is becoming more interesting every week. Noticed you began mentioning about the local politicians starting to blow their bazoo for next spring's city and township elections.

Perhaps, some of the old-timers who have been office from anywhere from 15 to 30 years in township and village affairs will take heed from the recent Presidential election and note that the old-timers both in county, state and federal tickets were given the bum's rush. The county old heads held on by slim majority, but you've got to see the point. The old-timers can't stay in office forever.

Vermilion county, City of Georgetown and Georgetown township can stand some new faces very badly. What about it? You seem to have a good viewpoint from your perch.

A Young Voter.

Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him.

'Man's Best Friend'

"Love thy neighbor as thyself,"
And to no man do ye wrong.
For if a man has friends about,
His days on earth are long.

Dog is not a man's best friend
But the man who lives next door;
Money doesn't begin to compare with his wife who scrubs the floor.

It's not the statue built of him
Or his bank that's filled with gold;
Neither is it the merchandise,
Which in his shop is sold.

It's not the gifts that he receives,
Or the wine in an oaken cask;
Nor is it a mansion marble white
Built at many years' task.

But it is his life from day to day,
And his doing things for others.
His being kind and thoughtful
To gain the respect of his brothers.

No need to "make like a mountain" with piles of blankets to sleep warm this Fall and Winter.

With an electric sheet, comforter or blanket, you can warm your bed before you get in—and it stays as warm as you want it all night. Best of all, you'll ordinarily need only one blanket—even on coldest nights. Just plug into an A-C outlet and sleep in real, relaxed comfort. Helps guard against winter colds, too.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 14, was:

"MORTALS AND IMMORTALS"

The Golden Text was:

"If ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live" (Rom. 8:13).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following from the Bible:

"He that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil. Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God" (I John 3:8-9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Immortal man was and is God's image or idea, even the infinite expression of infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind. . . . Mortals are the counterfeits of immortals. . . . They were, from the beginning of mortal history, 'conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity.' Mortality is finally swallowed up in immortality. Sin, sickness, and death must disappear to give place to the facts which belong to immortal man" (pp. 336, 476).

The best thing to give to your enemy is forgiveness; to an opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to your child, a good example; to a father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you; to yourself, respect; to all men, charity. —Balfour

Speak, move ,act in peace ,as if you were in prayer. In truth, this is prayer. —Fenelon

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It's Your Fight, Too!

Bing Crowley was "beefing" the other day about all that Our Town's doing in the way of sending food and clothes to Europe. Bing felt that those struggling democracies should look after themselves.

But most agreed with Judge Cunningham who said: "So long as any family or individual in Europe is helping hold the line for freedom—against the forces of intolerance—it's common sense, and common decency, to help 'em."

Because that's everybody's fight: To see that individual freedom is preserved in every aspect, big or little—whether it's the right to vote, or the right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer or ale with friends.

And from where I sit, no liberty's too small to overlook. Because the minute one small freedom is threatened, all the others are in jeopardy—just as the minute one small country loses freedom, all its neighbors are in danger!

High Costs May Plague Farmers, Outlook Indicates

By L. H. SIMERL
Dept. of Agricultural Economics
University of Illinois

High costs, rather than low prices for farm products, may cause farmers trouble during the next few years. At least that is the way it appears to us.

Costs of things farmers need to run their farms have just about doubled in the past 10 years. There is very little likelihood that these costs can be reduced during the years ahead. Costs of some things may increase more, even while the prices of farm products come down. The result may be that farmers may have hard times even though prices of farm products do not fall sharply.

The experience during and after World War I is worth studying. Farmers' operating costs almost doubled from 1918 to 1920. To be exact, the increase in costs was 94 per cent. The next two years brought the sharpest drop in prices of farm products in our history. But farm operating costs didn't budge much. The decline in costs was only about 28 per cent. Then they held steadily at that point for 10 years.

After World War I

Let's look at it another way. We'll compare costs after World War I with those before. We will compare costs during the 10 postwar years with costs during the five prewar years. That will be 1921 to 1930, compared with 1910 to 1914. On that basis, costs averaged about 43 percent higher after the war than before.

Not all costs increased equally. Farm machinery prices averaged one-third higher after World War I than before. Building materials were 58 per cent higher. Equipment and supplies were up 37 per cent. Hired labor went up more and stayed higher than any other item in farm costs. Farm wage rates averaged 70 per cent higher after World War I than before.

For 1948 as a whole, costs will everage a little more than double the 1935-39 level. Compared with prewar, farm machinery costs have increased more than 60 per cent. Equipment and supplies are up 70 per cent. Building materials have shot up 138 per cent. Farm wage rates have skyrocketed 266 per cent above 1935-39 levels.

Higher Taxes

Costs of things farmers buy through property taxes have gone up too. Real estate taxes levied in 1947-48 were up only about 40 per cent over 1935-39. Tax levies will have to be increased much more in order to maintain present local governmental services. An increase of 100 per cent above pre-war should not be a surprise.

In general, farm operating costs have increased a little more since 1939 than they did during World War 1. Furthermore, costs are less likely to come down now that they were in 1920.

Take farm wage rates, for example. There are several things that will tend to keep them up. Industrial labor is better organized than it was in 1920, so there will be more resistance to wage cuts in industry. The unemployed probably will receive more generous allowances than they did after World War I. Thus, there will be stronger inducements for labor to move to and stay in industrial centers. Costs of farm machinery, equipment supplies and building materials are made up largely by adding successive labor charges.

Farmers can't do very much to reduce prices of the machinery and other hings they buy. But they can control costs of production on their farms.

Account records kept by Illinois farmers show big differences in costs of production. Expenses on some farms are more than double the costs on other farms of the same size and productivity.

Reducing costs of production offers farmers their greatest opportunities for profits during the next few years.

The election results strengthen our convictions concerning points we have discused recently in this weekly review.

Analyze Farm Work To Save Many Steps

(Special)

URBANA, Ill. — You can save thousands of steps and plenty of hard work in grinding feed and feeding it to beef or dairy cattle if you will study these jobs with work sheets prepared by University of Illinois agriculturay engineers. You can get these jobs study sheets from your farm adviser soon. They're called "Analyzing Work to Do Common Farm Chores." You can use them on dairy or beef cattle farms.

All you do is draw a map of your farm buildings. Then draw lines showing the main routes you travel in doing ordinary farm chores. Send them to the Agricultural Engineering Department, College of Agriculture, Urbana, and the men will suggest ways you can cut down the amount of steps in your farm work. The service is free.

Here are some things they found when they used these sheets to record the number of steps needed to do various farm chores:

They found one farmer who walked 5,200 feet every time he carried a ton of corn to the grinder by hand. That's one mile.

They found another farmer who walked only 275 feet to do the same work. That's not even as long as a football field. He rigged up a drag conveyor, cross conveyor, elevator, and overhead hopper so he didn't need any hand labor. He took only one step per ton of corn to the other man's 20 steps.

"There wasn't such a big saving in time," says Keith Hinchcliff, extension farm buildings specialist. "But one system took much less work. The difference was between shoveling corn and watching the job most of the time from the tractor seat."

In feeding the ground corn, the College of Agriculture men found one farmer who walked 11,000 feet for every ton he fed by hand from a bushel basket. That's more than two miles.

They found another farmer who walked only 275 feet to do the same work. He has a self-feeder located right beside the crib. He walked only one step for every 40 steps the other farmer walked.

Pollsters, Once Major Barometer, Now Under Cloud

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

NEW YORK—Consumer research, which has always been practiced to some extent by American business, received a big boost in 1936 when George Gallup accurately predicted that President would win the election by 60 per cent of the popular vote.

This spectacular forecast established consumer surveys as a major industry. Because busines men felt that they could believe in the validity of poll findings, every advertising agency worthy of the name soon established a market research department.

It wasn't any time before a couple of hundred firms were engaged in "sampling" consumer opinion. Housewives were gravely asked to state their preferences in soaps and household cleansers, and their answers went into reports that governed the expenditure of advertising budgets totaling millions of dollars. Automobile manufacturers gladly redesigned their cars on the advice that polls showed that motorists preferred such and such.

An entire philosophy was built on straw ballots.

Since the recent election a dark cloud of doubt has gathered over the heads of the pollsters. The big question now is: Will business men continue to put implicit faith in them? Only time can fill out this ballot.

COW TO CONSUMER—Electrons are sticking their fingers into the milk. But these are absolutely sanitary fingers, and their action keeps human fingers out of dairy products, so that in many cases they move untouched and even unseen all the way from cow to consumer.

Latest step in a fast-spreading use of such "hands-off" methods, according to Lloyd E. Slater, food industry engineer for Brown Instrument Co., is an electronic instrument that accurately takes the temperature of milk in three seconds as it is being received for processing. Until recently, Slater explained, the measuring of milk temperature — a vital factor in proper pasteurizing — has been done under conditions that could cause unfavorable results.

Instrument makers are doing everything possible, said the engineer for Brown division of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., to provide dairy processors with high-speed, automatic controls that protect dairy products from unfavorable atmospheric conditions, direct contact with foreign surfaces and equipment, human hands and dust.

THINGS TO COME — Children's transparent plastic umbrella has traffic caution legends imprinted on it in bright red or green ink. Liquid preparation takes the shine off pants and skirts and restores the original nap of the fabric. Plier-like tools to repair zippers soon will be available for housewives. Plastic spectacles case is flexible and all but indestructible. Weatherstripping made of glass fibers can be thrust into place with a screwdriver. Novelty paint brush is fed by a tube that siphons paint from the can through a hollow handle and into the bristles. Plastic finish that can be "wiped on" to floors, furniture, and linoleum is said to be impervious to alcohol, boiling water, and acids. Latest for mothers is a contraption that looks like a miniature replica of the rubber boots used during the war. When inflated, the device becomes a combination basinette, crib, bathtub and easy chair — and makes traveling with a baby that much easier.

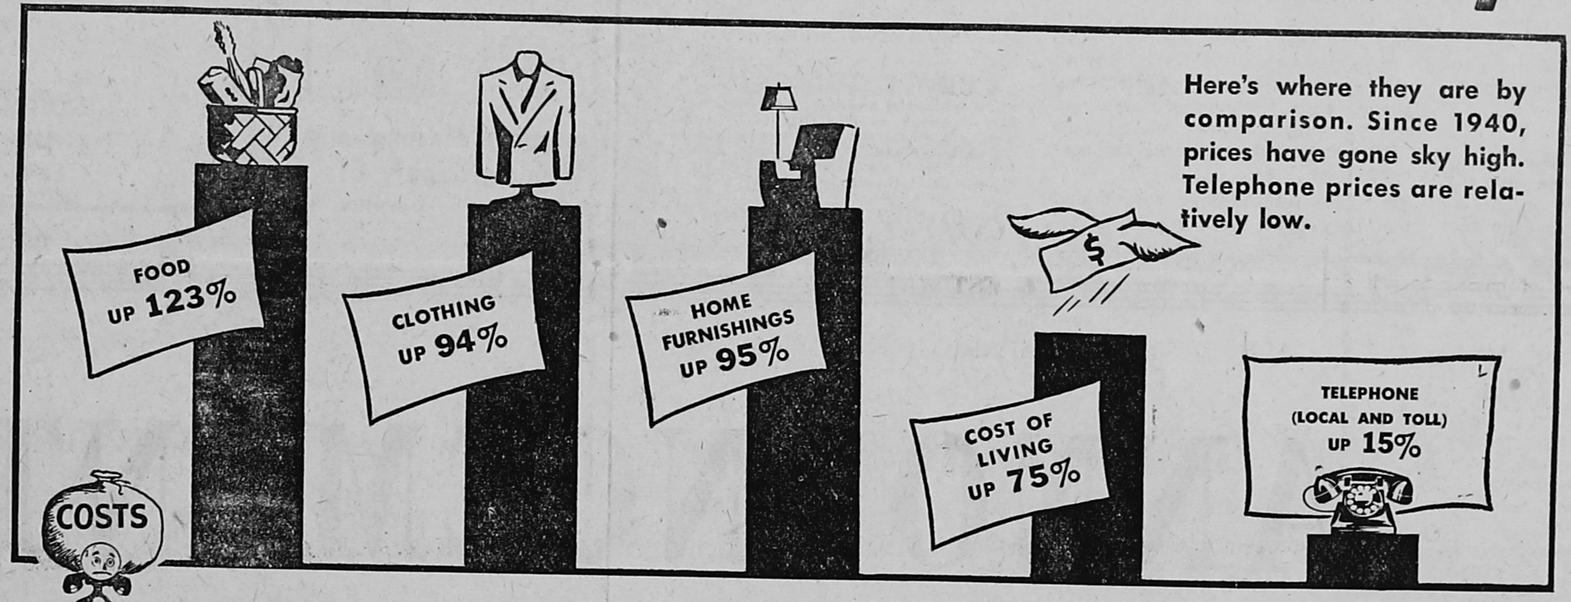
Why an increase in telephone prices is necessary

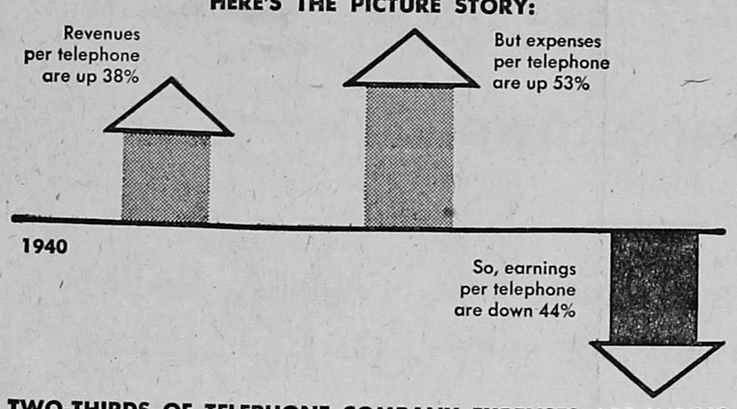


Here's where they are by comparison. Since 1940, prices have gone sky high. Telephone prices are relatively low.

COSTS UP—EARNINGS DOWN

Prices that are too low—expenses that keep increasing faster than income—tell the story of lower and lower earnings and why we're forced to ask the Illinois Commerce Commission to let us increase the price we may charge for telephone service.

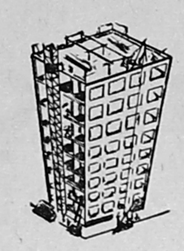
HERE'S THE PICTURE STORY:



TWO-THIRDS OF TELEPHONE COMPANY EXPENSES ARE WAGES

Because we sell a highly personal service, two-thirds of every dollar of operating expense goes out for payroll costs. Wage costs have almost trebled since 1940. In that year, our total payroll was $47 million. This year it will be $139 million—a $92 million increase. And the annual effect of recent "third round" general wage increases is not included in the above figures.

Today the equipment behind each new telephone costs more. Copper, lead, poles and building costs have advanced overall more than 60% since 1946, when we asked for our first price increase. This means many more dollars are invested in telephone service—and we must pay a reasonable return for the use of these additional investment dollars. Thus, even without latest wage increases we would still need a price increase.



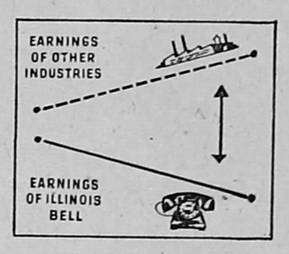
WE'RE TRYING TO MEET PUBLIC DEMAND FOR SERVICE—WE WANT TO CONTINUE

As the only telephone company in the field in this community, we have an obligation to provide the best kind of telephone service to everyone who needs it. Since the war, we've added equipment in every Illinois Bell community—added more than a million miles of wire in cable, built 77 new or enlarged buildings, put in thousands of new central office switchboards—all to meet demand for more or better service.

INVESTORS NECESSARY FOR GOOD SERVICE

We can continue good and expanding service only so long as we have the support of investors who provide the money needed for new and improved equipment. Hence, financial stability is a requisite for successfully meeting our public obligation.

EARNINGS TOO LOW TO ATTRACT INVESTORS

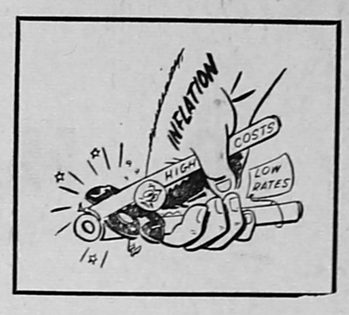


Right now the telephone company is not sharing in the prosperity common to most business. A recent study showed that 440 leading manufacturers, with whom we must compete for the investor's dollar, earn an average several times greater than this company. We do not say we should earn as much. We do say investors make the final choice and that the gap on the chart must be narrowed promptly. Today, with our trend downward, that gap is getting wider.

Currently, our rate of earnings, taking into consideration "third round" wage increases, is lower than when we applied for rate relief in 1946, and we can foresee our earnings again approaching zero.

PROMPT CORRECTIVE ACTION NECESSARY

Such an abnormally low earnings level seriously threatens the heart and core of good telephone service. To relieve the grip of inflation, and protect the public's telephone service, our prices must advance without unnecessary delay. The increase we need and have requested is small in comparison with today's price levels.



Proposed new rates are on file at your telephone business office. Your service representative will be glad to supply local details.

Higher Auto Prices For Next Year Are Considered Certain

(Special

DETROIT — Word here from the automobile manufacturers is that further advances in the prices of cars are sure to come in 1949.

The price increases may continue through 1950 and into 1951, depending upon buyer resistance. The end of the "sales honeymoon" is believed to be not far distant — some manufacturers think the end will be in a year to 18 months.

Higher prices are entirely contingent upon the willingness and capacity of motorists to buy. The manufacturers say they have to sell at high prices to get the profits necessary to develop improvements that many of the motorists now seem to demand.

Buyers May Resist

A number of the Automobile manufacturers in this area believe this is the time for them to re-tool for brand new post-war models, since they feel that buyers may not be willing to stand the strain of higher prices for a much longer period. The decision is made to re-tool, even though the costs of such are estimated to be five to six times as great as the pre-war costs of re-tooling.

It was said recently by Henry Ford II that it will cost $100 million to re-tool and develop the River Rouge plant for production of the 1949 models, and A. C. Barit, president of the Hudson company, said it cost Hudson $16 million to develop its changes in styling, which were the first major ones in 10 years. Millions have been spent on new plants and equipment to turn out cars that the market seems to demand. It is said that Packard is spending about $10 million to develop a new automatic transmission. Costs for these improvements have to be met from what Mr. Ford Calls profits. Higher tooling costs, higher wages, higher costs of maintaining employe relationships, higher taxes and the heavy costs of advanced engineering research, he stated, are met with the higher profits, which, of course, the industry is now obtaining.

Any developments made by an automobile plant now cost large sums of money. The comparatively simple project of installing lockers for workers in the foundry last summer cost the Ford company more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Why They Spend Now

The question arises as to why the industry is spending so much money now for 1949 production when the car buyers are ready to grab almost any kind of a car. This can be answered when it is realized that the manufacturers, with billions invested, sense the possibility, in the not too far distant future, of having to sell their products in competition with advanced models produced by other companies. The manufacturer must look to the future stability of his business as well as to the present and future demands of his customers. He doen't know just when he may be caught with outmoded equipment and inufficient plant capacity to meet the demands of a different kind of a buyer's market. The manufacturers have decided apparently that it is better to be a bit early than a little too late in gearing their plants to the approaching competition in the market.

The view is that automobile prices will stop advancing when the consumer will not or cannot pay the prices; when the automobile industry reaches a program of engineering research to reduce the labor costs, which is the major item in automobile prices; and when the used car situation becomes more settled.

Many dealers are now loaded with used cars bought at inflated prices. They dare not take on more cars, and are trying to sell at lower prices, sometimes at a loss. Dealers in many cases are giving up the ideaof piling on accessories and gadgets to the cars they have to sell. Fewer customers, also, are willing to say, "I'll take the car, gadgets and all." In a canvass of Detroit used car dealers, five or six different prices may be found quoted for used cars of the same make. There is definitely a slump in the used car market.

Overseas Demand For Grain Expected To Continue Strong

(Special)

CHICAGO — The demand for American grain by the countries of Western and Southern Europe and the areas occupied by the U. S. Army in Germany, Austria, Korea, and Japan will be very strong for at least five years.

This is the prediction made by Roy F. Hendrickson, Washington representative, National Federation of Grain Co-operatives, at the annual meeting of the Illinois Grain Corp. in the Hotel Sherman. Illinois Grain is an associated company of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Hendrickson also asserted that U. S. grain exports will be needed for some time to help fill the vacuum caused by a world rice shortage.

More than 20,000,000 bushels of grain were sold by Illinois farmers through Illinois Grain Corp., it was reported during the company's business session. Charles Schmitt, farmer from Beason and president of the organization, announced earnings amounting to nearly 1½ cents a bushel on this volume of grain. Earnings before deduction for patronage dividends and income tax amounted to $341,575.

Illinois Grain Corp. is a co-operative commission company operating on the Chicago Board of Trade, the St. Louis Merchants Exchange and the Peoria Board of Trade.

It is owned and controlled by Illinois grain producers through local elevators, county Farm Bureaus and the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Howard Ward, manager, said the company expects to do near a record volume of business next year, reflecting the 1948 record crop production. Operations since July 1, 1948, the beginning of their fiscal year, are well above last year's operations for the similar period.

Next of Kin Are Entitled to Get Mustering-out Pay

The next of kin of many deceased Illinois World War II veterans are entitled to collect mustering-out pay due the deceased veteran, according to Homer G. Bradney, administrator of the Illinois Veterans Commission.

This back pay now is made available by the War and Navy Departments under the recent extension of the deadline for applications for mustering-out pay for veterans who were discharged prior to Feb. 3, 1944. These veterans or their dependents now have until Feb. 30, 1930, to collect the mustering-out pay.

If a veteran failed to collect his mustering-out pay before the old deadline of Feb. 3, 1946, and later died, his nearest survivor may apply for the benefit.

Veterans who have failed to collect their mustering-out pay or their next of kin may contact the nearest office of the Illinois Veterans Commission for advice in applying for this benefit, it is stated. In Vermilion county the IVC office is located at 517 Temple building, Danville.
